CARNEGIE FRAUDS.

Alleged Detective Work for the United States Navy.

McLUKIE MAKES A STATEMENT.

Nearly Ten Per Cent of the Armor Discovered said to Be of an Inferior Quality.

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 10.—"If Secretary Herbert will receive and investigate the affidavits which I am prepared to show him, some of the worthies of the new navy will have to be taken apart."

This is the statement of John McLuskie, ex-foreman of Homestead and a former employee of the Carnegie Steel company. According to the story of affidavits which McLuskie has been gathering since the day the first armor-plate was turned out of the Homestead mills nearly ten per cent of the plates accepted and coming under inspection by the United States by the Carnegie company, are alleged to be defective. These armor plates refused a few weeks ago are said to be a mile of the sensational developments which will follow the publication of McLuskie's affidavit. These affidavits will show, it is said, the exposure of frauds similar to those in the government. Information received in confidence by Secretary Herbert recently, it is said, to the effect that frauds similar to those in the Homestead plant have been carried on since August 1, 1892, up to two weeks ago. The affidavits to be made in behalf of McLuskie are said to be signed by 300 men, some of whom worked in the mill during the great strike of 1892 while others were employed by the Carnegie works in Braddock, the armor department. The affidavits are locked in the vaults of the Carnegie trust company. Monday afternoon McLuskie met his attorney, Colonel J. K. Wallace and prepared a concise statement for submission to Secretary Herbert. The statement is said to be entirely the result of what he has witnessed in the mill, but he has not gone outside. The affidavits themselves will be furnished the secretary of the navy with an arrangement by which the sole proceedings of the inquiries are locked within the United States gover ment has a right to demand from the Carnegie company. Lawyer Wallace left for Washington last night.

SANTA CRUZ IN RUINS.

The Fire Thought to be the Work of an Incendiary.

SANTA CRUZ, Cal., April 10.—The great conflagration of last night and this morning reduced to ashes twenty-four buildings in the heart of this city, and amounts to one of over $200,000, with less than $100,000 insurance. One block reduced to ashes is bounded by Pacific avenue, Cooper and Front streets, and contained some of the finest buildings in the city. They were occupied by lawyers, bankers and merchants. The business portion is across the street from the Pacific Ocean house.

The fire was of incendiary origin and was discovered about Dr. Osborne's infirmary night, when an alarm of fire was rung in, but the firemen could not obtain a supply of water from the hydrants, as the city's water plant had broken Saturday afternoon and the water had been shut off at the reservoir, three miles from town.

The fire started in the rear of Henry Hook's one-story frame building at the corner of Cooper and Front street. A northwest wind was blowing, and the fire spread to the Dodge building, occupied by the time tattooed field of George Shiller's building, and was rapidly eating its way toward Pacific avenue.

Chinatown, which consisted of fifty frame shanties, was threatened every moment to be in the path of the fire. The Southern Pacific had to move their cars, but the wind fanned the flames further, and it being of very inflammable matter, they caught and burned like tinder. The Chinese then saved some of their effects, but nearly all of their belongings were consumed.

While the fire was raging at its highest, one of the three-story brick walls fell in, causing a panic among the people in the street, as two barely escaped without being injured.

The total loss is estimated at $200,000; insurance, $60,000.

SIOUX CITY'S TROUBLE.

Has a Street Sweeper Proposes to Build the Broom.

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, April 10.—The announcement made at a recent meeting of the city council that W. C. McNamara, a citizen who had a contract for sweeping the city's streets, about which so bad trouble arose, refused to prosecute a case to compel the city to account for and pay over to the county all money paid out on the city in the way of license fees by saloon keepers, has created a great deal of comment here, for the reason that the proceeds of the fees have been used in paying the current expenses of the city, and the amount is estimated at nearly $20,000. McNamara's excuse would necessitate the levying of a heavy judgment tax.

In bringing his proceedings McNamara asserts the position that under the Clark law (the Iowa prohibitory law) it is required of all magistrates that all fines collected for violations of the law be disposed of in the same manner as bond forfeit. The money that has been collected has been turned over to the police board to contingent fund at the city and it has been used to pay for the salary fund at the police and fire departments for which purpose it was so spent. McNamara claims that the police judges, under the law, should have used the money into the county school fund, and good attorneys allege that his interpretation of the law is right and that if the police the case he will be successful in making the city discharge.

