FRAGMENTS.

TOMORROW's session of the City Council promises to be an interesting one.

In the case of Platt & Co. vs. John H. Rogers Judge Zane has ruled in favor of the defendant.

The awarding of the street paving contract will come up before the City Council again tonight.

The Harrison-Reid Republican club will meet in regular session tonight. The attendance is expected to be an interesting one.

YESTERDAY's clearings in the Salt Lake Clearing House amounted to $634,000 as against $715,776 for the same day last year.

The divorce case of Lillie M. Calmer vs. Henry J. Calmer has been referred to W. I. Snyder as referee to take testimony and report thereon.

THERE are 10 cases at the Western Union telegraph office for Mr. Keenan, Vincent Brown, L. C. Hanes, Mrs. E. Carter, W. H. Wyman and Mrs. Nellie Sparks.

DEPUTY City Treasurer May has returned from a week's fishing and hunting in Southern Idaho. He tells some wonderful fish and snake stories. His colleagues all believe them.

"WILL the City Council remove Justice Keiser tonight?" is a question that has frequently been asked today. A number of the members of the body, who meet several times a week, say no.

THE Fort Douglas garrison left yesterday afternoon on its annual outing. They marched out with Major Parker's own band, and today will continue the march to Heber city and down the Provo country.

FRED PEDDLER was arrested at No. 6 east Third south street yesterday afternoon by Deputy Marshal Will Goodwin on the charge of assaulting a man named Curtin with a deadly weapon. Peddler went before Commissioner Greenman and was released on his own recognizance until today.

CONSTABLE D. cow has served attachments aggregating $611.67 on the Deseret restaurant, James Conway proprietor. The first was an execution by the Acme Printing company, G. Guirand and Greenwood a second mortgage amounting to $717.72, and E. C. Ellerbeck foreclosed a mortgage amounting to $1,000.

JACK BRUNOW of the Graniteville Milling and Mining company, has returned from Tooele county, and reports that a gang of robbers had carried off his tools, cases of minutes, jeans and corn, 200 pounds of flour, fifty pounds of lard, a released bells, pickles, yeast powders, stove dried fruit, coffee, tea and all the fixings.

THE special train over the Union Pacific with the Parnassus Millinery Co. on it will arrive tomorrow morning at 3 o'clock. The train is a special and one of the finest equipped on the road. It is composed of six sleepers, two dinners and a baggage and observation car. The party will remain in this city eight or nine hours, or twenty-four hours.

A WELL known officer said today: "The Sunday closing movement is a sham. Just as many saloons are open on the Sabbath now as there were before the preachers' indignation meeting was held and prior to the sermon of the Mayor's somewhat famous proclamation on the subject. The whole business is a farce, and the sooner the public know they are being duped, the better."

A Token of Esteem.

We have received by mail the sum of $5 which we are requested to hand Mr. Charles Ellis "from one who, though not a 'Mormon,' admires him for the stand he has taken in defending such an abused people." We suppose the request to acknowledge its receipt through the DESERET NEWS is intended as a hint to other admirers of Mr. Ellis to "go and do likewise." If so, we can but endorse the sentiment and admire the deed, which is better than words. We shall be pleased to hand to Mr. Ellis any token of the esteem of his friends.

Distressing Accident.

Lewis Westrom, a fireman on the Oregon Short Line, arrived in Ogden last evening from the north in care of an attendant and was placed in the Union Pacific hospital, suffering from an accident received last Saturday while attempting to get aboard a caboose while the train was in motion. He was working on a construction train which was at the time of the accident about three miles west of Pocatello. About 5 o'clock the train started for Pocatello with the men. Westrom was about the last to get aboard and while doing so he collided with the sharp corner of an awell which was standing on a spur track elevated considerably above the ground, striking him in the hip. He was thought to be very seriously injured and was brought to Ogden.

FRIGHTFUL RUNAWAY.

James Sadler Horribly Hurt at Five Points.

There was a frightful and distressing runaway at Five Points last evening. James Sadler, a young delivery boy for Brown & Tracey, at that place, had a couple of other boys with him and as they were leaving Five Points, coming this way, they thought it would be great sport to run a race with a street car that happened along about that time. After they had gone some distance the horse slipped in one side and young Sadler was thrown over the dashboard. It is asserted by those who saw the affair that the boy's legs became tangled up in the wheels and his body was wound around the axle in a distressing manner. The horse broke away from the vehicle, and when the boy was taken out he had the appearance of being dead. He was in such a pitiable state to behold. The spokes of the demolished wheel cut his face in a fearful manner and one of his eyes is said to have been nearly torn out. The back of his head was cut and bruised and the lower portion of his body was mangled in an indescribable manner. The unfortunate boy was taken to his home near Five Points, and medical aid summoned, and at last reports he was in a very critical condition. It is thought serious internal injuries were sustained.

