THE DISTRICT COURT.

Sequel to an Elevator Accident at the Templeton Hotel.

DAMAGES $5,000 ARE DEMANDED.

Report From the Grand Jury: The Charge Against Attorney Gerald Jackson Ignored.

In the absence of Judge Boreth, who is now holding court in Beaver, the grand jury, shortly after ten o'clock this morning, made their first report to Chief Justice Merritt. Twenty indictments were handed in—sixteen being under the Territorial statutes and two under the laws of the United States.

ADJOURNED.

The following cases were "thrown out":

Attilio Donaldson, fornication.
Henry Dietz, fornication.
A. B. Knowlton, unlawfully removing a stone from well water.
George Gaertin, larceny.
Gerald A. P. Jackson, assault with intent to murder.

J. Thornton, forgery.

The last two were under the laws of the Territory and the three under those of the United States. The friends of Attorney Jackson received news also as soon as the announcement had been made in the case and hearty congratulations followed him. The charge grew out of a sort of misunderstanding between Mr. Jackson and his law partner, Messrs. Ferguson and Young, and a subsequent shooting affray which caused a big sensation at the time. Fortunately, however, no one was hit, though to this day Ferguson, who came out by far the worst in the encounter, mourns the loss of a considerable piece from one of his ears.

HERE IS AN ELEVATOR.

A jury was empaneled to try the case of Alfred Peterson and Josephine Peterson, his wife, vs. the Templeton Hotel company, it being an action to recover $5,000 and costs, for personal injuries.

The plaintiff was represented by Cherry & Cherry; the defendants by Young, Young & Moyle.

It would appear from the plaintiff's side of the story that Mrs. Peterson, who had been previously employed as a waitress on a Union Pacific train, had obtained the position of Mrs. Amelia Young to go to the Templeton only to walk away the remainder of that day from the dining room table, she being a poor woman with a small family. These "places" were kept somewhere on the upper floor of the building, to reach which she had to use the elevator. The accident which forms the subject of the present suit occurred on or about March 20, 1882. On that day Mrs. Peterson descended to the lower (or freight) apartment of the elevator, accompanied by a friend named Rippen, and upon their reaching the ground floor Rippen signaled to the operator to stop. This he did. Mrs. Peterson claims she was then told to step out, but that while in the act of doing so, Rippen carelessly and roughly gave the signal to the operator to start upward. At this moment, she says, she was standing half in the doorway, and was caught between the floor of the elevator and the upper part of the frame work. As a consequence she was severely crushed, bruised, and cut on the head, arms, legs and body; she suffered great pain, was confined to bed for several months, and for a long time thereafter unable to perform any household duties. Mrs. Peterson states that prior to the occurrence she was a strong, healthy woman, but is now permanently injured. She says that the sum of quite $100 was expended for nursing, etc., during the period she was laid up and consider that she is entitled to $5,000 as damages.

On the part of the defendants a general denial is given to the allegations of the plaintiff, it being contended that there is no ground whatever for charging negligence to the plaintiffs. The idea of her being permanently hurt is also contradicted.

When the plaintiff's side had closed its case shortly before noon the defendants also rested, the motion for a nonsuit, on the ground that Mrs. Peterson was an employee of the hotel and at the time of the accident riding in that portion of the elevator generally used by the servants of the company. After some argument, the defendant's counsel were given till 2 o'clock to produce authorities on the subject.

Having heard these and further arguments Judge Merritt overruled the motion. The jurors retired to ante-rooms and the case went to the jury shortly before three o'clock.

The verdict did not reach the News until it had gone to press.

SETTLED.

The next case on the calendar was that of E. A. Franks vs. B. D. Black-burn et al. It was a claim for services rendered by the plaintiff as a detective but the matter was settled out of court.

LEAVE TO FILE.

C. E. Lowder vs. L. C. Cressons et al. Plaintiff was given leave to file amended complaint and alias summons.

"Touched" for His Cash.

An individual, who says his name is Beverly, had an experience last night in a Fifth south street saloon in which according to his status, he was sorely the victim of the old "Mickey Finnegan" game and came out the loser by $[illegible]. He said that he had swallowed some drinks said was "drugged" and the effects of the liquor and he soon fell into a chair by the stove. After awhile, he said, he found himself "pinned" and he was told to "clear out" and as he staggered from the saloon he found his money had disappeared. He "registered a kick," he says, "whereupon the bartender kicked him back." He could not tell the name of the saloon or point out its location, but the police have a clue and are expected to arrest the guilty parties.

Workingmen's Meeting.

John Hanks requests the News announce that a mass meeting of workingmen will be held at the West pavilion tomorrow at 2 p.m. Subject for discussion: "The New Constitution for Utah; what provision shall it contain in the interest of labor."

Want Provide for Her.

