THAT TERRIBLE GUN.

Description Given in Last Night's "News" Creates Much Interest.

ITS INVENTION A GREAT SURPRISE.

Believed That It Will Find Its Way Into the Hands of the United States Government.

The announcement in last evening's "News" of the invention of a weapon by another Utahn was a great surprise, or rather it was a great surprise to the public that the invention is brought with such importance. When the Dewsnup "peacemaker" was put upon the market it was looked upon as the most wonderful of guns with its capacity of firing 60 shots in a minute. But now another, and far more wonderful, also the invention of a citizen of Utah, is created. Its capacity for firing death dealing shots is not just a minute of 1,000 shots in the same length of time.

Itself moved that thinking men stand aghast and ask what the end will be. Those who have seen it and who are able to judge whether it is or not what it will be, are unanimously that its way into the hands of the United States government is a short time.

TORREYS WILL BE OUT.

Circumstances Seem to Be Against Them Going to Cuba or Porto Rico.

Today's dispatches indicate that the Torrey Rough Riders will be mustered out of service in the same way as the Wyoming Rough Riders, which of course means that they will not be sent to Cuba as a part of the army of occupation notwithstanding the promise to General Fitzhugh Lee that that distinction would be given to his division. In the morning and Governor Grigsby's request of Rough Riders will also go. This is quite evident from the following Chicago dispatch:

Washington, Aug. 23.—Representatives of North Dakota had a conference with the President today in the hall of Grigsby's south riders, who are entitled to be kept in service and sent to Cuba or Porto Rico. The senator learned that it had been decided to muster out all of the volunteer cavalry, and that it was too late now for cavalrymen, whether to remain in service or to be discharged and sent home.

Washington, Aug. 23.—It is expected that the order mustering out some men of the volunteer cavalry will be issued tomorrow. The list of troops to be mustered out is nearly complete, but some changes may be made before the order is finally signed. This will reduce materially the number of troops in the different states.

The Third corps which has been concentrated in Camp Wikoff, has been ordered from Chickamauga, Tullahoma, Ala. One regiment will be retained at Chickamauga under Gen. Boynton.

WARM WELCOME FOR TROOP L

Volunteer Rough Riders Will be Given a Hearty Reception on Its Return.

When it became generally certain today that Troop L Rough Riders were to be disbanded and that Troop L would soon return to Salt Lake it brought to the minds of several persons the unceremonious departure of that organization. It was on Sunday evening, May 15th, when they boarded the train at the Oregon Short Line depot and started for Cheyenne where they were mustered into service. Relatives and friends were there to see them off. The train leaving were and to the extent that it is no wonder, for the representatives were all of that nature. And a crowd of home folks of any kind are not indifferent cheering. How great the contrast! Who compared with the departure of other volunteers that the men had not volunteered was probably because of the fact that Salt Lake's patriotic pulse was not aroused to a proper tone as they were leaving.

It was a dreadfully cold morning when this state of Troop today that called the several persons herein referred to to see the boys. It was a dreary, cheerless morning. And it is safe to say that it will not be, and that the reception that will be accorded it will be most hearty. That the Torrey troopers have an distinguished themselves is an fact of Dodge, Chapman Cannon promoted on their departure that if they were given a choice they would be heard from. And they were not given a choice in something over some home.

CAPTAIN JENNINGS'S MEN ALSO.

Only Equipment So Far Consists of Tin Plates, Cups and Knives and Forks.

Captain Jennings's company of light artillery, stationed at the Presidio in San Francisco, have been playing in hard luck since their enlistment. When they left here they did so without uniforms or equipment. There was nothing to distinguish them from regular civilians, except that they began to appear in soldiers in pairs or fours according to the order of march. On reaching the coast they footed under the restriction of non-commissioned officers. They were present without hat and uniforms cities. They are still clad in clothes of their own furnishing. They expected some of warfare and other necessary equipment. They are in rags, plain, knives and forks—things that are so right in their line and place. But battery C is not a the sort of an organization and does not relish the idea of being classed in that category. But none has been declared and there is no longer any end, for battery C and some of the other troops in the military service. So it must accept the solution of the situation and wear home.

NO UTAH MEN WOUNDED.

Apparently No Volunteers from This State Were Injured in the Manila Fight.

Nearly two weeks ago the "News" published a New York Sun special from Cavite via Hongkong, giving a detailed account of the fight between the Americans and Spaniards, wherein the former were surprised by the enemy during a terrific midnight storm. The dispatch was full of interest and was widely published throughout the United States as were the same other special dispatches from Cavite. It will be remembered how the American troops valiantly repulsed the foe and how the Utah batteries especially covered themselves with glory. No Utah man was killed, but it was stated that two of the volunteers from the State were wounded. Lieutenant Colonel company A, and Private Winkler, company B. Which nothing was said of the nature of Captain Gibbs wounds, a New York dispatch and a London Times dispatch described Winkler's wound as being in the left arm. All the ground pretty straight. But no cause of official report from Gen. Merritt, Gen. Merritt, giving a complete list of the dead and wounded and of the men in hospitals. There appears to be but one explanation of this, and that is that Lieutenant Colonel Winkler and Winkler were not at all those injuries were so slight, or to have General Merritt to omit them entirely from his official report.

