MUNICIPAL MATTERS

Financial Statement of the City for the Past Ten Months.

RECEIPTS AND DISBURSEMENTS.

The Former $309,085 39 and the Latter $494,654 00—General Department Reports for a Week.

A "scant" half million dollars represents the snug little sum expended by the present City Council of Salt Lake for the past ten months. Perhaps that statement would not be so startling but for the fact that the municipality's revenue for the same period was but $309,085.39. The actual amount paid out was $494,654, making the disbursements only $185,568.61 in excess of the earnings. Of course a very large proportion of this latter amount went towards building a sewer system finer than which there is said to be none in the world, yet it is sufficient to make taxpayers wonder what the end will be.

The statement which discloses these figures has just been compiled by City Auditor Raybould with a good deal of care, and was given out for publication this afternoon. It is for the ten months ending October 31, and is detail is as follows:

With the County Clerk.

The Probate Court.

The probate court will be ready for business on Monday, Judge McNally, who has been absent in the East some time, having sent word that he will be at his post on that date.

The County Court.

The county selectmen will convene in regular session on Monday morning at 10 o'clock, and Judge McNally will likely occupy his usual position as presiding officer.

Board of Public Works.

The board of public works will hold a special meeting next Monday at 2 p. m. Sewer, trunk and sidewalk improvements will be among the matters discussed.

Building Permits.

Building inspector Folsom has issued the following permits during the past week entailing expenditures of $15,[illegible]:

G. S. Robbins, four-room frame at 1264 S. Eleventh East at a cost of $700.

Nuetler Bros., three-room brick at 32 S. East Temple costing $1,800.

G. Lowell & McCosnaghy, six-room brick on First street between G and F at a cost of $2,000.

Mrs. E. W. Duncan, nineteen-room brick on First South between Fifth and Sixth East streets costing $6,000.

F. A. Grant for a brick barn on the corner of Third and S costing $800.

Fisher Brewing Co., for alterations and addition at corner of Tenth West and Second South costing $5,000.

Not Yet Signed.

The appropriation bills, of which there were two, passed at the last session of the City Council, have not yet received the Mayor's signature, nor is it likely that one of them will be signed. The one which was handed the Mayor's secretary to the extent of a very, is that which provides for the payment of $3,[illegible]46 to J. W. Ferrin & Co. for work done in the Jail building, and gives to Frank Harrigan $472.84, a balance claimed by him on sidewalk work. The Mayor's objection to it is based on the fact that the seven members of the Council votes for the appropriation, twice as he thinks himself that they are claims which should not be allowed. The other appropriation bill, which will no doubt meet with the Mayor's approval, aggregates an outlay of $18,822.34, incurred for general purposes.

Without Dr. Price's Baking Powder no modern cooking school is equipped.

Totally Destroyed.

The result of the fire at Selectmas Christopherson's place yesterday afternoon was the total destruction of his home, valued at $2,500, which, however, is only covered by fourthousand. The blaze started in the rear shortly after 2 o'clock and by the time the department reached the vicinity, the house was almost a total wreck. The selectman was absent at Bingham at the time but the ready assistance of the neighbors resulted in nearly all the furniture being saved.

Mr. Christopherson called at the News office this afternoon and said he desired to publicly express his appreciation and thanks to the fire department, neighbors and friends for the ready, willing and effective work in saving his household goods. All papers and everything movable was rescued. The actual amount of insurance, Mr. Christopherson says, is $2,000 and is carried by the Continental of New York. Messrs. Simons & Lowe, local agents.

The Change in Trains.

Tomorrow, Sunday, and the next day changes important to the traveling public go into effect on the Union Pacific and Rio Grande Western railways, the date for the Union Pacific change being the 17th, and that of the D. G. W. the 18th.

PROVO.

PROVO, UTAH, Nov. 16, 1895.

The Hague Case.

Yesterday afternoon Judge Marshall announced to the Hague case that the prosecution would now close with the exception of further examining W. L. Brown, who had gone to Nephi to secure papers connected with the business with the Nephi bank. The defense did not care to introduce any evidence till this witness was disposed of, and an adjournment was taken till this morning. Last evening a communication was received from Mr. Brown that no freight train left Nephi this morning and that he could not arrive here till this evening.

This morning, upon motion of the prosecution, the other three cases against Mr. Hague were continued for the term for the reason that it was reasonably sure that no jury could be obtained to try them. The defense objected to the continuance of one of the cases, but a continuance was allowed. Court then adjourned till Monday at 10 o'clock.

OTHER COURT BUSINESS.

The indictment is based upon articles published in his paper in October in regard to Alpha Hallinger and others in connection with their testimony in the arson case brought against Brownlee and others, charging them with setting fire to the Advocate office.

Catherine Johnson has commenced suit for divorce against Olaus Johnson. She charges defendant with beating her, calling her vile names and threatening to kill her, and that on the 13th of September he left her, taking one of the children with him, and is now living in Colorado. She asks for $100 for costs and counsel fees and for the custody of five minor children. The parties intermarried in Stockholm, Sweden, in June, 1890, and plaintiff is a resident of Grant county, Utah.

Clark, Hallsley & Vincent, of Provo, and Messrs. Nelson & Hansen, of Lake Shore. Others in the north end of the county have also contributed.

Schools Crowded.

At the meeting of the school board held last evening a special committee appointed to investigate and report upon the crowded condition of the schools, presented a report recommending that all children under seven years of age be not admitted for the second and third term, for the reason that the schools were overcrowded. Report adopted, and the president of the board and superintendent of schools were instructed to prepare a circular to the public, setting forth the reason for this action of the board.
