NOTES FROM LONDON.

Snow in the Depth of a Foot in Many Parts of England.

DR. BENSON'S REPLY TO THE POPE.

Diamonds on the Castle Cake—Bicycles on a Wheel—Labor at Love Among the Poor.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—[Copyrighted, 1896, by the Associated Press.]—The weather continues unsettled, snow to the depth of a foot having fallen in many parts of England.

The money market, the wheat market and the presidential campaign in the United States continue to interest the business community, and from the tempered utterances of the press it seems that there is more truth than the German press will admit in the sinister hold of a responsibleness between Great Britain, Russia and France.

The stag shooting in Scotland is nearly over, and the champion bag is a stag of Twedmouth, who shot 137 head during the season.

The United States ambassador, Mr. Thomas F. Bayard, who was visiting the Earl of Lovelace, at Ockham, is said to be much pleased at the fact that he has shot a tiger, which is considered a great achievement for his performance while grouse shooting in 1895 when, it is alleged, he accidentally shot a man who was hoeing up the stubs.

THE ARCHBISHOP'S LAST WORK.

The last work which the late Archbishop of Canterbury was occupied upon was the preparation of an answer to the bull of Pope Leo XIII on the Anglican orders, in which Dr. Benson says:

"The politeness of the assertion may still have an effect with some, who mistook the kindness of a passionate for the thawing of a Roman church policy to which he is committed."

The late primate denied the pope's position and asserted that the pope has no authority to interfere in matters concerning the Anglican orders, and contended that the bull "carves all English churchmen out to be cursed by a pretension is noisy and by assertions which have historically created the widest and deepest separation, but to show show sophistry in faith, in fraud and intolerance."

THE DOG SHOW.

The showing made by the Kennel Club at the Crystal palace this week was the largest on record. There were 2,303 entries, slightly in the highest class. A novelty in the exhibits was Polish spaniels, which were in one class in $75 to $250. In the collie class the Southland dog Sunspark, valued at £1,000, won all the prizes. George R. Jones won the championship in the bull dog class with his dog Barney Bamber.

THE CASTLE.

The strange case of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley M. Castle of San Francisco still causes much comment and the action of Mackintosh Stewart in fixing their cost at $150,000 is accepted as the court's letter to their guilt. Whether this is so or not it is remarkable that such an English woman of high position charge with a similar offense, was immediately bailed in only $1,000. Fire is a Mrs. M. A. Brown, a lady of some of Dublin, near Kilkenny, and was charged on Wednesday last with stealing five pinked sirloins from a hotel.

DAIRY EXHIBIT.

At the twenty-first annual exhibition of the British dairy farmer's association at Islington, during the past week, there were over 7,000 entries. A special effort was made by the Earl of Powis to induce the British dairyman to imitate continental methods. Three model dairies, Swiss, Italian and French, were shown in operation, as was a Danish dairy. There were 165 butter making contests and the largest show of cheese ever made here.

FIRED ON THE DAUNTLESS.

Spaniards Kill One Member of the Filibuster's Crew.

Not the Vessel Some Sees Out at the Range of the Guns of the Enemy.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—A Tribune special from Jacksonville, Fla., says: On the outlaw deck at the Hillsborough Dauntless, is a great state that was made by the first blood of one of the vessel's crew, killed by a shot from the Spanish gun boat Castro Mestra during the filibuster's last voyage. On the morning of October 19th the scouter was moving a point on the southern coast of the Province of Pinar Del Rio, after having landed her third cargo of supplies for the insurgents. When two miles off the shore the Dauntless's crew dove up to them and the Dauntless was forced to her best speed.

Most shot shot was fired by the Spaniard. The little vessel was gaining, when a ball from the pilot house and the crash of wood indicated that one shot had struck. The object of the circulation of the circulars will be to persuade all such A. P. A. people to understand the methods being resorted to by certain men in the order in the campaign. Chairman Butler's Appeal to the Members of the Party.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The Populist national committee, through Chairman Butler, has issued an official address to members of the People's party, urging them to loyally support Bryan and follow his banner wherever it leads. The address is highly eulogistic of Bryan as the people's champion and warmly commends Watson. It urges the Populist party not to be discouraged because there are two candidates for Vice President in the field. It says there will be two months between the election and the meeting of votes by electors and there is surely sufficient strength in the Populist party which support Bryan to insist that complications, satisfactory to all, is in the People's party members and note as best that the campaign will insure the People's party, that its principles are right and therefore inevitable. It says if Democracy lives up to the platform, the alliance may be continued, but that if it does not there cannot be any reason why people will notice all over the Populist standard. A convention appeal not to allow both opportunity to succeed commission the success.

BRYAN ON COERCION.

The Nominee Defends Himself Against Ingalls and Harrison.

