DESERET EVENING NEWS.

THURSDAY, - - JANUARY 16, 1894

FRAGMENTS.

THE City Council meets tonight. There is a good deal of business to transact and the season promises to be a busy one.

SEVERAL persons were more or less injured in different parts of the city last night by falling on the icy pavements caused by yesterday's thaw.

PROBABLY persons who are delinquent in the payment of their paving assessments will be called upon for settlement immediately or be subjected to execution. Advertisement on side of door and wall.

THE bishops of the city held a monthly fast night in prayer meeting last night at the Tabernacle, presided over by President Lorenzo Snow. Reports will be made from the ward meetings in the morning.

THE regular meeting of the Maxwell Post was held at the G. A. R. hall last evening, and after a review of the labors of the Relief Corps gave an impromptu musical entertainment and rolled off a fine silk quilt, which was drawn by Miss Jennie Peck.

CHIEF OF POLICE ARTHUR PETTIT of this city has received a letter from one W. Lawson, chief of the detective bureau in Omaha, asking for information regarding the bottle Van Gorder, who recently played such a heavy game of swindling here and then skipped out for Denver, where he was so unfortunately taken under the official wing of Governor Waite, who refused to give assistance to Pinkerton detectives holding a requisition for the swindler. It appears that the Omaha authorities are anxious to get possession of their associates with the "wealthy jeweler."

Wonderland.

An excellent performance is given at this popular place of amusement, in fact, more than your money's worth.

New attractions and novelties are announced for the week commencing January 15th, foremost of which is the only original real live Russian Orientals.

In the Bijou theater several new artists will appear, including the Musical Pavies of Paris, a European selection of note.

In the Tremontonia Mr. Burton Stanley, member of Mr. Clyde Stanley and the entire stock company, will present for the first time in this city the comedy skit entitled Yankee Notions.

A GREAT INSTITUTION.

The University School of Music, Ann Arbor, Mich.

The "Conservatory" of the West—Concerts of Superior Artists—Splendid Facilities, Expenses, etc.

The excellence of the University of Michigan for literary, law, medical and other branches of study is well known, and it is due to say that a student desiring to take thoroughly musical study, can make no better selection than one of the Atlantic lines to the University school of Music. The advantages here are exceptional, instruction being very thorough and studious and not of living very reasonable. The student may hear the best artists and musical organizations, speakers and concerts at a very nominal figure (Paderewski, Nordica, Maurice Powell, violinist, Marteau, the great French violinist, New York Symphony Orchestra, Thomas's Orchestra, Gustav Jacob, Ingersoll, Wallerstein, Gleason, Van Hoff, James Whitcomb Riley, Rev. W. L. Wilson are a partial list of those who have appeared in 1893.)

The city itself is attractive and even beautiful in its warmer seasons, and the scenery around Ann Arbor is of the best in the state. Rooms may be hired (furnished) from 75 cents per week up, and board can be had from $2 to $3.50 per week. The cost of living that is about the same as in our western cities. Living cost, and the cost of a musical education in this school with the best in the schools of New York, Boston and Chicago I find that a young girl can get along with from $300 to $350 a year free in Ann Arbor than elsewhere.

THE FACULTY.

Dr. Stanley, director, is one of the first vocal conductors of America. He is a musician of the "German musical school" and a true exponent of it. Concertmaster, Sigfrid Ochsner, whose ability and "art of conducting" are ably tested by him. The pupils under his admirable and work diligently to please him, for he is a man whose ideal is to elevate, thoroughly and his encouraging words for them at the time when such are "music" indeed, to the striving student. The Messiah (Handel) and Lobengrin (Wagner) have been given the past year by the Choral Union under Dr. Stanley's inspiring baton. An orchestra of thirty-five instrumentalists is attached. The musical school is growing to a wonderful manner and its courses are not "staple" but based on a high musical standard. The conservatory is the stylish, more most understand music in the highest sense.

The school of music building is a three story brick edifice of Modern design. The rooms are separated from each other by deadened walls—the floors being of polished wood. The hallways are wide and the walls appropriately adorned with busts names as Beethoven, Bach, Handel, Schubert, Mendelssohn, Schumann, Wagner, Gounod, neatly set in the broad borders. Two music halls, dedicated to the late Professor Frieze, (honorer of music in Ann Arbor,) where the classic "family concerts," "popular recitals" and lectures are given, is commodious and pretty. It comfortably seats 350 people. On the right side of the platform majestically stands the pipe organ, bought from exhibits at the World's Fair. Near it on the platform is the concert grand Steinway piano and on the left of the same the sub-room. The facility seems to be geared with fine pianos of the masters. A cozy reading room containing the latest musical journals, books, etc., is found in the first floor in the hall, in entering the building. The director may be seen in his office, dissing upstairs.

