THE CACHE COUNTY ELECTION.

Statement by Responsible Citizens Regarding Moses Thatcher's Speech.

The following communication dated Logan, August 18th, appeared in the Times yesterday:

The special agitation originating with the letter of Rev. Wm. R. Campbell, of Mendon, published in the Salt Lake Tribune of the 6th inst., has been intensified by the reiteration and re-endorsement of Campbell's charges in the Tribune of the 15th inst. The citizens of Logan, irrespective of party, feel scandalized and misrepresented by a report concerning the action and character of the community as a whole which, if not absolutely untruthful, could only by an extreme possibility be true in relation to some obscure, unknown and irresponsible actor. If a crime be committed in a community, is it fair or true to charge the commission of the crime to the whole population? It is charged that Apostle Thatcher made a speech on the Saturday evening previous to the election, and that he exerted his apostolic authority so effectually that many republicans who had just come in from an adjoining meeting of their own, tore off their republican badges and openly renounced their republicanism. Not only this, it is further charged that the whole election was a farce in that it was determined wholly by ecclesiastical dictation, that all the earnestness and energy and disputation of the canvass was a mere invention and a phantasmagoria gotten up for the purpose of deception.

Such reports are as false as they are unscrupulous. If any Republican tore off his badge and renounced his Republicanism in consequence of Moses Thatcher's speech, nobody in Logan knows about it; nobody approves such an act. But more than this, it was by no means in harmony with the spirit of the canvass. Everything indicated freedom and individuality.

In his short speech Moses Thatcher reminded the people that they were free, absolutely under the control of their own hearts and wills. He prompted them to use their own minds; he repeated "read, read," that you may know how to cast your vote. He said further, what is more important under the circumstances: "The man who advises you to knife a gentleman on your ticket because he is a gentile is no friend to the people." The fact is, the Logan canvass was a hot one, energetic and spirited in all its bearings.

On the Saturday preceding the election there were large processions of both parties, men and women, the ladies in line numbering over 500, being about equally divided between the republican and democratic parties. This same spirit continued throughout election day, the following Monday. Both parties were confident and vigilant. The republicans gained 35 votes over their count at the preceding election. The Democrats gained a larger percentage of the undecided vote, they having 159 at the preceding school election and 215 on August 3rd. But it must be remembered that the past predilections of the people were Democratic, at least they suppose so, and there is the further fact that it is easier to make Democrats than educate Republicans, as it takes only one thought to make a Democrat and it takes at least two thoughts to make a Republican. But whether Democrat or Republican, everybody in Logan knows that he was free to choose. There was no "dictation," no "counsel," nothing that came from the heads of the Church.

Such was the case, so far as instruction was concerned, in this whole county. They were all free. With respect to the specific allegations of the Tribune, the following declaration and protest is made by the citizens of Logan whose official and business occupations are indicated in connection with their names:

Whereas, The Salt Lake Tribune has on the 15th inst., and on other occasions published and endorsed certain statements relative to a Democratic rally at Logan, Utah, on Saturday evening, August 1st, 1891, viz.: "He saw the people climb over the rail and make a rush when Moses Thatcher was called."

"He saw more than one Mormon, who had posed as a Republican, tear his Republican badge off."

"He rendered distinctly of hearing him (Moses Thatcher) tell of the 'rivers of tears' that had been shed in this Territory, because of Republican tyranny."

Therefore, We, the undersigned, citizens and residents of Logan, Utah, certify that we were present at the said Democratic meeting, and that we sat together on the platform, facing the audience, thus having ample opportunity for observation. The meeting was held in the out-door dancing floor, which is about sixty feet square surrounded with a fence about four feet high with only one entrance, which was near the platform. The enclosure was crowded with ladies and gentlemen, especially near the front, inside and outside, all around the whole scene being brilliantly lighted by several electric arc lights. We were present during the whole meeting, and heard Moses Thatcher's speech, which was delivered from the platform on which we were sitting. Being thus qualified to know and speak, we heartily and sincerely declare that the words above ascribed to Moses Thatcher were not used by him, nor any similar words containing the same or kindred meaning. He said nothing about "Republican tyranny."

