DESERET EVENING NEWS.

Saturday, January 20, 1894.

FRAGMENTS.

Juvenile thieves have made another raid in juicy sealing in different parts of the city.

The full particulars of the burglary outrage at Park City mentioned in yesterday's NEWS can be found in another part of this issue in the letter from the NEWS correspondent at that place.

The City Council committee appointed to take testimony regarding the recent break in the water mains held another session last night and will meet again this evening to continue their work. The duty imposed upon them is not an easy one by any means. They, however, are expected to report at least some of the testimony at the city fathers on Tuesday evening next.

The Wasatch Democratic club of the Third precinct promises to inaugurate a series of meetings in the near future at which some of the best speakers in the party will be present to discuss party principles. At the first session, the date of which has yet to be determined, Governor West will speak on the importance of Organization. Hon. F. C. Richards on Political Integrity and Judge Henderson on Current Topics.

A number of nuisance men met in the office of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance company last night and formed an organization to be called the Club Association of Life Underwriters. The officers for the current year are: President, J. C. Taylor; vice-president, L. S. Taylor; secretary, Louis Hyman; treasurer, Jo Lulu; executive committee, C. E. Brubaker, George W. Bennett, Geo. D. Alley, F. E. Houghton and C. J. Lewis.

It was said today that the appointments of heads of departments would not be delayed by the mayor after Tuesday next. After appointments of men made by the City Council, the executive is positively aside that official heads will fall into his hands's warm taken without fail and just so sure will so some the men after his own heart who are to assist him in the capacity of superintendents of the various municipal departments during the present administration.

Dr. Grover, the presiding genius of the Salt Lake branch of the Kinney Institute is now in San Francisco and according to one of the papers of that bustling city had a footed experience there a few nights ago during the course of which he knocked the thing out in a hand to hand fight, sending him to grass frequently. The doctor's friends will doubtless smile at this additional statement made by the paper. "Dr. Grover is an elderly man but will retain a remarkable degree of vigor and apparent pugnacity. He wears some very fine diamonds which possibly excited the cupidity of the thief."

THE NORWEGIAN DRAMATIST.

German Lecture on Henrik Ibsen at the Germania Club.

Dr. Smolinski has, by general request, again postponed his departure from this city, and will hold another of his interesting lectures in German on Sunday evening, January 21, at 7:30 o'clock, at the Germania club, No. 50 Quince block, corner of East Second South and State streets. The subject will be "Henrik Ibsen, the Great Norwegian Poet, Dramatist and Critic." All interested in the subject, including Scandinavians who are able to follow a German lecture, are cordially invited to attend.

A VOICE FOR UNION.

But Logan Strongly Insisted Upon as the Place.

PROF. PALM'S KEEN ARGUMENT.

Every Interest That Favors Union of College and University, Also Favors Such Union At Logan.

Editor Deseret News:

The arguments of the learned gentlemen who have recently written concerning the advisability of uniting the University and the Agricultural College, have convinced me that such union is desirable.

The following seem to be the necessary conclusions from the arguments adduced:

THE ONLY WAY TO ECONOMY.

Union of the University and the Agricultural College is advocated upon the sole ground of economy.

There will be no economy in the union of the Agricultural College with the University of Utah, unless the union takes place in Logan.

The Agricultural College is of ample capacity to accommodate all the students of both institutions, and many more, should there be any to attend.

The University building, on the contrary, is now taxed, I should suppose, to its utmost capacity with the present number of students.

Removal of the College to Salt Lake City or elsewhere will not only mean no economy, but will necessitate considerable additional expenditure for suitable grounds and buildings, or three-fourths of that amount in case the grounds shall be donated.

The University building will be comparatively nothing, if at Logan, and $200,000 if elsewhere.

THE EXPENSES OF SALT LAKE CITY.

It appears to me that it will be to the immediate interest of Salt Lake City to get the University removed from its present site.

In case of such removal, the present University grounds and buildings, of the value of about $400,000, will revert to Salt Lake City, and will be used, no doubt, for central and high schools.