Complaining of the British.

NEW YORK, April 10.—About forty of the officers and seamen in the Nicaraguan navy arrived here by the steamship Cherbrigo which left the Jamaica Mail dock after the surrender of its guns. Among the officers were Assistant Surgeon Arnoz and Chief Gunner Gomez. The Armor scrawy published the disconsolate account of the criminal and officers of the Nicaraguan navy to the treatment of the officers and crew of the Nicaraguan and expressed his belief that the capture of the vessel in the harbor of Rio Match little easier to go into action mildly mentioned to the surrender of the mind force.

He added "I do not believe that the Brazilian admiral was anxious that the fleet should visit the port of Rio Janeiro for the reason that in my opinion he was in sympathy with Da Gama."

The doctor gave some very good reasons to support his statements.

To Leave Little Sis's Record.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., April 10.—George Griffiths, the Englishman who left London, England, a month ago to round the world in stationary steps by ordinary means of transportation, expects to pass through this place in a few weeks. He will go to New York and then sail for England. He will in consequence travel 21,250 miles and Little Sis's record by eight days.

FAITH HEALINGS.

Rev. Dowie Entertains a Chicago Audience in Tabernacle.

CHICAGO, April 10.—Central Music hall was packed from floor to ceiling Sunday afternoon with persons drawn either by curiosity, sympathy or curiosity to hear Rev. J. A. Dowie, the faith healer, and the testimony of those who have been cured of their diseases through his ministry. Many were disappointed, and had to be satisfied with hearing the testimony of those who had been healed.

A table about two feet high was piled high with crutches, canes, braces, cuffs, shoes and other articles belonging to cripples, also a set of false teeth which had been restored. Dr. Dowie pointed to this strange collection as a few of the trophies won for the faith healing cause in Chicago. The meeting was opened with prayer and song. Then Rev. Dowie gave a biblical address and followed it up with a statement of the principles of faith healing. The address lasted one hour and a half and was given to deliverance.

The first patient brought forward was Willie Baker, a nine-year-old boy. Willie identified a pair of crutches and a steel brace as belonging to him. He had hip joint disease and was taken by his mother to the Zion tabernacle and after prayer by Mr. Dowie, he had laid down his crutches, took off his steel brace, and exercise his leg and walked home. That was about a month ago. He is now as active as any boy yesterday here.

David Cowan, a lawyer, told how Dr. Dowie had cured his son of a kidney disease and himself of a kidney disease of long standing.

John Schmidt testified that Mrs. his wife was in bed with typhoid fever and was cured in a day.

Miss May Lomax told the most remarkable story. She was a young lady and had a withered leg from the knee down. It was remarkable of sensation and pain was wanted almost to the loins. It was one and a half inches shorter than the other.

Last June she went to Dr. Dowie. He prayed for her leg. At once she felt a sensation of tingling in the limb running through the withered leg and a moment after she attempted to walk and could feel the bone cracking as the bone and muscles united. It was in the same length as the other. From that day she has been as sound in that leg as the other.

A number of other instances of remarkable cures were recited.

The Viking Ship.

CHICAGO, April 10.—The famous viking ship, now lying in port at New Orleans, has been purchased by an association in Chicago of which ex-Senator Stockbridge of Michigan is President and Captain Magnus Anderson are prominent members. The ship will be kept in this city.

Conflict With a Bear.

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn., April 10.—Jere Combs had a terrible conflict with a bear in Cowan's Cove on Saturday. The animal had been trapped, and when Combs came upon the scene the infuriated beast broke his fetters and was upon the hunter in an instant. The bear seized his left arm in its jaws, his gun dropping from the hand of the mangled limb, and a battle of death began. Combs opposed the mountain as was in the embrace of his antagonist. They fell to the ground and rolling over and over went down the mountain side fifty yards, the bear chewed off a bulge of flesh twelve feet. The bear happened to fall underneath, and during the momentary shock which followed the half stunned man managed to draw his knife and plunge it into the animal's neck, severing the jugular vein.