BAD BOYS' DAYS.

A Full Half Dozen Before Justice Keiser This Morning.

THEY ALL GOT OFF EASY.

A Tough Looking Lot of Drunks—General Police Court Cases.

The aggregation of drunks arraigned in the police court this morning were among the hardest and roughest looking characters ever seen in this city. The court opened by the following statement by Justice Keiser:

"John Simpkins, stand up. You are charged with drunkenness and abusive language. Want to your pies?"

"Your honor, if you will let me go I will walk right out of town."

"I impose a fine of $5 upon you.

John Doe (with a fight coat) was the description of a homeless individual, who was registered on the trial docket for drunkenness. He pleaded guilty but said he had become so accidentally. Sentence was suspended.

H. Howe arraigned for drunkenness and disturbing the peace, said he had a headache and commenced drinking and the next thing he knew he was drunk. He didn't ask for mercy. He was fined $5 and will work five days in the city gravel beds.

Thomas Howard, Archie Thompson and Mike Sullivan were fined $5 each for drunkenness. Neither of the trio had any money so they will work for the city five days each.

Barney Quinn—I was not drunk your honor. I was simply taking an attenuated friend home when I got lost in myself.

The Court—That story don't go. You are fined $5.

FOUR BAD BOYS.

Will Dickert, Walter Dickert, Hyrum Marcroft and Robert Marcroft, a quartette of quarrelsome and mischievous youngsters were tried for disturbing the peace and attempt to whip and stone a dwarfish cripple named Cadson. The latter testified that the lads had taken his crutches away from him; that they had thrown him down and beaten him.

The boys were put on the stand and studiously endeavored to protect themselves by reciting in innumerable explanations. They, however, admitted that they used bad and insulting language and had made it generally unpleasant for the plaintiff and his children. They also alleged that the latter had retaliated by beating them. The father of two of the boys, a big German, stood and declared in boisterous tones that the plaintiff had made a fool of himself; that Carlson and his children were the worst people in the neighborhood. A personal war of words was then indulged in between the big German and the complaining witness, which terminated by the former calling the latter a liar.

The court then gave the boys a bit of characteristic advice and told them to go.

TWO MORE.

"Harry Gardner," said Prosecuting Attorney Creed, "you are a pretty bad boy, are you not?"

"No sir."

"Don't you stay out pretty late at night?"

"No, sir."

"Do you mind your parents?"

"No, sir."

The court—You are charged with petit larceny. I can send you to jail for sixteen or seventeen months if I want to. Do you wish to go there?

"No, sir."

The court—"Will you be a good boy if I let you go home?"

"Yes, sir."

"I will try you. Go home and keep your word."

Charles Jones, a pal of the Gardner boy, was also allowed to go.

Willmot Le Claire, a Canadian printer, aged twenty-five, was taken in custody by Officer Matthews today and registered at the police station as "dead drunk."

DOINGS OF THE COURTS.

Orders By Chief Justice Zane—The Civil Calendar.—A Restaurant Squabble, Etc.

Business moved along slowly in Judge Zane's court this morning, nearly the whole of which was occupied with the trial of the suit of O. H. Pettit vs. E. H. Parson. A jury was sworn to try the case, which seemed likely at the noon adjournment to occupy the entire day. The attorneys in the fight are Mr. J. E. Rawlins on the one side and Mr. S. W. Duke on the other. It is a dispute of old standing and arises out of an alleged illegal seizure of goods by Ex- U. S. Marshal, said to be worth $1,500, but their value is said by the defense to be not more than $500, at the outside. Quite a crowd is both sides are making a hard struggle.

ADMITTED TO CITIZENSHIP.

Louis Morine, an Italian, now residing in Salt Lake, was admitted to citizenship.

REFEREES' REPORT CONFIRMED.

In the case of J. H. Gray vs. J. M. Sprague, the report of the referee was confirmed and order issued.

A DIVORCE SUIT.

Lottie M. Calmer vs. Henry J. Calmer, a suit for divorce, default was entered in this case, which was referred to Attorney W. J. Snyder to take testimony and report.

TIMPSON GOES TO OHIO.

