Cripple Creek Laid in Ashes By Another Disastrous Fire.

150 INHABITANTS HOMELESS.

Reports as to the Origin of the Fire—Loss Estimated at one Million Dollars.

CRIPPLE CREEK, COLO., April 29.—Last Saturday's disaster were repeated into full in the destruction wrought by a second fire this afternoon. To an estimate in the extent of property destroyed on Saturday the fire of today adds the loss of life and leaves from 4,000 to 5,000 people homeless in a city of desolation, with no homes to offer and no food to supply their daily wants.

The business portion of the city left standing tonight is less than would cover a city block. The residence section is confined to what were formerly the entrance to the gulches of East and West Bennett, Town to the northeast and a portion of Capitol Hill on the south.

When an alarm of fire sounded from the Portland mine at 1:15, people took notice as it was quickly followed by numerous alarms from different parts of the city, and all were thoroughly exhausted by the work of Saturday and the hundreds under Willis Gray and Will Adams, Theodore Van Dyke and others, rushed to the scene of the Myers avenue and Bennett street alarm. The building, just the alley in the south was full of flames. Almost instantly the building was blazing from a dozen places in front. Streams of water were turned on Sydney and the Bennett Fancy and Gem's few minutes in an attempt to put out the fire.

Buildings to leeward of the fire were thrown up in a little minutes by flames in spread. All attempts for carrying goods into streets were prevented. Charges of any people were out of doors with all in. The employees throw dirt into the air and in being blown were right and left.

At 2 o'clock the entire row of business houses on the south along Bennett was all ablaze.

At 2:30 the Palace Club House at Second and Bennett was swept in flames in a few minutes. Attempts made to keep the fire from showing Bennett to the Palace hotel. The hotel not caught fire one foot. Quantities of dirt thrown on it.

At 2:45 the entire east of the Palace is on the southeast of Bennett, and the west side of Second was blown up, but the fire was in the middle of the block.

At 3:10 the Bates were closing Second and the Bimetallic bank was ablaze up to an adjoining building. Every thing the fire spread, in spite of all, and in a few minutes Bennett between Third and Second was burning. Fourth on both sides. Here was the center of the town's business life.

At 3:30 the fire had burned itself out, except in a few scattered places.

Town was spread, and more in the afternoon to Saturday night found numerous people. Sunday tonight, it looks as if it is to open to fifteen. The comparatively few houses left standing are two second series, with one and two one of better class.

Low lumber was in open ground. Mary Stokes is in from the northeast portion to the south of the city, and the same thing is true. Now that fire was overpower, Bennett the fire was burnt down and burned buildings of millions, and to well appraise, first to street and Bennett, the fire must be secured. Banks have lost in the business, the school is going into a block of Tenderloin and wood. Hotel Bennett, Bennett Hotel, Bennett Hotel, Bennett Hotel
