INDUSTRIAL ARMY.

No Alarm Caused by the Threatened Invasion of Washington.

ONE COWBOY READY TO START.

Did the War Department in Readiness for the Emergency, Should He Reach the Capital.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—The war department has received no request for aid from any one connected with the Industrial League, and to be contemplating a raid in force on Washington, and so much opposition is likely to be honored it made. The army officers don't relish the threat that the capital is to be overrun by a horde of unemployed and hungry people, as it would add greatly to the burdens of the relief organizations here, but, assuming the implied threat of trouble and all that may be in store for the town if the extraordinary demands of the promoters of the Industrial League movement are not granted, the army officers have not entirely ignored since the time here in the '70's the war department has realized the importance of having at hand a sufficient force to meet any emergency that may be laid to them need to be on foot to guard from this last sensational movement.

A VAST ARMY.

CLEVELAND, O., March 13.—A special from Massillon, O., says there is no doubt whatever in the report that the city is already thronged with tramps who have come to join the Coxey army, which departs from here on Monday. A cowboy from Oklahoma is the only enlistment to be among our lot. He is guessing Coxey's horses.

Indictment Proceedings.

ST. LOUIS, March 13.—James H. Britton, formerly mayor of this city and president of the Bank of the State of Missouri, now a citizen of New York, was arrested here today, charged with being an accessory to embezzlement by his son, Harry M. Britton, president of the First National Bank of Vernon, Texas. The arrest was made upon a transcription between the United States and Texas. The bond was for $5,412. This is the case resulted through the bank, the First National of Vernon, Texas. The charge made by the United States authorities is that the son knew the elder Britton to be insolvent when the note was given. In consequence simultaneous proceedings were brought in the two cities.

Shot His Bride and Suicided.

OMAHA, March 13.—A special from Clarkson, Neb., says: John Brecht, a young German farmer, married his bride of one month and then drew out his own brains with a shotgun. He had previous stepped too in the house of a neighbor for help. A party of neighbors proceeded to Brecht's house, and, hearing no entrance, broke a window and the floor near the body of Brecht, with a hole as large as a baseball blown in its forehead. Near by lay Mrs. Brecht, the blood welling from a ragged wound just below the left ear. The woman was still breathing, but died unconscious.

Evidently there had been a desperate struggle between Brecht and his wife over the shooting. After shooting her he tied a string to his last toe, intending it with the trigger of the shotgun, placed his right eye to the muzzle and touched the trigger with his foot. The cause of the trouble is not known.

Charged with Embezzlement.

DENVER, March 13.—E. H. Walters, chief clerk to Superintendent Bryant of the Colorado Midland railway, was arrested, charged with embezzling $18,000. Walters secured the money by means of forged payroll, which he successfully cashed for over four years.

A Pleasant Robbery.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 13.—The following story is given by passengers arriving on the Cadwalladar branch of the Iron Mountain: A joke is to be the outcome of a Great Northern northbound express at McNeill's switch, at 2 o'clock this morning, was boarded by one of the gang being in corps. A plan to rob the train had been brewing for a week. The officials were given a tip and the train was heavily guarded. A Another man entering reversed the train, intending to ask the conductor to stop at McNeill, so the train approaches McNeill the conductor was shot in a shooting affray, appearing to be flagged, but the robber secured discovered the officers and failed to give the signal to attack the train. He was so closely questioned by the officers that he concealed the girl and agreed to help trap the gang tonight. He was organized to let them loose was a stratagem of rangers already last night, but to stop the train tonight. When there would be given a repetition of the St. Joe reception.

Captured a Train.

SAN ANTONIO, March 13.—A gang of desperadoes held up a freight train on the Southern Pacific at Orin and left for California, taking with them a money chest. They were each provided with two sixty-shooters. The Reiner society.

The Testimony of a Sister.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—The first session of the afternoon was Sister Cecilia of the Sisters of Charity of Cincinnati. She testified that she had been in charge of a convent at Norwood, O.

"Do you recall in 1885 there was a French lady named Burgerin?" asked Mr. Gallagher.

"Yes, sir."

"Do you remember a female patient who was visited by a female doctor from Cincinnati?"

"There was one who was visited by Dr. Mary Green."

