ARRESTS.

THE SIERRA CLUB CONCERT.—This city not grown so accustomed to entertainments of the mammoth order that it now takes something far beyond the ordinary to attract attention, and even mammoth entertainments themselves are noted as as things to amuse in the dead months, but they do not come as they would. Take note then. Nothing else has occasioned the talk made on being created last evening on the occasion of the local concert by Rossi's band and the Tabernacle choir; here there are the equally rapid, but unerring to do with it of course, and the fact that the band appeared at the Tabernacle should of something else—but they cannot by account for the fact of that personage which should have been conferred on the gentlemen. The agreement contained some 1000—one of those sensitive methods that most people would set down as being 5000 or 6000 people in the hall. The receipts were $1,114, of which the band made of course, goes to the visiting attraction, but out of which the choir will make a very decent little addition to its weight (by fifteen times).

Without doubt, the artistic part of the affair deserve the name of having been the most complete success of any entertainment in which the choir ever appeared. Gounod's band has played with them, and other notable concerts have set the last standard high, but last night's entertainment eclipsed them all. Not that Rossi's band is so much superior to Gounod's, for it is not, but that last night's theatre-goers have never before attended such a pitch of excellence as that at which they have now arrived. Certainly they sang not nightly they never sang before, and the three numbers in which they took part with the band were the three greatest numbers of the program. The chorus, all strong, most of the voices in which are trained, a magnificent appearance, and when they first rose to answer to a Wave from Mr. Stephens baton, they were greeted with a warm wave of applause. The sound of their voices, with the accompaniment of the great band, was inspiring, and the high tribute, paid to the Indescribe Chorus recently, the Rio. of Stephens's Romanza, and the curve and swing of the Faust chorus were all admirably executed. Special credit is due the leader and also for the dual work in Romanza; for boldness of tone, precision and tuneliness, their work has never been approached in the building. As for the band, it goes without saying that it created a whirlwind of enthusiasm. Dulcie and Dale encore greeted its leading work, and of course for each vocal Rossi responded with one of his clear-

Wonderland.

If you desire to be amused, and if you desire to have a good performance, you should pay Wonderland a visit, as one of the very best specialty performances ever given in this city is given in the theatrical of the beautiful amusement room. It is somewhat late but although the price of admission is low the attractions are exceedingly cheap. The people in this city seem to like variety performances, and the management succeed in holding very nearly strong repertoires in their line of business. A novel improvement at a novelty is offered to that of each person admitted who brings a lady companion a rose gratis—one lady, leading from 1, will be in vogue, and was a great place.

A similar building will be erected on the west side. The two now in use in the portion of the district are in bad condition. A new building was erected in 1891, but is inadequate to the growth needs of the district, which is growing and bound to be yet relative to educational interests.
