NEWS OF THE WEST.

Hard Month For Prospective Bridegrooms in Oakland, Cal.

DESPERATE GUN FIGHT.

A Unique Ordinance.—Startling Disclosures as to the Teaching of Boys to Thieve.

The question of putting in a system of waterworks is being agitated at Kayville, Davis county.

Pocatello, Idaho, has a local organization known as the Annanias Club. The roll book numbers many well known names.

The Fort Pierre (S. D.) Live Stock Journal says the effects of the winter season are practically past. The winter was the mildest one on stock experienced for years. The loss is nominal. Warm rains have started the grass and stock is in splendid shape.

The board of public works is to begin immediately the construction of Main street so as to connect San Diego and National City, Cal., four miles below, by a good driveway. A levy of $2,500 was made for this last year, and of that amount $2073 in taxes has been received and is now available.

Mrs. Mary Jensen, commonly called Johnson, an old but very wealthy woman of Seattle, was murdered on Saturday morning by her lover, N. A. Sanders, who then put a bullet through his brain. The murderer left letters stating that Frank McKinley had supplanted him in the affections of the woman and this caused the deed.

The little daughter of Phil Groves met her death on Saturday at Buena Vista, Colo., while out jack riding on her father's ranch near town. She had fallen from the burro when a considerable distance from the house and her clothing had in some way become entangled in the harness of the animal. The first intimation the parents had of the fatal occurrence was the approach of the burro dragging the lifeless body of their daughter.

Eusebio Sois, a prominent sheep raiser of western Valencia county, N. M., was at Pinos wells buying some supplies from Spence Bros., and, on leaving the store, a large dog, partly cypole, sprang at him. In defending himself he pulled his revolver, shooting at the dog. Julian Chavez, the canine's owner, became angry, and with his Winchester shot Sois through the heart, causing instant death. The murderer is in jail at Las Lunas.

Several days ago Miss Beatriz Aragon, residing at the small Mexican town of Valencia, was abducted from her home and has not since been found, although searching parties have been out since then. A half witted Mexican is under arrest accused of knowing something about her disappearance. It is the opinion that the woman was murdered and the body dragged to the Rio Grande. Four murders have been committed in this country since February, and the people are much excited.

The other day at Fort Steele, Wyo., occurred one of the most desperate gun fights that has ever taken place in Carbon county. As a result, Al. Calhoun, a sheep shearer, is a corpse, shot through the heart, and Manuel Sandoval, another sheep shearer and his brother, Theodore Sandoval, both employes of the Jack Creek Land and Cattle company, are now at the county jail, Manuel, desperately wounded, under the care of Dr. Ricketts. Theodore and Manuel, as soon as the shooting was done, at once gave themselves up.

Peter Madden, brother of Tom Madden the convict who was lately shot while attempting to escape from the Laramie (Wyo.) penitentiary, has been shot and killed at Sonanza, in the Big Horn basin by James McDermott. McDermott surrendered later at Buffalo. This is the McDermott whose child was killed by Tom Madden in April, 1891. This murder is the result of a family feud between the Madden's and McDermott's, resulting from alleged cruelty of McDermott to his wife and the attentions she received from Tom Madden. The two families were connected with a perfect network of crimes, including horse stealing and mail robbing.

Mrs. James A. Morris was buried at Empire, Nevada, on Saturday. She was one of the last survivors of the ill-fated ship Ocean Monarch, which left Queenstown, Ireland, in 1848, and was destroyed by fire. One hundred and fifty passengers were burned to death and others were maimed for life. Two ship's boats had taken all the passengers possible and the vessel was rapidly burning to the water's edge. The mast, then a child of fifteen, was clinging to the rigging, with her father down her arms, and almost to drop into the sea when rescued with four others. The deceased sixty years of age and married the son of her terrific experience to the officers have been making some disclosures about the way the Oakland, Cal., have been taught to steal. It appears that for months past an organized gang of boys have been raiding the railroad yards and stealing large quantities of coal, which they buried each night a few blocks away. The gang was a thriving business until Chief Kellogg ran them down. Hawkins, who keeps a store at 828 Broadway, San Francisco, was caught in the act of receiving the stolen coal from the boys. They buried their booty and each day he would go and with his wagon and dig it up and haul it away. The boys were commonly called the gnomes of the Mountain.

