The students of the High school gave their farewell ball at Christensen's last night—a large number of the classmates and their friends participating in the affair. Bright music, pretty costumes, and a well filled hall were features of the successful affair, a royal time being enjoyed by all.

Upon inquiry at the Holy Cross hospital this afternoon, it was learned that the condition of R. D. Skidmore Jr. remains unchanged. He appeared to be regaining consciousness last evening, and made one or two unsuccessful efforts to speak. He has been somewhat restless today.

Leonard, the nineteen months old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Harding, died last evening. His little twin brother, Leland, died July 5th, 1898. Funeral services will be held at the family residence, No. 17 Euclid avenue, tomorrow (Sunday), beginning at 11:30 a.m. Friends respectfully invited to be present.

Tintic Miner: Harry Joseph drove up to the railway station at Robinson with a lady Wednesday, and went into the station, leaving her in charge of the team. It became fractious, and she jumped out, but pluckily held on to the lines and finally succeeded in guiding the frightened horses into a box car, stopping them. Beyond a scare, Harry escaped unhurt.

Mrs. R. K. Thomas, secretary of the Utah State Kindergarten association, announces that there will be a meeting of that organization at the University on Monday afternoon, beginning at 2 o'clock, for the purpose of electing officers and transacting such other business as may come before the meeting. All persons interested in Kindergarten work are invited to attend.

News has reached this city of the death in Philadelphia yesterday of Frank E. Wilkinson, who was quite well known here. He recently graduated from Stanford university and was married on Easter Sunday at his home in Philadelphia to Miss Frances R. Wells of Salt Lake. The young widow is the sister of Mrs. A. L. Hoppaugh, wife of the attorney. The sad event thus made Miss Wells maid, wife and widow within the short space of a fortnight.

L. P. Rasmussen was the maddest man in town today. His opinion of brass bands has fallen about 12 degrees. About 11:30 this morning he tied his team to a hitching post at the corner of First East and Second South streets, and betook himself to various places of business feeling sure that all was O. K. But it wasn't. Primrose & Dockstader's band suddenly turned the corner, and the team took exceptions to the bass drum and began to rear and plunge. Finally the wagon was landed onto the sidewalk with a broken tongue. The by-standers who had been watching the proceedings prevented the horses from running away.

IS NO BETTER AND NO WORSE.

Condition of Parley's Canyon as to General Cleanliness.

SAME AS FOR YEARS PAST.

But Conditions Will be Improved—None of the Water Being Used for Culinary Purposes.

A vast amount of lung power and ink have been employed to enlighten the long-suffering public anent the sanitary and unsanitary conditions prevailing in the canyons, whence comes the city's water supply. Yesterday a Council committee with Superintendent John T. Caine, Watermaster Pollson and Engineer Kelsey and others made a trip up Parley's canyon and made a most thorough investigation of farm surroundings, such as refuse heaps, outhouses, pig pens and other unpleasant enclosures. The committee wended its way up to Roache's place and back again, arriving in the evening impressed with the view that it was a good and proper thing for an investigation to be made, and that it will without doubt be a source of great satisfaction to the citizens. But what new and startling discoveries were made? None whatever. It was ascertained that the canyon is in practically the same condition that has been known to exist for years. In some respects it is possibly a little worse and in others a little better. For instance, the unusually high water is washing down a quantity of debris that has not been exceeded for a number of years. The underbrush is much in evidence and is catching considerable rubbish that contributes to the pollution of the stream. A number of outhouses and barns are located (and has been this way ever since the advent of farming in the canyon) in close proximity to the water. Cattle and sheep used to abound in great numbers all through Parley's. Much freighting and travel has been carried on, all of which do damage to the water. Now, for a view of the other side of the case.

"There is no necessity," said a member of the committee, "for the people to lose any sleep over the water question at present; at least, so far as Parley's canyon is concerned. Why? For the simple and obvious reason that the water from that place is not being used and has not been used for a long time. And furthermore, the people can rest assured that none of it will find its way into their culinary departments until after a vigorous cleaning up takes place. Another thing, there has been less cattle and sheep in Parley's this year than for many winters, and people living in the canyon declare that their cattle have not been permitted to enter the streams only during the winter. A certain freighter, who has traveled up and down the roads for a number of years, claims that the canyon is cleaner now than it has been for years. The patrolman says that he has notified the farmers to keep their places clean. The farmers say that they are doing so, that they are hauling the manure onto their lands for fertilizing purposes. There is some talk to the effect that an effort is being made to change the travel from Parley's to Emigration canyon, and to keep out sheep and other stock."

The committee will make a full report of its discoveries at their meeting, and it is safe to say that work on the streams will be pushed to completion ere long.

Mr. Bangs displayed a thorough knowledge of Shakespearian roles and in the impersonation of Cassius instigating Brutus to betray Caesar was particularly fine. His humorous characterizations were very amusing and exhibited his perfect familiarity with all phases of life and people. ARSON CASE GOES OVER.

Preliminary Hearing of Ernest Bate Continued Until Next Tuesday.

When the examination of witnesses in the case of Ernest Bate of Riverton, charged with arson, was concluded for the day an adjournment was taken until 9 o'clock on Tuesday morning next, at which time Justice Timmony will listen to the remainder of the evidence.

William Langton called at the "News" office today and disclaimed having been excited in court yesterday. What was construed to be excitement on his part was merely an earnest exhibition of maintaining his own rights in the case. He was also misunderstood, he says, with reference to his statement that Mr. Nott was not upon Mr. Bate's bond. He likewise reiterates that he is in no way connected with the Riverton store in which the fire occurred. He says Mr. Nott is the man.
