DESERET EVENING NEWS.

FRIDAY, - November 23, 1894.

SPECIAL EDITION OUT.

Utah Irrigation at the Trans-Mississippi Congress, at St. Louis.

Overcoming a succession of unavoidable delays the Utah Irrigation committee has at last got out a special edition for the Trans-Mississippi Congress of their new book, "Irrigation in Utah."

It went to press with only about one-half—one hundred pages—of what the full book will contain, and many of the most valuable articles are necessarily omitted, but these will all appear in the second edition in our towards copies.

The advance demand for the book shows that the people are interested from the Atlantic to the Pacific in matters appertaining to irrigation, and that Utah comes from Utah ought to carry especial weight.

The committee are so thoroughly imbued with the spirit of the resolve that three-fifths of them go to St. Louis. As labor is wholly at individual expense their work in behalf of Utah should be appreciated.

WILL PROBABLY BE PARTISAN.

Attempt to Keep Politics Out of the School Election Fails.

The joint Democratic and Republican precinct campaign committee meeting held in the Utah Commercial and Savings bank last night has resulted in the demonstration that politics will be carried into the schools of the city at least as far as the coming election is concerned. At the meeting in question Charles Crane presided and George Ahlf acted as secretary. All of the precincts were represented except the Second. In the middle of the afternoon present it was thought possible to keep partisanship in the back ground, and the meeting adjourned with the express understanding that each party would nominate its candidates and conclude to elect him.

Filing of Suits.

H. A. Mears is suing L. Holbrook, S. P. Mount and A. O. Campbell, in the Third district court, to recover $2,600 alleged to be due for commission for negotiating and effecting the sale of the Lion group of mines at the price of $135,000. The commission, it is agreed, was to be at the rate of 10 per cent of the purchase price, payable in installments as the purchase was paid and that $27,000 of said price has been paid and the plaintiff has received only $300 on account of the commission, leaving $2,700 due.

An action has been lodged in the Third district court by A. C. Smith against James T. Chesley, praying for a dissolution of partnership of the firm of A. C. Smith & Co., wholesale and retail grocers of this city. Plaintiff, among other things, alleges that the store and accounts belong to the firm amounts to about $14,000, and that the firm owes $7,000, much of which is either due or about to become due, and the creditors threaten to enumerate suits; that owing to the strained relations existing between the parties it is impossible to continue the partnership, and, therefore, it is prayed that an order of court terminating the partnership be made, that a proper accounting be had and that a receiver be appointed to take charge of the affairs of the firm in the meantime.

Students' Society.

The lecture of Dr. Tanner last evening at the Saturday Saints' College on "Constitution Making" dealt with the question of precedents and their use in deciding questions likely to arise in a constitutional convention where men resort to precedents, as they do in law, to obtain their ends. It would not be strange that precedents were found for almost any side of a question necessary at times, in view of the fact that more than 200 such conventions have been held in the United States, either for the purpose of making a new constitution or amending the old. Different constitutions can be cited as a guide it might be known in advance whether the convention is qualified were a legislature of a government. The idea underlying the lecture was that the lessons accomplished by treatises are per from examples of the past. It will be sufficient if, in the lecture, without the certainty of a complete government that authorities cited, it may be a security of a nation or agency, may yet be imaginable. For will exist a disposition [illegible] constitutions and amendments of the whole people. It is most probable, if, in the end, it was imaginable.

Precedents can be good and wise, however, upon some settled principle of law of law, and they are never safe guides either when conditions are revolutionary or when their precedents are doubtful.

All cases in convention might be proceed from some of the departments of an organized government. It is thought such a call might proceed from the executive, judicial or legislative department, though the last is the many reasons for one which has generally succeeded with powers, and one reason it is always asked questions of law and facts. Right here it might be stated that constitutions stating the legislation, is not a question merely of law, but a blend one in which both law and facts are involved so to make wise judge and jury an essential essential to making the law so in its construction. The expense law is in the hands of a representation of the organic life of the people, and the members must be the last judges of what that life is, and so leave a jury to decide the facts. That life is disposable and involves the interest of the strongest as well as that of the meanest citizen. It further involves the manifold interests of the state, farming, commercial and professional, and requires representation from each. But these incidental proceedings, here respecting the call and proceedings, have not always been regular, and so will be seen such that has been done in convention has no justification in law and can therefore be no precedent for a regularly organized body or constituted nation.

These irregular and revolutionary conventions were most frequent during the revolution the patent government and during the civil war and the period of reconstruction. The law of self-preservation is a law in governments, most as in life, and the arguments from the necessities of a case such latter be a justification for proceedings under extreme conditions. It may be necessary to will preservation to take human life or to steal to prevent death; but such abnormal circumstances can never be quoted as precedents in justification of other theft or homicide.

If the constitution makers learn to make these distinctions in their discussion of precedents to establish their respective views they will relieve themselves from wrangles into which such bodies of men have fallen in other states.

Before the convention of a state or nation can become a sole guide to follow, the circumstances and conditions of its existence must be known. The history treasures of constitutional conventions is hardly less important than the principles and rules supposed to govern their proceedings. In view of these facts the three conditions under which territories have entered and under which they have been admitted into the Union must be of peculiar interest to the constitution makers.

These conditions will be discussed at the next lecture.

DISTRICT CONFERENCE,

Of the Bear Lake Stake of Zion, at Randolph, Rich County, Nov. 17 and 18, 1894.

