STEAM POWER AT TINTIC SMELTER

Management Concludes to Install Emergency Plant Without Delay.

Work at Old American Mine—Little Chief Shaft—Other Live Tintic News.

Special Correspondence.

Eureka, Aug. 28.—Unable to make satisfactory terms with the Telluride Power company, the management of the new Tintic smelter has decided to put in a steam plant for the operation of the smelter, to be used in cases of emergency, or when the Utah County Light & Power company cannot supply the required voltage. Work will begin at once, and until its completion the furnaces will not be blown in.

The Mammoth Mining company is said to have $350,000 worth of ore stored away at the property, both on top and underground. This ore was mined after the smelter gave orders to cease shipments last fall.

The Little Chief company is running a drift on the 1,400 level, which is the lowest point yet reached in the property. Considerable time will be devoted to prospecting on this level, also upon the 1,200, where a station was cut and a drift run for a short distance recently.

Until the new Tintic smelter is in operation, the output of the Grand Central will not exceed nine carloads a week. Since the accident to the Sheave wheel a few weeks ago, but one compartment of the shaft has been in working order, consequently nothing has been done below the 1,600 level. The force at the mine will be increased as soon as repairs to the equipment have been made, and work will be resumed on the 2,100 level.

The tunnel at the Old American has been driven 400 feet with a splendid showing at the face. The rock is becoming softer and an important change is looked for within the next 50 feet. At the time Jesse Knight secured control of this property, he expected to develop the ground through the Beck Tunnel or Colorado, but afterward changed his plans, as the tunnel that is now being run will open the ground at least 150 feet below the deepest point yet reached in the Beck tunnel. Later, however, the Old American may be prospected through the new shaft of the Colorado.

J. C. Cravens, manager of the Tintic Silver, was in camp this week and expressed himself as being pleased over the conditions at this property. Some copper, he says, has been found at the bottom of the shaft, the latter being 140 feet deep.

The Colorado Mining company is reported to have taken out about $290,000 worth of ore from a space not larger than 20 by 150 feet.

Work is being prosecuted rapidly at the Southern Swansea at Silver City. The shaft is down nearly 100 feet, at which point a cross-cut will be run.

Information comes from a reliable source that the Opex at Mammoth will resume operations next week.

George T. Bridges and James McPherson will develop some promising claims which they own adjoining the Early Rose and Alabama.

James Knowles and Grove Chesbro, who own the Butterfly Numbers 1 and 2 claims in North Tintic, are making preparations to complete annual assessment work.

W. C. Clark, who has completed the contract for running the tunnel on the Wicklow property, states that the tunnel has been run a distance of 100 feet.

Bingham Mine Shipping Thirty Tons Of Ore Daily.

With a shipment of about 30 tons a day of some of the finest firstclass lead ore that has been seen in camp for a long time, and the vigorous campaign of development continuing without interruption, this well known property has assumed all the earmarks of one of great activity, says the Bingham Bulletin.

The shipments are being increased each day, and more teams will be put on as the tonnage increases. The second-class ore is not being shipped, although it is of excellent quality and only as much of this as is necessary to mine the first-class is being taken out at the present time. The second-class ore is being put on the dump at the Andy tunnel.

The development work still is being rushed ahead. It is the intention of the management to carry on the campaign in this direction, and it has revealed so many gratifying disclosures in the past nine months that it is not at all unlikely that more disclosures of the same nature will be made. The force of men has been increased 25 per cent making over 50 men now on the pay rolls.

The Parvenue tunnel, which is being driven by contract, still goes merrily on. The results obtained in this end of the property are especially gratifying to the management, and the contractors are boring right into the hill. The new offices near the portal of the Parvenue tunnel are nearing completion, and in a couple of weeks the clerical force will be comfortably situated there.

NEW EXCHANGE BUILDING.

SIGN BOARD AT THE BOSTON CON.

Significant Meaning for One Now Being Displayed at Garfield.

PILING UP CONCENTRATE

Three Hundred Thousand Dollars Worth Awaits Shipment to The Smelter.

