Investigating a Murder—An Electric Yacht Ready for Launching—Other Items.

There have been 35,000 trout recently placed in Green river, Wyoming.

Many acres of Egyptian corn have been planted in the Pecos valley in New Mexico.

At Aspen, Colo., on Wednesday, a gentleman fired a pistol ball through a mirror on a bible, indignantly, and nearly stabbed, a short distance from the Mexican depot.

Organization has been completed of the Portland, Vancouver and Northern Railway company, with a capital of $5,000,000, to build a road from Portland to the Northern Pacific at North Yakima.

An electric yacht is almost ready to be launched on Lake Minnequa at Pueblo. The yacht is thirty feet long and will be run by electricity by a storage battery. It will take thirty passengers and will make the round trip of the lake in twenty minutes.

It is quite the fashion, says the Dillon (Mont.) Tribune, for the trainmen who have to lay over at Silver Bow, to put in their time panning for supplies in the old placer diggings at the place. Several of the boys have found stones of good size and flawless.

The settlers of Grant county, New Mexico, are hurrying their cattle out of that section, the most of them going to the northwest kingdom. These cattle are mostly young steers and it is calculated to keep them on grass till fall, when they will be taken to the market if in good condition or sold on the range as feeders according to their condition.

While hunting in the gulch on the Alum Rock road, near San Jose, on Wednesday morning, Ray Hawley, the youngest son of Major W. G. Hawley, was shot and almost instantly killed. The little fellow was not quite 14 years of age. He was accompanied by a companion of about the same age. While sitting on a stump he saw his little toward him and it was discharged, the ball entering his breast.

The river continues to rise, threatening to overflow the headgates of the large canals above here, says the Idaho Falls Times. The water washed around one side of the headgate of the Idaho canal, filling it with water. Mr. Crick, the engineer, was obliged to run the canal on the lowlands to prevent the flooding of the country adjacent. It is reported that the difficulty is being overcome.

Three men broke into and went through five or six cars on a freight train between Carlin and Winnemucca the other night, says the Winnemucca Silver State. They burst open cases containing ladies' hosiery and silk bottle, and also secured a large quantity of tobacco. The car thieves went around Battle Mountain claiming to be peddlers, and sold considerable of the stuff when they were arrested and taken up. Shortly afterwards they escaped and up to latest accounts they had not been recaptured.

It is expected that the Burlington will be completed to a connection with the Northern Pacific at Billings by October 15. Commencing at Alger, Wyo., eight miles beyond Sheridan, the builders have begun track laying, and having about twenty miles of road ed that was graded last year to begin with, will make rapid progress. A large part of the line from that point on to Billings is being graded, and subcontractors are stringing out their men along the route. They have about 1,400 men now.

The Bailey (Idaho) Times says that Sheriff Jackson has been requested to look into the disappearance and possible murder of a man who formerly lived in the Yager house, in Gilmley, about six miles from Bailey. The request is made by Mrs. Leffangy, who now lives in the house, and who says that there are spots of dry blood on the walls, and that a barrels stench issues from under the house. She wishes the place dug into and examined. The supposition is that a man who had money and disappeared, a couple of years ago, was murdered for his money and buried under the house. By whom this was done no one knows.

As the Cripple Creek, Colo., hack was nearing Lawrence on Thursday morning on its down trip three men sprang out from the side of the road and ordered hands up. The driver stopped by stopping, and replying to the question as to who he was, answered Cripple Creek and Canon hack. The men ordered the passengers out and proceeded to go through them, making a careful search for fire arms. None being found nothing was taken, and the party were ordered in the hack and the driver told to move on. The whole affair occupied not more than five minutes, but everybody aboard was thoroughly sorted. This is the third party from here which has been held up.
