OKLAHOMA'S CONSTITUTION

People Adopt it and at Same Time Ratify Article on Prohibition.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET ELECTED

Returns Will be Certified to President Who Probably Will Refer Them To Congress.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 19.—Further returns from Tuesday's election confirm the first report of the adoption of the constitution, ratification of the prohibition article of the constitution, election of the full Democratic state ticket and an overwhelming Democratic majority in the legislature, and election of four Democratic congressmen and one Republican.

The state canvassing board, under the election ordinance as drawn by the constitutional convention, must begin the canvassing of returns Oct. 8. The enabling act requires that Chief Justice Burford of Oklahoma, Chief Justice Clayton of Indian Territory, and the territorial secretary, Mr. Filson of Oklahoma, shall canvass the returns on the constitution and state wide prohibition, and that the two judges named and Gov. Frantz shall certify the returns on the constitution to President Roosevelt, together with a copy of the constitution and all ordinances.

No time limit is set within which these must be sent to President Roosevelt, but they probably will not reach him before Nov. 15, especially if the contention of Frederick Elkins, assistant attorney-general, is correct that a long-hand copy of the constitution must be prepared by the board and forwarded to the president. It is generally believed here that President Roosevelt will refer the constitution to Congress on the supposition that Congress had no authority to delegate its power to admit states to President Roosevelt or any other person. The president has 20 days after receiving the constitution to pass upon it.

CARRIE NATION GETS SEVENTY-FIVE DAYS.

Washington, Sept. 19.—In the police court today Mrs. Carrie Nation refused to promise not to talk to crowds on the streets and was sent to the workhouse for 75 days in default of the payment of a fine of $25. She was arrested yesterday for disorderly conduct. She was addressing a crowd in front of the postoffice department on the evil effects of cigarette smoking, and when she refused to stop was arrested.

TRYING HARD TO SETTLE TELEGRAPHERS' STRIKE.

New York, Sept. 19.—Conflicting reports regarding the possibility of an early settlement of the telegraphers' strike were current tonight. From one unofficial source it was given out that direct negotiations had been opened with President Roosevelt, seeking his aid to bring about arbitration. According to this authority, Percy Thomas of the national union, and Daniel L. Russell, former president of the New York local, had a two hours' talk with the president at the latter's home in Oyster Bay Wednesday last. This could not be confirmed tonight, but Dr. Russell did say:

"The most important action taken in connection with the strike was made on Wednesday and we are satisfied that it will bring a speedy and satisfactory settlement."

Mr. Russell, who is also chairman of the local strike committee, added that word had reached him late tonight that two members of the union had gone to Washington to see Labor Commissioner Neill and to express to the commissioner dissatisfaction with the conduct of the strike. If the report was true, Mr. Russell said, the men who had gone to Washington were not authorized to speak for the strikers and that their action was unwarranted. No discussion, he said, existed in the New York union, and resolutions setting forth that the members were in perfect accord would be adopted at a meeting of the union tomorrow.

COAST STREWN WITH FISH.

New York, Sept. 19.—A dispatch received here from Progresso, Tex., says: "The entire Yucatan coast 10 miles eastward is strewn with dead fish, presumably from submarine eruptions."

No report of an earthquake anywhere has lately been sent out from Washington, but it is recalled here that the severe earthquake which affected all the Mexican borders of the Gulf of Mexico in April last was accompanied by a tidal wave and the killing of great quantities of fish.

BP. BERRY REPUDIATES COCKTAIL INTERVIEW.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 19.—Bishop Joseph F. Berry of Buffalo, who is in Milwaukee presiding over the conference of the German Methodists at the Second German Methodist church, and who has been quoted throughout the country as criticizing President Roosevelt for partaking of intoxicating liquors in the house of Vice President Fairbanks at Indianapolis, today made an absolute denial that he ever made such a statement while he was in Detroit. A statement issued by the bishop is as follows:

"Bishop Berry repudiates the interview widely published this week, in which he is said to have held President Roosevelt responsible for alleged liquor drinking in the vice president's home while visiting in Indianapolis.

"The bishop regrets exceedingly that President Roosevelt thought it necessary to deny a silly charge for which the bishop has been quoted, but one that he has not even dreamed of making."

