LOCAL BRIEFS.

Andrew J. Stewart Jr. of Utah county was commissioned a notary public by Gov. Wells today.

The Orient Insurance Company of Hartford, Connecticut, has appointed H. B. Windsor of Mercur its state agent.

A brush blaze west of the Jordan last night made some people think a big fire had been started in somebody's haystack.

The wife of Mr. Nephi Hawcroft of Union, Salt Lake county, has presented her husband with a bouncing twelve pound boy. All well.

The Washington Life Insurance Company of New York, desiring to transact business in Utah, has appointed J. T. Hammond its attorney for the State.

Lieut. Dashiell has been detailed engineer, signal, and ordnance officer of the Twenty-fourth Infantry, and will not accompany his company to Fort Spokane.

The electrical storm shortly after midnight last night was a surprise to many people, who were aroused by the thunder to view the brilliant flashes of lightning.

Albert A. Dalton, who was with Harvey Hardy and his band of government packers in Cuba, and who by mistake was reported dead at Manila, leaves on Monday for the Philippines. He takes with him fifteen men who will be employed in the islands as packers.

Governor Wells and his chief of staff, Brig. Gen. John Q. Cannon, together with Capt. Caine of the Utah cavalry, and other military men left this morning for Richford to be present at the ceremonies connected with the presentation of medals to the Bevier county volunteers.

A complaint, charging Geo. Simpson with the crime of adultery, was sworn out yesterday afternoon in Justice Kruger's court by Isaac Ferguson of Big Cottonwood. The co-respondent in the case is Mrs. Ferguson, the wife of the complainant. Simpson was arrested last evening, as he stepped from the Rio Grande Western train. He gave bail for his appearance.

Gen. Thaddeus H. Stanton, the late paymaster general of the U. S. army, arrived in Salt Lake yesterday afternoon. The general is convalescing from an attack of pneumonia, and started for this city as soon as he had strength to make the journey. Last evening he met a number of his old friends at the Alta club. He says that he may make this city his home, though his stay at this time is merely one of pleasure.

A delivery team belonging to the Chicago grocery became frightened on C street last evening and ran away. It had not gone far when it ran into a ditch overturning the wagon and throwing the driver violently to the ground. The young man received a severe cut on the forehead when he fell. He was taken to the Johnson-Pratt drug store, where his injuries were attended to. The team was finally caught by Spencer Young after it had run into a telephone pole.

An interesting ceremony took place at Fort Douglas . day, the occasion being the presentation of a flag to the Twenty-fourth Infantry by Chaplain Allensworth on behalf of the White Rose society of New York. The society is an association of colored people who thus honored the bravery of the regiment at Santiago. The entire command was drawn up in the parade ground, where the presentation speech was made. Capt. Ducat received the standard on behalf of the regiment.

TEXT OF SALT LAKE BUILDING BILL.

Measure as it Became Law by the President's Signature.

COURSE TO BE FOLLOWED.

Industrial Christian Home to be Sold by Auction—Location of a Building Site.

Washington, March 15.—The supervising architect of the treasury department and his force of subordinate clerks, draughtsmen, etc., are busily engaged in arranging preliminaries looking to the erection of sixty odd new postoffice buildings authorized by the last Congress.

The supervising architect said to the "News" correspondent today that within ten days or two weeks he will cause to be published advertisements in the daily press asking for proposals of sites for the various buildings. This will include Salt Lake City. He said: "It may be that we will publish the advertisements sooner than that, but at any rate it will not be later than the end of this month. In the case of Salt Lake the advertisements will run for a period of at least twenty days prior to the date of opening such bids. It is usual for the department to send a special agent to examine the various sites offered, and upon his report to the secretary of the treasury, the latter makes his selection. It does not follow that the lowest bid be accepted, for of course a great many considerations enter into the selection of a suitable site. First of all is the central location, convenient to business men, general character of the soil, and its elevation. Oftentimes, too, there is taken into consideration the subject of future improvements. In the case of Salt Lake, what may now appear to be the very heart of Salt Lake, or any other city, may in a few years be more conveniently from the business centre, by reason of the city building up in a certain direction. As a rule, however, the site is selected in the existing business center, without respect to the future growth of the city. But all of this is to be determined by the secretary of the treasury, who has full discretion in the matter. Of course the opinions of citizens have great weight with the secretary, as they are supposed to better understand the needs of a city better that he.

