

POOR CHILDREN OF LONDON.

The streets of London are full of poor, and ragged, and untaught children, whose parents, themselves poor and ragged, and as indisposed as they are unable to provide for their children, send them out to pilfer, and to gather what they can from the wretched gleanings of the streets of the city. You see them every where. Like certain classes of birds that follow the plow for the worms that are turned up in the new made furrow, or that wander over the fields in search of insects, so these creatures live on the crumbs of the street. They are ignorant, they are depraved, they are thieves; there is nothing too filthy or wicked for them. They abound more especially in certain districts of the metropolis, where the poor are congregated. They are a class of human beings, as low and as bad as can be, and for which, as yet, there is no redemption. Their misery, in the great mass, is unapproached, and untouched by the schemes of benevolence. Nothing can exceed their degradation. There may be other conditions of heathenism in pagan lands, as low, because like exposures bring human nature to the same place; but nothing can be lower. The poor and depraved of a great city are the basest of human kind. A view of them as they are, would doubtless be as frightful as it would be disgusting. To think that our property, our comforts, and our lives, are placed in the midst of such a mass of wickedness, which nothing can restrain but physical force, or the fear of it, might well disturb our tranquility for a moment, and induce us to ask—Is there no help—no remedy for such a state of things? Is not the community responsible?

ARTIFICIAL AID FOR EYES.

Editors Hawk Eye:—In your "notes and gleanings," I find a most valuable suggestion about using spectacles, or artificial aids for the eyesight, too soon. Allow me to give you my own experience on this subject.

I am fifty-five years old and have never yet used glasses. I begin to hope now that I can go through life without them. My eyes frequently fail me, and when they do, I increase the convexity of the pupil, and adjust the focus, as you suggest, by gently pressing, with the finger and thumb, from the outer and inner corners of the eye, to the center. This I have done for more than eight years. I find that the eye has irregular paroxysms of loss of convexity. Without any apparent cause, reading or writing by night becomes difficult, in fact impossible. A few gentle pressures make all right, perhaps for a month, when the same inconvenience is felt again, the relief of course is instantaneous.

I am not positive now, but that the use of glasses for a person naturally blessed with good eyesight, is altogether unnecessary. Nearly everybody commences to use them too soon, and when they once begin, that is the last of their eyes! No greater inconvenience to me can be imagined than to carry my eyes in my pockets, and be compelled to take them out when wanted. B. F. P.

Burlington Hawk Eye.

VALUABLE FACTS.—A legal "stone" is 14 pounds in England and 16 pounds in Holland. A fathom, six feet, is derived from the height of a full grown man. A hand, in horse measure, is four inches. An Irish mile is 2240 yards, a Scotch mile is 1824, a German, 1806, a Turkish, 1626. An acre is 1840 square yards, 1 foot 3 square inches each way. A square mile is 1760 yards each way, and contains 640 acres. The human body consists of 240 bones, nine kinds of articulation or joinings, 100 cartilages of ligaments, 400 muscles or tendons, and 100 nerves, besides blood arteries, veins, &c. Potatoes planted below three feet do not vegetate, at one foot they grow thickest, and at two feet they are retarded two or three months. There are no solid rocks in the arctic regions, owing to the severe frosts. The surface of the sea is estimated at 150,000,000 square miles, taking the whole surface of the globe at 190,000,000 square miles. Its greatest depth is supposed to be equal to the height of the highest mountain, or four miles.

There are no circumstances, however unfortunate, that clever people do not extract some advantage from, and none however fortunate that the imprudent cannot turn to their own prejudice.

Rich men often disregard the great interest of the commonwealth, because absorbed at looking at the exorbitant interest of their uncommon wealth.

Died:

In Farmington, U. T., Oct. 7, 1883, in child-bed, Emily Jane, wife of William Cottrell, daughter of William and Elizabeth Sanders.

Deceased was born in Cropthorne, Worcester-shire, England, October 27th, 1839. She died as she had lived, in full faith of a glorious resur-rection. She leaves a husband and three chil-dren to mourn her loss.—(Com.)

In St. George, Sept. 23, Benjamin Joseph John-son, only son of Benjamin and Amra Johnson, born in Santaquin, Sep. 25, 1859.

Deceased was almost instantly killed by being caught in the sweep of a molasses mill. He was a dutiful son, and a promising lad, and his sud-den death cast a gloom over the whole neigh-borhood in which he lived; and his father wish-es this notice published, as a warning to all pa-rents to keep their children out of danger.—[Com.]

In Tooele, Oct. 5th, of fever and diarrhea, Mary Agnes, daughter of Philip and Jeannette DeLa-Mare, aged 1 year, 8 months and 23 days.

Also, on Oct. 8th, Hyrum, son of Philip and Mary De La Mare, aged 1 year and 2 days.

Happiness lies in the taste, and not in the things; and it is from having what we desire that we are happy—not from having what others think desirable.

GUYOT'S WALL MAPS

Geographies.

No other Geographer living understands the relations of the physical features of our earth so well, or knows how to present them to stu-dents with such simplicity and clearness, as Prof. Guyot.

L. AGASSIZ.

Prof. Guyot, the author of "The Earth and Man," is one of the ablest physical geographers in the world.

JAMES D. DANA, Prof. of Geology and Mineralogy Yale College.

I have examined Guyot's Geography, and de-sire to say, in all my experience as a teacher I have never found a system of Geography so well suited to the wants of pupils.

PROF. ISAAC KRUDER, Centre County College, Pa.

During my experience as a teacher I have al-ways regarded the teaching Geography as dry and irksome. Happily do I now view it differ-ently since teaching Guyot. The beauty and simplicity of the style in which he presents the subject, cannot fail in creating a love on the part of the teacher and scholar.

PROF. S. B. REIGER, Supt. Schools, Canfield, O.

I have delayed giving my opinion upon Guyot's Geographies until I should have thoroughly tested them in the school-room. I have no hesitation in pronouncing them the best works upon the subject that I have ever used.

PROF. N. A. BARRETT, Supt. Schools, Newton Falls, O.

I am happy to give my favorable opinion of Guyot's Geographies. The practical simplicity is such that classes of all grades readily become interested, and the Science of Geography, heretofore so repulsive to many, presents great at-tractions in the new dress.

WM. RICHARDSON, Supt. Public Schools, Piqua, O.

In the judgment of the Faculty of this Col-lege, Guyot's Geographical series is far superior to any other that has yet been offered to the public.

ASA MAHAN, President of Adrian College, Mich.

We have used Guyot's Geographical Series one term, and can confidently say our scholars have a better knowledge of the Science of Geo-graphy than they could have gained in one year from any other text-books. We are delighted with it.

B. B. TREMELIN, Supt. Public Schools, Cuyahoga Falls, O.