"Do you know of Irving, which had taken up temporarily in the case, were taken there the sister, and she said, 'I understand a set of books the lady is a lady who had been a patient in the asylum in August, 1885, but I cannot the number times she the medical case?'

She said she left the books at Norwalk. The last visited to prove they were given her by Miss Pollard, but she could not remember who gave the books. She was not asked regarding the contents of a letter received from Miss Pollard, and the court adjourned during an hour's examination of the witness.

THE VOTE ON THE LORDS.

Labouchere's Amendment Passed Amid Frantic Cheering.

The Prospect of the Resignation of Rosebery's Cabinet Already Discussed in the Lobbies.

LONDON, March 13.—The division on Labouchere's amendment occurred earlier than was expected and many members were absent at dinner. The majority was obtained at 7:15 McCarthy'ite and Parnellite, the latter voting Russian. When the division paper was handed to Labouchere on a tremendous cheer rocks from the Irish and Radical benches and members standing below the gangway, Tissot carelessly chewing and writing his handkerchief, while the government whips looked pale, especially Chief Whip Ellis. The ministers looked downcast, while Balfour smiled maliciously.

Previous to the vote on the house of lords, after the chief secretary for Ireland, Right Honorable John Morley, replied to the references of Balfour to the house yesterday, John M. Redmond, Parnellite leader, said he sympathized with Morley's humiliating position in explaining Lord Rosebery's utterances, and asked that he must express dissatisfaction at the apparent decadence of the government.

Joseph Chamberlain followed Redmond.

When he closed, Labouchere moved an adjournment, which was at once enjoyed by persons and circles to parliament to prevent this from being submitted to her majesty, and he expressed a hope it would be forthcoming. He would use her power to secure the passage of the much-needed reform. He suggested that this legislation could easily be achieved by creating 500 new peers, who would vote for the extinction of the house of lords.

Sir William Harcourt said he could not understand the process by which Mr. Labouchere reckoned to achieve his success.

Labouchere said he had a list of 300 statesmen who were pledged to vote for the abolition of the house of lords if they were sent there. [Loud laughter.]

Harcourt said the method was impracticable. It must be left to the government to find means to put an end to the intolerable situation.

Division on Labouchere's amendment was then taken and the cheering which followed the announcement of the result lasted fully a minute. Some members added to a most frantic movement. The waving of handkerchiefs and hats continued till the deputy speaker left the chair for a short interval.

The result of the division on Labouchere's amendment was a surprise, and only to the government, but to many who had voted in favor of the amendment.

The prospect of resignation of the cabinet was the general topic in the lobbies of the house of commons this evening. It is expected that the cabinet will meet tomorrow to discuss the matter.

EXCITEMENT AT RIO.

The War Over and the People Jubilant.

RIO JANEIRO, March 13.—The war is practically over and the cause of the insurgents is lost. The rebel fleet surrendered unconditionally, almost without firing a shot. The officers of the insurgent fleet have taken refuge on board the French and Portuguese warships. One French vessel has put to sea with many of the rebel leaders on board. It is said the Chinese is on board the British war ship Sirius.

When the fact became known that Da Gama had offered to capitulate, the government fleet entered the harbor quietly. As the vessels came near way up the bay they were saluted by the government batteries.

The greatest excitement prevails in the city. The streets are crowded, and everywhere one is heard the cry of "Viva Peixoto!" For the last two days the streets have been packed with people, and all the available trucks and vehicles have been busy carrying household goods out of the city. Now this week, when it was learned that the struggle was over, Thursday most joyful news to the people, who fully expected a battle.

There has been much suffering in the city. All business houses are closed, and it has been very difficult to get food. Probably 10,000 persons have left the city, without complaint, the government.

THE LAST ATTACK.

Today at 12 o'clock precisely the fort fortress opened the ugly Fort Villegaignon. In a short time the government forces at Armacao and Fort Gragoata joined in the bombardment. The fire was not returned by the insurgents. The bombardment was continued until 3 o'clock, when it ceased. Cabello, San Paulo, Sando, Cacavella and all the city cathedral Gros opened a furious fire from Fort Villegaignon and the insurgent ships Cabello island and other places. The house at Enchenada towards the hot [illegible] Sag and passed the insurgent ensign. The work of Costa was took fire, but the flames were soon extinguished. The city of the cathedral lasted an hour. No great damage was done. The insurgent fleet was a stout, hostile, and unmolested.

