OGDEN.

OGDEN, UTAH, - MARCH 31, 1896.

For Services Rendered.

A strange answer was filed to a complaint in Justice Wardleigh's court. C. H. Christensen sued Niel Christensen for $52.50 for house rent. Niel Christensen filed an answer to the complaint saying that the amount is due, he having moved into defendant's house against his will, objecting to moving, when plaintiff promised a team and moved his household goods. The house being in bad repair, he executed work in the value of $10 and also took care of another house of the defendant's, which on settlement was worth $10, and that in the month of December, 1894, he informed the plaintiff the next plaintiff seemed to have fallen a victim to an almost unanimous notion to take a little companion for a flavor of a gentle and confiding wife, and in order to specially enjoy the fruition of their blissful state, he sought and obtained twelve dollars from Jens Nielsen and successfully the services of Mr. Niels Christensen, who if rule dates to Ben and directed a girl who was so willing to join hands with specified and submit to his center and wonderful care, and entreated during the remaining days and circumstances of life the let which services he agreed to pay the said Mrs. Niel Christensen thereon of $20. That notwithstanding the girl was so sweet, a wife surprised was existent and the wedding ceremonies. That by a wanton conformation the same Mrs. Niels Christensen on the 1st of April, 1895, assigned the said claim to the defendant." Defendant sues judgment for $40.

PROVO, UTAH, - MARCH 31, 1896.

Fourth District Court.

In addition to the arguments in the Hayes-Barrow case, the following business was transacted in the Fourth district court yesterday:

City Council.

At the meeting of the city council last evening Wilson A. Nelson applied for a license to conduct a liquor business in the building formerly occupied by Sim Duggins. Messrs. Wilson & Nelson are in the liquor business in another building in the city, but have leased the Duggins building and desire to move to that place. Some objections were raised to granting the license, as the great Utah temperance petition presented at the last meeting of the council by over 1,000 citizens asks that no license be given to the business saloon—the same the Duggins saloon bears. This petition the council unanimously voted to grant. There is some difference of opinion as to whether the petitioners meant the building or the objectionable character that have occupied the saloon business there in the past. But the general opinion seems to be that the moment objectionable characters were interested. Another point raised against granting the license is that the building is situated within 300 feet of a house of worship—the Fifth meeting house. The council in the past, however, have refused up to the law prohibiting the conducting of a liquor business within 300 feet of a house of worship, but in addition to the Duggins saloon, which is within the prescribed limit, two wholesale and one retail liquor licenses have been issued to one or within the 300 feet limit. The excuse for this is that the meeting house is not regularly used as a place of worship, so since the erection of the Fifth ward general Sunday services are held in the upper building.

The council did not decide upon the petition, but referred it to a committee with power to act.

Notes.

Chas. De Meloy, one of the attorneys in the Hayes case, leaves in the south train yesterday for his home in Richmond, making his argument. Mr. De Meloy has worked hard on the case, and is coming in good health in spite of application (for two months) for six hours power of endurance.

Elders Seymour B. Young and Jonathan G. Kimball (The First Council of Seventies) spoke in the Thirteenth ward Fifth ward meetings respectively in the meeting house last evening. Many good instructions were given and a good spirit manifested.

Where Sinners Are Not Numerous.

For in advance of any other nation in the number of the Mormons under its rule is Great Britain. In India alone there are about 50,000 Mormons, and they constitute all the citizens of the nation more than twice. Besides, England rules Mormons in every part of her vast empire, though not only in one or the other. The queen is the sovereign of many millions of Mormons in India and Australia.

China is believed to come next as a country inhabited by many followers of the prophet. The number of Mormons in the Chinese empire is estimated at 30,000 or 40,000, 10,000 in Japan, and the smallest of the groups is in the Turkish domain. Holland has an nearly of quite 10,000 Mormons, but in other lands the population and the number of Mormons are small, and nearly all of them are Hollanders.

The Turkish empire is supposed to contain about 10,000 Mormons, counting the portion of Africa to which the sovereign of the sublime Porte is very well entitled and is in danger of being endorsed in any time. Therefore it is apparent that Turkey gives more but less made in estimating the number of Mormons than in the Chinese empire the result is only fourth among nations of great bodies of men and women who believe in Mormonism.

But among other countries which are considered by the Mormon element of their population and are under the sway of a Mormonism rule the Turkish empire is nearly first in numbers and in power for evil.—Cleveland Leader.

The Danger of Disease.

I now had a case (and a member of the bar) against a man in the county which was as clear as daylight to my faith, but, by the running of his lawyer, he had continued to avoid coming to trial for about two years.

At last the case was called, late in the term and late in a hot day, the court and jury tired and impatient. I stated the facts and produced the witnesses, which were all on my side.

The judge asked the counsel whether they wished to argue the case, stating that he rarely thought it necessary to consult it to so plain a matter. The lawyers agreed to submit it without argument. The jury went out and immediately returned with a verdict for the defendant.

As soon as the court adjourned I sought the foreman of the jury, and asked him how in the name of reason and common sense they came to render such a verdict.

"Why, you see," said he, "we didn't think much of the lawyer against you, and it wasn't strange he didn't have nothing to say; but, again, the fact is we thought you was about one of the smartest lawyers in the country, and if you couldn't find nothing to argue your side it must be a pretty hard case, so we had to go against you."—Pearson's Weekly.