Referring to the other statement relative to "republicans tearing off their badges" and "the crowd climbing over the railing," we, to the best of our knowledge and belief, declare that they are utterly false and unfounded.

Diligent inquiry has been made in this community, and no one can be found to confirm such statements, nobody believing that any republicans tore off their badges. The statement is universally regarded as idle and false, not to say malicious.

C. D. FULLMER, County Clerk,
G. W. THATCHER, Banker.
R. W. SLOAN, Editor Logan Journal.
JOSEPH MORRELL, Merchant.
E. W. GREENE, Clergyman.
ISHMAEL C. THORESEN, County Atty.
NOBLE WARRUM, JR., Lawyer.

The undersigned were present at said meeting and formed a part of the audience in front of said platform and herewith certify as above set out by the preceding signers.

S. M. MOLEN, Farmer.
B. F. HATCH, Banker.
J. B. HATTEN, Mayor, City of Logan.
AARON F. FARR, JR., Ex-Mayor.
J. R. EDWARDS, Brickmaker.
ED. W. SMITH, Justice of the Peace.
W. W. WOODSIDE, Agent U. P. Ry.

The names here given could be added to a hundred fold. There were from 1800 to 2000 people altogether in attendance at the democratic meeting. The names herewith presented are selected for their character and their superior advantages of seeing and hearing all that was going on around them. Among the number there are several gentiles of good character and standing. One of these is the Rev. E. W. Green, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Logan. He has been active in educational work in this community, has been largely instrumental in building the Presbyterian academy here, and wields an extensive influence in this city and vicinity. Noble Warrum is a gentile lawyer from the east, a rising man, a thorough American, and he it was who spoke of the "rivers of tears," the words which Mr. Campbell puts into the mouth of Moses Thatcher. W. W. Woodside, agent of the Union Pacific railway is a gentile of the most pronounced type, and is just as far removed from Mormonism as the Greek was from the Jew in the time of Josephus. Of course the Tribune will say that all these are liars; that the Mormons lie by instinct, and that the gentiles lie because they are Jack-Mormons. This is well enough for the Tribune, but doubtless the day is rapidly approaching when "Liberals" will not choose to be so maliciously odious.

CALVIN BRASHNER.

MORE OF MR. WORTH.

An Accomplished Wife Beater of Sugar House Ward Again In Custody.

Samuel Worthen, an unworthy and unesteemed resident of Sugar House ward, appears to be a wife-beater of the worst conceivable type. He is, besides, an ex-convict and has on various occasions figured before the courts. Some time ago he was sentenced to a term of imprisonment for a most brutal attack upon his wife, who then resolved upon taking a divorce on the ground of her husband's repeated and unwarrantable acts of cruelty; but upon his promising to behave better in the future she consented to abandon proceedings in that direction. By making a strenuous effort Worthen went on peaceably for a few weeks, but his uncontrollable temper again got the upper hand of him, and he fell back into his old ways. The poor woman has since had to submit frequently to her lord's tyranny and cruelty, and has been going about in bodily fear.

Yesterday afternoon he once again broke out, and acted more like a wild beast than a human being possessed of reason. It is alleged that he wielded a heavy iron instrument over his wife's head in addition to using his hands upon her, and that but for the timely interference of his son she would in all likelihood have been badly injured.

When seen by a NEWS reporter this morning Mr. Worthen was making himself as comfortable as possible in the "cage" attached to Marshal Parsons' office, having been brought down from the penitentiary to answer the charge. The hearing was expected to take place at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

SERIOUS RUNAWAY ACCIDENT.

One Lady Badly Hurt and Another One Injured.

