HAWAIIAN JUSTICE.

Prisoners Tortured with Inquisitorial Cruelty.

OUTRAGE ON AN AMERICAN.

Confessions Obtained from Victims Nearly Dead after Hours of Intense Suffering.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Feb. 15.—The Call prints the following from Honolulu: The success of the government of Hawaii in conducting its treason cases was due to the incriminating evidence given by Captain William Davies of the steamer Waimanalo.

The manner in which the worn statesman was wrung from Davies is interesting, as showing the peculiar legal process at present existing in the Hawaiian islands. Davies and one Kinidon, Kinidon, were arrested on the morning of January 6th. Kinidon made a confession, telling what did he knew.

Davies, who is an American citizen, refused to give any information, and while protesting his innocence, declined an interview with the United States minister. This was refused. Davies was then taken into the prison yard, where he was shown two ring bolts in the wall above his head. The uniformed inquisitors of the government then gave the captain to understand that if a complete confession was not forthcoming, he would be strung up by the thumbs.

Davies did not flinch, determined that if the American minister would not come, the consul-general should be informed that he, a fellow citizen, was in pain. His legs were bound below the knees and his thumbs were lashed with whipcord to the ring bolts. A box was placed below him, so that unfortunate man's toes just touched it.

Davies was stripped to the waist, while Marshal Hitchcock, Attorney General Smith and Sergeant Cooper, with a stenographer, awaited the statement which they believed would be forthcoming. They were mistaken. Davies would not weaken. Sweat oozed from every pore. The strong man in his agony tugged a drop of water to cool the thirst that consumed him. The muscles of his cords stood out like strands of rope; blood vessels knotted on arms and legs, swelling as if ready to burst with congested blood, restrained in its course by an abnormal position. His remarks in response were implicable all known to be politically opposed to such methods without avail. Davies refused to surrender the secret he had sworn to protect. At last, when it was apparent by his respiration that it would be impossible to hold out longer, he was succumbed and Davies, cursing the Benis who were torturing him, fainted.

Dr. Cooper used salts of ammonia to revive the captain, who had passed into the painless realm of unconsciousness. As soon as he revived two negro convicts suspended him again by his thumbs. This inhuman operation was begun at noon, and it was 4 o'clock in the evening when Davies, more dead than alive, made the statement which resulted also from the inhuman barbarity of his persecutors.

Another case of torture was brought to light in military inquiry. A young native, who was known to be intimate with Carl Wintermann, was handcuffed at the wrists and ankles. Then, with a refinement of cruelty that would shock a Persian satrap, he was placed in a tank of ice-cold water. He was kept there until circulation of the blood in the extremities had almost ceased, and Dr. Cooper, who appears to be inexorable light as an accusing inquisitor, declared the action of the heart was almost suspended.

The chief of police, Marshal Hitchcock, had the young man taken from the tank, and, after being restored from his condition of semi-consciousness, the torture was administered again. Flesh and blood could stand such inhumanity no longer, and the much desired confession was given.

SAMOAN REBELS.

Arms and Ammunition Supplied from Germany.

APIA, Samoa, Jan. 29.—Correspondence to the Associated Press per steamer Mariposa.—The great scandal during the last month has been the discovery that Tags & Sprecht, a large German firm here, has been importing and selling to the rebels rifles and ammunition. For some time past it has been known that munitions of war had been supplied to the rebel party, and that thereby they had been enabled to maintain an armed opposition to the Malietoa government. It was suspected that the offenders in this respect were Germans, and not much surprise was felt when no proper efforts were made to bring them to justice.

The rifles had been imported from Germany, packed in cases labeled toys, and owing to the important customs arrangements had got into Samoa. This first installment was but part of an immense quantity now stored in mystery by the firm in question and which they have admitted were intended to be introduced into Samoa. It will scarcely be believed that for such a heinous offense, in direct contravention of the Berlin treaty, the German consul has simply fined the two partners of the firm $37.50 each. Great indignation has been expressed, together with a certain amount of satisfaction that at last the infamous practices of this outrage of supplying natives with the means of shedding each other's blood have at last been discovered, and that neither English nor Americans are involved.

DENIES EVERYTHING.

The Queen of Hawaii Says She Knew Nothing of the Robellion.

HONOLULU, Feb. 8.—After the ex-queen's examination was concluded a statement written by her was filed. It commences with a history since the time she was deposed, and goes on to say:

"The movement undertaken by the Hawaiian last month was absolutely contrary and without my knowledge, consent, or assistance, directly or indirectly, and this fact is in truth all known to those who look into it.

"I do deny your right to try me in the manner used by the court which you so called together for this purpose."

The military court will probably bring a verdict of guilty in the case of the queen, notwithstanding her declaration she will be pardoned, but it is believed that she will be imprisoned, but will be allowed freedom on her recognizance.

THE ELDE DISASTER.

One of the Survivors Speaking of the Matter.

OMAHA, Feb. 15.—Carl A. Hoffman of Grand Island, one of the twenty persons saved from the wreck of the Elde, was Omaha today on his way home.

"I could've been home before but I wanted to," said Mr. Hoffman, "but I cannot be to go home and think that my 5 and child will never more be with me. You cannot imagine how sad it is. We were so happy there, and we I must go back and they are not with me. I could easily have saved my boy if the miserable sailors had let me alone, but they saw my little boy from me," said he, and the tears flowed. "Yes, I will make them pay for all this. They must do it. But I do not want to talk too much about this, for I will consult an attorney when I get to Grand Island. I will then make a sworn statement and I would like to see owners of the Elde. I do not think it best that I talk too much about the action of the officers of the Elde and the behavior of the Cushing."

