12 PAGES.

DESERET EVENING NEWS.

5 O'clock -EDITION.-

TRUTH AND LIBERTY.

NO. 137. SATURDAY, MAY 2, 1896. SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH. VOL. XXIX.

A LONDON BUDGET.

The "Capetown Cryptogram" Causes Great Sensation.

THE CZAREVITCH AT DEATH'S DOOR

Canadian Fisheries May Have to Be Cancelled—Miscellaneous Notes—The Theaters.

LONDON, May 2.—[Copyrighted 1896 by the Associated Press.] The "Capetown cryptogram" is yesterday's Transvaal revelation is now turned here to producing an increasing sensation coupled with deep mortification. Cecil Rhodes, who by the publication in Pretoria of the telegrams exchanged between various people just previous to the invasion of the Transvaal by Dr. Jameson and his followers, and who is said to have been the soul and brain of the conspiracy was not one of the actors at the time, but was also a member of the party council. As the matter now stands, Rhodes and other officers of the British Chartered Company, Attorney General Jameson and others are to be arrested and it is possible that the charter of the company will be revoked.

It is said that the secretary of state for the colonies, Joseph Chamberlain, got an inking of the affair when Rhodes was in England recently and that the sudden departure of the premier of Cape Colony for South Africa at the time Dr. Jameson was expected to reach the country was quite unknown to Mr. Chamberlain. Indeed, it is asserted that the latter did not know Rhodes had any idea of leaving England until he was on his way to see the South African mail steamship; otherwise, the "Napoleon of South Africa" might have been compelled to await the arrival of Dr. Jameson and the investigation which followed.

THE QUEEN CHANGES HER MIND.

The queen has changed her mind and will not hold any levee or court in person this season. The queen Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, (Princess Helena) was complained to the queen. Will relent next week's drawing room, on behalf of her mother, the Princess of Wales being in the south. The latter, however, will represent the queen at the inclosing drawingroom. The change in the plans of her majesty has greatly disappointed a number of people and the feeling of disappointment has been increased by the queen's action in cancelling the festivities, etc., which had been mapped out for the marriage of Princess Maud of Wales to Prince Charles of Denmark.

MAY CANCEL THE CONSERVATORY FESTIVITIES AT MONACO.

A private intimation has reached the council that there is not the slight an hope for the recovery of the czarevitch. He is said to be in the very last stages of consumption and attendants have been ordered to be on hand at his death to assist the coronation festivities. There will be instead merely a religious service and some bulletins will be issued.

Another private intimation which has reached the court from St. Petersburg is that the czarina is inconsolable and hope also has been expressed that she will present the czar with a son and heir.

POWER ON VARIOUS TOPICS.

It is supposed that the marquis has decided to appoint Lord Ker, well, better known as Mr. Henry Matthews, Q. C., who was home secretary in Lord salisbury's last cabinet, to succeed the Marquis of Dufferin as British ambassador at Paris.

The position of the Cipriani ship building business is the best it has existed in years. All trade differences have been settled and there is enough work ahead to keep the yards busy in 1896.

In connection with Lord Lonsdale's visit to the German capital, it is reported that his trip is also connected with Emperor William's desire to hear just how English money really feels towards him.

It is now said that the Kilson-Playfair suit was settled on the table of Dr. Paynar paying Mrs. Kilson £5,000 instead of the £7,500 she claimed, against which amount the witnesses expect was taken. It is added that each side will pay its own costs.

Among the orders of the new kitchen committee of the House of Commons will be the substitution of wallnuts for walkers.

Mr. Henry Irving's health is satisfactory with the house, in view of the short time they have been in the country and he is confident that the American audiences will look after his own. He says the American animals are better and more wiry than the English horses.

The Duke and Duchess of Marlborough are in town and with Lady Blanford are making the final arrangements for a house in London for the season.

The private view of the academy display of the year is but nothing in comparing to a bachelor function, and yesterday the view attracted comparatively little interest.

The incoming steamers have brought so many Americans that it is already difficult to find first accommodation in the city hotels.

Mr. Joseph Pulitzer, proprietor of the New York World, has taken Morley Lodge, a beautiful place standing within acres of handsome grounds at Roehampton.

Mr. Joseph Chamberlain has instructions for Robert Martin, who is now in control of the forces of the British South African company, to provide an escort and officer of honor to the engineer of the company sent in future mail shares to any South African ventures.

THE THEATERS.

Most of the theaters have been doing a splendid business during the past week. The Lyceum in The Dalkie, the new Jackson play produced at Daly's on last Saturday. There was such a rush at the Prince of Wales that a special had a seat in the dress circle for £5.

The Gaiety was pronounced to be the best thing of the kind ever done on the lighter operatic stage.