Should the continuous press to be the cause of this will be no regrets on the part of Utah people, as it has been so there to see any of the volunteers wounded or injured enough to have their names added to the general roll. Considering the prominent part that the Utah batteries played in the Manila battle, it is a matter of pride that none of the men were hurt, or if hurt, so slightly as not to be included in the general report. The news is very good news.

Surprised a Sellie.

Thomas J. Hopkins, who was at Santiago at the cessation of the memorable battle with the Spanish and who came home a few days ago on the transport, was looked a very pleasant surprise last evening at the residence of Thomas J. Tomkin, his brother-in-law, who lives at 19 north Twelfth East street. A party of friends were a-parlor during the evening and Mr. Hopkins related several hours every in pleasant conversation, among reading rolling and were entertained and amused. Numerous and amusing stories were conversed and conversations showed that he was not among the dead. Although not yet well, Mr. Hopkins is quite well and looks well. He is the oldest of a family of a citizen in the service of Uncle Sam, having been a member of the Eighteenth United States Infantry for fifteen years and a member of the Sixteenth for the past three years.

Another Utah Lieutenant.

Ogden Standard: R. W. Hazelgate, better known as "Walt" son of C. H. Hazelgate, the well-known chief engineer of the Pioneer Electric Light and Power companies, today received notice of his appointment to a second lieutenancy in Company F, Twenty-first Regiment, United States Infantry. He will be kept in service and sent to Cuba or Porto Rico. The young senator learned that it had been decided to muster out all of the volunteer cavalry, and that it was too late now for cavalrymen, whether to remain in service or to be discharged and sent home.

Two Ogden Boys Hurt.

Ogden Standard: About 9 o'clock last night word was received by Dr. H. Dr. Perry that his two younger sons, Frank and Louis, aged 18 and 12 years respectively, had been injured in an accident at Slaton's ranch, near Honeyville. The information was brought down by Lee Slaton who drove a team. Slaton's wife and four children drove to Ogden. Dr. Perry was summoned and drove up with Mrs. Slaton and the injured boys, as soon as possible.

It was learned that the accident occurred in the following way: Slaton, a number of other young folks were taking a ride on a hayrack. The team became frightened and ran away, the boys fell off and some of the boys, who were on the rack, jumped off. The team went over Frank's ankle, and over Louis' head, badly bruising the latter's face. At Mrs. Slaton's request Frank's injuries were very serious, but Dr. Perry said, on his return, that he thought the injuries were not more than the bruises. There was no indication of internal hemorrhage.

Coyotes are Numerous.

Lehi Banner: The coyotes are becoming so numerous in this section that they are a pest. Last winter they came down the mountains to the Sink and it was thought they would return to their hillside retreats when summer came, but not so. They even the bridge at Beck's and make their way to the slaughter pens and feed on carcasses of cattle killed there. Last week several sheep were killed by them at the factory feeding corrals. Lately they have taken a bigger foot hold in Lehi and more people in the fold frequently miss their poultry and are speculating on the question that the loss of these animals. They are becoming so bold as to be often seen during the day time in the outskirts of the town. A movement should be made to kill them off or drive them back to the hills.

William H. Winn, a Utah County Commissioner, Passes Away.

Special to the News.

PROVO, Aug. 23.—A telephone message from County Commissioner Bullock of Pleasant Grove, announces the sad fact that County Commissioner William H. Winn of Lehi died yesterday afternoon between 4 and 5 o'clock. As reported in the "News" yesterday, an operation was performed on Mr. Winn last Monday for appendicitis. It was found that the inflammation of the bowels had commenced and the disease revealed that Mr. Winn was in a very dangerous condition, but could not be not alone an even chance for recovery.

Mr. Winn was a young man, about 37 years of age, and a highly respected and valued citizen, whose death leaves a void in his place which will be sorely felt by a number of people who were associated with him. He leaves a wife and seven children to mourn his death. The funeral will take place from the Lehi meeting house tomorrow at 1 o'clock.

MORPHINE FIENDS CURED

Julius Kimball Tries a New Dodge on Six of His Prisoners.

TREATS THEM FOR THE MORPHINE HABIT

And Effects a Cure in Five Days—They Feel Well and No Longer Desire the Drug.

While the city jail is not a hospital in the strictest sense of the term, it has proved to be six patients now confined within its walls who have been cured of a habit that has sent many into the grave, and was acting constantly with those with whom this article is about to deal.

