NO. 270. FRIDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1893. SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH. VOL. XXVI

A FEARFUL WRECK.

World's Fair Visitors Suddenly Hurled into Eternity.

FLAMES ADD TO THE HORROR.

Pitiful Scenes as Wounded Persons are Slowly Roasting to Death.—Cause of the Accident.

HAYTER CORNER, Mich., Oct. 20.—A frightful wreck and subsequent conflagration occurred early this morning on the Grand Trunk road a mile and a half from this city in which twenty-five to forty persons lost their lives and scores were injured. An eastbound special train loaded with returning World's Fair passengers came in collision head on with a westbound passenger, causing a most disastrous smash up. The wrecks took fire and many of the wounded, pinned beneath broken timbers and twisted iron, were burned to death. The responsibility for the accident is said to rest with Conductor Scott and Engineer Wesley of the eastbound train who disobeyed orders by not stopping at Nicholls to let the westbound pass. Twenty-four dead bodies are already taken from the ruins, all terribly burned and unrecognizable. The killed as far as known, are all Eastern people. Three coaches of the eastbound train burned up. It is supposed that fifty or more are still in the wreck as have been taken out. Forty-forty are severely, if not fatally injured. The eastbound train with the loss of life is fearful was the Raymond and Whitcomb excursion returning from Chicago, loaded with passengers from New York and Boston.

HORRIBLE SCENES.

The loss of life was in the westbound train, not the eastbound special, as at first reported. Both engines were badly wrecked and the baggage car of the eastbound train, but the rest of it being made up of sleepers, without the aid of a block and nobody in them was hurt.

The westbound train was made up of thirteen day coaches, four of which completely telescoped each other, and it was here that the most frightful scenes were witnessed, as the cars at once caught fire from the lamps and were consumed. The train men saved themselves by jumping, except Conductor Burke of the westbound train, who was caught between the cars and badly hurt. Most of the deaths occurred in one car which was telescoped by those in front and behind it in such a way as to pen the passengers in like rats in a trap. The accident occurred a mile from the Hyt station and before water could be turned on and the firemen got at work the cars were consumed. Twenty-five bodies were taken from this car alone. As soon as the fire was out nearly all had their heads, arms or legs burned off and were unrecognizable. They were mostly piled up in one end of the car where they were shoved up by the telescoping of the cars. Only eight or ten escaped from this car.

A horrible sight was that of Mrs. Charles Van Duzen of Fort Plain, New York, who got half way out of the window but her legs were so twisted that those who saw her assistance could not rescue her and she was burned to death before their eyes.

THE CHARRED REMAINS.

One body has been recognized as that of E. Witz, from an unnumbered handkerchief found on it. Another body bore business cards of A. A. Allen & Co., Toronto.

Charley Van Duzen, one of the injured, died later. Mrs. J. O. Brady, Toronto, are among the badly hurt. So far 20 bodies are recovered from the wreck. The bodies are all so charred that it is impossible to identify them. The wounded were taken to the hotels, railroad offices and residences and are cared for by all the physicians in town.

A LIST OF INJURED.

The following is a list of the injured as far as obtainable:

Ezekiel Davidson, Fairport, N. Y., back hurt.

C. C. Van Duzen, Sprouthrock, N. Y., since died.

IDENTIFIED DEAD.

C. W. Van Duzen and wife, Fort Plain, N. Y.

Miss Warren Garland, New York.

Harry Archbell and J. F. Archbell, New York; E. Wertz.

Northern Pacific Directors.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The new board of directors of the Northern Pacific has been organized by the election of Drayton Evers, president; Robert Harris, vice president; C. H. Smith, treasurer, second vice president; George S. Baxter, treasurer; George H. Earl, secretary; S. W. Pettit was appointed general attorney and J. A. Barber general auditor.

Van Alen Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The Senate confirmed the nomination of Van Alen to be minister to Italy by a vote of 39 to 22.

THE C. P. RECEIVERSHIP.

The Government Not Made a Party in the Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The attorney general has intimated to the House a communication saying the government has not been made a party to the receivership proceedings of the Union Pacific and had no notice of such proceedings. He had grave doubts as to their validity so far as the United States was concerned.

THE SENATE.

Vorhees Gives Notice of an Amendment of the Rules.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—In the Senate Vorhees gave notice of the amendment of the rules to the effect that when a bill or resolution is pending an unlimited increase and shall have been debated thirty days, any senator may move to fix a time for taking a vote thereon; some motion shall not be amendable nor debatable, and if passed the pending bill or resolution shall be voted on at the time fixed.

Morgan by request introduced a bill to facilitate the collection of debts payable to the United States from governmental-aided railroads and to enforce the accountability of the directors of said companies.

