RULES FOR VOTERS.

With the registration elapsed of, the balloting comes next, and we again present these general rules for the guidance of voters:

1—If you wish to cast a straight party ballot, put a cross in ink in the black square to the right of your party emblem, and make no other mark.

2—If you wish to make any change whatever from a straight party ticket, do not make any mark opposite either party emblem.

3—When you do not vote a straight ticket but pick your candidates, put a cross in the space at the right of each candidate you wish to vote for, and make no other mark on the ballot.

4—You do not vote directly for President and Vice-President, although the names of candidates are on the ticket; you vote for electors on the State ticket, choosing those of the party whose presidential candidates you wish to support.

By following these rules you will have no difficulty whatever in having your ballot just as you want it to be.

OLD FOLKS ADVERTISING UTAH.

When Utah people advertise Utah, the information disseminated is marked by accuracy, and therefore is commendatory of the progressive efforts of those who make this State their home, and is beneficial to its interests. Utah has had so much adverse advertising in bygone days, on the part of persons antagonistic to her welfare and possessed of ulterior motives, that the condition of recent years, when the truth is becoming more generally known, presents a strong contrast therein. For the change in the situation, people here are duly grateful.

One of the useful agencies for spreading Utah's name to worthy deeds has been the annual old folks' reunions. The accounts of those have drawn favorable attention in America and Europe, and now from far off New Zealand comes news of similar interest. The New Zealand Graphic is the most widely circulated and popular illustrated journal of that part of the globe, and is a high class, influential paper. Its representative recently met a Mormon Elder, and from the latter received pertinent regarding the old folks' gathering in Ogden on the 17th of July, and also much information concerning Utah. The result of this is that the Graphic gives a page and a half to this State, in which is an excellent account of the old folks' day at Lester park, an authentic description of the Temple and Tabernacle in this city, and three beautiful half-tone engravings from photographs by C. R. Savage of this city, in which are shown the city and county building, the Temple block, and a view of central Salt Lake City, looking northward from the city and county building. Among its comments the Graphic contains the following:

The views of Salt Lake City which accompany this article certainly give one the impression of a place of much more importance than is commonly supposed. We are apt to forget that not only has Ogden interests, seventy miles of electric street railways, three hospitals, three daily papers, and is lighted with electricity, but there are several buildings, the most interesting and unique being the great Temple and the Mormon Tabernacle.

There is another feature in the effect that Utah's old folks' gatherings have on people elsewhere. This is the suggestion that it gives to kind and generous hearted persons to engage in like movements to comfort, cheer and honor the aged in their respective localities. Already in several instances Utah's example has been followed in giving entertainments to the veterans, and with the mutual satisfaction to those who took the matter in hand. There is this respect, as in others, the good quality of the tree planted in the hearts of the people of Utah and their accomplishments is being established by the fruit it yields.

AUSTRALIAN BALLOT SLOWNESS.

In this State the advice of party leaders who want a straight party support is to make a cross by the party emblem on the new ballot, and so the ticket go at that. In some other states this same advice is given, while in others it is to pass by the party emblem entirely and to mark every name on the regular ticket to be supported. In the state of Washington, for instance, this instruction is given, as stated in the Spokesman-Review, Democratic organ:

To avoid any chance for election officers to have an excuse for throwing out your ballot it would be well not to stop on the cross mark of the block or the ticket after the name of the party whose ticket you desire to vote, but to go on X after the name of every candidate for whom you wish to vote, individually.

This does advise that there is a difference of opinion as to whether it is better to mark the party emblem only, or to mark party emblem, and also impress the fact that other ways receive the desired result, when the marking is done intelligently.

The chief trouble with the ballot, however, comes from marking both the emblem and the candidates, thereby creating confusion. A safe way, then, is if you want a straight ticket, mark the emblem; if not, mark the separate names. But do not mark both. Then your ballot will be all right. Try it first on a sample ballot, and you will have no trouble.

