DESERET EVENING NEWS.

TUESDAY, - - JANUARY 9, 1894.

FRAGMENTS.

No Third Ward entertainment this week.

Breakwinds in great circles are home to a state of magnificent order.

The Sullivan-Mitchell pugs gave a large and pleasant hop at Odd Fellows' Hall on Saturday night.

The many friends of Colonel H. C. Lee will be pleased to learn that he is recovering from his recent illness.

The Senate committee of the board of education will hold a meeting this evening to consider the question of compulsory education, and the meeting of the entire board of education.

The City Council will meet in regular session tonight and will, according to all indications, make a report recommending a tax for our share of expenses laid by the new officials last week.

The benefit fight which was to have taken place last night for the young lightweight who recently ran up against Jimmy Bell, the colored champion, was postponed on the question of not enough money being taken in.

The Wasatch Democratic county ticket printed will, may in the Seventh ward, select Brigham Cannon, Sam Kimball and Ed Parsons, and Brigham Young, Jr., and Joseph Cannon, respectively, are mentioned. There is now a good deal of speculation as to how much longer Chief Justice Zane will be seen on the bench.

Dr. Julius Sheldonski, the young Russian chemist, who has been lecturing here Friday and Sunday nights in the German language at the Jewish temple, will probably be heard here again. Arrangements are being made by Rabbi Jacobson and others to secure the Dr. A. H. hall for that purpose.

Art Department.

The art department which has been added to the Latter-day Saints' college in this city, and which is under the direction of Prof. Herman H. Haag, is now open for pupils. The studio is in the Church University building and is tastefully fitted up for the use for which it is designed. Among Mr. Haag's masterpieces that amusement the room are: "John Preaching Christ," and the "Flight of Joseph and Mary into Egypt," in the first of which he received first prize in competition with thirty students, and second prize in the last named, competing with forty students; the prize being awarded by the Julian Academy, Paris, which institution is Mr. Haag's alma mater. He is expecting quite a large class.

Fell by the Wayside.

This morning a white horse was seen lying by the roadside in the Thirteenth ward, on First South street, near an undertaker's office. The animal had evidently died by poisoning or an overfeed of grain. The remains were taken charge of today by the proper authorities.

FROM THE GOVERNOR

That Official's Message Read Before the Legislature Last Evening.

VARIOUS RECOMMENDATIONS MADE

Statehood, Irrigation, Capitol Building, Militia, Delegate Legislation and Other Matters Dealt On.

Some time after the house had gone to press last evening Governor Wells' message was read before a joint session of the Legislature. The message was held up the chief executive himself. It was received with applause and two thousand copies of the same were ordered printed for distribution. The full text of the document is as follows:

Gentlemen—As citizens of Utah I congratulate you and myself that it is more than probable in a fortnight from which I anything do, that it is my pleasure to greet our last Territorial Legislative Assembly.

The early passage of the enabling act for the admission of the Territory into the Union, which now seems assured, will signal the accomplishing of a recreation which will terminate the fundamental principles that shall control the new State, and the meeting of a new Legislature that will follow, to complete our laws to meet the changed conditions, appears to be the proper policy of confining present legislation to matters of urgent necessity, and the taking of preliminary steps only in the inauguration of new systems of importance, which will require time for their completion.

Believing in the wisdom of such a course, I have endeavored to be explicit in my recommendations.

UNIVERSITY AND AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

The question of the advisability of consolidating and making one institution of the University of Utah and the Agricultural College, has been the subject of much most interesting discussion. The present site and ground for the University are considered unsuitable and insufficient, and a bill looking to obtaining a more suitable location on the Fort Douglas Military Reservation was introduced in the last Congress and reintroduced in the present Congress. It is expected that favorable action will be taken when the bill is reached. The pending statehood bill provides for the donation of 100,000 acres to the University and to the College. Both institutions have been established by and located and nurtured by liberal appropriations from the Territory and each is a successful institution. In view of the existing situation and the grave importance of the question, I would respectfully suggest the wisdom at this time of making only necessary appropriations for the successful carrying on of the respective institutions under present conditions, thus affording ample time for a complete investigation, and thorough discussion of the question of consolidation.

COMMISSION ON IRRIGATION.