In the case of the United States vs. John G. Timpson, the alleged Counterfeiter, Ohio, possessing embezzler, heard by Commissioner Norrell, Judge Zane made an order for the defendant's removal to the northern district of Ohio.

ON A PROMISSORY NOTE.

In the Third District court this morning, John Harris brought suit against Mary Ann Barlow et al., Cornington & Co. and the Wilkinson Mantel Company, to recover $1200 on a promissory note, with interest at the rate of 12 per cent. per annum, $75 attorneys' fees, and costs of suit.

THE GRAND JURY.

During the entire morning the grand jury have been in session. They had several cases under consideration.

RESTAURANT KEEPERS AT LOGGERHEADS.

Messrs. J. F. Corbin and Fred Painbain, as tenants, run a restaurant known as the Silver Gold, on east Third south street. The two managers the front part of the establishment and the other superintends the doings in the kitchen. Corbin had his partner arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of drawing a deadly weapon, to wit, a pocket spec knife. He went before Commissioner Greenman and gave bonds for his appearance this morning. When the case was gone into it transpired that some disputes arose between the couple regarding the financial returns of the restaurant. But while Catlin swore that Parbinon drew the weapon upon him, three witnesses on the other side, and who heard his story, testified that to their knowledge no pistol was used, and the defendant himself also emphatically denied the complainant's allegation. The commissioner therefore discharged the accused.

There was not much activity around the District Court this morning, there being nothing of special moment to attract the members of the bar.

THE SMITH-BOWMAN CASE.

The case of Smith vs. Bowman, involving a partnership accounting, came up once again, before Judge Blackwood as referee, this morning, in the Supreme Court.

DESERET WOOLEN MILLS.

The Establishment Running and Its Goods Appreciated.

Editor Deseret News:

On the morning of the 4th inst., at our late State Conference, in the Tabernacle, I spoke of the recently that existed of encouraging the erection of home home manufactories to employ our unemployed people. In course of my remarks I spoke of the regret I felt that the Deseret Woolen Mills of this city, which our late Bishop or Wm. Jennings and his sons erected and conducted at so great an outlay of money, had, for want of encouragement from the people whom it was built to bless, been compelled to close down.

In making these remarks, I am informed, I made no reflection on Bishop Frank W. Jennings's company on injustice, in that the people are led to believe they are no longer operating their beautiful and greatly admired factory.

The facts are, Frank W. Jennings, Esq., did remark to me last fall that they had shut down, which he now informs me was only for three months, or until the beginning of January last, when they again started up and are running on some days only, which they have ever done before. As an evidence of this, they employ 100 hands, and find a ready market for their goods in the country north and west of us; for while our own people may not appreciate the excellent quality of our home manufactured woolens, people outside of our Territory do, as their clerks for mills is extensively purchased in San Francisco. As an evidence of their success the company's business aggregated $15,000 last month. I am delighted with the information, and hasten to publish it, that I could do no less in justice to our enterprising townsmen.

ANON M. CANNON.

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 11th, 1892.

THERE'S A DIFFERENCE.

At Least One Man Found "Gentle Married" at Both Married" in Nebraska.

One day I was sailed under a tree by a spring on the banks of the Cumberland river, not far from where it breaks through the Pine mountains, taking a resting spell, when a young farmer rode by with a brown country girl behind him on a mouse colored mule. I called to the young man and he pulled up and asked me if I wouldn't hand the gal up a drink of water," and while I was doing the gallant we talked.

"Fine weather for gettin married, ain't it?" he said, with a grin that gave the proceedin away.

"Step up, Jim," said the girl, giving him a jerk.

"Ah, you're to be married, are you?" I remarked.

"Yes," he said, "me and Callie has about reckoned thar ain't anything better for us to do."

"Well, I admire your taste," I ventured, with a smile at the girl.

"Fine gal, ain't she?" he said admiringly. "Had mighty hard work to git her. Every fellow on the crick wanted her. Had to court her six months and finally promise her this boss we're on afore she would let the preacher come to us. Mebbe she showed pore judgement," and he laughed and chucked her under the chin, "but you can't allus tell what sort of persimmon is in the hill by the looks of the vine."

I assured him that both of them had made a good choice, wishing them joy, they rode on and I never expected to see them again, but I did.

One Sunday morning about three months after that I started out from the place where I was sleeping for a week, to a little church where a meeting was to be held. Half way there I overtook my bridal party, pretty much as they were at the first meeting, only Callie was in front and Jim behind.

"Good morning," I said, really glad to see them.

