HAVE A SHINE.

Mrs. Maxwell is Here and Offers to Do the Job in the Interest of Charity.

Among the visitors to Salt Lake City is Mrs. Elma Maxwell. She intends staying here for ten days and performs a peculiar session, she in which she is undoubtedly a pronounced of blacking shoes. For some time past she says she has devoted her energies to this mission at New Orleans, St. Louis, Omaha, Kansas City, Fort Worth, Denver and other cities, and has uniformly succeeded. She, she says, has made a good living, and is altogether for selfish purposes, on the contrary, she has already distributed $3,000 among needy people, and has the benefit of newspaper and her institution is during her return in the city, to return the remaining dollars to be left with Mayor Clark for distribution among proper objects of charity.

By dint of work is to establish hotel, working parlors in various public and to sell tickets good for one shine in the travelling public. The venue is the regular price, but the lady says she will be happy same from those interested in the good work. Mrs. Maxwell has splendid credentials and any number of press notices, and she says society women often take a great interest in her work and assist her. She expects that the delegates to the Mining Congress to be held in this city the present week will contribute to her funds by having their shoes shined perhaps a little oftener than strictly necessary.

Death of Little Vera.

Vera Hendry, only daughter of James and Lotta Hendry died of cholera infantum July 3th at the parents' residence in Forest Dale. Vera was born November 15, 1896, and was of a bright and cheerful disposition. She was robust and and healthy until stricken with the dreadful malady which ended in his death, and fought heroically to overcome the disease with which she was stricken, but after several weeks battle succumbed. Everything that human hands could do was done by her fond parents, and the people of the Dale, and their friends and relatives will sincerely sympathize with them in the loss of their little one. May the Giver of all necessary bring solace to their souls and comfort them in the providence of an Almighty Creator.

The funeral service will be held Thursday July 7th at 11 o'clock, from the Forest Dale meeting house. Friends are invited.

WILL OPEN TOMORROW.

Everything is Now in Readiness for the International Mining Congress.

COMMITTEES MEETING THIS AFTERNOON

To Finish Up the Details Preparatory to the Opening—Delighting Exhibit to be Shape—Small Crowds Final.

The International Mining Congress will open in this city tomorrow, and the various committees are kept at work all day and have been busy all evening. The committees on program met a quorum the afternoon and partially arranged the program for the Congress, but the completion of their work was so late as to make it impossible to publish a report for this issue. However, it can be said that the program is an attractive one, and will be a most opinion material for the enjoyment of all the visitors of the delegates who are in attendance.

The executive committee was also in session and in the day, as was the committee on arrangements and on entertainment.

MINING EXHIBIT.

The mining exhibit in the Hall of Fishes in the Salt Lake Hotel, and things in the building have a very fine appearance.

There are all kinds of minerals on exhibition, gold, silver, copper, lead, antimony, zinc, asbestos, mica, clay, fibrous, rocks, slate, marble, granite, porphyry, etc. All are Utah production and the display is a very interesting one indeed.

The Knights, and which will continue most attractive for some of our mining visitors, is a six-inch crystal geyser in operation, the mineral for which comes from Morgan. It is an interesting process and will be heavily and profitably attended and examined by hundreds of visitors during the coming five days.

The hall is decorated with handsome pictures of Utah scenery, copyright of a mining nature, as well as photographs of Washington Lee, Grant, Lincoln, Garfield, Blaine, Harrison, McKinley, President Brigham Young, Treasury, Secretary Hay and others. The superior Jackson that a picture of Sampson was missing. It belongs in the great hall, will one of Dewey, and they should be included.

There are 40 exhibition souvenirs medals and silver tools, so that the whole mining industry of Utah is shown at and as it can be in a place of that kind.

FOR THE MINING CONGRESS.

Colorado's Delegation Left Denver This Morning—Hot Debate Expected.

Information in the hands of Secretary Irwin Makem of the International Mining Congress, this morning indicated that about 1,000 delegates will attend the congress, says the Denver Post. There were in his hands notices of appointments of 425 delegates, and a letter from Mr. D. Johnson, secretary of the Salt Lake Commercial Club, announced that he promised notice of the appointment of 1,000 delegates. He explained that he expected at least 200 more delegates who would be unknown until their arrival with their credentials.

The Colorado delegation will leave Denver tomorrow for Salt Lake. Southern Pacific Mikado, Kansas City and car on the Midland and expects that a number of eastern and Canadian delegates will be met and will gather in Denver Monday and Monday's report of it. He also in their meeting for the conference of the Southern was that it would bring their location of the United Colorado points and enable them to take advantage of the rates of the previous excursion rates to Salt Lake. Secretary Milton Reed leaves St. Louis to attend the conference in Denver to-day. Mr. Reed is a member of the executive committee of the Mining Congress on the mining congress, and is a member of the committee on the law which was formulated for the congress.