In my message to the Legislative Assembly six years ago I submitted the following:

"The great value of water to our people, and the necessity to flow from a complete utilization of our supply, is readily recognized by all. I recommend the appointment of a commission of three persons, one of whom at least shall be required to be a competent civil engineer, skilled in his science; the commission to be charged with the duty of making a full and exhaustive investigation of the question, and required to report to the next Legislative Assembly the result of its labors, with such suggestions as it may be enabled to make, for the inauguration of a comprehensive and thorough system of irrigation for the use of our reclaimed lands and the reclamation of other lands. Necessary appropriations for this purpose I recommend."

Time, and the agitation of, and the increased interest in the question of irrigation, the conflicting use to the view that much good would come from the action of such a commission, and I respectfully ask your favorable consideration.

CAPITOL BUILDING.

Being advised of the request of the Capitol commission (its report will follow later) for an appropriation of $125,000 to begin the construction of the Capitol by building a wing, which will furnish necessary offices for the present, in my opinion it should be granted.

It would be judicious economy to make the saving that would result from doing so. The rents that would have to be paid to secure necessary and suitable accommodations for the different branches and offices of the government, would be much more than the interest upon the investment. The building would provide more appropriate and better quarters in which the business of the people could be transacted than could possibly be obtained elsewhere. A permanent building for the purpose must sooner or later be erected, and the advantages to accrue to our material men and mechanics in possessing the work are obvious.

MONUMENT TO BRIGHAM YOUNG.

A Memorial association has been inaugurated by a number of our citizens to erect a suitable monument in honor of Brigham Young. They have contracted with a Utah artist who has finished the design for and has in part completed a great work. It would seem appropriate that a portion of the expenses of such a memorial to Governor Young than the Capitol grounds of the Territory of which he was the first Governor and of the state of which he was the pioneer statesman and founder.

I recommend that you make such steps as you may deem advisable to obtain the desired end.

A MILITIA REORGANIZED.

A properly organized militia is almost a necessity of a well ordered, free commonwealth. Our young men, for several years with commendable patriotic manifestations, have been ready and willing to assume the duties and responsibilities of service and have only awaited the direction and authority of the law makers to give us a military establishment which will be the pride of the inter-mountain country. Of the appropriations made by the general government to aid of the state and Territorial militia, $13,037.50 had been allotted to this Territory up to June 30, 1893, and about about that time. In view of our early admission to the State into the Union, let us by prompt enrollment of a new militia and equip to avail themselves of their claims and opportunities to establish a military force and system, and in all other respects, show that our Territory is well prepared and ripe for admission into the Union of states.

EQUITY DURING A DAY'S WORK.

Entertaining a firm conviction that the happiness of mankind would be greatly enhanced by a cessation of the hours of labor, I earnestly recommend to the consideration of this great nation, and prohibiting that eight hours shall constitute a day's work on all public works.

AMEND AND REVISE THE LAWS GENERALLY.

Our statutes, the law in force, are needs revising and amending. I commend to your wisdom the preparation and enactment of a wise and just measure that will fully protect the material men and laborers.

TERRITORIAL WARRANTS SHOULD BE MEET AT PAR.

For years the scrip of public institutions of the Territory have been issued, in order to sustain them, to borrow money at a high rate of interest and without authority of law to do so.

The holders of Territorial warrants have been compelled to wait to receive to them, that a grievous and unusual condition should be promptly remedied, and no longer tolerate. There is no reasonable excuse why all the debts of the Rio and Provisional Territories should not be promptly and fully paid, and its warrants be at all times as good as cash.

REPORTS OF PUBLIC OFFICERS AND INSTITUTIONS.

The following reports made to the Governor I lay before you:

The Auditor of Public Accounts, the Treasurer, the Librarian, the Senior of Weights and Measures, the President and Director of the Deseret Agricultural and Manufacturing Society.

In due time you will receive reports from the Regents of the University of Utah, the Trustees of the Agricultural College, Directors of the Insane Asylum and Trustees of the Reform school, including you of the progress, condition and the needs of the respective institutions.

DELAYED LEGISLATION.

I earnestly request that the Assembly may so dispose of business before it that ample time for investigation and deliberation on all measures and them may be given to the Governor. It is too often the case that the most important legislation is crowded into the last days of the session and must be hastily and inconsiderately disposed of.

