

PARLEY'S WATER OF POOR QUALITY.

Latest Analysis Shows the Presence of Considerable Albuminoid Ammonia.

NOT LIKE THE FIRST TEST.

Analysis of City and Parley's Creek Waters Mixed Reveals the Presence of Nitrates.

According to the analysis, completed by City Chemist Harms yesterday, the water of Parley's creek is of rather poor quality, due to the presence of nitrates and rather a large yield of albuminoid ammonia found in the same. A sample of the water was taken from the creek about one and a half miles above the Sawyer ice house. It contained no trace of nitrates, but a very faint trace of nitrates. It also contained a larger percentage of organic matter than the previous tests of the water disclosed, there being .053 parts free ammonia and .080 parts albuminoid ammonia per million parts. Just why the water should be more impure now than when previous tests were made, is not clear, unless it is due to the fact that the sample for this test was taken from farther up the stream, so that it had not the opportunity to purify itself by the natural filtering which it undergoes in a few miles' flow down the bed of the creek.

A test was also completed yesterday of a sample of city and Parley's creek waters mixed, which was taken from a hydrant on the second floor of the Summit block on East Temple street, between Second and Third South streets. It contains a much smaller percentage of albuminoid ammonia than the sample of Parley's straight, but the slight trace of nitrates renders it rather suspicious according to the report of the Chemist Harms. The water contains slight traces of nitrates, no trace of nitrates, .08 parts of free ammonia and .08 parts of albuminoid ammonia per million parts. It is, however, so pure, from the above analyses that it is extremely advisable to boil all water before using it for culinary or domestic purposes, as has been recommended by the health commissioner some time ago in an appeal to the public.

On Saturday afternoon and this morning six more cases of typhoid were reported to the board of health. They are: Mrs. Mildred W. Korth, wife of Sanitary Inspector W. J. Korth, residing at 215 O street; Zina Watson, aged 6, 624 west 10th street; Eugene C. Hammond, aged 7, 734 east Seventh; South; Bert Williams, aged 14, 283 west Fourth; Mrs. C. F. Buck, aged 31, 634 west Third; Ralph Barry, aged 7, 634 west Third. This makes the total number of cases reported so far this month, 23.

BROWN AND BRADLEY. Reason for Former Assaulting Latter. An Injury Narked for Months.

The vigorous assault made upon former Senator Arthur Brown by Mrs. Bradley several weeks ago is said to have come from an injury, fancied or real, to the latter months ago. Up to that time she had for a couple of years or more been a favorite companion and associate. Suddenly she avers she found herself "dissatisfied" for Mrs. Brown, under the alleged pretense of the senator that friends would secure a dismissal of the suit against him, for such procedure.

WILL THE MINERS STRIKE? Revival of Story that There Are Outside Forces at Work in Utah.

Some two months ago there appeared in the columns of the "News" a statement of a well authenticated rumor to the effect that there were forces at work in this state which had for their object the development of a general strike among the miners. At that time the matter was emphatically denied by the state and the miners. It is further stated that the rumor has now assumed the form of an appeal to Utah mine workers to show their sympathy for fellow workers in Colorado, and that when a general movement of this kind would be to those on the outside is not stated.

David C. Coates, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, the parent organization of the Western Federation of Miners, is at present in Park City where he delivered the Labor day address. Concerning the matter Dr. Coates said:

"I am straight from Denver, the headquarters of the American Federation of Miners, and I know no step looking to a sympathetic strike in Utah has been taken. There are calls for sympathetic strikes, but this is not one of them. It would not help the Colorado strikers a particle to call out the miners in Utah, and nothing of the kind has been proposed."

Refused to Testify.
Topeka, Kan., Sept. 7.—At the inquiry in the district court today before Judge Hazen to ascertain if possible whether a strike among the operators and miners, John Ducker, the first witness refused to testify.

Meyer, marshal; Expressmen's union, 20 men, containing about 100 people without regard to age, race, sex, color or previous condition of service, W. H. Skilhorn, marshal.

DISTINCTIVE ATTIRE.

Most of the unions wore some sort of distinctive attire, representing a picturesque appearance. The painters and decorators were all dressed in white duck suits, with soft white hats having black bands, and wore sun-flowers over a handsome lot of badges. Their banner is a "dream," a costly silk affair elegantly lettered and decorated. The Japanese umbrellas, which they carried last night and which came near getting them the prize, were absent today. The stage hands were also attired in white suits and caps and were marching in the march by a large four-horse band.

