Valparaiso sends the following dispatch: It is reported to night a number of members of the Brazilian congress which dictator Fonseca recently dissolved.

HAVE SOUGHT AN ASYLUM

in different foreign legations in Rio de Janeiro. Uruguay has become alarmed at the state of affairs in Brazil, and massed troops along the frontier line of that country. I am just in receipt of a dispatch from Buenos Ayres which states on the night of November 9 a revolt was begun in Rio Grande do Sul and spread rapidly. At last accounts the greater part of the State was occupied by the rebels. Generals Fernandez and Santo Ana are said to be at the head of the Revolutionists and their ranks are reported to be receiving constant accession. The garrison at Yaguaron, it is said, has joined the insurgents and artillery has been placed at the disposal of the two generals who are in command. The President's governor in Rio Grande do Sul, Castillo, deemed the revolt so serious that he asked the central government for reinforcements, representing his position as precarious. In compliance Fonseca at once sent four gunboats, three monitors and two transports loaded with troops, to the scene of the uprising. The troops will be landed at the ports of Rio Grande do Sul, Pelotas and San Jose Do Norte, at the mouth of the Bay of Patos.

Following upon the announcement of the garrison at Yaguaron going over to the insurgents comes word that two other garrisons also in Rio Grande do Sul. While this is taking place the residents of Rio de Janeiro seem to be kept in perfect ignorance of these stirring events. They believe everything is peaceful in the republic, and that the discontent against Fonseca is not worth noticing. Their ignorance is owing to the fact the government is suppressing all telegrams that describe the true situation of affairs in the state of Rio Grande do Sul.

The chiefs of the revolution are said to be Visconde Tafarel, Baron Jacuhi and General Astrapillonn Fatavalos. Their object seems to be to form a national party in opposition to the dictator. This party is to be made up of Liberals and Conservatives. The probabilities are the authorities will deal with very lively times in Rio Grande do Sul. Fonseca ministers holding office but now opposed to Fonseca are in doubtful circumstances.

THE SITUATION.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Touching the situation in Chile, the Herald's Valparaiso representative sends this: There is considerable coolness at present between the Chilean authorities and British Minister Kennedy. It dates from Sunday, November 1, All Saints day, which was made the occasion of a great demonstration in honor of those who lost their lives while in the service of the Junta previous to the downfall of Balmaceda. A great throng visited the cemetery at Valparaiso to hear the flowery tributes on the graves of the dead heroes. Among the visitors was Minister Kennedy, who also was intent on decorating some graves. His coach was caught in the jam at the entrance to the cemetery, and owing to the coachman's stubborness a row ensued, during which he found it advisable to leave his seat and seek safety in flight. Minister Kennedy's coach was somewhat damaged by colliding with other vehicles, whose occupants insisted on getting the right of way. This unpleasant incident put Kennedy in an indignant frame of mind, and ever since he has evinced a spirit of unfriendliness toward the authorities.

The correspondents of certain European newspapers seem bent upon doing all in their power to create a misunderstanding between Chile and the United States, and even hint that such motives inspire their articles. They make no secret of their desire to inculpate Minister Egan in every intrigue that is started against the United States and say they will publish everything which in their opinion will give the world the impression that the American representative unduly supported Balmaceda. Copies of the Herald containing the story of William H. Grace's connection with the shipment of arms to Balmaceda have at last arrived here, and created quite a ripple of excitement in Chile as Egan, the representative of Grace & Co.'s firm here, is a staunch Britisher and has figured throughout the late war as the firm friend of the Junta. He has also made himself very prominent on account of his disparaging remarks against the American people.

FROM CHILE.

The Junta Prepared to Surrender Its Power to Congress.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—A dispatch from Santiago this afternoon brings intelligence that the Chilean Junta is prepared to surrender its executive authority to the newly organized Congress. On the meeting of Congress today, the Junta addressed that body in a formal message. It this it sets forth the principles which had controlled it in governing the country in the absence of the regularly constituted authorities. It explained the present situation of affairs, and said that inasmuch as Congress was now prepared to assume the responsibility of affairs, the Junta would resign to this body the functions it had been exercising.

The chief recommendation of the Junta was an urgent plea that congress should at once institute measures looking to a thorough reorganization of the army and navy.

The Senate organized by electing Senor Valdo Silva as its president. The Chamber of Deputies elected as presiding officer Senor Barros Luco. Senors Silva and Luco, together with Admiral Jorge Monti, the newly elected President of the republic, were the men who constituted the famous Junta of the Congressionalists. Admiral Monti, who was nominated a few days ago by the Liberals, the dominant party in Chile, as a candidate for the presidency, and whose nomination is equivalent to election, has been empowered to assume all the duties of chief executive of the Republic until the meeting of the electoral college, which will take place shortly. When Admiral Monti will be formally elected President.