This ended the battle, but Sands was so badly hurt that he could not return home, and was found by a searching party.

A TRAGIC ROMANCE.

A Young Girl's Love Ends in Insanity.

BUFFALO, April 10.—A few weeks ago, Charles Kock, a retired merchant, made the announcement of the breaking of the engagement of his daughter Emma, to Mr. Henry Schaff, a well-to-do young man. Kock was a Presbyterian and Miss Schaff a Catholic and they could not agree as to the church in which they should be married. Mr. Schaff and Kock met to visit the engagement. The young people held up the engagement quietly. A week ago, Miss Kock appeared unhinged, and after raving, with some intervals, committed suicide. At the time appointed, she had her wedding.

The end came to Kock during her fatal act prevented her from meeting him. Thinking to persuade her to accompany him, he went to meet her door or to the other house where she went to him. The letter that he had written her prayed on the girl's mind and she was taken to the insane asylum and died repeatedly since. Then her mind gave way and she was taken to the Buffalo state hospital a raving lunatic. Kock remained in the house but apparently for him, for when he called it was for her last time she was taken to the asylum one hot and belonging him. She goes into violent fits when her father enters her presence and he is heart-broken over the death. Her condition is so bad that the doctors have little hope of her recovery.

A Tenderloin Conviction.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 10.—There has just ended in South Pittsburg, Tennessee, one of the most remarkable political contentions ever seen in this state. It was a fight to the finish to nominate a candidate for attorney general. Messrs. Moore, of Chattanooga, and Reilly, of South Pittsburg, were in the race. Delegates were almost equally divided. The convention began Tuesday and it held a most continuous session from the time of meeting until Saturday night, convening at 9 a. m., and adjourning after midnight. Bitter feeling prevailed and bloodshed was narrowly averted, twelve ballots were taken before the convention ended. At last the deadlock was broken by the nomination of J. E. Dunnagan, of Marion county, a dark horse, on the 12,000 ballot. Dunnagan the greatest number of ballots ever cast in such a convention was 1,004.

Alleged Theft of Mineral Lands.

DENVER, April 10.—A special to the News from Cheyenne gives the report of the capture of a theft of mineral lands in Wyoming. It has been located in an asylum for the blind, and and dumb over 12,000 acres were declared to be mineral land in the heart of the Silver Crest and Cripple Creek Lemonie county, in vicinity of the law. It is asserted that the discovery will delay the Wyoming Republicans at the next election.

Will Repeal the Laws.

BERLIN, April 10.—The Reichstag today, finally adopted the motion to repeal the anti-Jesuit laws which prevented the return of the Jesuits to Germany.

A Governor Stockbridge.

VALENCIA, April 10.—The governor-elect has assumed the civil governor of Valencia on the ground that he did not give the insurgent rebellion to pilgrims on their way to Rome.

Pleased the Pope.

ROME, April 10.—The pope appeared to the Roman government his approval as the resolution adopted by the committee condemning the attack on the pilgrims.

From Brazil.

LONDON, April 10.—The Brazilian Minister has received the following dispatch from Rio de Janeiro. The insurgents have abandoned all the surrounding towns at Paragua and Santa Catherine. The attempt of the insurgents to land at Rio Grande City resulted in the loss of six hundred men. Afterwards they landed in the department of Rocha, Uruguay, whence Admiral de Mello and General Saldanha went south. The Uruguayan authorities refused to allow the rebel ship to remain where anchored and it set after leaving four hundred disarmed men. The insurgent troops were removed from the shores of Rio Grande. Do Sul by an insurgent war ship Republica and by insurgent transports.

DA GAMA'S REPLY.

NEW YORK, April 10.—An Associated Press correspondent at Rio de Janeiro writes concerning the Brazilian revolution. During Sunday, March 19th, Peixoto notified the diplomatic corps that he would fire on the insurgent vessels on Tuesday. Da Gama sent a proposition of terms of surrender which Peixoto refused. On Tuesday while Rear Admiral Da Gama's insurgent ships and the forts and the firing lasted for two hours, then it was observed that the ships and forts had been deserted. Many officers have already escaped on Merchant vessels. Others are seeking refuge on merchant vessels. Da Gama escaped on board the French man-of-war Bisson, where he is now. It is reported that he desired to escape only to stay Dr Mello. Others think he stayed his honor for his life.

