Probably Elder Haag's Last Voyage.

In a letter to his sister, Gertrude, dated Haifa, Palestine, September 5th, 1892, Elder Dan C. W. Musser makes the following allusions to Elder Haag, whose demise has been lately noted:

Quoting from his journal August 29th: "We are in Joppa, arrived at 7 o'clock a.m. Left Port Said yesterday at 3 p.m., traveling third class; slept out on the open deck without covering. I am completely done up, so also is Brother Haag. He was quite sea sick and that with laying on the deck is enough to do anyone up. He is sleeping at present. I would also go to sleep but am waiting to complete arrangements to cart to Haifa in the morning. From Haifa to Zoppa is sixty miles, and it costs 100 fis. to get there.

"We are here, and thanks to our Heavenly Father are well and enjoying the good spirit. We already have had a number of opportunities of bearing testimony to the Gospel, and think before long we will be able to add more sheep to the fold of Christ."

It is possible that Elder Haag's sickness and exposure at sea may have precipitated his sudden death.

Filing of Suits.

The following suits were filed in the Third District Court late yesterday afternoon:

Thomas Wilde wants $11,000 damages from the Home Oil Company. The plaintiff alleges that he owns a tract of land containing about forty acres at Coalville. On the 25th of July, 1890, the defendants caused a large body of water to flow over the said land and about four acres of it were covered with coal slack and rock and it was otherwise damaged; the water surrounded plaintiff's house and his wife, who was sick, became greatly frightened, causing her to give premature birth to a child and causing her death, to his damage in the sum of $10,000. For hay and grain destroyed by the said flood plaintiff demands $500 damages and for the damage to the said four acres of land another $500 is demanded, making a sum total of $11,000.

Floy B. Griffis is the initiator in a suit for divorce. Her husband's Christian name is James P. The parties were married at Butte, Mont., in March of the present year. Plaintiff alleges that the defendant has willfully neglected to provide her with the common necessaries of life and that she has been compelled to live upon the charity of her friends and her parents; also that James has never purchased any clothing for her since their marriage. The plaintiff, in view of these allegations and upon the charge of cruelty, asks that the bonds of matrimony between herself and defendant be severed and that he be ordered to pay her alimony pending the action; also $50 for attorney's fees and costs of suit.

D. P. Patton has commenced proceedings against Peter Robinson to quiet the title to certain property on Commercial street.