AND ADVISES LABORERS TO VOTE According to Their Conscience, Even if Compelled to Wear Republican Badges.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 24.—Bryan spoke at Ottawa before 8 a. m. today. A good-sized crowd cheered his appearance at the gate 10 minutes. The speech was devoted in the main to a general reading up of the men who he said, nominated a ticket in order to elect a Republican.

Ex-President Harrison and M. E. Ingalls, the President of the Big Four Railroad company, were quoted a few words not complimentary in nature at Lasalle, where Bryan spoke from a flat car to a large crowd of enthusiastic admirers at Bennett and Governor Altgeld.

Bryan said:

"Two distinguished men have called upon the people to discuss the action I gave the railroad employes. In speaking of the attempt of the railroads to coerce the employes, I said that it seems hard that a man who has spent a good deal to find, I did not want to advise the laboring men to do anything which would lose them their employment, and I added that they should wear Republican buttons if necessary, assume in Republican parades if they wished rather than lose their place. Two men have called me to task and even contribute to the Republican campaign fund if that was forced by their employers, but that they should go on sending to their positions on election day. Mr. Ingalls, president of a railroad in a speech at Cincinnati, intended to be interesting to the employes to deceive their employers. Ex-President Harrison has charged me with teaching immorality in giving my advice which I have quoted. Now, I desire to justify my position. The right to vote according to one's conscience is a God-given right. Citizens in violation of the law and when I advise the employes to vote as they please, even though they must wear Republican buttons on march in Republican parades, I am taking higher grounds and giving more patriotic advice than those who denounce me. I repeat and appeal to employes to vote the Republican ticket on election day, merely because they have been compelled to wear Republican buttons and carry Republican banners.

"When Mr. Harrison and Mr. Ingalls announce me for telling the men to vote as they please, they should also condemn the Australian ballot, in fact they condemn all secret ballots and tell the citizen he ought to announce in advance how he is going to vote. There are men who announce their positions in advance, and when a citizen is in a position to act with independence and vote for him down, but when an employer violates the rights of his employes by demanding that they shall march in parades or wear certain buttons, and appeals to the secret ballot, I am willing to let the public sit in judgment upon the advice which I have given to the employes of Mr. Ingalls and Mr. Harrison are willing to submit their advice to the public. I am willing that the public shall decide whether it is immoral for people to vote according to conscience, if Mr. Harrison and Mr. Ingalls are willing to risk the verdict of the people on the position they have taken, namely, that employes must vote the Republican ticket on election day because they look upon Republican badges during the campaign."

Cables, which had been expected for an advance instead of a break, the news fell like a bombshell and quickly turned the market into pandemonium. They are all being cared for by the committee, if they are after a manner. All morning Canton received a constant stream of callers at his home. Among the distinguished men here are U. S. ROLLER MILLS BURN.

Miller Brothers' Roller Flouring Plant Destroyed at Murray.

ORIGIN OF THE FIRE UNKNOWN

The Loss Approximated at $15,000, With Insurance Amounting to $8,000.

A fire of unknown and uncertain origin completely destroyed Miller Bros. roller mills at Murray last night. The loss is placed at $15,000, with insurance amounting to $8,000.

The mill has been running fifteen hours a day of late and last night closed at 10 o'clock, the usual hour. Before leaving, the men, according to custom, inspected the place from basement to turbine and found no premonitory evidence of the conflagration that followed so shortly after. At 11:30 one of the smokers lately visible on his way to work discovered flames bursting forth from the windows on the east side of the building, and gave the alarm. Before relief came, however, the entire structure was in one great blaze, and hundreds of people who gathered on the spot were compelled to stand helplessly by and see it consumed with all of its contents.

There was in the mill 3,000 bushels of wheat, 50,000 pounds of flour, 20,000 pounds of bran and shorts, and a miscellaneous lot of other stuff, such as feed, chopped feed and meals.

The wheat and flour burn slowly, and during the whole of today smoke was continued to ascend from the ruins of the mills, which were considered among the very best in Utah. They were erected in 1882, and were fitted out with the most modern machinery. It is not yet known whether they will be rebuilt, but one of the Mr. Millers said this afternoon he believed they would and that the work of restoration would very shortly begin.

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 21, 1896.

County Teachers' Meeting.

The semi-monthly meeting of the Salt Lake County Teachers' association was held in the University this morning. Prof. Stewart began his discussion of "Modern Methods in Teaching Arithmetic" by stating that teaching is furnishing conditions for educative self-effort on the part of the learner. System in teaching, said the speaker, is that presentation of mental stimuli which is at highly economizes mental activity along structural lines. Number was defined as a mode of measuring magnitude, and not a plurality of fixed units as ordinarily taught in the schools. The mistaken psychological view of number, that it is a fixed unit, is responsible for the violation of pedagogical principles as applied to teaching arithmetic. The units element in all number teaching is ratio—the expression of one quantity taken with another as a standard. All the arithmetical operations and the various modifications of the application of ratio. The fraction defines the unit of measure, and denotes the number of times the unit is repeated.