An American play A Night Out, at the Vaudeville, has been well received and the New Rory of the Hill yesterday Monday was also successful.

One of the most memorable sights ever in London for some time was the testimonial at the Lyceum yesterday afternoon to Charles Wyndham, in celebration of the twelfth anniversary of his management of the Criterion theater. Long before the hour for commencement all the approaches to the theater were packed with crowds of people waiting to get into the carriages of the fashionable people present upon the occasion. The committee was composed of some of the most beautiful actresses in London, including Ellen Terry, Lily Hanbury, Evelyn Millard, Juliette Nesville and others of the highest rights of the dramatic art. The ladies stood at the door of the theater, opened the carriage doors and sold programs, in which they did a rushing business. Some idea of the success of the gathering and the interest of the engagement may be gathered from the statement that Ellen Terry, one of the prettiest of the young actresses present, sold her programs so high as three pounds each.

Although The Prisoner of Zenda is still drawing crowded houses at the St. James, the management with Mr. Carlton has written for that theater is already to renewal. It will be called the Tree of Knowledge and will have no complicated plot.

It is known that a new play by Pinero will follow The Tree of Knowledge which in time will be succeeded by Anthony Hope's dramatic adaptation of his novel The Dolf in the Car.

Clement Scott has written a one-act drama for Mr. Hare. It has for its subject a phase of life in Midwaldenland and comprises a military subject which is calculated to arouse the enthusiasm of English audiences. The new play will, only temporarily about twenty minutes in readiness will be produced about June 1.

Herman Merivale has written a play on the personal subject of Charlotte Corday.

The first performance of Henry IV upon which Beerbohm Tree has been for long engaged will occur at his Haymarket at a matinee performance Monday afternoon, May 4.

It is announced that Mr. Calne is engaged upon a dramatic edition of his new novel which has for its scenery and includes a phase of life in east end of London. It is said that Mr. Calne has contracted with Mr. Earwaki.

It is rumored that the next production at the Lyceum, Henry Irving and Frederick Harrison will undertake will be a dramatization of the novels Magda and Jess of the D'Urvilles, both of which are scenes with a view to meeting the requirements of Mrs. Patrick Campbell.

ENGLAND AND GERMANY.

Very Bad Feelings Between the Two Countries.

NEW YORK, May 2.—A dispatch to the Herald from London says: The bitterness of sentiment and resentment here against the German emperor by reason of his telegram to Kruger in France in 1870 against Bismarck.

Making due allowances for the difference of national temper the feeling here is very bitter. Not only are the German emperor surpass insult anything yet said in print. One can get an idea how deep the feeling is when you come now even from the responsible positions of ministers of state constantly carry on the strong they will hesitate to utter publicly in the presence of the press. Lord Rosebery, Sir Edward Grey, Sir Francis and the candidates of the Honourable party in Spain are and again and I hear the same sentiment with respect to the real mind of the Kaiser. Yesterday the permanent secretary of an embassador told your correspondent the English will achieve what has been deemed impossible—the consolidation of France and Germany and this at their own expense. One day it is "the treachery of Bismarck, next the insolence of the Kaiser, the folly of Bulletin or British ambassador at Paris.

The position of the Cipriani ship building business is the best it has existed in years. All trade differences have been settled and there is enough work ahead to keep the yards busy in 1896.

In connection with Lord Lonsdale's visit to the German capital, it is reported that his trip is also connected with Emperor William's desire to hear just how English money really feels towards him.

It is now said that the Kilson-Playfair suit was settled on the table of Dr. Paynar paying Mrs. Kilson £5,000 instead of the £7,500 she claimed, against which amount the witnesses expect was taken. It is added that each side will pay its own costs.

Among the orders of the new kitchen committee of the House of Commons will be the substitution of wallnuts for walkers.

Mr. Henry Irving's health is satisfactory with the house, in view of the short time they have been in the country and he is confident that the American audiences will look after his own. He says the American animals are better and more wiry than the English horses.

The Duke and Duchess of Marlborough are in town and with Lady Blanford are making the final arrangements for a house in London for the season.

The private view of the academy display of the year is but nothing in comparing to a bachelor function, and yesterday the view attracted comparatively little interest.

The incoming steamers have brought so many Americans that it is already difficult to find first accommodation in the city hotels.

Mr. Joseph Pulitzer, proprietor of the New York World, has taken Morley Lodge, a beautiful place standing within acres of handsome grounds at Roehampton.

Mr. Joseph Chamberlain has instructions for Robert Martin, who is now in control of the forces of the British South African company, to provide an escort and officer of honor to the engineer of the company sent in future mail shares to any South African venture