GOSSIP SAYS FARMERS ARE ANGRY

Story Goes Harriman Invited Them to Dinner Then Dined Separately.

SOMETHING ABOUT HIS CLUB.

Members Pay Rural Residents for Chickens Killed and to Cover Depredations of Foxes.

Special Correspondence.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 16.—E. H. Harriman has established one of the costliest hunt clubs in the country at Middlebury, in Loudoun county, Virginia. Its members, as a rule, keep to themselves, live in their club houses and have no association with the people of the county.

All went smoothly until a few days ago, when the club gave a dinner to the farmers over whose lands they hunt with hounds, and it is reported there was trouble because Mr. Harriman and others dined in a separate room and some of the guests left in an angry mood.

The club is exclusive, consisting of Mr. Harriman, his two daughters, Miss Katherine Elkins, daughter of Senator Stephen B. Elkins, and four wealthy New Yorkers. It costs $10,000 to join and $3,000 a year for dues. One popular move of the club was to pay farmers for all chickens killed or other depredations by foxes.

Mr. Harriman visits his hunt club frequently. He usually goes in his private car, and he and his daughters and the other members spend a week hunting the wily fox over the hills and fields of Loudoun county.

Two packs of thoroughbred hounds are maintained by the club, each including 100 fine animals. The club has a stable in Middlebury and one on the plains, and they contain some of the very finest horses in America. A score or more of grooms and stable boys are employed the year round.

The country around Middlebury is the finest hunting ground in Virginia, and his been visited by wealthy huntsmen from New York and elsewhere for years. The farmers are all well satisfied to have the club, as the $24,000 in dues paid by the eight members is spent there, but it will be a long time before they get over what they consider an affront from the club members at the recent dinner.

The duration of the loud rumble was two seconds while that of the shake was one second. Crockery on the shelves was rattled, no buildings were cracked or damage of any kind done, though the shock was the heaviest in eight years.

FREEDOM MUST COME TO POLAND

Dmowski, Nationalist Leader, Has Faith in Ultimate Result Of Country's Struggle.

RUSSIAN BURDENS HEAVY.

Reactionary Policy of Czar Largely Due to Influence of German Kaiser.

Special Correspondence.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 7.—"I am certain that Poland will gain her freedom, but she has a struggle before her."

These are the words of Dmowski, the polish patriot and head of the Polish kola in the second duma. They were spoken at a time when a weaker man would have been cast down and discouraged—after the manifesto of June 16th by which Nicholas II announced the dissolution of the duma and a new electoral law depriving the kingdom of Poland of nearly two-thirds of her representatives. But Dmowski has such faith in the vitality of the Polish people, in its devotion to the national ideal and in its brilliant qualities that he is convinced that Russia, even with the support she receives from Germany, cannot permanently keep down, harry and oppress a superior race.

The leader of the Polish nationalists lived for some years in the United States and it is perhaps on this account that he strikes one at first as more like an Anglo-Saxon than a Slav, and he put forward his reasons why Russia should give Poland liberal reforms in so moderate and so just a manner as to afford an agreeable contrast to the violent and extravagant statements often heard from Russian reformers.

A WESTERN PEOPLE.

"We are a western people," he said to me, "our culture and our religion belong to the west and Russia has attempted to stamp them out and to substitute for them her own culture and religious theories which are poorer than our own. We want spiritual separation from Russia; we have resisted up till now, and shall continue to resist, every effort to drag us down to the Russian level of morals and culture. We do not desire separation from Russia but we maintain that we must be allowed to manage our own affairs.

WOULD USE OWN LANGUAGE.

"Our first aim is to secure the use of our language in the schools of Poland and at the university, and this wish does not arise from any mere sentimental attachment to our native tongue, but from desire to conserve the high tone of our race. Russian teachers of the worst class are sent to teach our children and the youth at the university. They are morally and intellectually our inferiors and they come as the enemies of our culture, of our faith, and of our family life. They belong to the orthodox church, at least nominally, and try to teach their pupils to despise Catholicism, the religion of our ancestors; they attempt to set them against their parents and to destroy home influence, and by their help at the University of Warsaw the same class of students is beginning to appear as may be commonly met in Russia, young men whose thoughts are turned to revolutionism and socialism and who take it for granted that all religion is nonsense. Our first requirement from Russia then is the use of the Polish language in the education of our people."