Late yesterday afternoon a carriage driven by a man named Peter Walk, and containing Mrs. William Showell, wife of the sanitary inspector, Mrs. Elliott Springer, her eldest daughter, and Mrs. Fred Houghton, had reached a point near the intersection of Seventh East and Fourth South streets, when the horses became frightened at a street car and started to run away. The rails extended several inches above the ground, and the driver tried to rein the horses so as to avoid them, but did not succeed. When the carriage struck the track it was overturned, and the occupants were thrown out. Mrs. Houghton received a cut above the eye, and other minor injuries. Mrs. Showell had the presence of mind to try to save her daughter Mrs. Springer, and the latter escaped without a scratch. She fell upon Mrs. Showell, however, who was quite seriously hurt. She is lacerated about the head, and sustained a number of bruises.

The injured ladies were conveyed to a house near by and treated with great kindness. Later they were taken home. Drs. Heron and Harvey were promptly called and gave such relief as was possible.

This morning Mrs. Showell's condition was somewhat alarming. The body is much swollen, and it is feared she suffers from internal injuries. Dr. Pinkerton is attending her.

This case is an illustration of the necessity of properly grading along the tracks of the street railroad, as required by their charters.

CITY JOTTINGS.

Last night a young woman who gave the name of Miss F. Woolf, a frequenter of saloons, was arrested on a charge of vagrancy.

It turns out that the reason why Henry Adams left his position in the U. P. general office was because he had to, and the reason why he had to was because he had lately married a belle of the demi monde.

The Lyceum company and the directors and management of the Salt Lake theatre, accompanied by the Home Dramatic club of this city, are going out for a drive to the Raymond this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The motion for a new trial in the case of Bunko Smith, on the ground that the jury did not take the Edmunds-Tucker oath was yesterday submitted without argument and was promptly overruled by Justice Gee.

It is asserted that on Wednesday night a man named Clifford, from Ogden, took a man named Jarvis, who had $300 on his person, to a house of ill fame in this city of which Clifford's daughter was an inmate, in pursuance of a conspiracy between the father and daughter to rob him. The mistress of the establishment learned what was afoot and notified the police, thereby frustrating the plan.

A resident of Mesa City, Arizona, who arrived in this city today, having left his home last Monday, says the Saints in that region are busy gathering their heavy crop of grapes and finding a market for the same. Just before he left, one carload was shipped to Denver and another to Chicago dealers at 11 cents per pound on board the cars at Tempe, carefully packed in boxes—a better price than ordinarily realized, as they can generally be bought there at from $15 to $20 per ton.

A Thunderbolt.

On Friday last Henry Crane, postmaster at Herriman, had a somewhat remarkable as well as painful experience. He was standing about ten feet from an apricot tree when a thunderbolt struck it, burning it and some particles at its root. The electricity leaped from the tree and struck Mr. Crane in the back, causing a violent shock and a peculiar pricking sensation. Rain fell in torrents at the time. Mr. Crane was ill for some days.

CORONER HARRIS

Issues Proclamations to the Public and Police.

The following promulgations have been issued by Coroner Harris:

To the Undertakers of Salt Lake City and County:

You are hereby notified that you are not to handle or remove the body of any person that comes under the jurisdiction of the coroner, until after the coroner has been notified and has passed upon it as to what disposition shall be made of it. Any violation, after the date of this notice, will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. My office is at 217 South Main street, and my telephone number is 189.

Dated at my office this 20th day of August, 1891.

T. E. HARRIS, Coroner.

To the City Marshal and officers of Salt Lake City:

You are hereby notified that in the case of a violent or accidental death, the coroner is the first and only person to be notified. The office and morgue is at 217 South Main street; telephone No. 189. You will please take notice and govern yourselves accordingly. I will furnish my own dead wagon for the removal of all bodies, which will be on hand on all occasions.

Dated at my office this 20th day of August, 1891.

T. E. HARRIS, Coroner.

The above emanations are in excess of any warrant contained in the law. A dead body found exposed may be removed to some suitable place, by any person, without the intervention of the coroner, and without his knowing anything about such removal, and no offense under the laws of this Territory will be thereby committed. Persons making such removal need have no fears of being "prosecuted to the full extent of the law," as the law does not extend far enough to reach them.

