LIVELY CHASE AFTER BURGLAR.

Program for Closing Exercises of County Schools Arranged by Supt. Petterson.

MEMORIAL SERVICES OF G. A. R.

Cache Valley Robber Caught in Ogden —Proprietor Missing, Cigar Store Attacked—News Briefs.

Ogden, Utah, May 29.—A burglar who gives his name as James Wethers, who was discovered by the proprietress of the St. Paul hotel on Twenty-fifth street in one of the rooms Saturday afternoon, gave the officers an exciting chase before he was captured. Mrs. Egginton discovered him in the room ransacking a trunk belonging to one of the guests. She immediately demanded an explanation and when he tried to leave she attempted to bar his exit, but he threw her aside, reached the street, cut back through the alley behind the opera house, ran through Newman's store out upon Washington avenue, thence up to Twenty-sixth street and for some distance down that street.

A son of Mrs. Egginton, who had responded to her calls, followed the man, shouting to the bystanders to stop the burglar. Several of them tried to do so, but he cast them aside. By the time he was finally overhauled there were fully 50 persons following him. The capture was made by Roy Hadlock, who was driving along Twenty-sixth street, and who jumped from his wagon and overpowered the man after a rough-and-tumble scrimmage.

Developments last night indicate that the man is a dangerous criminal. At the police station he gave the name of James Wethers, and said that he came from Butte, and was a miner by occupation, but cards in his pockets indicate that his name is W. F. McNally and that he belonged to the Miners' union in Butte. There was also found in his pocket a number of trunk keys, a small saw, a gold watch and a few other articles. The saw was concealed in the lining of his vest. After being locked in his cell the man tore up his clothing. The police think this is simply a plan to feign insanity.

It also developed that the watch found in the man's possession was stolen during the afternoon from the Lincoln hotel. The officers paid no attention to the man's crazy actions in his cell, and late last night he begged for some supper and also for some clothes.

CACHE VALLEY BURGLARY.

A young man who gives his name as Martin Rankin was arrested last evening by Deputy Sheriff Sebring of Ogden, and Sheriff Smith of Cache county on the charge of burglary in the second degree. The complaining witness in the case will be Divil Diss, proprietor of a saloon at Cache Junction. There are two other men implicated in the burglary, but the officers have been unable to locate them as yet.

Yesterday morning about 8 o'clock Rankin, together with two other men, called at the saloon and awoke the young man who watches the saloon at night. They were given a drink, then left the place. Soon afterwards the young watchman went to breakfast. On his return in about an hour he found the rear door to the saloon broken open and the cash register was also broken open and all the money, amounting to over $50, gone. The matter was immediately reported to Sheriff Smith, who learned that Rankin and the other two men were the only ones seen around the saloon, and they had jumped a freight train and come towards Ogden. The sheriff and the watchman took the next train for here, and soon after their arrival Rankin was arrested on the street, but the other two were not to be found. Rankin was taken to Logan this morning to be tried on the charge.

PROPRIETOR MISSING, STORE ATTACHED.

The cigar store of Clarence Meyers on Twenty-fifth street was attached yesterday afternoon by the sheriff. The attachment was issued out of Judge Murphy's court in favor of Willard Shurtliff, for the sum of $150.25. The two young men were formerly partners in the cigar business but Meyers later purchased Shurtliff's interest, but it is understood had not paid for it, hence the attachment.

A few days ago Clarence Meyers left Ogden very suddenly for parts unknown. His parents and friends became very anxious about his sudden departure and asked the assistance of the police to locate him. He has been in the cigar and news stand business in Ogden for several years and it was believed by his friends was doing a prosperous business.

BACCALAUREATE SERMON

Before B. Y. U. Graduates by President G. H. Brimhall—Provo Schools.

Special Correspondence.

Provo, May 29.—A large congregation met in College hall last evening to listen to the baccalaureate sermon delivered by President George H. Brimhall to the graduates of the Brigham Young university.

President Brimhall quoted the first message sent over the electric telegraph—"What Hath God Wrought?" This message had been written in light on the pages of the world's history all through the ages both before and after its first expression by the instrument of the lightning. The The speaker eloquently portrayed the great events of history to illustrate and exemplify his theme and show forth the great and grand works of God for the benefit and salvation of man.

President Brimhall earnestly entreated the students to cultivate the spirit of inspiration with their educational advancement and their success in arts, sciences and finance—the success of the descendants of those who had been sent out from the people who had misunderstood them—would cause them to exclaim, "What hath God wrought?"

He closed with the following sentences:

"Arrogate not your success to yourselves, but give God the credit for that which is divine within you; but charge Him not with the evil which you must overcome."

"A thing done when thought of needs no further attention."

"Be in constant competition with yourself, and you will always have a good chance to succeed."

"One foot of climbing is worth a yard of boost."

"Be always your better self."

"Leisure is the lever by which nations and individuals lower or raise themselves. Use your leisure to raise yourselves."

