THE DISTRICT COURT.

Suit Against Greenback and Hinchman on a Promissory Note.

AFTER A COMMISSIONER'S RULING.

Other Cases Before Judge Merritt—That of Hillebrand vs Salt Lake City Goes Over for the Term.

The first matter to engage the attention of Chief Justice Merritt and a jury in the Third district court this morning was the case of James G. Williams vs Wm. Greenback et al, now the partnership name of Greenback and Houghton. It was a suit to recover $10,115 and interest on a promissory note, now whose amounting to $12,[illegible]. The plaintiff proved his side of the business, but there was no defense, and the jury, in short order, found for Williams for the amount claimed.

GOES OVER FOR THE TERM.

The case of Joseph Hillebrand vs Salt Lake City was continued for the term by consent.

BY STIPULATION.

In the case of the Calumet Paper company vs L. P. Brown, judgment was entered by stipulation for the sum of $2,244.[illegible], on certain promissory notes.

APPEAL FROM A COMMISSIONER.

The next case on (the) was that of the Eagle Foundry & Machine company vs Geo. R. Schwen and Emma R. McGaughey, trading as Rockwell & McGaughey.

Attorneys S. H. Lewis and Ira Kelsey for the plaintiffs; Booth, Lee and Gray for the defendants.

The case came here on appeal from the judgment of U. S. Commissioner Greenman, who found in favor of the defendants. From this the plaintiffs appealed. The action was brought to recover the sum of $72, claimed to have been received by the defendants, from a note signed Rockwell, but in the use of the plaintiffs, between September 1, 1890, and December 15, of the same year, among out of a "sinking concern."

The jury found unanimously in favor of the plaintiff for $[illegible]. Defendant was allowed thirty days in which to prepare statement on motion for a new trial.

SHORT ORDERS.

Peter W. Madsen vs Chas. P. Adams et al. Motion of defendant to vacate and modify order of reference and refusing order argued and overruled, exception entered.

Samuel McIntyre vs Geo. Cimoro et al. Decree of foreclosure; $50 attorney's fee allowed.

Thos. Wilde vs the Home Coal Co. Leave given to file amended complaint.

Sarah F. Darling vs Daniel Darling, divorce. On motion of Cherry and Cherry, attorneys for plaintiff, order was made for publication of summons upon affidavit.

James W. Stevens vs Fifty-ninth School District. Continued for the term by consent.

THE PLAINTIFF NONSUITED.

Mrs. Jane McCall sue lost the day in her $20,000 damage suit against the Rio Grande Western Railroad company. The amount named was claimed for the death of her husband who was killed by a train on the company's line in October, 1892. The hearing dragged slowly along until nearly 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when the court directed a nonsuit.

A DIFFERENT RESULT.

J. H. Kinding was the plaintiff and the Salt Lake Poultry Co. defendants in an action tried before Judge Merritt and a jury late yesterday afternoon. The hearing was a short one. The case came up on appeal from ex-U. S. Commissioner Martin's court, overall demanding judgment for $[illegible], with interest from November 1, 1892, alleged to be due for merchandise. Defendants denied that they owed the amount. In the court below judgment was rendered in favor of plaintiff for the full amount, and the jury now confirmed it. The defendants did not introduce any testimony.

Willard City Corn Meal.

Why any citizens of Utah should buy imported cornmeal, when there is so excellent a quality of the home-made article, is one of the mysteries. A temporary sample from the Willard City mills has been subjected to the News' scrutiny, and left at this office for trial. It is clean, bright, wholesome-looking, and so suggestive of pure, rich, nutritious Johnny cake as to make the importunit mouth water.

Territorial Items.

This is the third time this spring that a number of sheep have been killed by dogs.

The reservoir will cover an area of one and a half square miles, with an average depth of ten feet. There is a natural basin which can be made to do duty with the expenditure of about $2,000.

JUDGE BLAIR'S NIGHTMARE

A Three o'Clock in the Morning Episode at the Cullen Hotel.

A Notice That the County Will Be Held Responsible for the Taking of a R. R. W. Engine.

Probate Judge Blair was sleeping snugly between the bedclothes in his chamber at the Cullen hotel, when about 3 o'clock this morning he was awakened by the arrival of an unexpected visitor. The intruder was a well-known Salt Lake lawyer, who after a gentle rap at the door entered the apartment without any words of introduction. There was no light in the room as the Honor set bolt upright in bed and listened silentively to what the early morning caller had to say. His mission at that unseemable hour, he stated, was actuated by the receipt of a telegram from Superintendent Welby of the Rio Grande Western railroad, who was then in Provo, and in equivocal terms the tenor of his bold how the Industrial army had seized an engine at Bingham Junction, and that the county would be held responsible. The judge's opinion and advice to secure a stock as might have been expected from such a learned declaration, and when he had certainly resolved for herein reminded the party of the second part that it might be to his personal advantage to retire in quick order. The attorney did not seek to prolong the interview when he found that the judge was not then in a talking mood, and has not since been heard from.

Utah Commission.

The members of the Utah Commission have not been in session today, but the last of the returns from Cache county are expected here by tomorrow morning's mail, and should this be the case the Commission will be at once called together.

General Ottinger will go out to Tooele early next week and complete the organization of a company of infantry at that place. Hon. Charles McIlhie was in from there today and to a representative of the News said that more than forty young men had already signed the roll and that a full company of sixty would easily be mustered into service. In fact more than that number were anxious to join and become military heroes.

STRICKEN WITH PARALYSIS.

Mother of Elder Joseph Standing Called Home by Death.

Was Alone When the Stroke Came—The Body Will be Brought to This City Sunday Morning.

Mrs. Mary Standing died at her home on Bear River, near Collinston, Box Elder county, at an early hour this morning, the cause of death being paralysis. She had been in excellent health and spirits of late, and on Wednesday evening her daughter left the house on a journey to Brigham City, returning last evening (Thursday). On entering the house she found her mother lying on the bedroom floor in an unconscious condition. It was evident that the aged lady had been there some time. The bed had been occupied the night previous, and Sister Standing evidently had arisen yesterday morning, about the usual hour, 7 o'clock. She could not have felt very ill, if at all, as she is by her cots to dressing. This latter act was about completed, as she was partly bonneted and the shape of her corset. It is probable that while doing this she was suddenly struck down, and being unable to help herself has lain on the floor all day.

When the discovery was made every attention was given to the unfortunate woman. Investigation revealed that she had been attacked by paralysis. All efforts at resuscitating her were unavailing, and she died without regaining consciousness.

The deceased was in the 69th year of her age. She was the mother of Elder Joseph Standing, the missionary who was murdered near Carnell's station, Georgia, July 31, 1879, by a mob.

The body of the deceased will be brought to this city for interment. It is expected to arrive here on the Union Pacific train from the north, at 10:[illegible] a. m. on Sunday, and will be conveyed from the station to the city cemetery, where funeral services will be held at the grave. The family, one of whom—a son of Joseph Standing—resides in the Tenth ward of this city, extends an invitation to friends to be present.