For a coroner to undertake to instruct the city marshal and police force of an incorporated city in their duties is a new departure, strongly savoring of the farcical, and the declaration that "the coroner is the first and only person to be notified, in the case of violent or accidental death," is simply absurd. The relatives and friends of the deceased, if known to the officers, should also be notified as soon as possible.

The dead wagon of any undertaker, as well as that of the coroner, may be employed for the removal of any dead body; so may any other vehicle, for that matter. It is unusual for coroners to have dead wagons, though they have a right to maintain them, and let them to such as may desire to use and pay for them.

The law upon this subject is strictly in harmony with common sense and advanced civilization. It would often be a violation of all decency and propriety to allow a dead body, whatever the cause of death, to be exposed until the coroner could be communicated with and attend to its removal. To illustrate: The writer was present on one occasion in this city, during the dying moments of a man who had fatally shot himself in the head with suicidal intent. He lay upon the ground, weltering in his blood, while a hot summer's sun beat down upon him. Rubbish and refuse covered the spot where he lay, flies swarmed about the wound from which the brains were oozing, and the body was lying in a cramped position. The sight was ghastly and horrifying in the extreme. Yet there the body lay untouched for a considerable time, a curious crowd gazing upon it, until the coroner could be notified and take action.

Humanity and decency demanded that the body be at once removed to some private and suitable place, but the ridiculous notion that the coroner must first see it prevailed.

It is proper that the coroner should be notified of all deaths by accident or violence; but pending his arrival or his action such temporary disposition of the remains as decency, propriety and a proper respect for the departed require, may be made.

Amusements.

"The Idler" was presented last night at the Salt Lake Theatre by the Lyceum Company, to a full house. The play is the work of Haddon Chambers, the author of "Captain Swift." It has some very strong situations, and its structural development possesses many original points. It affords fine opportunities for the display of emotion, pathos and forensic excellence on the part of the performer. In this respect, it surpasses, perhaps, "The Charity Ball," though the latter will hold its popularity much longer.

Herbert Kelcey as The Idler was the star of the evening. His characterization of the cool, deliberative, calculating and strictly scientific villain was intensely realistic. This part affords him a splendid field to display both his versatility and excellence as an actor. Though it is diametrically opposite to the role assumed by him the night previous, yet it would be difficult to say in which he appears best.

Miss Cayvan comes next in impressive and effective acting. She even surpasses her impersonation of Ann Cruger.

Miss Shannon, as usual, was a prime favorite, and her manipulation of her lachrymose papa was the bright seam in the whole sombre garb.

On the whole, the Lyceum company realized all that has been said about it in its presentation last night, and the famous strong of Mr. Ormond is on a level with the reputation and popularity of the troupe.

"The Wife" will be given to-night; at the matinee to-morrow "The Charity Ball" will be repeated, and tomorrow night Boucicault's "Old Heads and Young Hearts" will close the engagement.

Suicide of a Sick Man.

For some time past John Anderson, of 533 S. Seventh West street, had been sick, and frequently delirious. During Wednesday night his delirium was worse than usual, and his wife had much trouble in quieting him. While she was asleep he arose from his bed, took a rifle, went into another room, and shot himself, literally blowing off the top of his head. His wife, hearing the report, ran to where he was, only to find him beyond all human aid. The coroner held an inquest yesterday resulting in a verdict of accidental death. During his delirium he had repeatedly seized the rifle to protect himself against imaginary assailants, and whether he shot himself in pursuance of a purpose formed in his disordered mind, or accidentally, is a matter of doubt. But the jury gave him the benefit of it.

Police Court.

Frank McLaughlin, T. W. Courtney and A. Lefevre, were each fined $5 for drunkenness today by Justice Gee.

L. F. Palmer, arrested for distributing handbills on the streets, plead guilty and sentence was suspended.

G. Stratton, arrested on a charge of vagrancy, is reputed to be the proprietor of a gambling den. Calvin Bancroft, a witness for the prosecution, was required to give a bond of $100 to appear and testify.

W. H. Handaway was on trial this afternoon on a charge of vagrancy. He is an alleged bunko sharp.