Animated, as I do, not doubt we all are, with the great purpose of serving the people well, I invoke God's blessing upon your labors, that they may redound to His glory and the people's good.

CALVIN W. WELLS.

Executive Mansion, Salt Lake City, Utah, January 8, 1894.

JACKSON DAY ORATORY.

How the Memory of "Old Hickory" Was Celebrated by Democrats, Last Night.

The old Federal court room, now the place of meeting for the members of the lower house of the Territorial Legislature, was packed to the doors with enthusiastic Democrats last night, assembled to do honor to the memory of their patron saint, General Jackson. In the audience were a good many ladies who were as demonstrative in the matter of applause given, as were their husbands, brothers or sweethearts, for all of those classes were present.

For sometime before the hour of commencement Professor Pedersen's band rendered a number of national airs. The gathering was called to order by Hon. John T. Caine who announced that they had met to do honor to one of the greatest soldiers, generals and patriots the country had ever produced. Mr. Caine then introduced Governor West as chairman of the meeting. The latter briefly put on the character of General Jackson, paid him an extraordinary compliment for the integrity and ability that he possessed, after which he introduced Judge H. W. Smith as the first regular speaker of the evening.

Mr. Smith spoke strongly and was warmly applauded. He paralleled out how Jackson had been left an orphan, while a small boy, among poverty and without friends; how he worked up his way step by step until he reached the presidential chair. His military career and ability were spoken of at length, but boasted in history, where he could not be found in Grant. As a diplomat in securing commercial supremacy for the United States in his dealings with other nations he was without a superior.

Hon. W. H. King pressed a flowery and elegant speech by saying the last election addresses in this city reminded him of the words of the poet when wrote, "Come armed for the Whiteclaw's in sight." After the words of the poet had been supplemented by saying, "And for three years I to be who gets his now in Eden," King briefly in the light of facts as evident as the sun shines that the Democrats had done in the Territory, in view of our early admission to the State into the Union, he believed it was good for the people of Utah to have the Democratic ticket and cast their political lots.

Mon Rosser Jorgensen then sang a solo in a fine, clear tone, and for an encore responded to a bouquet of flowers from the same party.

Judge H. W. Powers, James H. Meyer, F. S. Ferguson, P. L. Williams and J. H. Lafferty each made a magnetic speech, and when the meeting adjourned to allow those who desired to attend the big feast of the world, given by the Roosters, prepared by the Tabernacle.

THE TABERNACLE BANQUET.

It was half past ten when all of the Tabernacle and their guest had gathered in the Knights of Pythias hall to down to sumptuous repast, at the long tables that had been made ready for them by "some men" in Hades.

Colonel Nathan Powers first addressed the assembly of the tribe as they sat and stood about the staggering mass, first recounting the particulars and the reason of the many banks that they had fought in since the first banquet they had given.

At a table laden with the good things of creation sat the guests of honor, consisting of the place of honor, while on either side sat men warmer as Governor West, Chief Justice Merrill, Judge Anderson, Judge Zane, the Hon. W. A. Hall and others.

Judge Powers acted as toast master and responses were made by Judge Zane, Governor West, Morris Shumer, Abbie Young, J. E. Lowder, H. C. Welch, W. H. King, F. S. Harris and others, after which the banquet was brought to a close.

Geo. Augustus Sala, the well known English writer, on his last American trip, wrote as follows to The London Daily Telegraph:

"I especially have a pleasant remembrance of the ship's doctor—a very experienced maritime medico indeed, who loaded me that kindly darling a bottle upon my departure, and recommended me to take a wineglass of it on the day when the sea was rough, which I did, and it was good. I was not sick, and I attribute the fact to the medicine."

To the Public

We are reliably informed that orders for monuments, headstones, etc., are being solicited by parties not residents of Utah, having no stock and owning no property here. We desire to warn the public that it is against their interest to buy of such people, as past experience has shown, proof of which can be given.

We are here to stay, have a reputation that we must maintain. We cannot afford to misrepresent. We have the largest stock of Monuments and Tombstones in the West. Will sell as cheap as anyone. Come and see us and then give yourselves the commission people above referred to sell to regular prices, if send us word by mail and we will make personal call. Respectfully,