Carrying drop curtains rolled up, and other stage paraphernalia, and with an ornate drum above on which was written "All the world's a stage, and we help run it," while a legend at the side of the vehicle stated: "The youngest union in Utah." The stage men wore stage screws gilded for badges. The plasterers also bore a flag at the head of their column. It carried a cement-plastered house of castellated design, as large as a small room, and was carried by four horses. It was drawn in the conventional white, and carried cases. The "Typographers" were led by their handsome banner and made an excellent showing in their elegant new badges. The stone masons wore uniforms in white pants, dark sack coats, and gray felt hats. The machinists carried a large red, white and black banner, and wore overall suits and caps and made a unique and attractive showing. They were very handsome badges. As last year, the metal workers wore their metal umbrellas, carried by an immense metal umbrella, carried by a couple of bearers assisted by the knight of a quartet of gilded youth. It counted this, the proudest moment in the day.

THE BARBERS' GOAT.

The barbers had a woolly goat as a mascot in their van, and the animal seemed to enjoy the show. The Blacksmiths and horse-shoers had a large van with a force in full action, and with several large metal umbrellas. The cigar makers were preceded by a grandly painted delivery wagon, followed by Sam Levy's special cigar turnout. The men in the parade presented a neat appearance in blue shirts with "M. M. U." thereon in white, and caps, and the electrical workers in their white duck pants and black silk shirts created a favorable impression. The brewery workers were also very neat, and uniformed in gray and black. The carriage makers concluded as long as they could carriages they should ride in the parade, and the aristocratic tailors did the same thing.

LAGOON PROGRAM.

Most of the unions went to Lagoon by the 1:30 train, the exception being the Machinists' union, whose members went to the Salt Lake Palace. The program at Lagoon is varied and extensive.

DID JOHN HART KILL HIMSELF?

Suspicious Shooting Comes to Light Near Harrisville, Weber County.

BODY FOUND THIS MORNING.

Every Evidence of Suicide Save for The Absence of Powder Marks Where Bullet Entered.

(Special to the "News.")
Ogden, Sept. 7.—This morning about 8 o'clock the dead body of a man named John Hart was found near Harrisville, about four miles north of Ogden, in two sections hands. The body was in a sitting posture against a fence and in the lap of the dead man was a pistol, indicating that he had committed suicide. However, this theory may not be correct, as the forehead, where the bullet entered, showed no powder marks such as are usually evident in cases of self-destruction by shooting. The only papers on the person of the dead man was a postcard written at Hesper by one A. J. Landis.

Hart came to Ogden about a month ago, having been working on the Southern Pacific cut-off at Hesper. While here he lived at the Ogden hotel, and was regarded by the proprietor thereof as a man of excellent habits, save for a slight weakness for drink. When he came here he had about $150. He left Ogden a day or two ago in company with another man, the former carrying a parcel under his arm and the latter two valises. Where his traveling companion is, is not known, nor is anything known of the parcel or the valises. The remains were taken in charge by Justice Taylor of Harrisville, who conducted an inquest over the body this morning. When several witnesses were examined. No light, however, was thrown on the cause of death and their decision was reserved until such time as the case could be further investigated. After the inquest the body was removed to the Larkin undertaking parlors at Ogden, where it now is awaiting further developments.

Among the floats shown were those of the Becker Sewing Co., the Bartenders' union, the Roller-skating rink, the Wire Workers, Teamsters, Plumbers, Blacksmiths, Brick and Stone Masons, Cigar-makers, "the Horribles," the Hub Clothing house and several others. This afternoon the unions hold a picnic at Lester Park, where an excellent program will be carried out. ANALYSES CAN BE RELIED UPON.

Dr. Metz of New Orleans Takes Issue With Statement of Dr. Beatty.

LATTER'S THEORY AN OLD ONE.

Visitor Tells Interestingly of His Home Town and What is Being Done To Improve It.

Dr. A. L. Metz, who occupies the chair of chemistry and medical jurisprudence in Tulane university at New Orleans, Louisiana, is in the city for a few days while his wife recuperates from the effects of a severe shock which she received in a Southern Pacific wreck on Friday last, while en route here from San Francisco.

The doctor during his visit here has taken much interest in the typhoid fever discussion which has occupied considerable space in the local papers for the past few weeks. He says that such a thing as an original case of typhoid fever has never been known in New Orleans. Cases have been brought here, he claims, but none have originated there.