The Election Results in Iowa.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 11.—The State Register has complete returns to-day from all counties in the State. The total vote for governor was 146,214, the largest vote ever cast in the State. The whole Democratic ticket is elected. Boies' plurality for governor is 9814. This is the highest on the ticket, except Dey for railroad commissioner, whose plurality is 10,373.

Wisconsin's First Snow.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 11.—The first snow of the season in Southern Wisconsin came today.

PRAYER, WORK AND PLAY

THE ARDUOUS DAILY ROUTINE IN CATHOLIC COLLEGES.

A Course of Study and Training That Would Out Some the Professional Many Men Who Are Now Prominent of an Unfagging Task—Plain Food and Prayers.

What kind of a life is it in our colleges? Well, I suppose it is much the same as the life in colleges which are not ecclesiastical. Of course, church students have many more prayers to say, and are expected to observe the rules with more fidelity than other students.

They rise early—in foreign colleges at 5 in winter and 4 in summer—in such English colleges at 6 all the year round. Half an hour is allowed for dressing, after which all go down in silence to the church, where morning prayers are said, and a meditation is held for half an hour on some spiritual subject. Meditation is followed immediately by the celebration of mass, and altogether about an hour is spent every morning in spiritual exercises. This follows nearly till breakfast time, at 8.

Breakfast consists of a bowl of coffee or tea, with bread and butter at discretion in the house colleges, while abroad one has a choice between coffee, milk and chocolate, but the bread must be eaten dry. It is wonderful what a substantial meal can be made of coffee and dry bread when there is nothing else to be had. A few minutes for recreation are allowed after breakfast, then work goes on till dinner time, broken only by half an hour's recreation at 11 o'clock.

PLAIN FARE.

Dinner, which is eaten at 1, is always a good, substantial meal, and ample justice is done to it after the rather thin breakfast. No study is allowed during the hour and a half following dinner. All who are well enough must join in the public games, which for the most part are played with great spirit and keenly enjoyed.

At 3 o'clock the studies commence again, and class and lecture go forward till 5, when a half an hour's rest at 5, go on until 7 or half past, when thirty minutes are given to prayer and the reading of the life of some saint. After the prayers all go to the refectory for supper, which, like dinner, is taken in silence, broken only by the voice of the reader, who reads aloud some biographical or historical work.

After supper there is recreation, and at foreign colleges this is always the favorite hour of the day. And very pleasant it is to hear the fresh young voices and merry hearty laughter echoing along the college cloisters.

At 9 the big bell rings out again for the last time that day, and at the first peal the talk and laugh are hushed, the groups break up, all—professors and church students alike—make their way to the church for night prayers. Prayers over the point, for the next morrow's meditation are read out, and after the singing of a hymn all retire to a well aired rest, which in most cases is only too soon disturbed by the noisy clanging of the great bell in the early morning.

THE WORK IS HARD.

Of course, every day is not a study day. Sunday is always, more or less, a day of rest, and at least one afternoon every week is devoted to outdoor recreation.

Yet, in spite of occasional play days, as they are called, and the holidays twice a year, the life is hard enough. It most necessarily go on for some dozen years before the student is called up for ordination. The life of a Catholic priest is indeed one to which many are called, but few are chosen. A great number of those who go to college, at the age of fourteen or fifteen, with the intention of becoming priests, do not reach the goal of ordination.

In some cases health breaks down, many grow weary of the routine and strict discipline of the life, others discover that they have no calling for the ecclesiastical state, and go out into the world to begin life afresh. In, from one cause or another, the student finds that by the time he is ready for ordination he has lost the company of many who stood by his side when he entered college.

Of six who went to college some seventeen years ago with the present writer, one is dead, one is practising as a doctor in the United States, a third is manager of a bank in the north of England, another is serving as a mounted policeman in South Africa, and only two are priests.—A Catholic Priest in London Tit-Bits.

No Animals in the Dry Parts of Corea.

No animals whatever are found in the dry parts of Corea. Dampness, or a certain degree of moisture, seems to be essential to their existence. Under the stones one finds white, eyeless worms, and in the damp soil several about six to ten inches long and two inches in little holes which they excavate and bags of half a thousand big nut. These thousand-leg bugs, which in the upper world devour fragments of dead leaves and other vegetable debris, contain life in the sources by feeding upon decayed wood. Pagoda gnoyetha and bats' dung. Kneeling in a beaten path one can see numbers of them gathered about hardened drips of tallow from tourists' candles. There are plenty of crickets also.—Washington Star.

Queer Religious Sects in Russia.

M. Tsakni, a Russian writer, has published an interesting work upon the curious religious sects of Russia, from which it appears that there are not less than 15,000,000 followers of insane and cranky notions in that empire. Three communities of Jews and converted Christians are constantly springing up in spite of all the efforts of Russian dupes to keep them down.—St. Louis Republic.

