The Silver State says a gentleman of Winnemucca wrote to San Francisco to secure rooms during the Mechanics' Fair and was offered two bedrooms and a parlor on Van Ness avenue for $250 per month. He has concluded not to attend the fair.

At Fruita in the lower Grand valley, Colorado, last week, a new Methodist church was dedicated. After the sermon the bishop appealed to the congregation for $700 to pay off the church debt and $710 was promptly subscribed.

A Butte, Mont., convict released from the penitentiary was arrested within twenty hours after his release, tried for larceny, committed within thirty-six hours, and was back in the penitentiary within three days of his release.

New Mexicans are making money while the cows are giving this winter by filling the towns with firewood, which they are carrying in on the backs of burros. An exchange states that wood was never so cheap in New Mexico since the white men came.

A Gilpin county, Colo., miner is credited with the invention of a new lead drill which will drive a hole through the hardest rock five times as fast as two men can do it in double work. The drill is operated by turning a crank and levelling at $75.

A bold robbery was committed at Seattle, Wash., the other day. A traveling salesman returned to his room at the hotel to prepare for his departure, and found that his trunk, with his effects, had been carried off by some enterprising rogue.

A new steam rotary snow plow, with four mammoth engines at its back, rendered valuable assistance in keeping the Union Pacific open to the last snow blockade in the Blue mountains, California. This was the first introduction of this plow and it was a great success.

Judge Virden, of Mesa county, decided that sheep may not be watered in a creek which has been used for irrigating purposes by a ranchet near Bridgeport, this decision was outlined by the supreme court. The injunction against the sheep man was made perpetual.

Cassia county, Idaho, has a curious rock quarry. The rock is unknown to quarrying and very fine grain. It comes out of the quarry nicely cut and dressed in square slabs of solidness from six to twenty inches thick and six feet long. It is ready for use without the labor of stone cutters.

F. L. Leonard, a young man mining four miles east of Lebanon, Or., has brought in a nugget of gold covered with quicksilver. The value of the lump is about $60. It resembles a piece of amalgam, though he thinks the nugget is just as he picked it out of the ledge.

The Cheyenne, Wyo., councilmen and the bosses of that city have appropriated their differences regarding the amount to be appropriated for the department. The chief will have $100 and the assistant $100. Each company will receive $50 per month.

The people of Malad, Idaho, are said to be very much excited over what is believed to be the fatal shooting of Morgan F. Morgan, occurring about two miles below town, by John J. Howe, who lives one mile south of town. Jealousy is said to be the cause. Howe has been arrested.

The body of a man named J. S. Skinner, was found by the side of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad track on Monday night, one mile east of Bernalillo station, Las Animas county, Colo. It was badly mangled. From letters found on the man's person it seems he was from Pueblo, where his mother recently died.

E. B. Wagg, one of the syndicate interested in the San Marcial coal fields of Socorro, has recently returned to Tucson, Ariz. He states that valuable lands have been sold, one in the depth of ninety feet penetrating a six-foot stratum of pure anthracite coal, another to a depth of thirty-five feet penetrating a seven-foot stratum. The coal is of very high grade.

Harry Edwards, who describes himself as being on a racing tramp around the United States, on a wager, arrived from Michigan last night on foot, says the Phoenix (Ariz.) Gazette. He is representing the New York World on this exhibition tour, and states that his competitor, Williams, is the man, is at least sixteen days behind. He and his traveling companion, Jack Hayden, are now on their return trip, by way of New Orleans, to New York.

A letter has been received in this city says the Laramie (Wyo.) Boomerang, addressed to "The Hoodoo Sheriff," with the name Albert Sieg of Denver, who says he is 17 years of age. Albert is looking for the Dree Jay brothers. He says that his father was killed five years ago, a section foreman at Colorado Junction on the Union Pacific, and that his mother died after the children were brought to Laramie, and finally according to the letter, were taken in charge by some organization, which is called a humane society. No such society is known to the men to exist in this city, at least time enough it may have been an adjunct of some of the churches. He says they were three boys, Louie, Jerry and Frank, besides himself. His father is now dead and he feels that he is alone in the world.