"This concentrate is the property of the American Smelting & Refining company." On a large sign board, posted in a conspicuous place near a huge pile of concentrate, is displayed the foregoing at Garfield. While it is not generally known, the Boston Consolidated Mining company has not shipped a pound of its mill product to the Garfield smelter for many weeks, and it is highly probable that a good many weeks will have expired before it does again, for the reason that the smelter out on the south end of the lake hasn't the furnace capacity to take care of it. Besides, the fine concentrate from the Utah Copper, as well as the Boston Consolidated, has been causing the smelter management no end of trouble. "There has never been anything just exactly like it," said Executive Committeeman Willard S. Morse recently; "but the problem is rapidly being solved, and I believe it will not be very long until all of the difficulties experienced in the past will have been overcome. In the meantime, we have spent a great deal of money in an experimental way to determine just how is the best way to get the best of the problem."

At the present time that concentrate pile at Garfield represents a valuation of about $300,000, and is gradually being added to. The Boston mill has been treating lately between 800 and 900 tons of ore daily; four more units are ready for service, and will be in commission before the end of September, when the plant will take care of at least 1,600 tons of the Bingham porphyry ores. In the meantime, the smelting company is making advances to the mining company on the concentrate it produces, and under this arrangement, it is immaterial to the Boston Con. whether the product goes to the smelter now or at some future time. To prevent the elements working overtime, the concentrate withheld for the time being, is protected by a large canvas cover.

SILVER KING CONSOLIDATED.

Joseph Brandl Refused Permission to Examine Books.

Because Secy. G. W. Browning refused to grant the request of Joseph Brandl of Park City, who was accompanied by an accountant and an attorney yesterday afternoon to inspect the books of the Silver King Consolidated Mining company, the matter was carried into court and Judge Ritchie has issued an order requiring the examination, or to show cause on Sept. 8.

Secy. Browning gives as a reason for the refusal that he believes there was some ulterior motive behind the proposition. Attorneys for the company have the matter in hand. General Manager Solon Spiro is out of the city at the present time, but is expected to return some time next week.

Brandl sets forth in the affidavit filed in court that he desired to ascertain the amount of issued stock in the corporation and information relative to the disposition of moneys received from assessments. Secy. Browning believed Brandl to be the agent of the Silver King Coalition Mines company, with which the Silver King Consolidated has litigation pending.

EMERALD LOOKS GOOD.

No Commercial Ore, But Encouraged, Says Manager Oglesby.

During the past few days there has been a noticeable increase in the demand for stock of the Emerald Mining company and sales were made today at 30 cents a share.

When seen by a "News" representative today, Manager J. E. Oglesby said: "I have never said a word about the Emerald that was not true nor do I ever intend to. But when I say that we have no ore in commercial quantity in the mine, it is a fact. That is the situation at the present time and I cannot account for the rise in the stock. I will say this, however, that the outlook for the Emerald is most encouraging and I am as confident as can be that it is going to make good. Some stringers of ore have been encountered recently on the 1,000-foot level that make us feel very much encouraged, to say the least."

Manager Oglesby and associates deserve to win success in the mining game if anyone does. They have had the property under development for a good many years; have put up their own money to keep the work going. They have had a long hard pull and it is to be hoped that their reward is in sight. The stock is closely held, more than 290,000 out of the 300,000 shares being in possession of a half dozen persons.

Will Resume Ore Shipments Again Next Week.

Ajax Mining company has succeeded in providing a market for its ore, a contract having been made with the smelters under conditions regarded as being eminently fair both to the mining as well as to the smelting company. Accordingly, Manager Thomas Weir has arranged to resume regular ore shipments next week and to push a vigorous development campaign. Work is to be continued on the 1,000 foot level where the last ore shipped from the property was obtained.

VAGS BEFORE COURT.

William O. Lee and Charles Firth, arrested by the police last night for vagrancy, pleaded guilty to the charge and were given ten days each in the city jail. The men are a couple of typical loafers.

Reynold McDougal was given sixty days for a similar offense, but sentence was suspended for 24 hours to give him a chance to leave the city.

Charles Johnson, a vag of the begging variety, drew thirty days for persistent begging on the streets.

FINED FOR SPEEDING.

Harold White, an automobile driver arrested by Mounted Patrolman Conyer on Seventh South and Main streets last night for violating the speed ordinance, pleaded guilty this morning before Judge Whitaker, and was assessed a fine of $25.

NOODLE SELLER RELEASED.

W. T. Henry, a Chinaman who runs a noodle house on Plum alley, was tried before Judge Whitaker this morning on the charge of battery upon a white man who called at the place last Sunday, ate some noodles and then ran out, refusing to pay for them. The Chinaman chased the man and succeeded in catching him. He had a cleaver in his hands at the time, and it was claimed that the Chinaman hit the man. This was not proved, however, and Henry was found not guilty and discharged.