"On the date named in the advertisements for proposals the bids are opened and the special agent who was sent forward for an examination, and report. The secretary then makes his selection.

"In the government authorized to accept the donation of a site, offered by real estate men, or property holders, as an inducement to the erection of the Federal building in their section of the city, in order to enhance the value of their individual property?" asked the "News" representative.

"Yes," said Mr. Taylor. "Of course, if the government can get a site free of cost, and it is to every way suitable for the purpose, it may be accepted by the secretary, but if it is not an eligible location and suitable in every other way, it would not be accepted even though it were offered free of cost, or for a nominal sum. The law provided in the case of Salt Lake and other cities that the secretary is authorized and directed to acquire by purchase, condemnation, or otherwise" a suitable site. The word "otherwise" may certainly be construed to confer authority for him to accept a site free of cost, or for a nominal sum. It would be much better, however, for some citizen or citizens to be named for such transfer, one dollar for instance, as in many ordinary real estate transfers. As soon as the site is located, the attorney general is asked to examine the title and approve it. If the title is clear, the property is bought and paid for, and the supervising architect takes it then to commence the work of construction."

"But there is one thing that the people want to know, and that is, when the sites are to be selected? Before the sites can be expected by the attorney general, and, consequently, before it can be purchased, and the work commenced, the Fifty-first State Legislature must cede absolute and exclusive jurisdiction to the United States. This is required by classe seventeen, article eight, of the Federal Constitution, which provides that Congress shall have power

"To exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever, over such district (not exceeding ten miles square) as may, by cession of particular states, and the acceptance of Congress, become the seat of the government of the United States, and to exercise like authority over all places purchased by the consent of the Legislature of the State in which the same shall be for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dock yards, and other needful buildings."

"In the case of Salt Lake, then, no work can be done on the building until the Utah Legislature cedes exclusive jurisdiction over such site, to the Federal government?" queried the "News" correspondent.

"Exactly," said Mr. Taylor; "nor can the lot be purchased until this is done."

"It will be two years then until you can begin the actual work of construction at Salt Lake City?"

"Yes," said he, "unless the Utah Legislature shall meet sooner than that in regular or extraordinary session.

"But the most of the present year can be spent in preliminary work?"

"No," said he; "the site will be advertised for, bids opened, special agent sent out to make examinations, and the selection made. Plans may even be drawn, and doubtless will be, for we will take it for granted that the Legislature will have done the necessary action preliminary to the site's purchase."

"Have you yet formed any idea of a design for the Salt Lake building?"

"Not yet," said Mr. Taylor. "We have been busy with preliminaries toward securing sites for about sixty new buildings. The consideration of plans will come later."

The citizens of Indianapolis, Indiana, and of San Francisco, who have been led to believe that designs drawn by the supervising architect's office, are taken from Century and utility, will make an effort to have the plans awarded by competition amongst the best architects of the country, as was done in the case of Chicago. But in the latter case, Congress expressly authorized this, while in the case of Salt Lake and other cities the act of Congress says that the secretary of the treasury shall cause the plans to be drawn by the supervising architect of the treasury, so it is not apparent how the plans may be submitted to competition, unless Congress shall be asked to do so, or at its next session to pass supplementary legislation authorizing this to be done.

Following is the full text of the Salt Lake bill:

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the secretary of the treasury be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to acquire, by purchase, condemnation, or otherwise, a site, and cause to be erected thereon a suitable building, including fireproof vaults, heating and ventilating apparatus, elevators and approaches, for the use and accommodation of the United States court, postoffice and other offices in the city of Salt Lake, the capital of the state of Utah.

"That the cost of such site and building, including the vaults, heating and ventilating apparatus, elevators and approaches, complete, shall not exceed the sum of three hundred thousand dollars. That proposals for the sale of land suitable for said site shall be invited by public advertisement in two or more of the newspapers of largest circulation in said city for the period of at least twenty days prior to the date specified in said advertisement for the opening of said proposals. That thereafter the secretary of the treasury shall cause examination to be made of the said bids and the said proposed sites, and shall cause abstracts, maps and plats thereof to be taken and submitted to him; and thereupon the secretary of the treasury shall finally determine the location of said building and the land upon to be paid for the site thereof. And the secretary of the treasury shall cause appropriate sketches, plans, drawings, and specifications and detailed estimates for the building to be prepared by the supervising architect of the treasury department. Provided, that the secretary of the treasury is hereby authorized and directed to sell at public or private sale, after due advertisement, the building and land known as the Industrial Christian Home, in the city of Salt Lake, State of Utah, and deposit the proceeds of the sale after the payment of the usual incidental expenses to the United States treasury as miscellaneous receipts, derived from the sale of government property.