SHORT IN HER ACCOUNTS.

The Only Lady City Treasurer in the Country.

FORT SCOTT, KAN., April 10. — Expert investigation of the books of City Treasurer Mrs. E. B. Pulliam, the only female city treasurer in the United States, it appears that she is $1,500 short in her accounts. It is not thought that she has been dishonest but that the shortage is due to her having obtained money by illegal means.

A Mysterious Lady in Jail.

VICTORIA, B. C., April 10.—There is much mystery surrounding a certain young Englishman at present in Victoria jail under the name of Lord Percy Widdy. He says he is a relative of the Marquis of Queensberry, on a charge of passing bogus checks. Lord Whitial was a creation of the Gladstone government and the Marquis just deceased was a member of the Commons for one of the Scotch boroughs. The mother was called at the address given by her son, Kingsgate, South Kensington, London, one of the most fashionable residential locations in the world. Five minutes before the bark Astoria left Liverpool he sent to the Pacific a helpless inanimated young man was hurried aboard. When he came to his senses out at sea a letter was given him addressed to a man Francisco firm and another to Reid living, Vancouver. On reaching San Francisco he drew $5,000 and proceeded to Victoria in the "Lord" role. He claims he informed a reporter here that his income was 40,000 pounds. He proceeded to celebrate extensively, and finally cashed several checks on the bank of British Columbia. These checks were dishonored, and his arrest followed. The trial is set for hearing today.

A Serious Situation.

W. H. Young Dead.

W. H. Young, the oldest son of Lorenzo D. Young, died in this city last night of diabetes. He was aged 57 years. In early days he was Bishop of South Cottonwood ward, Salt Lake county. Subsequently he removed to Grantsville, Tooele county, and became Bishop of that ward. Later he changed his residence to this city, and engaged in the mercantile business. He was a highly respected citizen.

It Was a Total Loss.

Manager H. G. Whitney has returned from Mapleton, Utah county, where he went to adjust the loss by fire on the residence of M. W. Mullen, a prominent retired of that place. The fire, Mr. Whitney states, was an especially fierce one, and it was with difficulty one of Mr. Mullen's children was saved from death. He was severely scorched by the flames while lifting the child to a cradle out of the blazing room, but was not seriously injured. The insurance carried was $1,000, which was allowed in full by the Home Fire company, but the total loss amounted to fully $2,000.

POLICE COMMISSIONERS.

The Board Holding a Session this Afternoon—The Business Transacted.

The board of fire and police commissioners are in session this afternoon as the News goes to press. All of the members were present and Salisbury in the chair.

The first business to be taken up was the "red flag" resolution spring in the City Council at the last meeting by Councilman Stenhouse. It was decided to refer it back to the Council with the opinion of the city attorney and authorities attached.

The question of appointing George A. Raleigh to the vacancy on the police force, occasioned by the promotion of Harry Ford, was next taken up. Solomon Kimball, who backed for the position of assistant jailor a position with which he is perfectly familiar, having filled it several years ago, and which is now occupied by Mr. Raleigh.

DEATH OF THOMAS WALLACE.

The Respected Bishop of North Ogden Passed away Last Night.

It was a sad message that brought the information to this city that Elder Thomas Wallace, Bishop of North Ogden, had passed away. It appears that he was at the residence of Hon. Franklin D. Richards at 9:15 o'clock last night, and that he died there suddenly at that time.

For a considerable time he has been afflicted with lung trouble and had suffered a good deal through of late he did not seem to be in a more serious condition than usual. He had been in attendance at the quarterly conference yesterday, and he on his return to his home in the evening late in the day, preparations were made for him to remain over during the night. While sitting in a chair he taken with the heavy stroke of him and nothing serious was expected. The illness came when he arose—as he had attempted to take—from his chair where he rested and fell to the floor dead.

Elder Wallace was a man of many sterling qualities and his death will be sincerely mourned.

Special to the News.

