A Sheepman's Terrible Experience in a Wyoming Blizzard.

THE WEATHER IN NEW MEXICO.

An Old Mexican Resident Dies, Aged 115 Years.—Interesting Mining Notes.—A Ranch House on Fire.

The number of cattle now being fed in the Salt River valley, Arizona, is variously estimated between 35,000 and 40,000. They get alfalfa.

There are fifty men engaged in cutting ice, seven miles southwest of Laramie City, Wyoming. Eight thousand tons will be gathered, making about four hundred cars of twenty tons each.

Mesa county (Colo.) promises to be well stocked with quail. Some 500 birds have already been distributed over the county, and 500 more are expected to be imported and turned loose. There is a heavy fine for shooting them.

Durango (Colo.) knows no limit to the enterprise of her citizens. The latest improvement proposed in that growing and thriving southwestern center is an sanitarium with public gardens. It will be built, and on a generous scale.

During the progress of a saloon brawl at Panguitch, Garfield county, a few evenings ago, Frank Heggiested was shot by Hosper Nichols. The ball entered above the heart. Both men were drunk and at last accounts the wounded man's condition was critical.

The Canon City (Colo.) Record reports the finding within five miles of town of a bed of vitrifying clay which is practically inexhaustible, and in quality equal if not superior to the golden article. On being burned it becomes a beautiful red and is as hard as granite.

A San Francisco woman was arrested for her persistency in entering and betting on races after a decision had been made by the directors that no woman should be admitted to the paddock, but was defended by the court, who maintained that she had a perfect right to bet after she had been admitted to the grounds.

A correspondent from New Mexico writes that they are having fine weather there. They have not had any snow to speak of, nor much cold weather. Cattle are looking remarkably well. They can go out on the range and get a good feed any time. Cattlemen in Mora and San Miguel counties will have but small losses.

The potatoes have not all been shipped out of Colorado yet. The latest estimates are that Greeley, Weld county, has 150,000 to 200,000 still on hand. Colorado, with a little help from her sister, Utah, can come about as near supplying the world with this necessity of life as can any state with any of its special products.—Field and Farm.

Cheyenne (Wyo.) Leader: The ranch house of William Phillips on Crow creek, ten miles north of this city, has been destroyed by fire. The house was built of stone and lumber and contained five rooms. A large amount of furniture was consumed. The place was insured for $900. The loss will be $1200.

According to the report of the secretary of agriculture New Mexico produced last year 515,000 bushels of wheat, 555,000 bushels of corn and 225,000 of oats. There were ten states that produced a smaller amount of corn, seven states that produced a smaller amount of wheat and two states that produced a smaller amount of oats.

A distressing accident has happened to Miss Laura Kinner, daughter of John Kinner of West Plum creek. While standing near and with her back to an open grate her clothing caught fire and almost in an instant she was wrapped in flames. Her cries brought her mother to her relief, but not before she was horribly burned on her limbs, back and one hand and arm.

The ten inch strike of ore opened in the Fairview mine at Pitkin, Colo., a few days ago has widened out to seven feet. The discovery was made in the seventh level east at a depth of 600 feet. The entire body of ore assays $100 per ton. Picked samples give from $10,000 to $12,000 per ton. This is the greatest strike on record in Gunnison county.

A dispatch from Casper (Wyo) says: Otto Chenowith, foreman of one of the big sheep outfits, has had a terrible experience in a blizzard. Hearing a movement among the sheep, he left wagon in his shirt sleeves and without overshoes. In half an hour he found himself lost. Despairing of again finding the wagon, he started for this place and was fifteen hours in walking twenty-five miles. His face, feet and hands were frozen and he was completely exhausted. Most of the time the temperature was 32 degrees below.

Dolores Ochoa, a Mexican resident of Phoenix, Arizona, and one of the oldest men in the country, is dead, having reached an age of 115 years. Like many other prominent Mexicans of this country he was an exile from his native land, having been banished before the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo. He was prominently connected with all the revolutions in Mexico during the last hundred years and was a captain in the army that overthrew Maximilian. He was a native of the State of Jalisco.

Judge Downer of Colorado has just rendered a decision on the diversion of water from older to newer ditches that may prove of interest to irrigators. The owners of a new ditch purchased shares in the stock of an old ditch covering one-eighth of the water and attempted to divert this proportion to the new ditch. A restraining order was issued and the court holds that the full amount of the water originally appropriated must be allowed to flow through the old ditch. Community or neighborhood rights are thus given the protection of law.

In the neighborhood of Scipio, Millard county, a serious accident has just occurred. Mr. Fred Allred of Chester, Sanpete county, while traveling over a narrow dugway about five miles south of Scipio found his wagon sliding towards the creek, the road being slippery with ice. Jumping from the wagon he held on for some distance, but through the slippery state of the road fell down. Before he could recover his feet the wagon went over the bank into the creek, drawing the horses with it. Both were killed. The was completely done up.

Telluride (Colo.), says an exchange, is extremely quiet in comparison to its condition a year ago or more, when silver was at a fair price. Although business is rather quiet and money closer than usual among our people, Telluride is in a better condition financially, and has brighter prospects for the future, than most mining towns of the state. The low price of silver and its quiescent effect upon silver mining in this country has made the miners, as a rule, more considerate for the future than formerly, and money which has heretofore been spent freely by them in town, but not now, is very noticeable.

