

MUSIC AND MUSICIANS

MUSIC lovers in general, and the local Ohio society, and the Cambrian society in particular, are looking forward with great relish to the visit of the Ohio Male chorus set for Tuesday next, at the First M. E. church. As readers of the "News" know, this organization comes fresh from the Eisteddfod held in Seattle, where it was the winner of the male voice contest participated in by choruses from Seattle, Portland, Vancouver, San Francisco, and Los Angeles. The sum of $500 cash was given to the Ohio chorus, while the director, Prof. H. W. Owens was awarded a medal.

Inasmuch as the male voice competition took place the first day of the Eisteddfod, the tabernacle choir did not compete, as they bring reports from Seattle of the high efficiency of that organization.

The program here will be as follows:

PART I.
(a) "America".....Arr. by Parks
(b) "Spartan Heroes".....Prothero
The Ohio Male Chorus,
Bass solo "It is Enough" from "Elijah".....E. Ryden

NETTIE THATCHER SLOAN.

Mrs. Sloan, one of the best known musicians of the state, is again setting at her old home in Logan and will devote herself to piano and vocal teaching. She has for several years studied with the famous pianist, Josefey, of New York, and she was so highly pleased with her progress, that he made her a flattering offer to return and take charge of some of his advanced classes, but she declined in order that she might teach at home.

Mrs. Sloan has taught music at the Agricultural College at Logan, but she will now instruct on her own account. Her vocal teacher was Oscar Sanger of New York.

Mrs. Sloan is well remembered by local opera lovers for her work with the amateurs some years ago in "Patience" and "The Mikado."

The band musicians are to have a field day on Labor day, with two bands on the streets—four bands of 15 men each, and one band of 25 men. The entire 18 will parade from the Memorial down Main street, the majority of the parade, before dividing up among the various trades unions in the procession.

Walter Flashman, the flutist, is developing an excellent conductor. A request to do so in this field is a bring out from the orchestra of various expressions of sentiment as intended by the composer, as well as a knowledge of how to beat time properly. Mr. Flashman appears to possess these desired qualities.

Local music house employees are feeling more confident that they will secure their much coveted half holiday on Wednesday, next summer.

Prof. Wetzel has returned from Green River, where he has been practicing since the advent of the Living Flag, performing the role of a living peach basket, cantaloupe crate, and general fruit sampler. The professor was after a change from the "horrid grind" of musical monotony in Salt Lake; and he got it.

Mrs. Novak, Gosselin's studio has been closed the past week, resuming Monday next.

Hold has a score of the "William Tell" overture, printed in Paris from the copper plates submitted for approval to the composer, Rossini. It appears from this that the introduction is a fact which musicians all over the United States recognize. It is a subject which is often discussed whenever there is a gathering of composers or professional musicians. While here my daily mail contained scores of requests for classic and operatic compositions. This is an infallible proof of the public's interest and most gratifying to me, as it shows that my desire to make known the literature of music has met with ready response. Since my first season at Willow Grove I have noticed a rapid development in the public's musical taste, and I have tested my program accordingly.

My present program at Philadelphia as a city of music appreciation is no doubt well deserved. And that city's taste is also notable for good drama.

The waltz king, Johann Strauss, is to be honored by a monument in the city park of Vienna, which is to cost 150,000 crowns. Of this sum 10,000 crowns are already in hand; the rest is to be obtained by the aid of a few festival performances of his favorite operettas. The first of these will be the "Gypsy Baron," in which the popular Glazier, who created the role of Czazan, will again assume it. The famous tenor, Slezic, will also be in the cast, and the operetta will be conducted by Lehar, composer of "The Merry Widow." It is worthy of note that the Imperial ministry of education contributed seven crowns towards the monument, to the great satisfaction of the Viennese, who hold that such healthy melodies made as the waltz king wrote not only entertain the millions but educate the mind and elevate it above shallow and vulgar things. Is it likely that that other Strauss—the composer of "Salomé," will ever have a monument in Vienna, built with the aid of the government?

Wm. Leslie will conduct tomorrow afternoon's band concert at Liberty Park. Mr. Leslie's concert last week when he officiated in Mr. Held's absence brought him congratulations from many friends.

A song service will be given by the pupils of Hugo W. Dougall, in the

With the advent of fall, the music teachers are looking back to their seasons, as the music houses are selling goodly quantities of classical as well as popular music.

The organization appears in this city under the auspices of the local Ohio society, and under the management of John James and Evan Arthur.

THE OHIO MALE CHORUS.

The Ohio male chorus is composed of leading vocalists of Ohio and the central states, who collectively, and as individuals, have won many victories from the Atlantic to the northwest, capturing prizes in competition with many of the leading choruses of the country. They have received favorable comments from the most exacting of critics, wherever they have appeared. While many of their selections are of the classic order they also have a repertoire of the old familiar songs that bring back the sweetest memories while others inspire sentiments of true patriotism and love of home.

A GREAT TRIBUTE TO THE COLUMBIA PHONOGRAPH AND RECORDS

BIG DEPARTMENT STORES GET COLUMBIA LINE.

Graphophone Company Developing Tremendous Field for Sale of Machines and Records.

Releasing that the big department stores offer a tremendous field for the sale of talking machines and records, the Columbia Phonograph Company has begun a strenuous campaign for this business and records from the wholesale department during the past week were sold directly to this store, with the result of results which are distinctly favorable. Executive contracts with large initial orders were made with quite a number of big concerns during the past few weeks, among them being an extensive arrangement with the Fourteenth Street store in New York, which will handle the Columbia product exclusively.

A similar arrangement has been concluded with Henry Siegel & Company, of Boston, whereby that organization will also become exclusive agents, the Big-Center Company, one of the largest department stores of Chicago, having sent a number of large machines recently sent in an order for the Columbia, to the extent of about $4,000, and other large concerns have also made arrangements immediately.

New York, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The Columbia Phonograph Company, of New York, which has been advertising its new Columbia line exclusively, make the following re-

"We agreed to accept that machine."

"Every standard machine that we tested reproduced songs and music in a natural and musical manner. That was the test of the different machines, and no machine can reproduce natural musical sounds in the same way as has many others."

"We had the idea, as have many others, that a talking machine sounds a little unnatural. The songs might be emanating but one does not know that the machine was singing just the human voice."

"Today one can scarcely tell. One knows, of course, what the voices reproduced are the rarest in the world. One knows that only the best machine can produce the best talker."

"When you turn from any other machine to the Columbia, you will find a difference immediately."

"The voices are natural, surprisingly so. But that clear, natural melody of the Columbia is not approached by any."

"There are three other good talking machines, but we have no fault to find with them. We could sing you with any one of them if you never brought them into comparison."

"But we propose to send a talking machine on trial to every trade establishment in the country to invite comparisons. We were going to say—Send our machine back if you find any machine that is better."

"There are only one machine on which we dared to make the offer. That was the Columbia. The machine itself was good, but the Columbia alone was best. Others were good, but the Columbia alone was perfect. Others were satisfactory when tested alone. But the Columbia was the machine which was bound to win when brought into competition."
