EXTRA SESSION.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, 17.—Sherman called up a resolution directing the Secretary of the Treasury to transmit to the Senate a copy of the report. Mr. James T. Meline Farley asked the consideration postponed until Friday. Sherman did not object, but would insist on the adoption of the resolution during the present session. Resolution postponed.

The President pro tem announced the following to fill vacancies in the committees: Foreign affairs, Aldrich and Lapham, in place of Burnside and Conkling; finance, Aldrich for Burnside; commerce, Miller for Conkling; military, Hawley for Burnside; judiciary, Teller for Conkling; postoffices, Miller for Platt; education and labor, Aldrich for Burnside; engrossed bills, Miller for Conkling; transportation, Lapham for Platt; elections, Lapham for Teller. At the suggestion of Morrill, the new names were placed at the foot of the list. Davis said he had no authority to name the chairman till after the executive session. Adjourned.

AMERICAN.

Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, 17.—The Senate confirmed Robert G. Holly, of Vermont, United States consul, Barbadoes; Septimus J. Hanna, register of lands, Leadville, Col.; Augustus Brasslus, Indian Agent of Great Nehama agency, Neb.; John Harris, District of Columbia, Indian agent for Nemaha agency, Idaho; John W. Crummie, Dakota, agent at Devil's Lake; James McLaughlin, Dakota, agent at Standing Rock; George H. Spencer, Minn., agent at Crow Creek, Dakota.

Presidential Nominations.

The President nominated Frank M. Eastman, of the District of Columbia, United States District Attorney of Montana; A. F. Coon, postmaster of David City, Nebraska; Chas. H. Gould, of Nebraska, Receiver of Public Money for Miles City, Montana; Chas W. Pierce, of Nebraska, Register of the Land Office, Lincoln, Geo. W. Wilkinson, of Nebraska, agent for the Indians of Omaha and Winnebago Agency, Nebraska.

Dudley's Difficulty.

Ex-Senator McDonald is here to fight the confirmation of Dudley for Commissioner of Pensions. He charges that Dudley exceeded the duties of his office as United States marshal in the last presidential campaign; that he prostituted the office for political purposes and appointed 503 deputies in Indianapolis and elsewhere to work for the republicans; that these agents were politicians. McDonald expects to combine the democrats against Dudley. Other democrats allege that he discharged several faithful and competent democrats from the Pension Bureau because of their politics. The fight is likely to become a party question, and Dudley's confirmation depends on Davis' vote. His friends and opponents are equally divided.

At Last.

Immediately after the reception of the German visitors in the rotunda of the Capitol, the German minister Von Schlouser, had a special audience with the President. The Minister stated he was charged by the Emperor and by the Crown Prince, and just before his departure by Prince Bismarck, to express the deep interest and sympathy they had felt in the illness of President Garfield; their sorrow on learning of his death and their sympathy with his afflicted family and the nation. The German nation had watched the bulletins each day with anxious and kindly interest. They had charged him emphatically to convey to the President full expression of this feeling. The President assured him such messages of sympathy were deeply appreciated by this government and by all our people in this time of universal grief over the suffering and untimely death of President Garfield and returned to the imperial family thanks and assurances of high regard.

A Fiasco.

Late Saturday night Senator Mahone was arrested at the instance of Samuel Strong, an old resident of Washington, who received information from reliable sources, that Gen. Jubal A. Earley had challenged Mahone to fight a duel, and that he had accepted the challenge. Mahone was taken to the residence of Judge Snell of the Police Court, where he denied having received the challenge, saying that General Earley was too old and feeble to fight, adding that all their differences had been harmonized. Mahone was released on personal bond and returned home.

O'Conor and Parnell's Mother.

NEW YORK, 16.—Steinway Hall was crowded to-night at the reception of T. P. O'Connor, member of Parliament and delegate from Ireland to the land league of America. About 10,000 people struggled for admission into the hall which will only hold 2,500. When O'Connor was presented men and women rose to their feet and there was such a waving of hats and handkerchiefs and vociferous cheering, that nearly minutes passed before O'Connor could make audible a single utterance. Quiet being measurably restored, he said:

"It was treason that imprisoned Parnell, their leader and advocate, a man who had entered into the fight, though a landlord himself, for the simple purpose of undoing justice done an oppressed people. It is true he is imprisoned, but the British Government, if they wish to confine every leader and supporter of the movement would find necessary jail in the world, and would not then have room enough in which to confine its prisoners. Neither could the present movement of the government stamp out the feeling and fire which animated the hearts of Old Ireland's sons, and the movement was even strong enough to defy all the power and authority of England." [Enthusiastic cheers.]