Very encouraging reports have reached Fort Collins, Colo., from the mining camp at Manhattan. Work on several mines is being pushed. The Ida May property, owned by Sanders Bros. in Big Ion, is a very promising claim. The shaft is in eighty feet. Here is a twelve inch vein, which assays from $20 to $200 per ton. The Gold King is owned by Hagan Bros., and has a shaft in fifty feet. The ore from this claim assays nearly $700 gold per ton. The Coal Prince group is owned by E. H. Hall, secretary of the Colorado Loan association. This group is considered to be one of the most promising in the camp. The Berlin is another promising lode, as is also the Magnolia, a mine located near Rustic.

Some time this week, says the Laramie (Wyo.) Boomerang, the ranchmen of Bates Hole will indulge in a rare bit of sport. They will gather near the southeast part of the Hole at the south end of the strip of cedars and drive the wolves out into the clearing, when the skirmish will begin. Wolves are not so thick as they were. The Lusk Herald reports that the animals are becoming somewhat extinct in that vicinity of late. They used to roam at large over the prairies and kill and eat beef at their pleasure, but now very few of them are to be found. Ranchmen, farmers and cowboys turned out of late to destroy these animals for the bounty paid on their scalps by the state and the stock grower's association until now they are a scarce article. It's the wolf that has been the greatest rustler among stock-growers and they seem to know not that this is the terrible pest that has preyed on their herds for so long.

Brain and Physique.

"Should men of inferior physique be allowed to marry?" was the problem over which the colons assembled on the Southern sidewalk worried for an hour. The dissenters argued that it is of much more importance that we improve the breed of men than the breed of horses and cattle, and that to do so all those who fall below a certain standard of physical perfection should be barred from matrimonial bliss. Then big Dan Worthington got the floor and proceeded to knock the fine spun theories of the Brobdingnagian breeders into chaos. "In breeding animals a perfect body is the sole desideratum; in breeding men the mind is the consideration paramount. You people are proceeding on the theory adopted by the mad king of Prussia—that a tall grenadier is the noblest work of God. You place the Corbetts and Sullivans above the Newtons and Shakespeares in the ethnological pantheon. You make the shapely leg of Darnley superior to the fecund brain of Burke, the physical beauty of Paris to outshine the deathless splendor of flat nosed Socrates' philosophy.

"Proceeding upon your theory, Cesar should have been torn from fair Calphurnia's arms because he was troubled with the 'falling sickness,' and the Iron Duke barred from parenthood because his statue was too small and his nose too large to permit him posing for a statue of Apollo. Francis Marion weighed but three pounds at his birth and not many multiples thereof at his death; Byron had a club foot; Napoleon would hardly have passed for a paragon of physical perfection. I think we had best leave the reproduction of the species to the Lord. Under his management both brain and brawn are developing very satisfactorily."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

NEW EDITION OF THE Latter-day Saints' HYMN BOOK FOR SALE AT Deseret News Office

Prices: 25c. to $1.75.

WHY THE DESERET NEWS SHOULD BE SUBSCRIBED FOR IN PREFERENCE TO ANY OTHER PAPER.

1.—It is the organ of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, and the authorized medium through which the views, wishes and instructions of the Church Authorities are expressed and given to the Saints.

2.—It may always be relied upon as advocating or defending the right side of every question proper for public journals to treat upon.

3.—It is devoted to the interests of the Latter-day Saints, and has, from its inception, valiantly defended their rights and advocated the principles in which they believe; and every Latter-day Saint should therefore feel under obligations to do his part in helping to sustain it.

4.—It is not published for speculation, and never has been, but for the good which it is capable of accomplishing; the profits, if any there be derived from it, being devoted to extending its sphere of usefulness and benefiting the community.

5.—It is doing its utmost to establish home industries, among which are paper making and type-founding, stereotyping and electroplating—branches necessary to the development and independence of the community, but which, during their infancy (which in this Territory they have not yet passed), can only be carried on at a pecuniary loss.

6.—There is no danger of any subscriber to the News failing to get what he subscribes for through failure of the business and a suspension of the publication—a result in the case of hundreds of newspaper ventures every year.

7.—It is printed in readable type, so that even the aged can peruse it without difficulty or danger to their eyesight.

8.—It is free from objectionable advertisements, so that no parent need fear that his children will have their minds corrupted from having access to it; in fact, it refuses thousands of dollars worth of the best paying advertisements annually, because it is devoted to the moral and spiritual interests of its readers instead of to getting gain at their expense.

9.—Its tone is not regulated by public opinion nor the hope of gaining subscribers or advertisements. It advocates that which is right and condemns that which is wrong, regardless of results, financial or otherwise.

10.—It never nauseates its readers by palming off columns of self-praise for news items.

11.—The News practices no deception and resorts to no subterfuges to induce people to subscribe; but on the contrary, prefers to stand on its own merits, as the people's newspaper, with a promise only to do its utmost to give its patrons the full value of their money—a promise which it has endeavored to faithfully keep in the past.

12.—In conclusion, if a Latter-day Saint can afford to subscribe for only one newspaper, that paper should be the DESERET NEWS; and if more than one, the NEWS should invariably be the first.