Sec. 2. That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

MANTI IRRIGATION COMPANY.

The Manti Irrigation company, by A. C. Christensen, Hugo Wyoming; Alex Barton, G. H. Cox, Nephi Johnson, Louis C. Kirk, William Tuttle, James C. Cashook, David Madsen, F. M. Cox, W. M. Harrison, G. E. Snow, H. C. Sorenson, A. Tu. Squire, A. V. Hardy, J. C. Kjar, A. G. Crawford, Alfred Alder, J. H. Braithwaite, John Hall, J. P. Hansen, J. H. Hemmert, E. W. Fox, John H. Christensen, Robert Braithwaite, William A. Cox, and P. W. Cox of Manti, Sanpete county, filed articles of incorporation with the State secretary today. The purpose and business agreed upon by the incorporators is the appropriation, storage, purchase and sale of water, the purchasing and selling of real estate and personal property, a capital of twenty thousand dollars, divided into shares of $100 each, for use and sale of the land and reservoir, and the lands adjacent known as Funk's Lake, situate near Six Mile creek, Sanpete county; also the control of the lake and grounds adjacent for the purpose of conducting a pleasure resort. The capital of the actual stock agreed upon is $12,500, divided into 125 shares of the par value of $5 per share. The officers are: A. H. Christensen, president; G. H. Cox, vice president; E. V. Hardy, secretary and treasurer. The gentlemen, together with L. C. Kjar and A. D. Squire, also constitute the board of directors.

MR. McCUNE ENTERTAINS.

At the Alta club, last night, an evening of real, convivial, and unalloyed enjoyment was spent by those editors and a few other friends of Mr. A. W. McCune, who supported him during the recent sensational contest. The private dining room was beautifully decorated with trailing ivy, roses, lilies, roses, and carnations, and illuminated with hundreds of tiny candles, when the Rhoda, forty-six in number, were ushered into the banquet room. A menu of delicate and delicious viands was served, and informal toasts and responses given, till about midnight.

Fisher Harris, as master of ceremonies, was in his best vein of humor and satire, while Senators Kearns and Hoskins, Representative O'Neil, and Messrs. R. W. Sloan, B. S. Young, H. C. Dunn, and others, by their frequent sallies of wit, kept the company in a roar of laughter during most of the evening. An amusing passage occurred when Mr. Hoskins of the Herald, being called to respond on behalf of the press, stated that he had thought he was something of a newspaper business until he saw a card in the Herald the other day signed by A. W. McCune. This brought Mr. McCune to his feet, and stated that he did not know that that he thought he knew something of newspaper business, too, until he saw that card for the first time after it had been published, and he was convinced that he knew nothing of newspaper business.

Jas. H. Moyle and Moses Thatcher made speeches as to Democratic party policy. The latter said, among other things:

"When I reached the point where I had nothing to ask either of the church or the state, I supposed I was out of politics. But when I saw evidences of a conspiracy to destroy the character of my friend, I took off my coat to fight for the principles of Democracy, for the sake of the people, for party ruin in party affairs.

"No one of us would wish to read any man or woman out of the party, but we are entitled to ask a fair fight and no favor for our enemies from within our own ranks. We have a right to demand when the battle is on that those men who seek to destroy the Democratic party shall take their places in the ranks of the enemy so that, when the battle is on we shall have only our foes to fight and not be betrayed and harassed by treachery in our own ranks."

Mr. McCune declared he would stand by the Democratic party irrespective of the result of the municipal contests. A sentiment which elicited several fervid responses.

The guests were: Senators R. C. Chambers, Harden Brickson, R. H. Tanner, C. F. Whitney, A. J. Evans, H. E. Thomas, I. E. Wright, A. O. Smoot and J. V. Robison.

Representatives Jasper Robertson, Aaron P. Farr Jr., L. H. Reid, John Parry, J. G. McQuarrie, H. B. Stewart, J. G. Sylvester, J. W. Dyde, W. M. Roylance, M. W. Mansfield, William O'Neil and A. W. Parsons.