O'Connor concluded by asking all present to give their heartiest support to the movement.

Dr. Dillon Egan, an associate of O'Connor, then made a short address, and was followed by Mrs. Parnell, mother of the Irish patriot, and by other persons prominent in the movement.

Mrs. Parnell said she could not control her emotion. She thanked the audience for the kind reception and sympathy with her son. Her son's imprisonment, she thought, was almost the consummation of his labors and his aims, and would be a material benefit to the cause which he had advocated. She, herself, would return to England, and would keep her son's company in his confinement for the sake of their mother country. (Prolonged cheers.)

O'Connor and Egan at the close of the meeting were visited at their hotel by representatives of the land league.

Yorktown.

YORKTOWN, 16.—The day passed very quietly. The Fifth Maryland regiment arrived in the morning and immediately went into camp. The steamer with the New Jersey battalion and Gov. Ludlow's staff got to the dock about 8 o'clock. By the time they were landed, the weather became very hot, and en route to camp more than fifty men dropped from the ranks, and were brought in by ambulance. At 5 o'clock this evening the whole battalion partook of supper. Religious services were held in the pavillion in the morning by Rt. Rev. Bishop Keap, of the Catholic diocese of Virginia, assisted by Archbishop Gibbons, of Maryland, and in the afternoon by Rev. John Hall, of the Massachusetts troops. The Governor and staff are expected to night. The quarters occupied by the different States are about the same as when the surrender was made. General Hancock's headquarters are on the same point as the headquarters of Washington. The first regiment of Michigan troops, with the Michigan Governor and staff, arrive to-morrow with other troops.

Sick.

NEW YORK, 17.—A special from Utica says: Conkling, who has been unwell for some time, is reported unable to leave his room. His family physician has been frequently in attendance the past few days, and enjoined a solute rest and the strictest quiet. It was known several days ago he has been in bad health for some time, but it was not until within the last day or two that serious illness was apprehended.

A Friendly Fight.

When the founder of the Herald died he left the Herald building, which it occupies, to his son, James Gordon Bennett. His other New York City property, he also left to his son, who was to see that his mother and sister were properly cared for. There were given to female members of the family certain rights in the property of a somewhat undefined character. The mother died, and the sole remaining heirs were James Gordon Bennett and his sister, Jeannette, now Mrs. Isaac Bell, who has two children, Nora Bell and Isaac Bell. It has been decided that the property shall be divided and a friendly suit for that purpose has been entered by John Townsend on behalf of James Gordon Bennett against Jeannette Bell, her husband and two infant children. The property to be sold is very valuable and includes the Bennett building on Nassau Street and the house and stables at the corner of Fifth Avenue and 38th Street; the adjoining lot in 38th and the house 11, West 21st Street. Washington Heights will also be sold.

Fatal Accident.

This morning the steamship Crescent City capsized while in the dry dock and was badly damaged. John Hart, fireman, was killed.

Disease and Dirt.

CHICAGO, 17.—Startling figures are given showing great and steady increase of pymatic disease, which Dr. Branch, of the State Board of Health says is due to the uncleanly condition of the streets, and in a no less degree to the larger influx of low classes of immigrants. Last week there were 36 deaths from typhoid fever, and the number this week is still greater. In January there were 18 deaths from smallpox, in May 46, August 46, September 108, and so far in October 79. The entire mortality from small-pox in 1870 was 15. Unless there is a decided reform in the street cleaning methods, even greater mortality is probable.

Of the 1,539 cases since January 1st, 40 per cent have proven fatal. It is noteworthy that by far the greate number of cases occur in the 14th Ward, where the most degraded portion of foreigners live, and where attempts at vaccination have been resisted by violence at times. In that ward 40,000 people have not been vaccinated. Of 198 deaths in September, 81 were in that division of the city. It is believed the publication of these facts will create such a sentiment as will result in almost universal vaccination and increased diligence in cleaning the streets.

Interesting Incentives.

At a meeting of the Chicago Driving Park Association to-day, the Secretary was directed to communicate with Lorillard and Keene, and ascertain if the horses Iroquois and Foxhall will be brought to this country, and if so, whether $25,000 would be any inducement to have them make their first appearance on the track of that association.

A Legal Liar.

Guiteau's counsel, Mr. Scoville, said yesterday that he expected to prove by Dr. Hammond and Dr. Sims, of New York, and Dr. Gunn and Dr. Andrews, of Chicago, that the wound inflicted by Guiteau's bullet, was not fatal, that death ensued from mal-practice. Both the Chicago physicians believe that the use of Dr. Gunn's names was simply a ruse to get a continuance. Dr. Andrews believes that the wound was fatal, while Dr. Gunn has expressed no opinion.

