PROVO.

PROVO, UTAH, - DEC. 31, 1896.

A Petition for Hayes.

Detective Franks brought a petition for the pardon of Harry Hayes to this city yesterday, and copies have been placed in some of the saloons and possibly other places for signature. The petition reads:

To the Board of Pardons of the State of Utah:

We, the undersigned, residents of the State of Utah, being generally acquainted with the facts in the case of Harry Hayes, who has been sentenced to undergo the death penalty, hereby respectfully petition your honorable body to pardon Harry Hayes.

We base our application upon the fact that said Harry Hayes was convicted upon circumstantial evidence (we are of the opinion that he was convicted more upon the theory that the dreadful tragedy required a victim than upon evidence tending to connect said Harry Hayes with the commission of the crime.)

We believe that human life is too sacred to be offered up on caspicio, and if there is a reasonable or any doubt whatever of guilt the doubtful man should be given the benefit of it.

We do not believe that Harry Hayes has been proven guilty, beyond a reasonable doubt and we therefore ask for a pardon for him."

The portion enclosed in parenthesis was not thus set of in the copies brought down, but Mr. Franks was requested to state this portion, which he did. So that really does not appear in the petition as signed. It is not believed that many signers will be obtained. Many could be obtained to a petition to commutation of the sentence to life imprisonment on account of the lack of direct evidence to connect Hayes with the murder.

Heavy Damages Wanted.

Wm. E. Wilson has brought suit in the Fourth district court against the Sioux Consolidated Mining company for $20,000 damages for injuries sustained by him while working for the company in its mine in Tintic mining district in April, 1896. He alleges that he was engaged in ringing and hauling ore from the mine to the surface by means of a horse and cars, and that the defendant corporation furnished him with a vicious, uncontrollable horse to pull the cars, knowing the horse to be vicious and unmanageable, which plaintiff did not know; and that on the 16th day of April the horse became frightened and ran, threw him to the ground and pulled the cars over him, which resulted in severe and lasting injuries to plaintiff's body, breast and head, for which he sees judgment in the amount stated and for costs of suit.

Joseph E. Page and Powers, Straup & Lippman are attorneys for plaintiff.

Notes and Personals.

This morning Constable Edwards of Goshen brought over Boyd Race from Goshen, for treatment at the county hospital (county jail). Race is a man about 40 years of age, and of late he has been threatening violence to his family and others. Yesterday he went out in the stack yard threatening to kill himself. He prevented any of the family from following him by threatening to kill them, and as he had a 35 calibre pistol in his hand he was not interfered with. Race did a piece of fancy shooting on himself that would be hard to duplicate. The ball entered below the outer corner of the right eye brow and passed under the skin above the eye coming out between the eyes above the nose, taking a slice of an inched course. The skull is not injured, neither is the eye. Dr. Taylor dressed the wound, and the patient will doubtless be well in a short time. It is believed his reason was affected through drink. He has a wife and eight children.

Another inmate of the county jail brought in during the last two or three days, is Adam Schrocer, an old man from Pleasant Grove, sent up for nine days for an assault on S. C. Jensen. John Brandt of Pleasant Grove is serving out a ninety days' sentence for petit larceny, and Walter Doulier, is a tramp sentenced to ten days by the Springville justice for using profane and insulting language. (His, however, is merely a Springville boarder, and not entitled to the privileges of the jail by right of any offence against the laws of the State or its health.

In a suit brought before Justice De Moley against S. M. Duggins in the name of Utah county, to collect poll tax, a motion to dismiss was made by Mr. Warner, attorney for defendant, on the ground that the law does not vest any authority in the county to collect poll tax. The question will be argued at an early date. The point is more as to the manner of bringing the suit than anything else, the contention being that the road supervisor should have brought it.

The following marriage licenses were issued yesterday: Jas. H. Walker, aged 19, and Delia Cobbley, aged 18, both of Pleasant Grove; Jesse W. Fox, aged 22, and Mary Powell, aged 19, both at Lehi.

Geo. Haverstock, county clerk-elect, has filed his official bond for $10,000 on which Hon. David Evans and Cashier D. A. Swan of the First National Bank of Provo are the sureties.

Rev. and Mrs. E. Gordon Hunt of Park City are here visiting Mrs. Hunt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg.

A. V. Robinson, local representative of the Herald, will be deputy county clerk under County Clerk Haverstamp.

The indications are that Louis Hanks will have to give up the camping night at the opera house.

The regular monthly Priesthood meeting will be held in the tabernacle Saturday, Jan. 2.

The examination of county teachers commences here today and will continue tomorrow.

A son has arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Freshwater. All well.

Bishop Murdock and wife of Charleston are visiting relatives here.

A TRIBUTE TO ART.

The Maid of Milesia and the Beautiful Venus de Medici.

Somewhere in Washington — just where is not necessary to the main point at issue in this short article on the Tariff question and under consideration of art in the national capital—is a mansion presided over by a woman of wealth and refinement. She is a most artistic woman, too, and in her house are some unusually fine pieces of painting and statuary. There is also a Milesian maid, by name Maggie, who knows a deal more about housecleaning than she does about sculpture, and Maggie has been trying for a long time to cultivate her taste up to the point of properly appreciating the painted and carved beauty with which she daily comes in contact.

Not many days ago the mistress and the maid were going over the house with brush and broom, putting it in especial order for a musicale that was to be given to a few artists and fashionables, and the mistress observed that the maid on three several occasions passed by with cold neglect of cloth and brush a beautiful figure of the "Venus de Medici," in an alcove just off the hall.

"Here, Maggie!" she called. "Why don't you touch the dust off this figure?"

"Which wan, mem?" inquired Maggie with great innocence.

"The 'Venus' there in the alcove, of course. See"—and the lady touched it with her finger—"you have left dust all over it."

"Yis, mem," confessed Maggie, "but I do be thinking for a long time, mem, that there ain to be smoothing on it, mem."

It was a delightful and logical excuse, perhaps, but the lady could scarcely accept it, and Maggie's brush removed even the dusty drapery she wished to leave.—Washington Star.

Horses Kick
is self-defense. It is their most vigorous form of protest against the abuse of Split Nails that are thrown into their hoofs by careless men. Blacksmiths often use such nails in spite of the danger that is liable to follow.
This is what happens: One part comes out, so much of it is bended for clinching, the other goes into the tender foot. Such nails are the result of the Cold-Rolled and Shearing Process
by which the fibres of metal are separated and not cut when the nail is sheared from the finger-nail. This kind of a nail can be safely distributed by the rough edge along the sides near the point.
Putnam Nails are exclusively Hot-Forged and Hammer-Pointed, precisely like the old-fashioned hand-made nail. This process welds all particles of iron closely together into a compact, tough nail that cannot Split, Sliver or Break and is Absolutely Safe.
Expose the nails in your smith's shop, for a trial, and insist on having them. The whole trouble lies with the Hot-Rolled Pointed nail, which shows the fibres of the metal over the point, avoid them; your experience will be satisfactory.