In case the University is not removed from its present site, that Lake City will have to provide at least two new school buildings, at a cost of not less than $200,000 for high school purposes.

The present University building is an admirable one for high school purposes; but is lacking in the particulars of University equipment, accommodation and instruction. It was built for present University use. On the other hand, the Agricultural College was built for common University purposes, in such a way as to admit of easy enlargement. Why should it not be utilized?

Salt Lake City will lose nothing of any importance to boost by sending the University to Logan. Fifty blocks East of the present University, for example, will remain in Salt Lake City, to distribute as the high schools there. A difference of say fifty centers, and of three or four pioneers, is a great city like Salt Lake, could scarcely be missed by the most refined subject of Queen or Kaiser. The people of Utah only can and will feel to appear concern in this matter. Any neighborhood outside of Salt Lake City would be the gainer of the capital and only willing but anxious to offer a settlement or well-spread as it can be, as to point economy to Territorial expenditures, which can be satisfied if the University is united with the Agricultural College at Logan.

There are other public institutions of far greater importance than to the University in the metropolis, and the mutual plea for at the location of some of these, is that Salt Lake City, for the people of the Territory will not subject that the metropolis is the best place for everything.

Besides, the location of the University project at Logan, is not necessarily personal, but only a matter of pecuniary financial necessity at the present.

THE INTERESTS OF THE STUDENTS.

A great city, like Salt Lake, is not the kind of place in which the youth of the rural districts and smaller towns of Utah can with entire safety reside during their two to five years at college life.

Logan is a place eminently fitted by nature, and by its moral surroundings, for which, if any where, young people can be safely to send, for the accomplishment of an education.

The climate of Logan is excellent for hard study. Salt Lake has six months, October and May, during which the students grow languid and many of them sick. This cost no point at Logan, and lessons which should take say that students accomplish nearly a fourth more in Logan than in Salt Lake during the year's study. By one experience and observation on a teacher very strongly to confirm this view. Logan is, moreover, the final place for science in normal schools. Every polymer sign is not.

Attendance in any other normal school is as minimal schools is extremely less as the original attention of our teachers. Not so in Logan. Teachers study at summer institutes from daylight till midnight, for six weeks in succession, in Logan, and come through feeling well. It is the climate, the water, the line, the silence and the quiet of Logan in Utah so good to contrast as at L. gan.

It is important that the University library, museum, laboratories, etc., be within reach of the institutes of normal summer schools, and that those summer schools be held in a place in which teachers can both study and enjoy the benefits of the University apparatus.

There is a difference of at least $40 a year in the comparative cost of a student, based in Logan and Salt Lake in favor of Logan. The cost is also better in Logan, and rent is much less. The difference in favor of Logan direction between colleges here is slight; higher than most parts of the Territory than in Salt Lake. It is likely, too, that the railroad will gradually, especially now that it advocate of the University shall be at Logan.

WHAT THE COLLEGE HAS COST THE TERRITORY.

It has been claimed that the Agricultural College has cost as much as $237 for each student in attendance during one year at its existence. This is a misrepresentation.

The total appropriations by the Territory during the entire six years since the creation of the College have been $181,000. What has the Territory to show for this expenditure? Four buildings, the president's office and residence, a fine farm, a model farm of over 100 acres, a large boarding house that will accommodate 75 boarders, an experiment station building and the magnificent College building itself, 100x200 feet in extent dimensions and three stories in height, making a total of $250,000 present cash value, to show for the $181,000 expended by the Territory. Thus the Agricultural College has not cost the Territory anything for the education of all the students that have attended it. All that the Territory has appropriated is returned with interest, and can not be lost unless the extraordinary proposition of removing the College should actually be carried out, in which case the magnificent plant would revert to Logan City.

The buildings, machinery, fixtures and apparatus of the Agricultural College have cost upwards of $200,000, part of which were purchased out of the government appropriations, and mostly all of which will, as I suppose, be lost to the Territory if the College be removed from its present site.

The experiment station now has a long series of experiments partly completed. The time and money spent on these experiments will be lost if the location of the College be changed.