"If you get this what will be the next step?" I asked.

AUTONOMY NEXT STEP.

"Autonomy," was the reply. "We are a superior race to the Russian and we are perfectly well aware that we could manage our interior affairs, the railways and the post for instance, better than they are managing them for us. Take the post as an example. The service is so inadequate that at present there are villages 35 versts from a postoffice; and how are the peasants to take an intelligent interest in the affairs of the nation if they cannot even obtain a newspaper without walking miles to fetch it? And perhaps you are not aware that the provision of schools is entirely inadequate to our needs. It is a fact that in the year 1828 there were more schools in proportion to the population than there are at the present time in Poland. This is a good illustration of the effect of Russian rule. Then look at the police, who are sent by Russia to keep order, they are simply despised by our peasants, who see that they are worse educated than themselves."

"But," continued M. Dmowski, "I am convinced that Poland will never be free until Germany ceases to exert her influence on the Russian court and government. The Polish question was the source of friendship between Russia and Germany throughout the nineteenth century."

Dmowski might have added: is still the source.

CONDITIONS IN POLAND.

The dissolution of the second douma was brought about by various causes, but one of them was undoubtedly the attitude of M. Dmowski and the Polish kola to the Polish language question. They were resolved not to vote the budget unless the government consented to grant their just demands in this matter. Why could not the government comply? The ministers are well aware that Poland is in reality the most conservative part of the czar's possessions, and might easily be made the most loyal. What then was there to prevent the same privileges being given to the Poles as have been given to the Finns? The reply is: Germany. The kaiser is engaged in a struggle to suppress the Polish language in Prussian Poland, there children are being punished and even beaten for refusing to say the Lord's prayer in German; it would be highly displeasing and embarrassing to Germany were the czar to pursue a more liberal and enlightened policy than the German emperor. German influence is all powerful at the Russian court and I have good reason for knowing that what I have advanced is not mere supposition. The budget presented to the last duma could certainly not have been passed without the help of the Poles, and thus one cogent reason existed to compel the czar to dissolve it.

The Russian duma, he announced in his manifesto, must be Russian in spirit, and promptly reduced Polish representation from 36 to 15.

But Dmowski is right. In spite of all Poland will be free, her sons are prepared to suffer for her and the pluck of the nation must in the end bring triumph.

TIMELY INFORMATION

The Jamestown exposition at Norfolk, Va., in its completeness, is, indeed, a handsome spectacle. Located, as it is, overlooking Hampton Roads, a short distance from Norfolk and Portsmouth, near Old Point Comfort, Hampton and Newport News, in a region full of historic interest and pleasure in a state which has always been a battleground; emphasizes the wisdom of its projectors, who, knowing the patriotic fervor of the great American people, also knew that they would generously patronize this most unique of expositions.

This is the first great exposition to be held at the seaside, in a beautiful country, and within the center of a populous civilization. The potency of the combination is obvious. Delegate, soldier, sailor, diplomat, and civilian meet there to commemorate the three hundredth anniversary of the nation's birth.

The Erie railroad offers to the exposition visitor an excellent train service with close connections at Marion, O., Peoria, O., Mansfield, O., Youngstown, O., Olean, N. Y., Elmira, N. Y., Waverly N. Y., and New York City.

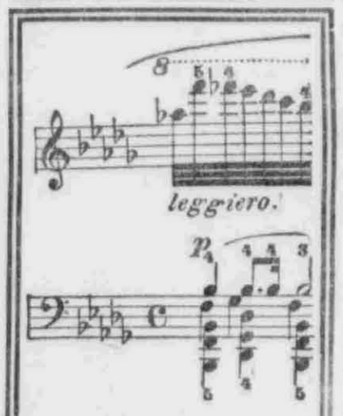
A daily through sleeping car line is operated from Chicago on Erie train No. 8, leaving at 9:30 p. m., to Marion, O., via Hocking Valley to Columbus, thence Norfolk and Western train, leaving Columbus 8:00 a. m., arriving Norfolk 8:30 following morning.

The Erie equipment is comprised of comfortable, high back seat day coaches, the best Pullman drawing room sleeping cars, and Erie dining and cafe cars operated on the European plan; you simply pay for what you order.