JAMES DERBYSHIRE DEAD.

Veteran Coal Miner Lays Down Life's Burdens at 70.

Special Correspondence.

Snowville, Boxelder Co., May 24.—On Saturday evening, May 20, Elder James Derbyshire died at his home here, aged 70 years. He had been entirely blind for about 10 years, as the result of being struck in the eye by a strick of wood, while chopping firewood, a very small piece of which penetrated the eyeball, and was not discovered until it had so affected his other eye that he became entirely blind. Elder Derbyshire was known as an honest and upright man and a conscientious and faithful Latter-day Saint; and the feeling of all acquainted with him is that a good man has gone to rest. He was well known throughout the coal mining districts of Wyoming and Utah, he having followed coal mining previous to coming to Snowville. He leaves a wife and three grandchildren to mourn his demise, his only child, a daughter, having preceded him to the other life.

SAMARIA, IDAHO.

WELLS FOR DRY ARID FARMS.

Country a Vast Paradise—Bounteous Crop Outlook—Old Folks Day.

Special Correspondence.

Samaria, Malad Co., Ida., May 20.—In a ride for miles through the Malad valley around Samaria, Gwenford and Pleasant View, one beholds a perfect paradise. It is the same from Collinston, Utah, through Fielding, Plymouth, East and West Portage. The land is literally burdened with wheat, oats, rye and lucern. Never in the history of the settlement of the Malad valley, over 40 years ago, did the crops look so promising as they do today. The copious spring rains have been especially favorable to the arid farms, which cover miles in this region. And if no serious hail or frost comes, the people will be taxed to find room for what promises to be the most bounteous harvest Malad valley has ever known.

Hundreds of acres are planted in sugar beets. It is an experiment with the Malad valley people, and they have learned wisdom from the experience of other beginners in beet growing. Each man's acreage is what he and his family can handle with comfort.

The O. S. L. railroad is grading the line from Garland to Malad, and rumor says on to American Falls; so all things seemingly are coming Malad Valley's way.

For nearly 40 years past, summer and winter, Samaria and other towns here have drawn water on a one horse sled for household purposes. Three years ago your correspondent directed attention to what other men were doing on dry farms and said he believed water could be had by sinking pipe wells, with a pump attached. The good advice took root and many now have pumps and plenty of water.

I. N. Ireland and Co., bankers, on their thousand acre dry farm, have sunk artesian wells. Out from a two-inch pipe gives 115 gallons per minute. One of their five inch wells has a depth of 140 feet, has a force of water equaling 20 horsepower, and flowing 500 gallons per minute. When not needed this well can be shut off. Three other wells are flowing over these immense acres, but only one more of the five inch. Thus it has been proven that while these immense farms have been dry for years the water is underground for all purposes if they only have the money and the enterprise to reach after it. Other ranchers are sinking wells, and four machines are at work boring for and finding water in abundance everywhere.

OLD FOLKS FETED.

On the 15th inst. Samaria held old folks' day, and it was a hummer, the best ever had. A parade in the morning, program at midday, and a dinner fit for a king. The old folks told the old, old story of pioneer life danced and sang, and had a glorious time, and thanked the Lord for the men who inaugurated old folks' day. The young people vied with each other in honoring their parents and grand and great grandparents.

IDAHO.

Weekly Crop and Weather Bulletin.

U. S. department of agriculture, Idaho section, climate and crop service, weather bureau. Weekly crop bulletin for the week ending Monday, May 22, 1905.

WEATHER.

Boise, Idaho—The week opened with high temperature over the state, but on the 17th occurred a charge to much cooler, and lower temperature continued throughout the remainder of the week; as in the previous week, cloudiness prevented serious injury from frost in many localities, but it is feared that the frost of the 22nd was destructive to tender vegetation; however, owing to the fact that most of the reports used in the preparation of this bulletin were mailed before the date mentioned, full discussion of the effects of this frost will of necessity be deferred till next week. Good rains fell in many localities, mostly on the 16th, 17th and 20th. High winds were prevalent, blowing down some trees and damaging light buildings.

CROPS.

Fruit—Trees are just coming into bloom in a few eastern localities, and it is probable that frost wrought considerable damage in such localities; in the warmer portions of the state fruit is well set and is protected by heavy foliage, and is therefore in a condition to withstand comparatively low temperature without injury. Some native strawberries have been marketed, and in the Snake river canyon in Elmore county, early cherries are ripening.

Grain—Small grain has made fair to good growth in eastern counties; elsewhere progress has been slow, but the crop is generally thrifty. Corn is being planted in Latah county.

Grass—Range grass continues excellent; alfalfa made good advance in many eastern localities, but elsewhere growth was retarded by cool nights.

Vegetables and Melons—Beet planting is still in progress, while cultivation of some early beets has been commenced. Garden vegetables and early potatoes suffered considerable damage from frost. Melons are starting well.