For the two years next ensuing it will cost the Territory only $6,000 per year for instruction in the College in addition to the appropriation asked for apparatus, etc. The other expenses are paid out of the government appropriations, which will amount this year to $24,000, and will increase $1,000 each year till it reaches $40,000 annually. The farm will serve to pay most of the yearly expense for salaries, and will maintain the experiment farm.

It will therefore be seen how far from the truth is the assertion that the College is costing the Territory extravagant amounts for the work of instruction.

I am informed that the University must have $125,000 for its expenses during the next two years. The College can run for only $40,000. Unite the University with the College, and responsibilities of the University appropriation will be entirely unnecessary, as the College can take in the University, provide for its students, and do its entire work with $40,000 added to the College appropriation for the two years.

CONCLUSION.

It appears, then, that union of the two institutions at Logan, will save over $100,000 from the territorial appropriations asked for to conduct the two institutions separately during the ensuing two years; that union at any other place than Logan will mean an added expense of say $75,000 annually and that if the union takes place on the ground of economy, the University must be at Logan, at least for the present.

My home and permanent interests are in Salt Lake City, and for that reason I prefer the University to remain there. Another reason is that the Deseret Young College, of which I am president, will be seriously affected as to its relation to educational institutions, in case the University is removed to Logan. But it is plain to me that the public interests will be served by temporary and merely personal reasons ought not to stand in the way of the general good, or prevent the enlargement of facts that seem decisive as to the best place for the general location of the University. Besides, the Brigham Young College with a permanent income of from $12,000 to $15,000 a year, will prove a powerful auxiliary to the University of Utah.

As a pecuniary aid to the students of the University, it would probably be the ideal to the Territory. It is in the right place. It rents the Territory nothing, and at present, on account of the division of the territorial funds for higher education, is able to offer tuitions that are not rivaled by numerous with those offered to attend the University of the Agricultural College. No other locality in Utah can present the advantages of having a school of this character with gratuitous tuition, as an adjunct to a city like Salt Lake.

J. H. PALM, Logan, Utah.

Midwinter Fair Matters.

The Midwinter Fair committee will meet again on Saturday afternoon next to finish a series matters in connection with the exhibit to be made by the Territory. At last report, over the following letter from Don Maguire was read:

For the past few days I have been getting up the people of Sen Fisco and Oakland to see the exhibit. Many who want to exhibit their products against the times are in plenty of time, even if they do not get there until April. This is a great mistake. We want all those people with the best fruits days. Those who are to come in soon. Persons have an unusual frequently urge have on the part of exhibitors that is the most necessary thing at present.

I do not feel much doubt how to place for the Fair, but I have secured a fine lot of orange trees, which I have Salt Lake nurseries for sending. Tomorrow or day-break I will start out into the wilderness commissioned, after which I hope to bring back a new and interesting exhibit for the fair. My stay will be so short as possible, after which I will pass the work in Salt Lake to its close.

Honey, isinglass, juice, preserves, pickles, sugar-cured hams, should accompany the agricultural exhibit. The honey must be in the comb and also strained. I am very anxious to see the so. Gorge exhibit of cotton in the pod, almonds, dried figs and raisins, just as complete as we can make it.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

To Laundry Customers by the Salt Lake Laundryman.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Jan., 1894

Owing to the unsettled condition of business and because of our inability to make collections, also the fact that all laundry help as well as supplies we are compelled to pay in cash, it becomes an absolute necessity to adopt a STRICTLY CASH SYSTEM.

It is well to know that the help employed by the combined laundries of the city amounts in the aggregate to several hundred women and girls. These employes depend on their weekly settlement for their support, and in many cases are the sole contributors of entire families. In view of these facts we sincerely hope that our customer patrons appreciate the situation, especially those who have had monthly accounts heretofore, and that all will not only promptly conform to this cash rule, but all are able their patronage to continue employing this large force of dependent people.

Therefore, in keeping with the above, on and after JANUARY 20TH, 1894, no laundry will be delivered except on payment for the same.
