AMUSEMENTS.

PAGE.—The friend is a home of mystery. It was a surprise when it was up through much tribulation and got its final down upward; it was a surprise when its first stock company opened under Mr. Frawley; it was a surprise when Victory Bateman and company another two put in a musical six weeks there; and still further surprise came last night when the Page stock company scored an unmistakable success of the house in the opera of Pepita.

I do not care to enumerate how many years everything that had the remotest value in the history, now after a time, has been taken up from time to time, generally speaking, a few years back, would have constituted a rather good opening attraction, and some which seem to be hopeless in repetition have proved more attractive than in recent years. Of course it is not an Adelina Patti or a Conried Opera company, and not it is as good as it is for the price charged—half a dollar for the best seats—is little short of remarkable. The principal feature of the company is the tenor, Mr. Hall, a stage name with known here in a similar musical vehicle. Hearing in a concert some Mr. Hall's a number of years ago, and made a strong impression then, his subsequent voice is as good as ever, and his singing of the Dalcith song, accompanied by the musical skill of Miss Salinger, is done with the price of admission. The tenor, Mr. Hall, Mr. Cragheat, of Brigham City, has a fine voice, and is very clever in his work. He is decidedly a good singer, and his acting is good. Miss Salinger, who is a good singer, and her acting is good. Miss Salinger is an excellent dancer, actress and dancer. Miss Tuesday introduced some of Dressel was well rendered and enthusiastically encored, the company has a very comedy force in Mr. Joseph, the gateman, Gustav Hall, the cook, and Arthur Boyer, the valet, while Mr. Del Le Motte continues to give a good account of his parts. It is some years since we have had an opportunity of seeing the pure Italian. Miss Mallory (why Miss Maud Fremont?) sang the laughing well the chorus, which seems large for so diminutive a company, is well balanced, and made very touchy by the addition of Foster and Clyde, two of the superior Pinafore
