

ONLY A HEART.

It is not a stone that will bruise, my lord,
Nor is it a serpent to sting;
A thorn to rend, a sword to pierce,
Or any vile, poisoning thing.

Only a heart, a woman's heart;
Step on it! crush it! so!
Bravely done, like a gentleman;
Turn on your heel! and go.

Only a heart! What harm is done?
Let it bleed in the dust and moan;
Or stifle its anguish as best it may,
Or stiffen, my lord, into stone.

Only a heart! it was fresh and young,
And tender and warm, I know;
As pure as the spirit of chastity,
My lord, and it loved you so.

But nothing is lost; let it die, my lord;
Let its death be quick or slow;
Such hearts are as plenty as summer
leaves—
We find them wherever we go.

Only a heart! do not fear, my lord;
Nobody on earth is near
To come to the cry of the wounded thing,
And God is too far to hear.

The Prince of Wales Among the Masons.

HIS INSTALLATION AS GRAND MASTER OF THE MYSTIC ORDER IN THE BRITISH EMPIRE.

The Prince of Wales was last night installed Grand Master of the Masonic Order of England and Ireland, with great pomp at Willis' Rooms. The street in front of these fashionable apartments was densely crowded by people eager to see the grand dresses and decorated aprons of the magnates. The installing officer put the following questions to the Prince:

Installing Officer—Are you ready and willing to undertake the supreme government of these orders in England and Ireland, and the dependencies of the British Crown?

His Royal Highness—I am.
Installing officer—Will you observe all things that will promote the well-being and dignity thereof?

His Royal Highness—I will.
Installing Officer—Will you protect and uphold the same to the best of your ability?

His Royal Highness—I will.
Installing Officer—You will not acknowledge any superior, co-ordinate, or inferior jurisdiction?

His Royal Highness—I will not.
Installing officer—You will not permit your prerogative or authority to be infringed?

His Royal Highness—I will not.
Installing Officer—You will uphold the Queen's supremacy?

His Royal Highness—I will.
Installing Officer—You will judge all equally, without distinction of rank?

His Royal Highness—I will.
The Primate thereupon offered up the following prayer:

"O Lord, who ruleth the hearts of the greatest and humblest on earth, imbue this Thy servant and our governor with a portion of Thy divine grace, to the end that he may rule us aright, and ever relying on Thy protection, he may glorify Thee in his works. Endow all those committed to his care with such a measure of thy wisdom that they may render due obedience to him who, under Thy guiding power, has been set in authority over us. This we pray, through Christ our Prophet, Christ our Priest, and Christ our King."

The Grand Master-elect then took the oaths and signed the roll on the Sepulchre, the proper officers attending with the insignia of office, viz.: Steel chain, Cross of Salem, sword, baton, ring and book, which the Installing Officer took severally and delivered to the Grand Master at the Sepulchre. This solemn part of the ceremony having been concluded, the Installing Officer conducted his Royal Highness to the throne, with the words, "I place you on the throne as Grand Master of the Order in England, Ireland and Wales, and the dependencies of the English crown," and then took his seat on the right. The Primate having pronounced the Benedictio Sacerdotalis, the Herald made due proclamation to the east, southwest and northwest. The Knights in order filed past from both sides, saluting, two at once, and then marched down the centre to the swelling notes of the organ accompaniment. This salutation having been made, the Arch-Chancellor advanced to the foot of the dais and delivered an address. A magnificent banquet followed. The Prince presided, supported by the Earl of Limerick and the Earl of Skelmersdale. Nearly all the grand officers and Knights present at the installation sat down to the banquet, and among the American Knights present were Pay Director Cunningham, United States Navy, Commissary of the Vienna Exposition; Colonel Mann, United States Cavalry; and General Roddy, United States Army.

After the repast, his Royal Highness, who was received with the most enthusiastic cheering, rose and said that on such an occasion few words were required to introduce the first toast, namely, the health of "Her Majesty the Queen." In connection with the toast he had to make an agreeable announcement. They were all aware that the Queen was the patroness of craft Masonry, and he had her Majesty's permission to state now that she would be the patroness of their Order.—London (April 8) Letter to the New York Commercial.

Disgracing the American Name.

There never yet was an attempt made to break up a strong combination of speculators without a cry of persecution. It is no surprise therefore, that the suspension of the Vienna Commission for the swindling operations of some of its members creates an outcry against the injustice of the order of the Secretary of State, exactly corresponding with the strength of the foul combination. This outcry should go unheeded; but it will not. Every home "ring" of thieves and scoundrels growing fat by plundering the public and innocent, honest people, may be expected to sympathize with the entrapped knavish Commissioners; and every newspaper in the service of these "rings" will echo the "wrongs" of the rascals who have been caught and punished. We hope the Secretary of State will show the back-bone necessary for the occasion, and deal as remorselessly with them as if they were only common larceny thieves having no rich and influential friends. It is the especial curse of this country that rich and influential villainy is too often elevated above the law. It has disgraced our jurisprudence as well as our legislation, and is corrupting and disgusting the whole body of the nation. In foreign countries, what with such infamies as this, such frauds as the El Paso Railway bonds have proved to be in Paris, Credit Mobilier and Erie scandals, the name of American has become almost a synonym for swindler. In Vienna, London, all over Europe, this dirty business is the engrossing topic of conversation, and the Americans who go to the Exhibition, unless they are well fortified with certificates of honest character, will be in danger of being taken for scoundrels.—Sacramento Union.

Corporeal punishment doesn't go down some English schools. A schoolmaster tried a cane on one of his pupils in South Stafford recently, for which he was fined ten pounds and costs and ordered to the cells until the money should be paid.