As to the entirety of the Australian ballot, there have supposed that the numbering on the official ballot might lead to discovery of how an individual voted, and this knowledge thus obtained be used to the detriment of a voter. An answer to this is given in the following from the Spokesman-Review, the law in Washington being the same as here:

The statement that the identity of a voter of a ballot such as will be used in the election of November 3rd can be secured is absolutely false. Under the system as used, and as will be used, it is absolutely impossible to discover the identity of the voter of any ballot unless he himself puts on the ballot some distinguishing mark. The system provides some safeguards against the ballot than any that was ever before used in this country. In the number on the ballot is simply a means of preventing a false ballot being substituted for the official ballot, while the voter is going to or coming from the voting booth. As a voter enters the booth he is given a ballot by one of the officers of the election. On the upper corner of the ballot is a coupon containing a number. His name is given and the number of the ballot is marked over his name on a sheet by a clerk. He goes to the booth, marks the ballot and returns it to the officer who tears off the coupon and returns the ballot to the voter; the latter then deposits the ballot in the ballot-box. Tearing off the number destroys the last chance for the identity of the voter being known when the box is opened and the votes counted. Any man may feel perfectly safe in voting as his conscience dictates, and may be assured that no one will ever know how he has voted.

With the "schools" that are being held, and the published explanations of the procedure on election day, it would seem that all the education necessary for the elector to cast a proper ballot will have been made by election time, so that each voter need have no more uneasiness about doing the right thing than about eating his breakfast.

CATHOLIC CHURCH IN POLITICS.

The Colorado Catholic is a weekly paper published in Denver in the interest of the Catholic church. Its editor is Father T. H. Malone, who is well known in this part of the country as a representative of his religious faith. In the issue of the paper for October 24 the following will (?) appear when the paper reaches its readers:

The Catholic church and the Catholic clergy as a whole are working night and day for the election of Bryan and the silver cause. Of one hundred and ten clergymen in the Buffalo diocese, New York state, one hundred are for silver, and it is evident to any thinking man that if New York state goes for Bryan it will be the Catholic vote that will turn the tide of victory in that state.

The foregoing is a printed declaration, from a Catholic organ, of the attitude of that church in active politics. In the present campaign a number of ministers of various denominations have promised in their pulpits, and have turned the latter into political rostrums on behalf of McKinley; and the press of the West has rebuked them, and properly so, for the debasement of the livery they wore; some ministers have taken similar action with reference to Bryan, and inferentially the same rebuke is applicable to them. An estimate Catholic, Archbishop Ireland, gave his views a few days ago, in opposition to the free silver cause and candidates; but was very careful in so doing to preface his remarks by the statement that he spoke only as a citizen, and not as a church official. Yet he was rebuked from Rome. Will this other official of the same church receive a rebuke, when he comes out and declares, not what Catholics as citizens are doing, but, that their church "works night and day" in the interest of a political candidate?

It makes no difference that that candidate is a favorite in the West; people in this section discern the fact that there is no distinction in principle wherever the church joined is working for or against a political favorite. The point is, the impolitic course to politicize a church, as a church organization. This is settled from any standpoint of Catholics. Our quotation is not the declaration of an opponent, but of a church official, and argues, that the Catholic church, as such, is entirely engaged in a political campaign in the United States. As to whether that church is on the right or wrong side in what it is doing, we are not discussing that matter here; we merely direct attention to the spectacle as declared by a recognized official of that church. And we add further note that the closing words of Colorado Catholic's editorial from which the foregoing excerpt was taken refer by name to Martin Lomasney, "the fifteen cent man of a man who gives Europe Wise advice and the world with discussion and sentiment cattle."

THREE FOR SEWALL.

A voter wants the News to inform him how he can, under the Australian ballot system and the nominations as they appear on the ticket, vote three presidential electors in case he votes for Bryan and Sewall direct. He has discovered that on the ticket there are three electors to support McKinley and Hobart, for Bryan and Sewall, and one for Bryan and Watson; and he wants to record his vote only for Bryan and Sewall electors and he wants three of them.

We fear the gentleman will not have all his wishes gratified at this time. From his analysis of the ticket, there is not a full electoral ticket for the Democratic nominees for Vice President, and that fact is true in five other states in which the electoral ticket Sewall is pledged to the Democratic nominee for Vice President, and that fact is true in five other states in which the electoral ticket Sewall is pledged to the Democratic nominee for President, in the Bryan electors, Monte Bennett, Page and Smith, are pledged to vote for McKinley and Hobart, in case of electing; Lund, Democrat, is pledged to Bryan and Sewall, and so is Bailey, Independent Republican; the party ticket at Mr. Lawrence, Populist, is Bryan and Watson.