On the stand were President Budge and Counselor Wm. L. Rich; Bishops Wm. West and Price, Patriarch Hyrum Findlay, of Paris, Idaho; Bishop Rich, Caldwell of Garden City, Bishop Joseph Hodgson and Elder Wm. Gordon of Meadowville, Bishop Isaac Price of Round Valley, Bishop's Counselor Jos. Ballard, John Rowe, Bishop John M. Baxter, Elders Wm. H. Lee and Chas. Isaac Sr. of Woodruff, Bishop McCombs and Counselors Geo. A. Peck and Oliver Jacobson of Randolph, President John Kearney of Mendon and W. S. Muir of Benson.

Conference opened Saturday at 10 a. m. after the opening exercises Bishop Budge, Bishop Price of Paris, and President Rich addressed the conference, speaking on the condition of the Church in these last days through the Prophet Joseph Smith, also on the Word of Wisdom and tithe paying and submitting the Saints to Bishoprics.

Elders—Bishops Robert Cutler, Jos. Trow, John M. Baxter and Elder Wm. S. Muir Sr., addressed the meeting, dwelling on our everyday duties, duty to God our Father, to the Church, to Priesthood, and to our neighbors, also on the Word of Wisdom.

SUNDAY, 10 A.M.

Bishop West spoke of the early settlement of Bannock, he being one of the thirteen called under Bishop H. M. Emery to settle in Bear River Valley. He reminded us of the trials that attended our grain and vegetables in those days of 1870-80—some seasons we had frosts every day in the year—now in 1873, in June, the frost killed the leaves on the mulberry-tree; but under the blessings of God this year we have raised our early incomparable of grain, potatoes and other vegetables in abundance, which showed plainly to him that the Saints of Randolph were thriving people. President Wm. Budge occupied the balance of the forenoon meeting. He said he and the brethren who came with him were here to do all the good they could; spoke of the union between the presidency of the Stake and all the Bishops and their counselors in the several wards; showed the necessity of union among the people, and showed that our Father was master to do them we were sent to minister. He also spoke of Sabbath breaking, tithe-paying, the Word of Wisdom, and exhorted the Saints to live their religion. He blessed the Saints assembled, and said he was glad to meet with so many of them.

2 p. m.—The Sacrament was administered by the Priesthood of the Randolph ward, after which Bishop Price, Elders Rich and W. H. Lee witnessed the meeting, giving timely and very instructive remarks. Bishop McCombs made a few pointed remarks, and said that the Brother brought a load of grain for tithing who said his granaries were full, that the tithing must take it as he had to place to put it.

The Randolph choir under the direction of Peter McKinnon rendered beautiful singing which was praised by speakers and congregation. A spirit of love and good feeling pervaded the whole conference.

Clerk of Conference.

Morgan Stake Conference.

MORGAN CITY, Utah, Nov. 18, 1894.—The quarterly conference of the Morgan Stake of Zion was held on Sunday and Monday, the 18th and 19th inst. Elders John Henry Smith and Abraham H. Cannon of the Council of Apostles, and Elders C. F. Middleton and John Seamon from Ogden were visitors. There was a full attendance of officers, and, passing by strict punctuality, this time the people did well in coming to meeting.

Counselor Preston, of the Stake presidency, made opening remarks. Attention was called to the object and duty in assembling, to the beautiful harvests and continued blessings, and to the care that the Latter-day Saints have upon them for their children.

Judging from Bishops' reports there is need of increased interest on the part of Teachers, but a revival in this season of the year is promising.

Elder John Henry Smith's previous visits to Morgan was May 19th and 20th, 1892. In speaking with President Fry he was having good health at present, the speaker said he trusted health will speedily come to him. Continuing, he said: This people that the Gospel net has gathered here should be things to trip them on the one hand and to the other, but the thing to do is to remain firm. The Lord has given us a vision perfect in every detail, that has to do in the elements of eternal life. By not observing the law some become deformed physically, morally or spiritually. We should not go so far that we cannot call back in our lives experiences some that are lost at our hands. The word of the Lord is perfect, but man is not.

Elder C. F. Middleton, in the afternoon, testified to the blessings of the Lord to the people that had taken place in this valley during the past forty years of his acquaintance with the people. Another charge was given by Elder Middleton and that was the better feeling now exists towards the Latter-day Saints. No tithing is shirked, no spoken of the laws of God, no refusing a child whenever called upon to marshal.

Elder Abraham H. Cannon said that busy times of summer should not prevent our doing our duties in the Church in other things that interesting to us. We will thrive better with six days of a week than with seven, and with nine-tenths better than with ten-tenths. "Pride goeth before a fall" is the warning of a talented man. Elder Cannon alluded to politics and religion. Self-improvement was also spoken of and a bright outlook for Zion was anticipated.

On the morning of the second day Counselor Wm. H. Rich referred to the excellent remarks given to the young people on Sunday night by Elders Smith and Cannon. He advised the people to take care of their grain.

Elder Richard Fry, president of the Stake gave some pointed hints from a financial standpoint and referred to temperance.

The people were unanimous in the choice of John Hopkins to attend the Trans-Mississippi Congress at St. Louis.

After the meetings were held it was remarked that we ought to be a better people than we are—be earnestly and active.

Clerk of Conference.

Recently Mr. J. D. Thomas, of North Dakota, visited the Shenandoah Valley, Virginia, and after carefully examining the country located in Winchester, he wrote to Mr. V. Bierbower, Land and Immigration Agent, Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, Baltimore, Maryland, as follows: "I have been in nearly every state and territory of the United States, and am frank in my opinion that the valley surpasses all other sections in the Union. The lands are low in price, and produce profitable crops. I thank you for directing me here, and advise those seeking pleasant and profitable homes to locate in this country."