Frank Wolfe, of the extradition of Pete Lunde, who stole money and valuables to the value of $1,000 from C. F. Johnson at Cheyenne, Wyo., Private Secretary Hill received a communication from Secretary of State Gresham stating the request of the governor of Wyoming, that requisition papers on the king of Denmark be sent to the department at Washington, but not granted. Mr. Johnson, from whom the robbery was made, went to Washington as the agent of the state to receive the prisoner and bring him back. Secretary Gresham also has been asked to appoint the agent of the government, if there is required, to go to Denmark and bring Andersen back to answer the crime.

Investigation has been made regarding the strange death of one James S. Hunt, who was found in a dying condition near Lake Merritt, Cal. Hunt was well known in Los Angeles, where he lived for a number of years. He was quite rich at one time, but lost his money in speculation. When the officers found him his pockets were turned inside out and his purse was a short distance away also turned inside out. There was no indications of a struggle, however, and no marks of violence were found on his body. The circumstances of his death were enough to excite suspicion, so an investigation was held. An autopsy on the body showed that death resulted from kidney disease.

One of the most unique ordinances ever placed on record has been passed by the county supervisors of San Bernardino, Cal., having for its aim the collection of taxes from delinquent sheepmen. It provides that those who have in their possession 5000 sheep shall pay a license of $500 per annum and for every additional 1000 sheep $50, and for a less number a pro rata sum. Failure to take out a license shall constitute a misdemeanor punishable by a fine not exceeding $500 or imprisonment of one day for each dollar of the fine. This legislation was instituted because of the habit of the sheep men of pastoring in the mountain forests, thus injuring the valuable timber trees by destroying the vegetation and growth of young trees.

A dispatch from Cripple Creek, Colorado, reports the sale at that place, on Saturday, of the Victor mine, formerly owned by D. H. Moffat, and Elson Smith, for $325,000 cash, to New York parties. L. D. Hendricks, who has had an option on the property for some time, succeeded in interesting mining men of New York, who sent A. P. Meiner, an expert, to examine the mine, with the understanding that if found as represented the price would be satisfactory. Mr. Meiner has been in camp several days and made a thorough examination of the mine, and found it even better than it was represented to him in New York. Moffat and Smith bought the Victor less than one year ago for $65,000, and have taken out enough to pay for it, in addition to extensive improvements in the way of shaft and ore houses and a complete steam hoisting plant, which have been erected since they bought it.

April has been a hard month for prospective bridegrooms in Oakland, says the San Francisco Chronicle. Only the other day Adolph Chaudoye was placed in the tomb at the very hour he had fixed for his wedding. Now comes another story almost as sad of a bridegroom who, after waiting patiently for years for his betrothed to keep her promise, goes home at the hour appointed for his wedding. Much as the unhappy fate of P. S. Lemos, a man of thirty, who was prosperous and seemed to have everything to make the happy. Yesterday he was a gay, laughing fellow, making the final arrangements to receive his bride. Today he is in the Agnews Insane Asylum, a raving maniac and a wrecked man. His friends who were invited to the wedding are unable to explain the affair, for Lemos was always a strong-minded man, and never had any trouble of a similar character before. Some nine years ago he left his home in Azores islands, but before his departure he engaged himself to a very pretty Portuguese girl. They both promised to wait for one another, and Lemos came to California to find a home. It took him many years to accomplish this, but recently he has been prosperous and secured a ranch at Bridgeo valley, in Contra Costa county. And plenty of money and a good home, so he sent for his pretty betrothed to join him. She had been waiting nine years for the summons, and hastened to answer when it was received. Wednesday the girl arrived at the home of Mrs. Lemos, 1067 San Pablo avenue, who is a sister of Lemos and had made arrangements for the wedding. Everything was all ready yesterday to save the ceremony performed. Lemos was driving into Oakland to meet his betrothed. As he neared the home of his sister his heart beats quickened and a strange feeling came over him. He thought he saw the face of his prospective bride before him and he hailed. Suddenly there seemed to be a great crash as if his head was breaking. In a moment the young man was a raving maniac, running about the streets shouting for his betrothed. Instead of to the altar he went to prison. He seemed to recover for a few minutes at the police station, and then it was that he told of the great excitement he has experienced when he was about to meet his prospective bride. Soon he was insane again and there seems to be no hope of his recovery. The young lady called at the prison to see the unfortunate man, but he did not recognize her. He looked upon her pretty face through the eyes of a maniac and cried for his own Marie. Last night the poor fellow was sent to the Agnews Insane Asylum. The parting between the couple was indeed an affecting one.
