PLAINT OF A ROUGH RIDER.

Privation and Suffering So Great That He Would Desert But For the Disgrace.

The Denver Post publishes the following letter from a Torrey Rough Rider, withholding the writer's name for fear of subjecting him to military discipline:

C. W. Bond, Dear Sir:—I write you these few lines for publication in order to show the public how the soldiers feel at the present time. When we enlisted in the Second regiment, Colorado volunteer cavalry, we enlisted to fight in the Spanish-American war and not to go to Cuba as an army of occupation, which seems to be the sentence at the present time. We get to read the Jacksonville papers regularly and they are continually boosting up the healthy climate of Florida, but it is not healthy by any means. Some of the people that have been sixty to twenty years coming out from Illinois to twenty man to drill and the rest are on the sick list, and that looks suspicious.

The men are dying at the rate of from five to nine a day. Last night there were nine straight volleys fired, indicating that three more souls had passed away to the happy hunting grounds, when they might just as well have been home if it was not for the noisy sharks that run the whole affair to suit themselves, regardless of the poor soldiers.

I tell you, my Northern friends, it is enough to make one sun-burn with anything diagonal Hawaiian in description. I have felt that way make a time since I have been in the army. Why didn't I die? Because I have folks in this country and the public would point them out and say, "There are the parents of a deserter from the Second United States volunteer cavalry."

It seems to me if they want an army of occupation in Cuba that there is enough men in the United States who want to belong to the regular service to answer the purpose. Test it when they are fed, but the volunteer does not enlist for that purpose. We enlisted to fight and not to stay down here in this unhealthy climate to die off. It is my opinion that if we stay here two months longer there will not be enough of us left to take care of the horses.

A PERFECT STATE PRISON.

That is What a Lady Thinks Who Visited the Institution a Few Days Ago.

Salt Lake City, Utah,
September 15, 1898.

To the Editor:

I have visited the State prison and have seen the flower garden by Mr. Dow, the warden, not omitting to show the melons in view, and a large strawberry bed. Then, in the office, looking at photographs in the Hooper gallery, I inquired what was the great cause of their being there, and as I believed, the answer was "Poker," in most instances. We were shown the cook and feeding department, which is quickly done and time-saving. All the cells are neat, clean and adorned with pictures and ornaments; each occupant does as he pleases in the way of decorations. In the work rooms quite a number of knitting machines are run by the prisoners, turning out many dozen pairs of socks in a day; then the shoe makers, tailors, clerk and bridle maker and others or industries. The shoes and harness are very complete, and as I viewed an oven filled with nicely browned loaves I could fancy the smell of some of mother's, 100, on the same spot of ground, with no industry but a little gardening, now to be seen, and the prisoners have flowers to sell. I appreciate the improvement for prisoners, and so should the people as a commonwealth.

The water system is interesting, there being two miles of piping, running out from a nicely arranged reservoir. Also the waste flumes with grape vines by it on wire trellises. There is a large and deep swimming bath, with water piping, and by appearance, more than enough grows to fill in the fall, and the surrounding flat is all the labor now done by the prisoners.

I must not omit the turkeys, chickens, ducks, geese, and pigeons, tending to make it look homelike, and the nicely kept lawns—truly a perfect place. I only wish it be looked upon by the advancement of all industries they undertake to add to the cause of the people. The money will be the work of all in the State who are interested in the welfare of the street.

I was very courteously treated by Mr. and Mrs. Dow and all parts, and then to close this pleasant and instructive day was presented with a beautiful bouquet.

MRS. JANE M. E. YOUNG.

SIRE PROUD OF HIS SON.

Father of Chief Engineer White of the United States Army Here.

The father of the chief engineer of the United States navy is in the city representing the White Shoe company of Lynn, Mass.

In the course of a conversation at the Knutsford last night he spoke with pardonable pride of his son, and what he had accomplished. The young man is known as Chief Engineer W. W. White, and has triumphed the mechanical position of all of the latter class in our present navy. Chief Engineer White has been in the service for twenty-three years and has distinguished himself by his mechanical genius. He is considered the best mechanic in the navy. When the Indiana was built Mr. White had entire charge of the mechanical construction of the warship, not only drawing the plans, but also superintending the placing of the machinery in the vessel. It will be remembered that this ship was sent to Russian waters to represent the United States government if the occupation of the czar. Mr. White went with the ship as chief engineer. When he returned to this country he was appointed chief engineer and draughtsman in the navy department at Washington. At the beginning of the war with Spain he asked for sea duty, but was detained in Washington and again from his regular duties at Washington, and he remained at his post. He is now engaged upon plans for the new battleships which are to be constructed to augment the sea forces of the United States.

DEATH OF A PIONEER WOMAN.

Mrs. Mary Spencer Dies at the Ripe Old Age of Ninety-six Years.

Mrs. Mary Ann Sprague, one of Utah's early settlers, died at her residence, 41 south State street, at 5:30 last evening. Her demise was perfectly painless and peaceful. The deceased was the widow of the late Dr. S. L. Sprague. She was a native of Massachusetts, in which state she was born in March, 1802, thus living for a period of ninety-six years. She came to Utah in the year 1852, and suffered all of the privations incident to a journey across the plains in those Pioneer days. She had a pleasant disposition and a constitution that was almost marvelous in its endurance. For years past she has been one of the conspicuous figures of the Old Folks' gatherings. She leaves one son, Samuel L. Sprague, five grand children and one great-grandchild. Her funeral will be held from her late residence next assembly room beginning at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Friends of the family are respectfully requested to attend.

BIOGRAPHICAL.

The deceased was baptized in Lowell, Mass., in April, 1840, by Elder Ezra T. Benson (father of Ezra T. Benson). In the same year she moved to Nauvoo, Illinois, with her husband, the late Dr. Sprague, and there she became well acquainted with the Prophet Joseph Smith and the leader of the Church. Soon after they left for west to follow the stream to look after the sick. They remained there till the trouble commenced at Nauvoo. Then she went to Quincy and at Nauvoo, Illinois, where she was married to Mr. Sprague, and returned to Winter Quarters, where she nursed the sick, as was her wont to do.

In 1846 they crossed the Plains. Her husband was President Young's physician. In the early years she was associated with the leading Mormon women in every good word and work. They assisted on Temple square and then located on the lot she died on, just north of the Theater on State street. The Sprague residence affords facilities up to the hour of her death, and quietly fell asleep into eternal sleep, but without an ache of pain.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The Board of Education recently adopted a rule which will require all pupils in the public schools who need books belonging to the Board to provide book-racks in which to carry such books to and from their homes. To enable pupils to comply with this rule we have added to our large stock of stationery a complete line of School Bags and Satchels from 10 cents to $1.25 each.