OGDEN, Utah, April 10.—Bishop Wallace of North Ogden died very suddenly at the residence of Apostle Franklin D. Richards last night at 9:15 o'clock. Elder Wallace attended the quarterly conference in the afternoon and while there remarked that he believed he was coming down with pneumonia. After the close of the meeting he accompanied Apostle Richards to the home and he died soon after reaching with fell, when sitting in a chair to the floor, gasped and was dead. Dr. Carr said he was stricken and stated that death was caused by congestion of the heart. Bishop Wallace leaves wife of Bishop Hunter and one son, Elder Thomas Wallace, who is now in Switzerland. The funeral will be held in the Tabernacle in morning afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock.

Quiet Sheep Case.

A quiet case came up before Commissioner Cannon this week, says the Vernal Express. Perry Young, a shepherd, had turned his camp wagon on Joseph Bennett's ranch, and the sheep were watered in Brush creek, where Bennett's ranch, adjoining the wagon, and the sheep were watered for immediate purposes. Bennett claimed the man in charge of the sheep drove them, and after a time to move the wagon, but he was refused to do so. Words then took the matter to his own hands, and three witnesses going and moved the wagon 14 away. They were taken to Salt Lake City, and found guilty of misconduct, and fines and costs amounted to over $100.

A FRIGHTFUL FATALITY.

Harry McEwan, a Respected Salt Lake Youth Met With a Violent Death.

Thrown From a Buggy by a Frightened Horse in Sugar House Ward Yesterday.

There was a most lamentable and fatal accident in Sugar House ward yesterday afternoon. The victim was Harry McEwan, an old and highly respected resident of this city.

He went out to his farm in the early part of the day and was returning at 3 o'clock in the afternoon by the way of Sugar House ward. With him was his wife and two grandchildren, all seated in a single horse buggy. As they were crossing the railroad tracks at the intersection of Twelfth South and Eleventh East street, near the round-house stood which a number of cars were standing, the horse took fright and started into a run. The animal had got but a short distance when the whole party was thrown from the buggy.

Mr. McEwan struck on his head and shoulders and was quite badly injured, unconscious and carried into a house near by where he was soon after attended by Dr. Richards, who immediately saw that recovery was an impossibility and his diagnosis of the case proved to be correct, for at 5 o'clock this morning the unfortunate man died without regaining sensibility, at his residence in the Twenty second ward, being brought into the city on the Utah Central train at 8:30 last night. Mrs. McEwan was also injured seriously though the accident brought back about the upper and lower lines. The children escaped without injury, being thrown out of the early fellies. He was a practical plumber and was for a number of years foreman of the Deseret News composing room. He was also for a long time assistant stage manager of the Salt Lake Theatre. During his residence in Utah he has been identified in various ways with different industrial and business enterprises, the last with which he was concerned being the Home Times. He had a jovial disposition and was ever cheerful and light hearted, and his sudden and shocking death will bring sorrow to the hearts of many friends. He was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, on the 4th of July, 1838. He leaves a wife and four sons, one of whom is now on a mission. Three years ago he visited his native land and other European countries in company with Phil Margetts.

His funeral will take place from the family residence at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

AMUSEMENTS.

MY AUNT BRIDGET closed her Salt Lake engagement Saturday evening to a deservedly small audience.

THE TRIPPER AND ALLEN GIRLS introduced themselves at the Theater this evening.

A Vetoed Appropriation List.

It was ascertained from a reliable source today that Mayor Baskin had vetoed and would return disapproved to the City Council at its meeting tomorrow night, the $4,000 appropriation list passed by that body at its last session. It is understood that his court clerks to the Eleventh in each of the Fist E Mathie committee which the list mentioned and which he has assumed stimulates he will approve.

James Wood, Plasterer.

Tidings would be mournfully received of James Wood, plasterer, son of William E. and Esther Wood, who left Manchester about July last year. He was last heard of from Troy, U. S. A., and is supposed to be in Salt Lake or in joining his mother, who left for leaving England. The inquirer is his sister, Mrs. Hannah Leonard No. 5 Bigland street, Ordsall lane, Salford, Manchester.

Making Money.

Amos Parker and John Wight, says the Brigham Bugler, two young men of this city, who recently went out to Oregon to seek their fortunes, are doing even better than they expected. The boys are now engaged in placer mining in that state. They have already taken a long sum, which has been carried to other paying properties in the same vicinity.