Dr. Metz differs very materially with Dr. Beatty, of the state board of health who stated in a morning paper that the typhoid fever is a local epidemic or bacteriological, can be applied to a water supply that can be relied upon to determine its freedom from disease germ. The former doctor states that the typhoid fever is a disease of people some 15 years ago, but that at the present time such analysis can be relied upon and are very useful in discovering the presence of disease germs in water, and they are recognized as accurate by medical men everywhere.

The doctor states that New Orleans is making wonderful progress. The citizens have voted bonds to the amount of $15,000,000 for improving the city's water system and establishing a sewer system, active work on which was commenced on June 25, 1902. The establishment of the city of New Orleans will be one of the greatest improvements ever made in that city, as heretofore it has had no sewer system, and the water supply is not completed until the year 1905. Dr. Metz is very much pleased with Salt Lake and states that there is a prospect of the city's progress and prosperity throughout the entire city.

MEETINGS IN CANADA.

Other Changes Effected on the Creation of Taylor Stake.

Special Correspondence.
Raymond, Alberta, Canada, Sept. 3.—On Monday, Aug. 31, 1903, Presidents Joseph F. Smith and Anthon H. Lund met at the residence of the latter at Raymond, Alberta, to discuss the proposed changes in the creation of the Taylor Stake.

The western circuit retained the original name "Alberta," while the eastern division, comprising the towns of Calgary, Edmonton and Strathcona, called the Taylor Stake of Zion, in honor of the great workman Apostle Taylor has accomplished here.

President H. S. Allen, Counselor Theo. Brandley of the Alberta stake and Bishop J. Wm. Knight of Raymond were sustained as the presidency of the Taylor stake, with Geo. H. Budd as recorder and Arthur E. Evans as his counselors.

Tuesday, Sept. 1, a special conference of the Taylor stake convened in the Raymond town hall, at which the following officers were sustained: Joseph F. Smith, President; Anthon H. Lund, Vice-President; J. Wm. Knight, Secretary; Arthur E. Evans, Recorder; Oscar Rayburn, Treasurer; Wm. H. Stevens, Correspondent; Wm. H. Stevens, Correspondent; Wm. H. Stevens, Correspondent.

Other officers who were called to labor in the eastern circuit of Alberta stake were sustained in the Taylor stake.

Through the calling of Bishop Knight to labor in the stake presidency, a new Bishop was chosen for Raymond ward, the person of John P. Anderson, with John W. Evans and Arthur E. Evans as his counselors.

The speakers during the meeting were as follows: President H. S. Allen, remarked that within three or four years there would be double the number of people as were enrolled now.

President Theo. Brandley exhorted all to make friends if nothing else, wherever they go.

President J. Wm. Knight trusted that the people would sustain him as heartily as they had his predecessor.

President Anthon H. Lund compared our privileges with those of other people.

Elder John W. Taylor related a vision in which he saw the Redeemer of the world, and said that he was a living witness of the divine mission of Jesus of Nazareth.

Elder Mathias F. Cowley predicted that this would not be the last stake organized here; that people should come in such numbers that many stakes would be organized in the Dominion of Canada. He testified that John the Revelator was in the north country, comparing the ten tribes for their return south.

Elder Reed Smoot said that each stake officer must of necessity be an exemplary man. They should seek for wisdom and be merciful. The "Mormon" religion was the hardest to live but the best of all.

President Joseph F. Smith's remarks were directed along temporal lines, including the preparation of soil for beets, and of man for all mechanical and professional callings. He also said we wanted experts and not many half prepared sort of people. Home industry was the chief topic. We should live and let live. Be workers and not idlers. Keep clean and unspotted from the world.

On Wednesday, Sept. 2, 1903, a special Priesthood meeting was called at 9 a. m., at which the officers were set apart and Elder Chase Smith was ordained an Elder.

given by the visiting members of the general board, Elder B. S. Hinckley, was greatly appreciated by all and will be productive of good during the coming season.

The Y. M. M. T. A. of Raymond ward was reorganized with the following officers: Geo. H. Budd, president; J. J. G. Alford, first counselor; Andrew Walton, second counselor; Arthur B. Walton, secretary; Bert Bullock, treasurer; John W. Evans, instructor in senior class and Geo. T. Wride, instructor in junior class; local missionaries, Jas. T. Anderson, W. P. Betts, Frank Holt and Jos. R. Hicks. GEO. H. BUDD, Stake Clerk.