ENGLAND INTERFERES.

Instructions to Her British Representative in Hawaii.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—Sir Edward Grey, in response to an inquiry in the House of Commons as to the condition of affairs in Hawaii, said that Mr. Hawes, the British commissioner, has been instructed by cable to ask for the delay of the execution of the Englishman Richard who has been condemned to death by the court martial, if he had been convicted of complicity only in the raising of armed partisans, without having had a fair and open trial with full opportunity to defend himself against the accusations made against him. In either case the evidence on which the sentence of Richard is based is to be sent home and Mr. Hawes has been directed to act in concert with his United States colleague, who has received similar instructions from his government in the case of the American, Seward, who was also condemned to death.

LINCOLN ANECDOTE.

Told by Secretary Herbert at a Banquet.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 15.—The Pennsylvania Society (Irish society) held its sixth annual banquet at the Hotel Metropole tonight.

Secretary Herbert was the first speaker.

"I heard recently an anecdote," he said in the course of his address, "which I don't remember to have seen in print. It is attributed to Lincoln himself. Very early in the Civil War extremists began to urge President Lincoln to issue a proclamation to abolish slavery. Mr. Lincoln was slow to meeting up his mind. While the matter was still under consideration, the present ex-Senator Henderson went to see the President at the White House just as Mr. Sumner was leaving. Mr. Lincoln said: 'Henderson, did you meet Sumner out there at the door?'

"'Yes, sir.'

"'Well, that man comes here once a day. There are three of them who never entered into a combination to compel me to issue a proclamation emancipating the slaves. They want it done now, whether I think the time has arrived or not. Ben Wade comes early in the morning, Sumner comes at noon and Chad Stevens comes at night. I've gotten so I hate the sight of them. Every time I lay eye on one of them, I think about the boy who was put to reading the Bible at school and got stuck when he came to the men who walked through the fiery furnace. He read along glibly enough until he came to those names, then he halted. The teacher scolded him but it was of no use. He trembled and still the boy could not get out the names. Then the teacher shouted, 'Meadrach, Meshach and Abednego, you dunce, skip them and go along.' The boy read along very smoothly for a page, and all at once broke out crying. 'Whats the matter?' said the teacher. The boy blubbered out, 'Here comes them infernal three fellows again.'

Silver Movement of Germany.

BERLIN, Feb. 15.—Count Von Mirbach, German conservative, introduced a resolution in the Reichstag today instructing the federal government of Germany to issue invitations for an international monetary conference to take measures to bring about the rehabilitation of silver as a circulating medium.

Minister Bash said that the moment had now arrived for Germany to take the initiative in settling this question, which is of great importance. Bimetallism would cause the rise of all prices in England, where gold was currency. Agriculture would be ruined if the present system was maintained. America would either stop Germany's gold or adopt a pure silver standard and capture the whole Eastern trade. Other supporters of the resolution endorsed the position that Germany had taken at the Paris monetary conference of 1881, namely that she regretted an international agreement of a ratio between gold and silver as desirable.

GRAY'S LAST JOURNEY.

Honors to the Dead Minister in Mexico.

CITY OF MEXICO, Feb. 15.—United States Minister Gray's body leaves tomorrow at 9:15 a.m. via the Mexican central, on a special train for his Indianapolis home, accompanied by Mrs. Gray and Bayard Gray. President Diaz will accompany the body with a brigade of soldiers in the train. A special order has been issued by President Diaz that all the national flags throughout the republic of Mexico shall remain at half-mast until the body has crossed the Rio Grand river.

What Silver Cost.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Senator Peffer, from the committee on education and labor, today reported his bill for the creation of an industrial commission of twenty-one persons, which is intended to promote labor difficulties. The committee presents a written report in which it estimates the aggregate loss to all concerned on account of strikes during the past six years at $68,515,458.

HEART DISEASE.

Fluttering, No Appetite, Could not Sleep, Wind on Stomach.

"For a long time I had a terrible pain at my heart, which fluttered almost constantly. I was so weak I could not sleep. I would be compelled to sit up in bed and fetch gas from my stomach until I thought every minute would be my last. There was a feeling of oppression about my heart, and I was afraid to draw a full breath. I could not even a horse without nothing. My husband induced me to try and am happy to say it has cured me. I now have a splendid appetite and sleep well. Its effect was truly marvelous."

PALMYRA, Wayne Co., Pa., Feb. 16, 1894.
PUTNAM NAIL CO., Neponset, Mass.
GENTLEMEN:—Shipped to your address the fifth inst., with stock that I have used the Putnam Nail and others, but as I am about to try the point with one or more others I will not write more fully until I have tried them. Suffice it to say that the Putnam Nail has proved to be the best I have ever used, and I shall continue to use it while I do my blacksmithing. Very respectfully yours,

Chas. Marvin

The Putnam Nail is the only exclusively Hot-Forged and Hammer-Pointed nail.

Look in your smith's shoeing box. If the nails have smooth edges for the whole length they are the PUTNAM, for they are Hammer-Pointed and are not sheared.

The above extract, from a letter appearing late Sunday in the use of Sunol by Charles Marvin, Palmyra, Pa., while representing the shoeing of Sunol, will be sent to the farm of a Lady friend, who, out, on request, while paper with wide margin, to change of a card sunny for postage, this.