A TERRIBLE PLUNGE.

Narrowness Escape of the Westbound Train Near Ogden This Morning.

FRIGHTFUL ROCK FALL AT UINTAH

A Locomotive Hurled Down the Embankment—The Fireman Reported Killed Outlaws Injured.

A dreadful catastrophe was averted this morning through the passenger train due at Ogden from the East at 10:45 a.m. being a few minutes late. Many frightful accidents have occurred from the same cause that prevented this one. It appears that an eastbound freight train with a helper engine was making its way up Weber canyon about 1 o'clock this morning, and the engineers had received orders to run into the first switch, which is about eight or ten miles from Ogden, to the second, and there allowing the incoming passenger train to pass. This is was saved the passenger train, hurled down with an unusually heavy burden of humanity, thus being dashed down the steep embankment at the worst turn of the Weber river.

Unknown to the men, a landslide had blocked the track in the neighborhood of Devil's Gate, and the freight train, on its way to the second switch, moved into the derailed. The first locomotive jumped the track, and came home from the second, while the next instant it was precipitated down into the raging stream below. The engineer jumped from the engine and broke his leg, besides receiving other painful injuries, and remains have it that he was fatally hurt. It is also stated that the fireman was instantly killed, but at the hour the News went to press this could not be verified, the railroad officials and others refusing all information concerning the affair. The names of the victims could not be obtained.

Consternation reigned among the passengers on the train from the east when they learned how near they had been to destruction. They were then in the very jaws of death, and nearly ladies were thoroughly prostrated with the night. The passenger train was at a very high rate of speed after passing the second switch east of Ogden, and had it been on time this morning, it would have dashed into the landslide and been buried into the rocks and river below. Few would have lived to tell the tale.

The passenger ran into an open switch and was stopped without injury by the accident to the freight. The train is known as No. 1, is the last mail and is due in Salt Lake at 5 a. m. On Saturday night the last mail was into a rock car near Hilliard, Wyo., and the engine and two mail cars were ditched. The engineer and fireman were both killed and the mail clerk injured. The names of the deceased are William Lothbridge, engineer, and O. H. George, fireman. No other damage was done to far as can be learned.

A News reporter succeeded in finding Superintendent Bancroft of the Union Pacific this afternoon and interviewed him in regard to the reported disaster in Weber canyon this morning. He stated that a huge mass of rock fell from the cliff four hundred feet above the railroad track and demolished the roadbed for a distance of about 1 feet. The rock rested on the track and weighed about twenty tons. A wrecking was engineer of the obstruction, which was located about one mile the side of Uintah, and went forward to flag the passenger train. The wrecking, however, was not aware of there being a special freight going east, and went up the line on a lookout for the last mail. The engineer and fireman on the leading locomotive of the freight jumped from the engine just as it was about to crash into the mass of rock, and the fireman, whose name is J. W. Beckstrom, broke his right leg. The engineer escaped without serious injury. The locomotive is badly wrecked at the foot of the embankment.

Being Torn Down.

The old two story adobe structure below Godbe's corner, belonging to ex-Mayor Armstrong, was being torn down this afternoon and the sidewalk in front of it was guarded by the police. The building has been in a bad condition for some time and the recent storm has made it so dangerous as to make removal necessary.

BLAZER'S DILEMMAS.

It is Very Likely that the County Court will Lose His Scalp.

Blazer, J. P., does not seem to be quite out of the woods yet. Within the last week or ten days he has been summoned in with troubles at almost every turn. Now there are intimations that the county court, which with body he was recently appointed a justice of the peace for the Fifth precinct, intends to go after his scalp. There was several Bills dropped at this afternoon's session tending to show that his removal is in sight. In fact, one of the resolutions went so far as to draw up a resolution to that effect, but up to the time the News went to press no definite action had been taken upon it.

Henry Waterson's Arrival Here.

Henry Waterson, the great humorist and publisher, will, according to a telegram received this afternoon from D. Friedlander, his manager, be in Salt Lake about the middle of May. Arrangements have been made by Friedlander for the Theater on the night of May 15th.