Matilda Sharp, through her attorney, F. K. McMurrin, this morning brought a suit for divorce in the Third district court against her husband, Wm. H. Sharp, the ground being adultery. The marriage took place at [illegible] on the 2nd day of June, 1880, since which time the parties have lived at [illegible]. It appears that the husband is now living with another woman, and it is alleged that Sharp has systematically abstained from making any contribution in the direction for more than a year past.

A NEW PUMP COMPANY.

Articles of Incorporation Filed with the County Clerk.

The "Anderson Double Water Column Pump Company" has filed the articles of incorporation with the county clerk. Its capital stock is $[illegible], divided into 100,000 shares of the par value of one dollar each, subscribed for as follows:

P. Anderson	[illegible]	shares.
P. A. Anderson	[illegible]	"

Total	[illegible]

The following are the board of directors and officers of the company: George Q. Cannon, P. Anderson, John W. Sloan, Milando Pratt, R. L. Bill, H. P. Dryden, Geo. A. Smith, secretary, Geo. Q. Cannon, president, P. Anderson, vice president, Milando Pratt, secretary, and John W. Sloan, treasurer.

Of the above amount $100,000 or one-third of the subscription stands site by the corporation to be used by the corporation as it sees fit, the balance of the stock is to be placed in the treasury to be disposed of as working capital.

The entire capital stock of $300,000 is represented by the estimated valuation of the interest in the patent right sale (except A to the "Anderson Pump Patent," which interest is conveyed to the corporation as full payment of the capital stock and held in trust for the sole use and benefit of the said corporation.

The business agreed upon to be conducted by the corporation is "To acquire, own, develop and manage the patents, rights, inventions and improvements of, in and to, what is the interest in the United States, with all rights and privileges to sale and foreign countries, to manufacture and sell pumps upon the same upon the market, and rights of territory, and do all things necessary or convenient for the prosecuting of the same; to acquire and hold all real and personal property necessary for such purposes or acquired in connection with said business."

This invention embraces certain features of novelty especially in that class of pumps (which water or liquids may be raised from great depths. Without the labor of a solid pump rod between the upper and lower levels, or without letting air or steam down the pipe for the purpose of pumping water up.

The object is to raise water from deep wells and mines of any depth or scale, or draw water out of flowing streams, lakes or springs to the upper levels for irrigation, mining and manufacturing purposes, through the instrumentality of simple steam and water in lieu of the rigid pump of commerce by adopted.

CTION AGAINST THE U. P.

Motions Over an Alleged Breach of a Timber Contract.

Chief Justice Merritt's court this afternoon, shortly before three o'clock, tried an action brought by Oliver Call against the receivers of the Union Pacific Railroad Co. was nonsuited before a jury, Rowlins & Critchlow appearing for the plaintiff and Attorney F. L. Williams for the defendants.

Plaintiff's case is that in 1869 and 1870 he entered into a contract with the U. P., by which the defendants were to sell and deliver to him, on board cars at Argyle or Hillard, Wyo., a large quantity of timber, as set forth in detail in his complaint. He alleges, however, that they never fulfilled their contract, and hence demands $10,000 as damages.

A SUCCESSFUL OPERATION.

Removal of an Eight-Pound Tumor—Other Northfield News.

NORTHFIELD, Minn., Feb. 6, 1885.

Editor Deseret News:

By request of a worthy and afflicted sister, I send you the following account of the gratifying results of a surgical operation performed here on Tuesday, Jan. 27th. A cancerous tumor, weighing eight pounds, was taken from the left breast of Sister Sophia Johnson, aged 53 years, by J. S. Welford, M.D., late of New Jersey. The operation was most skillfully performed in the presence of Bishop Hunt, Sister Oakley and several others. The patient was under the influence of chloroform only nine minutes. The tumor had grown rapidly and almost entirely within one and a half years. The doctor expected to meet Dr. Pratt of St. Johns here to assist him in the issue, but as Dr. Pratt could not be present, he was obliged to perform the work alone. Sister Johnson is progressing nicely and through the blessing of the Lord and the faith of our brethren and sisters hopes to yet live to go to the Temple of the Lord and perform a work so long desired for her dead friends. She has for years been a widow. It is the earnest wish of her friends that she may have the desire of her heart granted.

The health of the people of our community is and has been very good as a rule all winter, though the doubtful weather we have had during the new moon that have passed would hardly be called winter; there have been but few days when the roads could not work upon the meetings. The good, strong reservoir are nicely completed and three days ago water, which they now will contain a large supply of water and greatly increase the wealth of this island.

Very respectfully,
M. J. WERT.

The Funeral.

The funeral services over the remains of Jacob Weiler Horne, whose death is recorded in an item part of today's News, will be held at 11 a.m. on Friday, at the family residence, 132 Third Street. Friends are invited.

ON BEAR LAKE'S SHORE.

Cold Weather—Social Sports—Interesting Ward Conference.

