OBITUARY NOTES.

NELSON P. LINDSAY.

CORYELLE, Collin County, Texas, Oct. 5, 1895.—My father, Nelson P. Lindsay, departed this life, Oct. 5, 1895.

N. P. Lindsay joined the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in Burke county, N. C., was baptized by Elder Dix in the above named state and county in the year 1835 or 36. He was 75 years, 1 month and 16 days old. He was always a firm and consistent believer in the doctrines of the Latter-day Saints, and died a firm believer in the same. He was the father of nine children; seven are living, all grown; his one and only brother, H. P. Lindsay, is living in Salt Lake City.

He was perfectly rational during all his three weeks' sickness, and was submissive to his Master's will, and died his faithful Mormon.

He had been a resident of Texas for 13 years.

SAM. T. LINDSAY.

FRANCES CROSBY BROWN.

Sister Frances Crosby Brown died at her home in Natrona, Apache county, Arizona, on October 12, 1895. Sister Brown was born in Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, October 31, 1817; her parents were Joshua and Hannah Cause Crosby. She was baptized a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints December 10, 1839, in Chautauqua county, New York, and gathered with the Saints of Commerce, afterwards called Nauvoo, Ills., June 6, 1840, in company with her mother, three brothers, John K., Cloud and Jesse W. Crosby, and two sisters, Hannah Crosby Mainland and Eliza C. Turrill. Her mother, Hannah Cause Crosby, was the first Latter-day Saint who died at Nauvoo, and Rachel Huntington, mother of Ann Zina and Brother William Huntington, was the second person; she died in the wending and the other in the morning, and their funeral services were held together, and Elder Sidney Rigdon did the preaching.

Sister Brown is the last of this Crosby family, except John K. Crosby, of Bourbon, Davis county, who is over eighty years of age, and they all died firm in the faith of the Gospel.

She was married in Lorenzo Brown in Nauvoo March 26th, 1846, the Prophet Joseph Smith officiating, by which marriage she had three sons and one daughter, all of whom are still living. She are living thirty-three grand and great-grandchildren. She leaved her home in the Nauvoo temple January 15th, 1846 without her husband or children in the memorial exodus from Nauvoo, Ills., and reached Salt Lake Valley September 21st, 1848 and after a short residence in the Old Fort, located in the Seventh ward, just north of the residence of Bishop Tarianne Jenkins. She moved to St. George, Washington county, Utah, with her husband and family in 1861 and may really be called a pioneer in the settlement of Nauvoo, Salt Lake and St. George.

Father and Sister Brown were called to labor as regular hands in the St. George Temple when it was opened in 1877 or 1878, Brigham Young. They moved to Arizona in 1885 and located in Natrona. Sister Brown laid the position of a sex sexton of Relief Society in St. George Temple for several years, and was early president of Relief Society, in Nauvoo, during which time the sisters built nine halls, the last in the State of Zion.

Sister Brown would have been 78 years old had she lived till 12th, inst. She had a paralytic stroke Sept. 5th, 1895, by which she lost the use of her right side, up to a short time she attended to her clothing so it may be said she died of old age, as she had no disease and was sick only a few weeks. She died in the presence of her husband, two sons and her daughter and all was done that anything humble could do for her. She died firm in the faith of a glorious resurrection with the just.