We shall now take a glimpse at the artists that have been furnished to the nearly two hundred scholars enrolled. The eminent German pianist and teacher, J. Erich Schmauglie, director of the piano department, with Miss Jeanette London, of N. Y., as artistic pianists, as assistant. Of Herr Schmauglie too much cannot be said. He is an artist, as teacher and performer, and the interest he takes in pupils (two only) is another mark of his excellence. As an interpreter of Beethoven he has no superior in America. Miss London is not long in Ann Arbor, but has already won an enviable position as a true artiste.

The violin department is under Prof. Hermann Zeitz, an accomplished master of that king of stringed instruments. Mr. Zeitz has the power of making his audience obey his commands upon them from the violin. He was the sole violin in the Milwaukee Tri which had great success and has done much solo playing with artistic finish. At one of the recent Popular Recitals, the violin soloists, ranging from ten to twenty years of age, gave Handel's "Largo" in a very creditable manner, showing conscientious training from the instructor.

Professor S. H. Mills and Miss Bailey, of Boston, are at the helm in the vocal department. Mr. Mills has a deep, rich baritone voice, sings with great appreciation and his phrasing is noteworthy. Miss Bailey is one of the most finished soprano your correspondent has ever heard. "Kennedy" is apparently this singer's favorite, and all know that she is at home with it. To prove that Miss Bailey is an artiste we need only state that she sang the soprano parts in "Messiah" given in December) with but one day's notice and preparation in a manner that won the appreciation of all. The lady teaches with no less a school than Lamperti.

Prof. F. L. Abel, of Detroit, teaches the violoncello, and I must say he is a finished master of his instrument.

Lest one not by any means pass unnoticed the organ department, presided over by Dr. Stanley, who is Michigan's leading organist, having the finest church in Detroit to preside in every Sunday. The music and has the latest improvements and is exceedingly perfect so far as Hyding goes, built for exhibition at the Fair. It may be named by parents.

Other concerts are fought by organ students. Miss Dr. Stanley, the Mrs. Jerome Jerome, made the Dress and music hall with her clear vocalism. Miss Taylor, the director's secretary, is very affable and is this her office is a comfortable lady.

Every night of the school is to have something but good music, and it is intended to be a musical center of the.

The director of the school will be pleased to answer requests concerning the school and to send circulars to any who may write them. If the month chosen is read by some the advantages Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

PAYSON.

PAYSON, UTAH, - - JAN. 15, 1894.

Notes From the Fair Town South of Utah Lake.

The second ward Sunday school held a series yesterday afternoon. An interesting program was rendered.

Prof. Hyrum Brimhall, well known in Utah musical circles, now on a mission in Germany and adjoining states, has spent some of his spare time in constructing some guitars and mandolins, which have been forwarded to relatives in this Territory and are pronounced excellent by all who have heard or tested them.

Mr. Sam Pickering is down from Clinton, Thistle Valley. He reports everything quiet there, and with the exception of one case, that of Mr. Moses Daniels, there is no sickness prevalent.

The irrepressible D. P. Bell is in town, resting in the interests of the Provo Dispatch.

Mr. Charles Long, one of Payson's old citizens, is very ill and little hopes are entertained for his recovery.

Mr. William Powell has been suffering with the grip for some time.

A large number of young people took advantage of the skighting yesterday, and the flight of the bells was heard on all sides. Had the lighting been confined to sleigh-riding, it would not have been so bad, but it certainly was not pleasant for the religiously inclined to see crowd after crowd pass whooping and yelling or singing ginger ditties on the Sabbath day.

Attorney Walbridge of Provo was in town yesterday, the guest of Mr. T. G. Wilson, president of the Payson bank.

John Owens and M. H. McMillan are preparing to establish a furniture repair shop on Main street.

A letter from Castle county, plainly addresses to this city was received here on the 11th inst., was postmarked "Fish Pots, Jan. 8th, and Beaver, Jan. 10th." Why this embargo on the part of the railway mail clerks?

Mr. James Schofield and family have recently moved into their fine residence opposite the First ward meeting house.

OBSERVER.

At Provo, near Grand Junction, Colorado, the farmers have removed to congress to the purchase of the Green River canal at a cost of $40,000.

The Free Soda Legend.

In spite of the learned scientific lectures which have been delivered, there is a large and important portion of the public who believe that the soda water of a fashionable place, Free Soda, as the legend runs, has a power to cure a great variety of ailments, which is unequaled by any other water. The truth is, that
