NEWS FROM THE FAR NORTH.

Erik Bostrom, the new Swedish Minister of State.

DIAMONDS IN SAND IN NORWAY.

Denmark and the Iceland Fisheries.—Brother and Sister Killed By Lightning.

SWEDEN.

During the first six months of the present year 20,156 Swedes emigrated by way of Gothenburg, as compared with 15,413 during the same time in 1890.

One hundred Swedish-Americans arrived at Gothenburg the other day with "Atlantic."

More people have been drowned in the neighborhood of Stockholm during the present summer than during any summer before.

The socialists of Stockholm are establishing special schools for their children. Socialistic doctrines are the main studies.

The Good Templars held a great meeting at Westeras the other day. Addresses were delivered to an audience of more than 12,000 people.

Their "stone wedding" was recently celebrated at the Tiberemn poor house by C. F. Hanebelt, 94 years of age, and his wife 82 years old. The couple was married in 1821.

A Westeras named Eklund claims to have discovered a method of treating peat moss by which this material may be used for steam engines at a cost of only one half of that of coal.

The rich New York banker Swedenborg visited Sunsland, the other day. Swedenborg whose mother is living in the vicinity of that town is 80 years old, and is said to be worth $7,000,000.

A woman of Sunsland, who has been married four years, has had eight children during that time, the first year one, the second twins, the third three and the fourth year again twins.

Erik Gustaf Boström, the new minister of state, was born in 1842. He is one of the greatest authorities in Sweden and is a man of great business ability. For several years he has been one of the leaders of the high tariff party in the Riksdag. He has assumed a difficult task, as the brother people in Norway seem to be inadmissible in conjuring forth difficult questions as to the political relations between the two countries.

Of the 800,000 grown workingmen in Sweden about 16,000, or less than one-fifteenth of the whole number, are entitled to political suffrage. The laborers, however, are not the only ones who are deprived in this respect, but also a great number of civil officers, subalterns, school teachers, farmers, mechanics, bookkeepers, sea captains, mates, artisans, etc. Under such circumstances it is without doubt the desire of political wisdom to oppose the demands for suffrage reform.

NORWAY.

The Storthing has been dissolved.

A systematic and life saving service on the coast will be organized.

The total cost of education in the public schools of Norway is about $[illegible] a year.

The union for the matter of defense has collected 60,000 kroner only in the Christiania district.

Henrik Ibsen pays a visit to his native country. He looks to be in the best of health.

Diamonds have been discovered in samples of sand taken from the bed of the Pasvik river.

The whaling ships are returning with full cargoes of blubber and oil of the bottlenose whale.

Their diamond wedding was celebrated the other day by Kristen Pedersen Helle and Lina Petersdatter, his wife, of Kongsberg. Both are 87 years old.

Prof. Hjalmar Hjorth Boyesen arrived at Christiania the other day. The New York gentleman and journalist was on his way to his old home at Lekangen.

The fifth annual national labor convention met at Drammen lately. About 19,000 workingmen were represented by 70 male and two female delegates. The most important subject for discussion was a proposition demanding universal suffrage, national and municipal, for all men and women above 21 years of age.

DENMARK.

A new theatre will be built in Copenhagen.

Several new cases of small-pox are reported from Aarhus.

Suicides or attempts to commit suicide are reported not only every week but nearly every day in Copenhagen.

M. Saalil, the editor of Israelsche Tidende, has been sentenced to 60 days' imprisonment for libel.

The bachelrivers' strike at Copenhagen is at an end. Their weekly pay will be $4.86 in the summer and $4.52 in the winter.

Philipsen, the murderer of Meyers, the banker, has been pardoned by the King, and instead of suffering the death penalty the poor wretch will be imprisoned for the rest of his natural life.

Denmark is unable to protect the fishermen of Iceland against the encroachments of foreigners. The abuses of long standing, and for the last two or three years fishermen from Gloucester, Mass., have caught large quantities of fish on the west coast of Iceland.

ENGLAND.

Prof. John Fredrik Eilking, the oldest of Finnish physicians, died at an age of 90 years.

Their golden wedding was celebrated the other day by A. T. Calander and his wife, of Wiborg.

The Tavastehus jail is the home of 375 female prisoners.

Brother and sister, he 20 and she 23 years old, were killed by lightning in Hudsvara, Jaskinvarsen.

Duff—Who is the finely dressed lady that just entered that coach?

Biff—Don't know; but she must be one of the 400.

Duff—Do you judge by her dress?

Biff—No, by her speech. As she parted from the lady she was speaking with she said: "Dung owear, ma [illegible]."

A GENERAL TOUR-DE-JOUR.

Accommodation for Use.