PERSONAL.

Up to within a decade or less swordfish were not considered edible, but now few salt water fish command a higher price. The swordfish steaks are delicious and long from fifteen to twenty-five cents a pound in the retail markets. Swordfish are found in eastern waters, from Block Island to the Canadian line. Boatloads of men go down the summer months to capturing them and fish for other species the remainder of the year. —New York Telegram.

The Bright Side.

Younghusband—You've made a fool of me.

Mrs. Youngbride—That will be handy for you now, my dear. You can do silly things to keep me laty amused. —New York Epoch.

Chinese Pictures for Much.

"Don't one with your eyes," says Yum Yum, a Chinese writer, "for which Chinese do not care at having extraordinary eyes of the way finds, just as Chinese wear glasses. For that is to say with your eyes, and with your mouth. Your cart, if good, is actually pass the man's seat. And better than one maple, which are not four tabs, is a dish of bamboo shoots.

"The chickens, the pig, the fish and the duck, these are the four heroes of the table. Sea slugs and birds' nest have no characteristic flavors of their own. They are but strangers in the house. I once dined with a friend who gave us birds' nests in bowls like cups, holding each about four ounces of the plain boiled article. The same goods appeared vigorously in the 1 cooked and said, I came here to eat bird's nest, not to take delivery of it wholesale."—Temple Bar.

How to Acquire a Foreign Vocabulary.

Perhaps one of the best ways of fixing the words and idioms of a language in one's mind is to teach them to somebody else. The learner should try to impart to some member of his family what he has already mastered. He should, above all, seek command first of words in familiar use, leaving to a later stage of his progress the forms of literary expression. He first learns to talk about the common objects of daily life, his last business is with general terms. As to idioms he ought to be able to name every article about him, just as when he is riding in his great car or on the pavement he should be able to mentally treat the equivalent for every detail in the spring panorama of objects.—Boston Herald.

Frosted Glass.

The frosty appearance of glass which we often see when it is desirable to keep out the sun or for a protection against inquisitive eyes, is brought about by using a paint composed as follows:

Sugar of lead, well ground in oil, applied as other paint, then pounded with a brush, and when dry and nothing left between the brush and finger, after which it is allowed to partially dry. Then with a straight edge laid upon the sash you run along by the side of it with a stick sharpened to the width of the line you wish to appear between the diamond, fluted or square into which you choose to lay it off.—Detroit Free Press.

A Little Scale.

Moonlighted Lady—The boy who is trying to tie that tin can to that poor dog's tail ought to be thrashed within an inch of his life—the horrid little brute.

Maid—It's your boy, mum.

"My boy?"

"Yes, mum."

"Tell him if he'll stop I'll give him some coin."—Good News.

A Tribute to the Frog.

The building is a combination of pictorial, ornamental and aquatic delights. From his smile to his grave he is an ornament and an honor to the land. There is fine sport in the hunting of him and the eating of him, and it is both policy and justice to protect him from the onslaughts of rival and foreign bullfrogs.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A Poetic Child.

My oldest boy, who has not yet reached the mature age of three, has, I think, a good deal of poetry in his soul. Thus the other day, on noticing the ripples on the lake in Central park, caused by the wind, he exclaimed: "Mamma, looks me how the water is laughing."—New York Cor. Babyhood.

Cloth and Paper Made from Our Tree.

The paper tree of the South seem is a species of the mulberry. Its inner bark is so delicate and soft and pleasant to feeling cloth is made from it, which the natives use in making their "best suits." It is also used in the manufacture of a very fine grade of paper.—Philadelphia Times.

Ants.

In the shrubs of the coast, below 300 fathoms, many animals have either impaled upon spines or hooks. The condition in this record affords a suggestive parallel to that of cave life, and the causes are probably the same. Science is of the opinion that all deep sea life originally emigrated from the shallows.

A writer on social affairs in Ireland says there is not a single prison on the island that such things as locks, bolts and bars are unknown, and that there are neither watchmen nor policemen.

In the line of eating the Mandins, who have ruled in China since the conquest by them some 250 years ago, are strongest in baked meats. The Chinese excel in soups.

Old French forts are being sold very cheap. A French artist has bought the Fort du Gosselin for about $1,000. They go from a few hundred to $1,000.

Catarrh

Is a local disease and not a blood disease, and therefore it cannot be cured by local applications. It requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, working through the blood, reaches to every locality which causes and produces the disease, and effects a permanent cure. Thousands of people testify to the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a remedy for catarrh when other preparations had failed.

Stuff-I-Up Feeling.

"I will say I have been troubled for several years with that terribly disagreeable disease, catarrh. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla with the very best results. It cured me of that continual dropping in my throat and stuffed up feeling. It has also helped my mother, who has taken it for her cough, loss of breath and bitter mouth." MRS. P. D. HEATH, Pulaski, Conn.