"Howdy?" they cheerily; they both replied, and we went along to the meeting house, chatting pleasantly, with Callie doing the most of it. Arrived, we hitched our horses, and before going in Jim called me to one side.

"I's pose," he said, "you noticed I was ridin behind this mornin."

I admitted as much, but said I had not thought of it especially.

He shook his head gravely.

"Mistin married an hen married is designated different, mister," he said sententiously; "if they wasn't I wouldn't be ridin behind."

Before I had a chance to offer any consolation Jim hurried along to catch up with Callie at the door, and I had something to think about besides the sermon.—Detroit Free Press.

ON TRIAL FOR MURDER.

Ex-Deputy Marshal Wheelstone's Case Comes Up at Ogden.

The Wheelstone murder trial opened yesterday at Ogden in the Fourth District court before Judge Anderson.

The history of the shooting of Deputy United States Marshal J. R. McLellan by Henry Wheelstone, who at one time a deputy marshal, is well known. On the evening of March 5th, 1892, Ogden Hiles, Deputy Marshals M. John and McLellan and Wheelstone had been in one of the card rooms in Keck & Rohe's saloon on Washington, drinking more or less. Morning the evening Ogden Hiles and Wheelstone indulged in a controversy over an old grudge which the latter held against the lawyer. Wheelstone accused Hiles of treating him in an unbecoming manner in upon court some years ago while he (Wheelstone) was a deputy marshal. The accusation called McLellan who, in defense of Hiles, warded them and there to fight it out with Wheelstone, stating that Hiles was half and half that he (Wheelstone) could not take that way about him. Wheelstone told McLellan to be quiet, that he did not want any trouble with him; "you are heated and consequently I would have no show with you." At this McLellan pulled out his gun and, laying it on the table, wanted to fight it out anyway. Those present interfered and stopped the row, and Wheelstone soon after left the saloon. The men of him he was back in the saloon standing by the stove with Officer Steele and Mr. Keck, who tried to get him to go home. This he would not do. Presently McLellan, with his hands in his trousers pockets, came between Wheelstone, in the hallway between the card rooms. Advancing, McLellan said: "Hello, don't you do this way," at the same time pulling his gun. McLellan took no heed but kept on. Wheelstone levelled his gun and fired. At the moment the shot was made he was standing between Steele and Keck, but he turned and fled through the rear door of the saloon, McLellan fell to the floor. He was picked up and carried into an anteroom. Drs. Gordon and Spencer were immediately summoned and took the wounded man down to their cabs. He died at seven o'clock on the morning of March 8th. Wheelstone had a hearing before Commissioner Bishop March 10th and 11th and on the 15th was admitted to bail, which he furnished. Something over a month later the grand jury found an indictment and Wheelstone was then taken to the pen, where he has been confined until his trial.

The court room was filled with spectators yesterday. District Attorney Varian, Assistant District Attorney E. M. Allison, Jr., and County Attorney J. H. Miller appeared for the prosecution and Evans and Rogers for defendant.

The petit jurors were examined on their statutory qualifications. Their examination by the defense for cause was proceeded with until adjournment at noon. Two more were dismissed for having a fixed opinion on the case. At the afternoon session the examination was resumed at 2 p.m., seven jurors had been passed for cause and five excused. Five others were called to complete the panel, of whom four were passed. Another talesman was called, examined and passed for cause. Thus far the following jury had been secured after eight had been excused: Frederick Jensen, Randolph; Andrew Rose, Pleasant View; John Alley, Marriotts; Owen Morris, Portage; Alex Tatters, Grouse Creek; W. H. Simpson, Randolph; Richard Rowell, Somerville; D. W. Gardiner, Huntsville; T. D. Stevenson, Ogden; Richard Ryles, Huntsville; J. W. Gibson, North Ogden; A. B. Hill, Wolsville.

Then came the peremptory challenges, the first being made by the prosecution, which excused John Allen. Jesse Ferguson of Hyde Park was called in his place and was passed for cause. Frederick Jensen was excused by the defense and Richard Warburton of Grouse Creek was called to fill the panel. Richard Ryles was excused by the prosecution and O. C. Spencer of Randolph took his place. The defense excused W. H. Simpson and J. Cardwell of Portage was called, but he was excused by consent of both sides as incompetent. J. W. Pickett of Randolph was called but was also sent back for having an opinion. H. H. Rolapp was called but challenged for being opposed to capital punishment. Webb was and Willard was sworn and passed for cause.

The court then adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning.