The leading people at Newport have to be in the larger frame and tradition, according to Gentleman, to have it [illegible] sides, so that wagons, [illegible] carts, silky plows and everything else may be driven in one side for shelter and out again on the other side for use. This will save much labor otherwise required to pack dung sometimes away when drives in on one side only. Sliding or swinging doors may be provided, if required, to exclude wind, rain and snow. If the land is level it will be necessary to have all the floors of manure and salt on the same level, but with a descent or sloping surface the entrance may be above for such tools as are used on the higher fields, and the other entrance below opening toward the lower fields. But this arrangement will prevent the driving in on one side and out on the other.

The builder will exercise his reasoning as to larger tools what will be the most economical width of the building, so as to receive them all without undue crowding. A portion of it or one end may be devoted to a workshop and the smaller or hand tools, which for convenience and neatness may be arranged and hung on pins at one side or over the wire tools, in a manner represented in the accompanying cut.

ARRANGEMENT OF HAND TOOLS.

Instead of placing all the tackle on one level, says the authority quoted, the workshop may be on the next floor above, and the hose from escape hay ground, but the best arrangement of being compelled to go up a flight of stairs for every small matter will suggest the superior economy, on the whole, of a common level.

Manuring for Wheat.

A Missouri correspondent, writing to the New York World, says: One of the best plans of applying manure to wheat is to plow reasonably early after the harvest work is finished. Take pains to plow deep and thoroughly, then haul out and apply all the manure possible, scatter it evenly over the surface.

The work of properly preparing the soil to receive the seed will usually work the manure sufficiently into the soil. There is usually very little time for hauling manure after the spring work fairly begins until after harvest, so that there should be a considerable quantity that can be hauled out and applied with profit.

If commercial fertilizers are to be applied, the most economical plan is to use the fertilizer attachment to the drill. The work can be done at less expense than in any other way. It can be scattered broadcast by hand, but this increases the work very materially. Manure or fertilizers with wheat should always be applied near the surface whether commercial fertilizer or stable manure is used. As it is difficult to secure a sufficient amount of stable manure to keep up fertility, it is a good idea to apply the stable manure to such crops as corn and grass and use commercial fertilizer with wheat and potatoes.

Indications of Swarming.

"Is there any way in which to determine with certainty when a swarm is about to issue, except by taking out the brood frames and examining the queen cells?" was a question recently asked and answered in American Bee Journal.

Mrs. L. Harrison said: You can generally tell for "certainty" when a swarm will issue than you can what verdict a jury will bring in. You may guess right sometimes, and again miss. Bee change their minds sometimes after their honeycrocks are packed for the journey.

G. W. Demaree answered: No, you can only guess when a prime swarm is likely to issue. No signal in the way of "piping" takes place except when after swarms are about to issue. I notice every season that the colonies I expect early swarms from are not certain to be the first to cast swarms.

The editor said: No, it cannot be "determined" to a "certainty" when a swarm will issue—not even by examining the brood frames. There are indications upon which you can guess pretty nearly, but it will only be a guess.

Diarrhea in Fowls.

In its first stages diarrhea may usually be checked by feeding boiled rice with powdered chalk. Three drops of sulphuric acid in a pint of water for four times a day may be given in severe cases, and rice boiled in milk should then be the only food. Dairy is the best grain fed on recovery. Bone dust is excellent as a preventive, and young chickens should be well supplied with it. This disease, which is liable to run into cholera, is caused usually by wet or cold weather, lack of fresh water and green food, or the means or shelter from excessive sun. In addition to the remedies suggested it is advised to shelter the sick birds from the sun and also from damp.

Experiments with Asparagus.

It has been ascertained by recent experiments with male and female asparagus plants that the male plants gave an average of 30 per cent more yield than the female, and the shoots were also larger and ripened earlier. It was found that the difference in yield were greater in the early part of the season than in the later part. Male plants can be secured for a certainty by the division of old plants, or better, by the selection from two year seedlings of such as do not bear seed. It has been contended for a long time by growers that there was a difference in profit between the two, and these experiments which have proven it to be a fact are timely.

Higher Chimneys for Steamships.

A departure in obtaining extra draft for furnaces on steamships without the use of blowers or other devices has been successfully tried on the boat of the Cape mail line. This vessel has been furnished with smokestacks 120 feet high above the grates. The increased draft is explained to a water pressure of three-quarter of an inch. The vessel's speed is nineteen knots.—New York Sun.

THE CRY OF MILLIONS

OH, MY BACK!

STOP IT NOW, SOON IT WILL BE TOO LATE.

I have been troubled many years with disease of the kidneys and have tried many remedies without any lasting benefit. Kidney Pills are the only remedy which have done me good. On the 15th of April I was suffering from a very severe attack, but since then I have not been in such a condition that I was bent over. When I had stooped it was almost impossible for me to get up from one to get on my feet. Now I can stoop or sit on my heels, when I had previously been for months with my back entirely STIFF. This is the second time I have used Kidney Pills, and I immediately noticed being the best. It has an almost miraculous effect on the kidneys. Advertisement of no fake cures at the bottom. It is a fact that I have spoken the truth, that I was a sick man. I would recommend the use to all afflicted in a like way.