Tickets can be purchased going one-way via New York, returning direct, or reading going and returning via New York and rail or steamer.

The routes embrace trips via Baltimore and Washington, thence various steamer lines.

In addition to stop-over privileges now permitted at Niagara Falls, Chautauqua lake, until October 15, if ticket is deposited on or before September 30th, (Jamestown or Lakewood), Cambridge Springs and Saegertown, stop-overs are permitted at any station on this company's lines, including stop-overs at New York at the later point for 10 days if desided. Stop-overs are permitted only within final return limit of ticket.



HIGH NOTES & LOW NOTES ALL HAVE UNIFORM QUALITY

Conover Piano

THE Conover Piano has an even scale. As a result there is uniformity in the quality of all the tones from the highest to the lowest. In many pianos the bass predominates to such an extent over the treble that the higher notes do not preserve their individuality when heavy climaxes are played and are lost in a confusion of sounds.

In the Conover Piano, every tone "carries" and sings, and every shade of tone color can be produced at will.

If you are interested in music you will be interested in examining the Conover Pianos we have on exhibition.

We make easy terms of payment and take used pianos or organs in exchange.

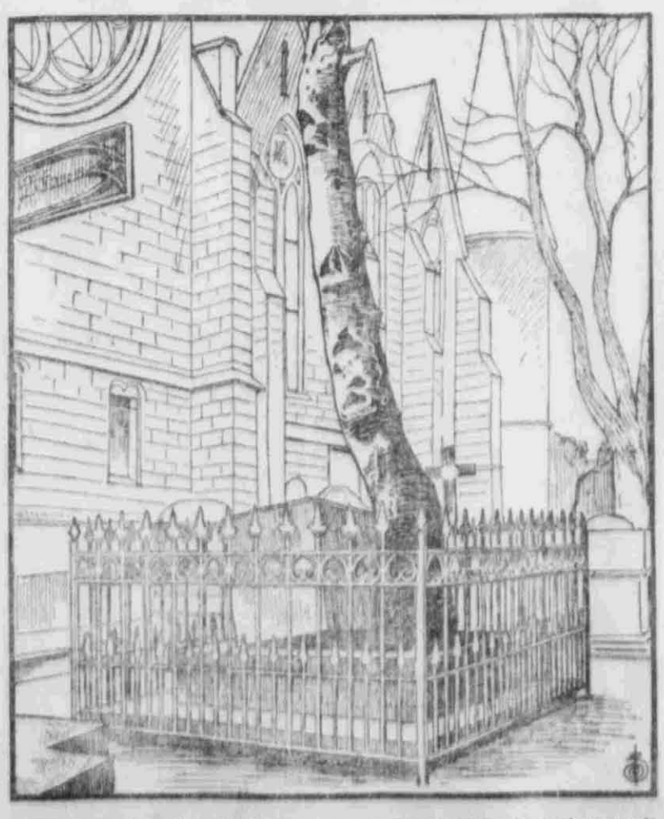
PERSIA'S ONLY RAILROAD SYSTEM.

The picture shows the Teheran terminal of the only line of railroad in Persia. It is only five miles in length, but it is not the shortest independent line in the world. In west London there is a line less than two miles in length which has its staff of officials and its own rolling stock. There are several lines in America of the same description.

TOMB OPENED BY A TREE.



The lower part of the tombstone shown in the cut bears this rather grandiose inscription: "This tomb, purchased for eternity, must never be opened." Nature has disregarded the injunction. A birch tree sprang from underneath, and its spreading roots have opened the grave. This tomb is in a cemetery at Hanover, Germany.

ONE OF THE MANY TESTIMONIALS WE HAVE RECEIVED.

To Whom It May Concern:

It is with pleasure and gratitude that I hereby testify to the genuineness and true worth of Mr. Wm. E. Bassett's cure for those who stammer or have any impediment of speech. It is nearly six months since I attended the Bassett school at Provo, remaining there only about two weeks. I am now able to stand before congregations and speak fluently. In fact, all conditions in the way of talking which once was impossible for me to do are now to be done with ease. No one needs to stammer, as under Mr. Bassett's treatment a cure is certain, providing his teachings and instructions are faithfully complied with.

I am sincerely, ORSON H. PETERSEN.