Messrs. Waldemar Van Cott, Byron Groo, E. C. Lund, D. C. Dunbar, Moses Thatcher, Elias A. Smith, Brigham Roberts, I. C. Masterson, Fisher Harris, Joseph M. Cohen, James H. Moyle, William Ignatius, Joseph Morrison, H. W. Sloan, W. W. Cluff, John T. Morris, Hugh Dougherty, Joseph E. Young, A. M. McKay, Joel L. Frost, Sheriff Tomlinson, Vivian McCune, A. J. Goodrich Jr., A. H. Morris, Horace G. Whitney and J. H. Paul.

During the evening, Mrs. McCune and several of her guests came in and were introduced to the gentlemen.

Don't miss special sale and new attraction Saturday at J. G. McDonald's, 14 Main St.

What Property May Not be Seized or Sold for Debt.

TEXT OF THE NEW LAW,

Which Aims to Prevent Oppression of Those Who are Financially Unfortunate.

The exemption measure passed by the late Legislature and signed by the Governor, is in full, as follows:

"An act to amend section 3245 of the Revised Statutes of Utah, 1898, relating to property exempt from execution.

"Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Utah:

Section 1. That section 3245 of the Revised Statutes of Utah, 1898, be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

Sec. 3245. The following property is exempt from execution, except as hereinafter specially provided:

1—Books, tables and desks, to the value of two hundred dollars, and the library belonging to the judgment debtor, also musical instruments in actual use in the family.

2—Necessary household, table and kitchen furniture, belonging to the judgment debtor, to the value of three hundred dollars; also one sewing machine, all family kinship pictures, all paintings and drawings, portraits and their necessary frames, all carpets in use previously actually provided for individual or family use, sufficient for three months, two cows with their suckling calves; the hens with their sucking pigs, all wearing apparel of every person or family, with all beds or bedding of every person or family, provided that if the judgment debtor be the head of the family consisting of five or more persons, he may claim a further exemption of two cows and their suckling calves.

3—Tools, implements, materials or implements of husbandry of a farmer not exceeding in value the sum of three hundred dollars; also two oxen, or two horses, or two mules, and one wagon or one horse cart or wagon; also all seed, grain, or vegetables actually provided, reserved or held for the purpose of planting or seeding at any time within the ensuing six months, not exceeding in value the sum of two hundred dollars; crops, whether growing or harvested, and the proceeds thereof, not exceeding in value two hundred dollars.

4—The tools, tool chest, and implements of the mechanic, artisan, miner, necessarily to carry on his trade, not exceeding in value the sum of five hundred dollars; also his stock in trade, not exceeding in value the sum of two hundred dollars.

5—The implements of a surveyor, records of a notary public, or of a justice of the peace, or of a clerk of any court, or of a public officer, or of a member of the legislature, or of a minister of the gospel, and the typewriting machine of a stenographer, type-writer, copyist and reporter, and the type presses and material of a printer or publisher necessary in the pursuit of his business not exceeding in value the sum of five hundred dollars.

5—The cabin or dwelling of a miner not exceeding in value the sum of five hundred dollars; also his stoves, furniture, windlass, derrick, cars, pumps and tools not exceeding in value five hundred dollars.

6—Two horses, two horses, or two mules and their harness, and a cart or wagon, one drag or truck, by the use of which a carman, teamster, truckman, huckster, peddler, huckman, or any other laborer habitually earns his living, and one horse with vehicle and harness, by the use of which a doctor, physician, surgeon or minister of the gospel, is making his professional visits.

7—The earnings of the judgment debtor for personal services rendered within sixty days next preceding the levy of an execution, when it shows otherwise, if the judgment debtor be a married man, or with a family dependent upon him for support.

8—All rents, franchises, privileges or immunities accruing, or in any manner growing out of any life insurance on the life of the judgment debtor; if the annual premiums paid do not exceed five hundred dollars.

9—All arms, ammunition, uniforms and equipments required by law to be kept in any person.

10—All court houses, jails, public offices and buildings, school houses, houses of public worship, tombs, graves and personal property appertaining thereto; the furniture, furniture, books, papers and other property belonging or pertaining to the court houses, jail and public offices belonging to any county in this State, or for the use of schools or school houses, churches, and all cemeteries, public squares, parks, and places, public buildings, town halls, public markets, buildings for the use of fire departments and public libraries, and the lots and grounds thereto appertaining and belonging, without regard to any such lots or lands being in any incorporated city, or dedicated by such town or city to health, ornament, or public use; or the use of any fire or military company, or any public use which may be under the laws of this State hereafter organized.

11—The property of school or academy is prevented in the title "homestead" of the Revised Statutes of Utah.