Correspondence of the DESERET NEWS.

GARDEN CITY, Rich Co., Utah, Feb. 15, 1885.—The weather at this writing is fine—the extremes cold, the thermometer registering from 12 to 15 below zero the last three or three nights, although it is much warmer in the day time. Bear Lake is frozen over solid, and skating, for those who know how, is a luxury; both sexes and girls are flying locomotives in the fashionable sport.

A week ago last Tuesday, Joseph Gibson Jr. and Thomas Calder shared up sides for a rabbit and badger hunt. The two sides immediately got out and the Friday following, when the count was made it showed that Gibson's side was four ahead of Calder's. The losing side gave a dance for the winners, although it was a very even contest. The winning side had 250 scalps, while the losers had 246. The dance was quite an enjoyable affair throughout and it o'clock a.m. the concern dispersed. The same two sides have made arrangements for a large shooting match for Mt. Valentine's day, the losing side to give a free dance to the winners.

There has been some talk of the home people getting up something dramatic, but there seems to be a lack of interest in the matter and it is doubtful if anything will be done.

As we read the News we see from various correspondents that the "old folks" are being honored and treated to concerts, parties and other entertainments. Why not do something of the manner here for the benefit of the aged, those who are on life's decent, those who have reached the top of the ladder at the age are going down the other side, as it were. This would be time to show our regards to those who have toiled hard all their lives, those who somewhere in their youth, and here we stand and toiled to make for their children comfortable homes; and how we should do something for these comfortably to make them feel that their past labors are appreciated. Let the young people lead out in this matter and get up a good, enjoyable time for our parents and aged ones. Who will lead out? Now is the time, tomorrow may be too late.

On Sunday, February 15th, our ward conference convened in our meeting house, commencing at 10 a.m.

After the regular opening exercises the setting Priests and Teachers reported the ward as being in a good condition generally, while the majority of the people were on the way of progression; there are some few, however, who are negligent in the performance of their duties. After the report of the local authorities, Bishop West, of Paris, and Counselor Wm. L. Rich, of the Stake presidency, addressed the meeting. At the afternoon meeting John Allen, superintendent of the Sunday school, reported the school in a flourishing condition; Sister Alice E. Cock, president of the Relief Society, Sister Lettuce B. Allen as president of the Primary association, Sister A. White Ingles, as president of the Y. M. M. I. A., Sister Amanda M. Pope, as president of the Y. L. M. I. A., John A. Linford, as president of the Deacons' quorum, each gave gratifying reports of their respective organizations. Bishop Calder then in brief reported the condition of the ward as a whole as being in a good working order, and said he felt much encouraged.

Julian Gidings, West and Rich followed with suitable remarks, the latter presenting the greatest responsibility of the Church and the authorities of the ward, who were all unanimously sustained. Ward Clerk Wm. Cook read the statistical report for the year ending December 31st, 1884, and after the usual sing an anthem, conference was adjourned for one year.

THE MEXICAN MISSION.

An Elder's Happy Home-Coming—Heavy Snow Storm.

COLONIA JUAREZ, Mexico,
February 2, 1885.

Editor Deseret News:

We have had quite an interesting time of it in celebrating the happy return of one of our missionaries from the European mission, Elder Joseph H. Turley, who left here in March, 1884, and returned January 25, 1885. His mission has certainly been a blessing to him; he returns in excellent health and spirits full of the spirit of the Gospel. We had a social party and picnic in which twenty-five couples participated. Our Juarez brass band discoursed excellent music on the grand occasion as well as our quadrille band. A merry speech of welcome home was given by Bro. John C. Harper, to which our missionary very feelingly replied. The band played "Home Again," and the song was sung by Sisters Annie Williams and Fanny E. Harper. Dancing, songs and recitations, an address by President Pomeroy, and excellent music, all combined to make up the happiness of the occasion. Bro. Turley gives a very interesting account of his labors and we feel to congratulate him on his mission.

We have been favored with one of the finest snowstorms ever witnessed in the Mexican climate. It was some eighteen inches on the level and quite deep in the mountains. This was followed by a severe frost which froze the snow so that it remained on the ground several days. It melted quickly, saturating the ground and doubtless insuring a good crop. We feel we are highly favored by our heavenly Father. We are learning to appreciate His blessings and are gaining an increasing testimony.

We had a joyful time at Conference and New Year's and are enjoying an annual conference.

The News is always a welcome visitor.

Stocks and Bonds.

New York, Feb. 17.—Stock market opened quiet, slightly higher. Trade advance in prices was a matter of comparatively small importance and generally speaking it was not sufficient to induce outside buying. The exception to this was Missouri Pacific, which sold up from yesterday's close to 75 on a report that the Gould interest had purchased the controlling interest in the property. The general market closed quiet and generally at fractional advances. Sales aggregated 150,000 shares.
