STARTED IN THIS AFTERNOON.

The Territorial Board of Equalization In Harness Again.

The annual meeting of the Territorial board of equalization for the assessment of the various railroad, telephone and telegraph companies, etc., in Utah for the year 1894 began at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the board's office in the Dooly building, and the business is expected to occupy from three to four days. There were present the following members: Messrs. M. R. Bowles, president, and J. E. Dooly, Salt Lake; W. W. Maughan, Logan; H. T. Hume, Ogden; and Jos. Judd, Manti. Messrs. R. C. Laird, W. Dwyer, and J. E. Booth, Provo, will arrive this evening to take part in the proceedings of the next few days. Mr. J. J. Thomas is the board's secretary, and again occupies his accustomed seat at the business table. There is a good deal of important work to be gone through.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE WINSTON TESTIMONIAL.—The testimonial concert to Miss Jennie Winston, prior to her departure from Salt Lake, has been set for Friday evening next at the Theatre. The News says, unreservedly, that there are a good many people and a good many institutions in Salt Lake who owe it to themselves to see that this concert is made a financial success. Miss Winston is a prominent member of that circle of our musical artists who have been called on, time out of mind, during the past ten years, to give their services to all of charity, who have responded cheerfully, and through whose efforts a great deal of money has been raised for various concerts and entertainments. They ought to be a handsome response now that some times musicians to figure in the role of beneficiaries. If there is not, our local artists will, it should be remembered, depend on their professions for a livelihood and would be entirely justified in saying that it is a poor rule which doesn't work both ways, and in declining hereafter to appear for any cause unless they are paid for it. It may be well doubted, at the best, whether there is not a vast inequality between the man who pays a couple of thaler for a chastity entertainment and the artist who gives an evening's service in the same cause.

A few committies, comprising Weihe, Kruse, Palmer, Thomas, Houghton and others, have charge of the Winston testimonial; they have prepared an excellent program, and put down the prices to 50 cents, a wise precaution. Now let them avoid the mistakes, commonly made by concert committees, of supposing that the public will attend a concert purely on its merits; let them do some wholesale hustling and sell out the house before the curtain goes up, and we shall be gratified. Miss Winston will receive the kind of testimonial she deserves, and the committee will have made at least one musical entertainment in hard times a profitable venture.

Organ Recital.

On Thursday evening, at the close of choir practice, Prof. J. J. Daynes designs that his special organ class will give a brief organ recital in the Tabernacle, at which the Tabernacle choir and some invited guests will be greeted. The class has been making a special study of the great organ.

A Debate Next Friday.

The Shakespeare society of the Washington school has challenged the Jackson society of the Jackson school to debate the question, "Resolved, that inventors have done more for the advancement of mankind than discoverers." The debate is to come off at the Jackson school Friday afternoon, May 25.

Passing the Narrows.

About one dozen members of the fire department who had signed the application for membership cards were weighed and measured this morning. None of the boys will be successful in passing a creditable examination but others will not. This afternoon Dr. Meacham, department physician, commenced the medical examination, which will be continued from day to day until the work has been finished.

SCANDINAVIAN NEWS BUDGET.

The Riksdag has refused to grant any more appropriations for the building of railroads in northern Sweden.

C. Sterbeck, the prominent wholesale merchant of Gefle, has been forced to make an assignment.

The manufacture of tinsine candles takes in Sweden a very prominent place. Swedish tinsine candles are considered superior to the foreign article in quality and illuminative power, in consequence of which they have, although dearer, displaced the foreign manufacture in the home market.

Mr. Thomas Ferguson, the new American minister to Sweden and Norway, arrived at Stockholm the other day. He was met at the Central Depot by minister W. W. Thomas. Mr. Thomas, who intended to return to America this month, has changed his plans, and will spend the summer in Sweden.

While during the last twenty years the number of mechanical workshops has more than doubled in Sweden, the number of workmen has increased more than three fold and the value of production more than four fold. Out of the 914 workshops and foundries 56 are situated in towns or boroughs and 113 in country districts.

Strawberries grow just as well in Sweden as in other countries, the same varieties occurring as elsewhere. During so-called fair winters they must however be covered with thrash so that the frost may not kill them. Several American sorts, such as the Tillinoie, Kate's Profit, Sharpless, etc., thrive very well in Sweden. Wood strawberries are yearly presents grown under glass in autumn and early winter.

The agricultural societies in Sweden employ so-called travel teachers of the province, who seek out the public with advice and information. The horticultural societies, to the number of about 20, spread all over the kingdom, are active in arranging flower paddings and distributing pelargoniums, supplying information and supplying plants and seed.

Among private collections of historical art may be mentioned, before all, those at Skokloster castle, where are preserved a great number of objects of industrial art, mostly brought together during the thirty years' war by Field marshal C. G. Wrangel, the then owner of the castle. Several other private castles as Vanaes, Sofiadahl, Ostersjoeg etc., possess noteworthy collections of paintings.

Unhealthy habitations are always condemned in Sweden, and public buildings, such as schools, theatres, lectures, etc., may be ordered to provide means of proper ventilation, should it be necessary. Offensive trades may not be established in large towns without the permission of the Board of Health which has a right to prohibit the continuation of industrial pursuits, which are found pernicious to the health of the neighbors.

Czar and Emperor William are expected to meet each other on the 26th at Copenhagen, when the celebration of the silver wedding of the Danish crown prince and princess will take place.

The milk retail company of Copenhagen will prepare milk in suitable bottles for children of different ages. The size of each bottle will be such as to furnish just the meal to the child. The empty bottles will be returned and cleaned at the establishment of the company before they are refilled. The new departure is not expected to be a very profitable investment, but a number of philanthropic citizens have agreed to support it, and, if it proves beneficial to the children, a society perhaps will be organized for the purpose of enabling as many poor mothers as possible to obtain this children's food.
