MINES AND MINING.

The Big Fight Had Its Effect on Mining Stocks.

PITTSBURG THE ONLY SELLER.

The Mercur Mine Was Never in Better Shape—Favorably Impressed With the Blue Mountains.

The big fight "didn't do a thing," so to speak, with today's exchange. Oh, no, it only caused the utterances to about half and the attention likewise, and when the few non-sporting brokers filed out of the pit, it was with a record behind them—4,600 shares of Little Pittsburg at 3 cents a share; selling value of stock $120. The only in the main was one of declining quotations and Mercur and Black Jack were the only stocks that flew upwards.

Opening with Anchor 50 cents was bid for the stock but not an offering was made. Ajax was decidedly flat and held its best bid at 67 cents, while holders were willing to unload a few stocks at 70 cents. Bullion Beck stood quite firm, although 5 to 8 lower in the blotting, the best figure being $7. No sales or offerings of the stock at $10. Celtic, too, was in the same condition of selling as on yesterday at $1.02, it had to remain contented with no sales and a bid of 99 cents. Mercur was the first stock to advance in the figures, its bid rising to $7, with limited offerings at $7.15. Mammoth was lower in the trading by five cents, while the remaining listed stocks were practically unchanged.

The boys who did the trading in Little Pittsburg were Eli Hinson, Gideon Wooley and Dick Cummins. The former sold to the two latter 2,000 shares each and the trio closed up the day's transactions. The Hinsonites were strong but lower while Scrogger Light came up to $3½ cents in the winding.

The closing figures were as follows:

THE BLUE MOUNTAINS.

Cripple Creek Men Favorably Impressed with the District.

The Grand Valley Times says that Messrs. Cy Hall and Jensen, mining men from Cripple Creek, passed through Moab yesterday from Monticello, on their way home, having been to the Blue mountains inspecting the mining prospects.

They went to vis Dolores and tell a hard tale of winter hardship to getting through that way. After weeks hacking snow they finally had to resort to snow shoes. They said money would not hire them to make the attempt to return that way. The route via Thompson and Moab is the only practical route to the Blue mountains in winter. It is the route that is open all the year.

They speak highly of what the saw of the mineral prospect in the Blue's and they will be back early in May to take hold of some practical work in that region. They are sure to attract other practical Colorado miners and prospectors into this section, but it is quite certain they will recommend the route via Moab.

Messrs. Burk and Sanders, of Colorado Springs, came in last Saturday and went out to inspect the copper district the first of the week. It is a question if they have not chosen the wrong time of the year to look the property over, as the snow is laying several feet deep over the whole district.

Robert J. Thompson of Monticello is making Moab a visit this week. He says there is plenty of snow around Monticello and plenty of gold lying under it.

ITEMS FROM MAMMOTH.

What the Record Says of Operations Thereabouts.

Receiver Harris was in camp this week and reports the engine at the Homestake about ready for operation.

Mining Recorder Hagenauer reports business in his office dull since prospecting has been delayed by the deep snow in the hills.

The pumping plant at the Bonanza is now in operation and the cut of timbers which arrived last week are being put in place.

The Gockomite asking that a mail route be established from Mammoth to Silver City Deer Creek have been forwarded to Washington.

Messrs. McIntosh, Sears and McCartney of the Lost Chance mine were in camp this week and let another 100 foot contract to S. A. Moran.

Foreman W. C. Clark reports the Dividend in fine shape. Four men are now employed and it is the intention to increase the force to a dozen.

Work at the Emerald is now down about 300 feet. Arrangements are being made to put on another shift in a few days.

Sanders & Jones now have their new assay office at Silver City fitted up in first-class shape and are prepared to do all the assaying in the district.

Capt. Bird is rapidly recovering from the severe injuries he received in the accidental discharge of giant powder a few weeks ago at Silver City and expects to resume work on the Cleopatra.

All but three of the workmen at the Bullionic were laid off Saturday evening. The flow of water which we encountered a few evenings ago will probably necessitate the putting in of a pumping plant if the company decides to continue active development work.

Work has been suspended on the Primrose at Silver City, the shaft having been sunk to the depth of 20 feet. A. C. Hess, who had the last contract on this property, has secured a lease and bond on the Molly Bawn and Lost Chance claims located near the Dividend.

A Distinguished Visitor.

Robert E. Lee Browne, the man who bamboozled Kiesell by getting a $2,000,000 judgment against the South African Republic, arrived in the city last evening and registered at the Kaiserhof. Mr. Browne is here to look into the mines of Utah, after which he will go into California and thence sail for South Africa to press his claim before the High court of that republic. Knowing men say that the gentleman is here for the purpose of tying up a few acres of Utah mining ground.

Dip and Spurs.

The Geyser-Marion is reported to be doing nicely and producing 155 tons of ore per day.

Prof. Lucy, manager of the Cactus Mining company properties near Frisco, Utah, has appointed F. A. Hunt superintendent of the mines.

Advices from Tintic indicate that the Homing is doing well and still producing valuable ore, although at present the work now is a great bother.

The Mignon Gold Mining company has elected the following officers and directors for the ensuing year: F. H. Nelden, president; George Z. Edwards, vice president; G. L. Green, treasurer; George F. Scrogge, secretary; H. M. Aldrich and W. W. Stoddard.

The New State Mining company at a recent meeting in Ogden elected the following officers and directors for the ensuing year: Samuel Dover, president; E. T. Morton, vice president; A. A. Moyer, Secretary; S. W. Badger, treasurer; D. W. Ellis, H. O. Robson.

Manager J. W. Cory of the Chieftain is in from Mercur. He states that the shaft is now down 225 feet and that the mineral are still sinking. Mr. Cory says the camp is becoming decidedly lively and the prospects are that activity will increase as the season progresses.

Grand Valley Times: The mining developments that will be seen in the La Sal and Blue mountains this summer is sure to attract hundreds into this locality who will not come especially for that purpose but to establish business in all lines, and particularly to make an small fortune of land. Every business this established adds to the wealth and prosperity of the county. Every encouragement possible should be offered.

The Evanston News-Register says that Antonio Fonlis, well known in Evanston and Kemmerer, arrived in that city a few days previous to the disastrous snowslide at Pole City to which last week has left their fate, he had a presentiment that something dreadful was going to happen and resigned his position. Had Mr. Fonlis remained at his post of duty he would have probably met his death, as he slept in the same room in which the unfortunate man was killed.

Boise Statesman: R. J. Anderson, manager of the Tuna Springs placer enterprise, has been in the city for several days. He reports that the saw mill has been running three weeks and is turning out 15,000 feet a day. Twelve hundred feet of flume has been completed, the work on it having been begun a week ago. The first mining will be done about a mile below the present head of the flume. It is expected that work will begin April 5 with two plants. The ground is very rich and it is believed that the clean-ups will be large from the start.