Wise or Otherwise.

RICHMOND, 17.—Congressman-elect George D. Wise, having denounced Riddleberg as a base liar and slanderer, a hostile meeting is expected. Riddleberg is in town, but Wise left to avoid arrest.

A dispatch from Lynchburg states that W. L. Wilson, editor of the Lynchburg News, says that the publication in the Richmond Whig of a denial by him of the authenticity of the so-called "Blaine letters," was a lie and forgery. He further states that Riddleberg did not dare to deny the genuineness of the letters, knowing that he (Wilson) was prepared to denounce him as a liar.

He Didn't Riddleberg.

[illegible] meeting took place this afternoon about ten miles from Richmond, between Captain H. H. Riddleberg and Hon. Geo. Wise. Four rounds were fired without either being hurt. Mutual explanation and amicable adjustment followed.

Bitter Outbreak.

ST. LOUIS, 17.—A very large meeting of Irishmen was held in St. Patrick's Hall, yesterday afternoon, at which speeches were made by several prominent Irishmen, and resolutions were adopted; all strongly denouncing the English government for the arrest of Parnell. A committee was also appointed to arrange for a mass meeting. This committee met to-night and framed a call for a monster outdoor meeting to be held on Wednesday, the anniversary of the surrender of Yorktown. The leading and most influential Irishmen of the city are engaged in the movement, and the meeting will probably be the largest ever held here. The feeling among the Irish is very bitter.

Prisoned but not Paralyzed.

CINCINNATI, O., 17.—Hon. Ben. Butler, in a speech before a meeting of Irishmen, was asked to give expression this evening, in regard to the arrest of Parnell. He took the position, Parnell in the field of debate for a lawful purpose, securing better legislation concerning great wrongs suffered by his countrymen and that his arrest would not hurt his cause.

Resolutions were adopted which advised coolness and deliberation, and keeping within the lines of peaceful, unswerving resistance. The cablegram sent was: "Ten thousand freemen in Cincinnati greet the imprisoned Parnell. Let the people be cool and determined."

A British Bark.

SAN FRANCISCO, 17.—A Portland dispatch says the British bark Edith Lorne, from Hobart Town, is reported ashore on Catsop Spit. It is thought she will be got off, though she is in a dangerous position.

Many Meetings.

PHILADELPHIA, 16.—Many meetings were held to-day to denounce the arrest of Parnellites.

Worcester, Mass., 16.—Two thousand people attended an indignation meeting of Irishmen in the skating rink to-day. Mayor Kelley declined an invitation to preside and Congressman Rice remained away.

Formidable Fires.

MEMPHIS, 17.—A fire at Humboldt destroyed 20 storehouses, including two squares on both sides of Main Street, also the Humboldt factory, post office and the West Tennessee Argus office. The entire business portion of the city was burned. Loss about $175,000; insurance, $16,000.

Dallas, Texas, 17.—A big fire in Palestine destroyed nearly all the business houses on the public square, and the loss above insurance is $550,000.

A Driveling Drunkard.

OMAHA, 17.—George H. Bertrand, now in jail at Washington for having asked for a revolver, to assassinate Guiteau, has been a legal and military crank here and in the West for many years. The newspapers finally ran him out of Omaha as a trickster and drunkard.

Permanent Protection.

PHILADELPHIA, 17.—The Mayor has issued an order to the owners or managers of factories, hotels, tenement houses, seminaries, hospitals and asylums, to provide permanent fire escapes.

During the gale on Saturday, the British steamer Cyphrian, from Liverpool for Genoa, was wrecked on the Welsh Coast. Twenty-two lives were lost.

Since the arrest of Parnell, threatening letters of an unusual character have been received by Gladstone and Harcourt, Secretary of State of the Home Department.

A Bordeaux dispatch says that the Phylloxera Congress concluded their labors. They resolved to send a commission to America, to ascertain the condition of wines there.

Details of the hurricane in England show it to have been the most disastrous for years. But few continental or provincial telegrams have been received. There is considerable damage to shipping.

Upwards of 50 Berwickshire smacks were at sea during the storm, and it is feared most all have been lost. It is reported 25 fishermen were drowned at Dunbar, and three pilots drowned in the Tyne.

The parks of London are strewn with fallen trees, many boats are aground in the Thames, and steam boat traffic is suspended. But few places in East End escaped damage by the storm. Four trees were blown down in South Park. Shipping casualties are numerous, but no great disaster occurred.