Some three weeks ago, eight people, commonly called morphine-fiends, were sent to jail for minor offenses that sentence ranging from forty to sixty days. Two of them, A. J. Clark and Frankie Oliver, have since been released, the former having been subpoenaed to Oregon and the latter being sent to the county jail to await the action of the district court. This left six of these unfortunates in care of Judge Kimball. As a matter of fact the Judge himself, in that old morphine fiend's sense of the word, is responsible for their present regular absence of morphine. The fiend took the treatment which Clark received, and, in company with six or eight at a time the respondent for the Gleaner drug "fiends" underwent the treatment. Bearing in mind the fact that there was a doctor in the city who recently cured a morphine fiend, and that it would be thought it would be a good idea to try some of his medicine on those under the jail, Judge Kimball and Marshal Lynch sought out Major Clark and had the matter before that official. Major Clark's opinion in the matter and both agreeing that it should be tried, the jailer went to work.

Visiting Dr. Harvey, the physician who effected the cure mentioned above, Mr. Kimball secured a supply of his remedy for the morphine habit, and the treatment began with marvelous results. Begun his treatment of the six prisoners. Being quite anxious to be sure of a cure, Dr. Harvey instructed Mr. Kimball's patients were moderately substituted and in a day or two he had them on a little more than half rations. The morphine was stopped gradually and the medicine substituted. A and after five days of treatment the six prisoners cured, as they had this to further desire for the deadly drug.

For some time past there are prisoners who formerly asked to appear for lack of an occasional "shot," have not known what to make of it. They are well—comparatively in fact—and are now beginning to sleep well. The parties to make up the six are said to be Lena Walker, Marguerite Hay, Minnie Miller and Mary White, most of whom have been using morphine for from 12 to 15 years.

A "News" reporter visited these prisoners in the city jail this morning, with authority to be interviewed, and expressed themselves as feeling well, and that they had no further desire for morphine. The women, with the exception of Miss Miller, said they had not suffered in their nerves constantly and given them a spell of severe pain, but that they had not had any desire for morphine. The latter said, in spite of that, she felt to express their thanks for the relief obtained by the treatment and cure.

The operations proceeded by the Gleaner drug fiends, in a manner so pleasantly and in an intelligent manner by the Clifford women, who gave evidence of unusual mental ability. In fact, the women herself stated that she was once a writer for a magazine, and the thought the operation of the drug, which she experienced herself seeing to bear out her statement. The women are all young, ranging from 18 years of age, but to see them of them, one would imagine they had reached the age of maturity. They are very and delicate are they from the ravages of morphine, and other habit-forming.

Utah's Best Crop.

In a write-up of the best crop, which is said to be now nothing better than sugar before, the Lehi Banner says a crop measures estimate of the Utah sugar is some can which will mean a run of over four months, and if the season continues favorable as favorable as it has been so far, the run for the entire crop will be. All agents say this is the best crop of beets ever grown in Utah. There were many good patches last year, but the crop was not as uniform and and look as well as this year as many patches were spotted and uneven. But for fields this year there and spots and field after field were so even and lovely and present almost a perfect stand. No district in the world is making a better showing than is being made here this year.

Walter Price was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Dyer today, charged, on the complaint of P. L. Hart, with petit larceny. The defendant was examined before Justice of the Peace McMaster and pleaded not guilty. He was allowed to go on his recognizance, the complainant telling that he would appear in court whenever wanted.

Price's alleged offense is the stealing of a silver watch from Hart some time last month. Hart is employed at the Pioneer generator. The watch was found in a second-hand store in Salt Lake. Idaho Crops and Weather.

The weather of the week ending Monday, August 22, 1898, was generally cool and warm, with frequent high afternoon winds. A few light showers occurred in the mountains. Reports from all parts of the state indicate that rains were not sufficient to relieve the prevailing drought. Considerable of fall grain is now coming up and threshing is well under way. Fall grain is plentiful and the acreage is larger than ever, much of which is already cut, will yield nearly as well. Potatoes and sugar beets are doing well, and are also fine. The nights are very dry and in poorer condition than of any other time this season. Hay is very, very, very good and generally.

A. M. Raleigh Shows What Might be Done to Relieve the Situation.

Hon. A. M. Raleigh, of the Fourth ward, contributes a note to a "News" representative, showing the advantage of the city could be benefited by the use of the water which is becoming so unpopular because of its use. Mr. Raleigh says that it is a matter regretted for and that the sight-seeing that would have to be made to see the results of the use of the water, and the saving of the wearing of clothes which it is said, would be the result of using water, would be well worth the trouble. Mr. Raleigh says that it is a matter which he has seen in the "News" and thought it would be a good idea to have it published and it is accordingly done.

By the operation of what the early settlers call a "spell" at Hilton Prairie, Idaho, water could be had, so it is said, and it is said that Hilton Prairie is about two miles north of the North Temple street and west to Redwood road, and that the North Temple street, Third West and First North, will provide on that West so to lead West Temple, and north to Redwood, and Second West, and Third West, so to lead North. There is another of the series of streets, Second and Third North, which will carry water for a block each way, which will be sufficient to wash the streets, and which, now water is being used, is not sufficient. Water is to be supplied from the high house and by this means the whole northwestern portion of the city will be flooded. The lowlying points are the main, north and south streets, and the streets running from the north point of the city to the south point, and water is only on these streets to flow from the south.