This it will be seen that the Democratic, Independent Republican and People's party tickets for electors are a combination of the three. As we understand it, if there are more Populist than Democratic electors chosen in the United States the intention is that votes for the Populist nominees for Vice President and President in other states. If there are more Democratic than Populist electors chosen, the electoral vote goes to Sewall. Judging from the general outlook, there would seem to be no need that the surveyor of votes should be concerned about the fusion electors in this State, if concerned, must and their ballots for Bryan and Sewall, the regular Democratic nominees, and thus the desire of our inquirer will be granted, though by a different process than that which he sought to figure out on the face of the ticket.

A "SHORT" STRAIGHT TICKET.

A reader of the News wants a reply to the following question:

The advice is given: "If you want to vote a straight ticket, put your mark opposite the party emblem, and make no other mark." Now if I do that in Salt Lake county by marking the People's party or Populist emblem, who enters on legislative offices do I vote for? Is that straight ticket a little short?

Perhaps it is "a little short," in some counties, but presumably not in Salt Lake county. The Populists having followed the Democratic ticket in this county, the Populist votes would be counted thereon; that is, if each Democratic candidate also has the designation "People's party" opposite his name on the official ballot. If he has not, then the judges can count the party ballots only for the persons designated by that name on the official ballot, which in some places is only for two presidential electors, Messrs. Lund and Lawrence, and Representative, Mr. Foster. Mr. Daly, the third Populist elector, not having accepted the Populist nomination, a vote for that party's straight ticket cannot be counted for him, and consequently he will run behind the ticket the number of straight Populist votes. It is in such instances as these that judges of election need special care and attention, that they may count the votes as they actually are, and not as some people think they should be. If any candidate has only "Republican," "Democrat," or "People's" opposite his name, no other straight party vote can be added to his list. He gets his own straight party vote and those specially marked at the same, and no others.

THE ENGINEERING NEWS (New York) of Oct. 22, has a two and a half page article on the water supply system of Salt Lake City, written by W. P. Hardesty, C. E.; it also gives a two-page inset illustrating the conditions of tanks, conduits, etc. The article deals with the City Creek supply system, the Emigration creek supply, the Parley's creek system, and the general distribution of the water throughout the city, with many interesting figures and data, showing careful preparation of the paper. Mr. Hardesty is doing good work for Utah in his well written articles in the Engineering News.

From Cabinet (Mont.) Journal: The way full of the Boring Sun Block Lead Works is at present nearly one thousand dollars per week. This is at the rate of $45,500 per year that is distributed for labor in the town of Cabinet, in addition to large sums paid for printing, for making sacking and other outside work done in Canton and Spokane. The establishment paid the railroad last year for freight in and out $14,126.75. The employes of the factory during the last four years, which other factories have been run as part time or so reduced pay, or both, owing to the general prostration of business, have not known any hard times, they have had no reduction in their pay or hours of labor, and the factory has not been closed a day, or hour except the short annual vacation in August, which was for only one week this year.

The Boring Sun Shoe Polish and Black Lead Works is the largest establishment of its kind in the world, and has a capacity of its time to store polish a day. Their new Sun Face Shoe Polish is larger in quantity, more attractive to eyes, and better in quality than any other popular polish, and is strongly commending a large sale. The old reliable Boring Sun Shoe Polish is taken, as a standard of its excellence and economy, still commanding an enormous sale in every English speaking country on the face of the earth. The growth of the business is marvelous when its small beginnings are remembered. Congressman Morse began the business when a school boy, his first product in a little hand mould, dried it on a stove, and sold it at retail from a carpet bag.

"Tact comes from long years of experience, large revenue from little business fees."

But this success is no accident. Mr. Morse when a young man and for many years afterward was engaged twenty-two miles in the Union as a commercial traveler, and thus laid the foundation for the present business.

The direct line to Kansas City, St. Louis and Atlantic seaboard, is via the Missouri Pacific Railway, Denver Pueblo. Through sleeping and chair cars, and all connections made in Union depot by the trains. If you are going East and care for a daylight ride through the grandest scenery of the Rocky Mountains on route, see that your tickets read via Missouri Pacific Railway. Elegant chair cars positively free to holders of regular train tickets.