Immediately on the surrender of the rebel fleet the city is blazing with a white cloth from one of the ships and hoisted a signal which was answered by the fleet. A launch carrying officers then went from one of the to present terms to Admiral and each was received and a white flag. A few minutes later the white ensign was hoisted on the fort, and at a quarter to 6 the government fleet came in the bay, a welcome sight to the anxious people on shore.

An Enthusiastic Protest.

LONDON, March 13.—With the usual dull monotony broken in a quiet way, a story of injustice which if had proper would be universally resented, the Times prints a letter addressed to Dr. P. Hamlington, signed by Messrs. Mosenbaut, of London, and Langton, of Liverpool, protesting, on behalf of the English shareholders of the Central Pacific railway, against the proposed confiscation of the lease with the Southern Pacific company, for carbon given reason, and adding that the [illegible] of the Central Pacific that whatever resolution are passed at the coming meeting in the Pacific Ocean will reserve the right of taking legal action such steps as may be advisable to assert their rights.

RATHER IMPUDENT.

A Japanese Admiral at Honolulu Uses Strong Language.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., March 13.—The passengers of the steamer Arawa, which has just arrived here, give the Associated Press correspondent an interesting story of recent events in Hawaii. They assert that a subject of Japan was recently arrested in that city for a trivial offense and sentenced to jail. He escaped from jail and swam out to the Japanese warship. The authorities appealed to the American admiral, asking that he demand the surrender of the Japanese. The commander of the Japanese warship refused to give the man up, and threatened that if the American officer boarded the ship he would give him a hot hour to leave, or, if he refused, the American flagship would be blown out of the harbor. The story of the escape of the prisoner the escaped prisoner was unknown.

Miquel and Caprivi Find a Foe.

BERLIN, March 13.—The joint action in a similar struggle by Dr. Miquel, minister of finance, and Chancellor Von Caprivi against Herr Paul, newspaper writer, Herr Dewall and Herr Hovenbergen, was continued today. As already noted, Herr Paul had already found a foe, entitled "Business and Hypocrisy," and repeated the charge made by Herr Schwerdt.

Herr Hovenbergen denounced Dr. Miquel and Chancellor Von Caprivi in speeches, declaring that Miquel had been guilty of a criminal transaction in the matter of the Prussian bonds and the defendants opened their countenance.

Today Herr Hovenbergen presented a speech entitled "Hypocrisy" against Miquel. The letter, during the examination today, said that while a partner in the Dresden Gesellschaft he received a commission of 1,000,000 marks. He concludes his testimony, remarking that men such as the prisoner could not would be taken, and he thought he had no scruples of his official position.

TO ALL WHO APPLY BEFORE APRIL 1

Read the Evidence of Mrs. Anna Smith.

Mrs. Anna Smith, wife of John T. Smith, and one of the oldest and best known families of the Territory, says:

MRS. ANNA SMITH, OF SALT LAKE CITY.

For two years I have been so badly, being unable to go out of the house at all, and especially in the winter. If I would look out I would get a cold that would very weak and emaciated—my limbs would be very weak and spotted, the bones would drop from my knees and ankles, I had my chest and lungs were very sore, and I had a wretched cough, sharp shooting pains in the chest and shoulder blades, no appetite whatever, and I was too weak to work around the house. My disease had so completely and undermined my system that I began to lose my memory, and at times I would have to stop and think of what I had been saying.

I was such a nervous bag I could not walk without that I were dead.

In this deplorable condition I was induced to try the Zion Medical and Surgical Institute, and I can say that I feel as well as any one, and I feel no fails in attending duties, but I shall always have the remembrance of my long and painful sickness, and I cannot help but recommend the healing agency and wonderful powers of Dr. and Mrs. Shores to all who can be benefited by their skill.

I may add that I am 60 years of age, and at times I would have to stop and think of what I had been saying.

I was such a nervous bag I could not walk without that I were dead.

Mrs. Smith is well known in the city, and is a valued member of the Relief Society. Her testimony is worth a great deal to those who can be benefited by the skill of Dr. and Mrs. Shores.
