AN UNFORTUNATE ACCIDENT.

George Young is Badly Crushed While Repairing a Hay Rack.

Brigham City News: From Dr. Taylor, who was summoned by telegraph to attend the unfortunate man, we learn the following details of a sad accident at Plymouth, about thirty miles north of this city.

At the ranch of M. O. Johnson, George Young and Clayton Bee have been employed for some time past taking care of Mr. Johnson's sheep. Last Sunday, while hauling a load of hay, the south broke and it became necessary to repair it. For this purpose the hind end of the hay rack was propped up and Mr. Young got underneath to fix the rack. While he was sitting on the ground, the horses started and the rack with its heavy load came down on his back, crushing his body forward to the ground and breaking his back twice. It took some time for the men at the ranch to lift the load off and relieve him from his terrible position. On arriving at the ranch, Dr. Taylor dressed the injured man as well as possible and he thinks that as the spinal cord was not disarranged the patient has a good chance to recover, but it will require many weeks of careful nursing for the house to rest.

A HAIRBREADTH ESCAPE.

George O. Cheney Jumps from a Railroad Bridge to Save His Life.

Geo. O. Cheney, trestle man in the city engineer's department, made a leap for life yesterday and by so doing saved his life though he shattered some of his bones very badly and is in consequence, an inmate of St. Mark's hospital, though he narrowly escaped being in the morgue instead. This is how it happened: He was with a party of surveyors and engineers down at the Jordan Narrows. He was standing on the Bingham-Western railway bridge when a freight train suddenly bore in sight. To run away was impossible. There was but one thing to do to avert a horrible death, and that was to jump to the river 40 feet below. This he did quick as a flash, striking the rocks with fearful force, dislocating one of his ankles and breaking several of the bones in the foot. He was picked up by some of his colleagues, who signalled the first passenger train and had him brought to the city and taken to the hospital, where he is being given every possible attention, but from which he will not be able to come for many weeks even under the most favorable circumstances. His escape was a most thrilling one and he thinks he will doubtless never forget while memory lasts.

LOOMIS'S ALLEGED SHORTAGE.

Examiner George L. Blair Makes His Report to the Court.

Which Shows the Utah Central Special Master to be Short in His Accounts $10,017.56.

According to the report of Examiner Blair, as filed in the United States court yesterday, Special Master George D. Loomis, of the Utah Central, is short in his accounts $10,017.56. This was the sum representing a balance that was put upon him in the settlement of the road and which was drawn out of the banks where it had been on deposit. The full text of Mr. Blair's report is as follows:

Central Trust company of New York vs Utah Central railway company. Report of examiner.

To the Hon. Ogden Hiles judge of the district court:

Come now George E. Blair, herein-now appointed by the court to examine the accounts of Special Master Geo. D. Loomis, and reports as follows:

Your examiner has herein-called upon the said Loomis and find that up to and including the 6th day of December, A. D. 1897, and found a balance remaining in his hands of $10,017.56.

Disbursements and following payments have been made:

Dec. 11, 1897, Bonds sold by order of court	$1,250.00
Feb. 24, 1898, Thomas F. Lewis, judgment	2,012.55
April 5, 1898, C. S. Varian, attorney for special master	250.00
May 26, 1898, Dey & Street, attorneys for special master	250.00
May 26, 1898, Geo. D. Loomis, expenses, special master	20.00
Total	$4,841.55
Balance in hands of special master	$10,017.56

Said sums of money were originally deposited with McCreary & Co. and the National Bank of the Republic. I have obtained from these banks a transcript of the account of Mr. Loomis as special master, and find that all funds have been withdrawn from the banks. I have endeavored also to discover if they were deposited in any safety deposit or bank in the city, and have been unable to discover anything to the contrary. I have endeavored to do so to avert a horrible death, and that was to jump to the river 40 feet below. This he did quick as a flash, striking the rocks with fearful force, dislocating one of his ankles and breaking several of the bones in the foot. He was picked up by some of his colleagues, who signalled the first passenger train and had him brought to the city and taken to the hospital, where he is being given every possible attention, but from which he will not be able to come for many weeks even under the most favorable circumstances. His escape was a most thrilling one and he thinks he will doubtless never forget while memory lasts.

Respectfully submitted,

GEORGE E. BLAIR, Examiner.

A strange feature of the case is the fact that Loomis was never required to give bonds, something that was entirely overlooked. Judge Hiles knew nothing of this until his attention was called to it about two weeks ago. The attorneys are to blame for this. All efforts will be put forth to bring Loomis back and prosecute him for embezzlement.

Mrs. Loomis is visiting relatives in Cincinnati and is said to be ignorant of her husband's whereabouts and knows absolutely nothing of his alleged shortage.