The Senate then went into executive session.

A RUMOR DENIED.

The British Not Defeated by African Savages.

CAPETOWN, Oct. 20.—There is no truth whatever in the sensational report cabled in the United States that the Matabeles have defeated the British colonial forces. On the contrary the British are advancing in two columns. Each had a battle with the Matabeles and both times the natives were forming a junction, and are now advancing on Bulawayo, the capital of King Lobengula's territory, with every prospect of being able to drive him out. In one of the engagements one hundred Matabeles were killed, and only one British officer was seriously hurt. The British force numbers between two and three thousand. It is estimated that King Lobengula can muster ten to twenty thousand warriors. The forces are advancing with great caution to guard against surprise.

THE FAIR TODAY.

Rain is Falling and the Attendance Small.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—A drizzling rain is falling, the weather is generally disagreeable and it is expected that will have some effect on the attendance at the World's Fair, though a large crowd is already on the grounds, including many children.

Bank Officers Indicted.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 20.—W. B. Evans, formerly cashier, and C. A. Hawks, formerly assistant cashier of the Corn Exchange bank, were indicted by the grand jury on a charge of converting to their own use over $100,000 of the bank's funds.

LAST NIGHT'S WRECK.

Many Persons Injured But None Were Killed.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—The Illinois Central limited train from New Orleans loaded with passengers for the World's Fair was wrecked by colliding with a coal train at a crossing near Kankakee last night, a number of cars were ditched and smashed and it is almost miraculous that nobody was killed. Eight of the passengers were seriously hurt and a number of others suffered bruises which did not require surgical aid. A special train was sent down from Kankakee with physicians and the badly wounded, after being attended to, were brought here and taken to the hospital this morning. The following is a list of the more seriously hurt.

J. D. Davis, Flippen, Ga., badly cut and bruised and otherwise injured.

L. B. Safer, Peoria, Ill., internal.

Mrs. E. B. Sharton, Wichita Falls, Texas, severe bruises.

Mrs. T. F. Brown, Newton, Ills., bruised and cut.

C. E. Little, Chicago, leg crushed, other injuries bruised and cut.

J. W. Brown, baggage man, bruises.

J. M. Marney, Pinda, Ills., cuts and bruises.

J. V. Volcano, Nashville, Tenn., head cut.

Davis and Safer, most seriously hurt; the chances of life and death are about even.

Excited About the County Seat.

Special Telegram to the News.

BUFFALO, Wyo., Oct. 18.—The residents of Buffalo are considerable excited over a report that the people living in the Big Horn basin are quietly at work formulating a place to remove the county seat of Johnson county from Buffalo to some point in the basin. It is claimed that a large number of ranchmen from Utah and other states have settled in the basin during the past year, and it is feared that they already have sufficient votes to make the change.

THE HOUSE.

Remission of Duties on Foreign Exhibits Granted.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—A joint resolution granting a remission of 50 per cent of the duties on foreign exhibits at the World's Fair has been passed by the House.

COMPROMISE TALK.

Democratic Senators Consider the Terms Assigned.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—At 1:30 p.m. the Senate was still in executive session considering nominations, chiefly those which were objectionable. The general impression is that the executive session is for the purpose of allowing time to arrange the terms of the compromise to land for the hearing of the result of the caucus meeting today. A majority of the Democratic senators speak of compromise as a settled fact.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE GIRL I LEFT BEHIND ME.—More and more with a feeling of respect we lift our hat to the rapidly developing dramatic literature of America, when we see such plays as that from the combined pens of Belasco and Fyles. The Girl I Left Behind Me is one of the dramatic gems of this teeming period of good plays, and it rank a built alongside the Wife, the Heartbeats, the County Fair, Shenandoah, Held by the Enemy and Men and Women, all of which mark the opening of an American dream. In the hot dry of the American dream. The play is colored in good, strong, terse language; its situations show the hand of Belasco, and its English develops the brain of the gifted Franklin Fyles. Its plot is admirably woven and, though suggestive, as it must be the charming stories of Captain Charles King, its humor is natural, easy and in season, and the great attention of the play, where the general prepares to send his dashing rather thinks he have left full, fills the hands of the audience, in an episode magnificently conceived and worked out. There is of course room for additional action—the play would not be out of the gifted Belasco, if this were so. The familiarity found to be existing between the officers and the privates is not one to, we fear, running very much towards the heroine, and the incident where a private declares to be the equal of his superior and is upheld in it by a general, because in disobeying he pleases his lady love, would, we are inclined to think, have resulted in thirty days tread and water at Fort Douglas, or at Fort Andreas Miller for that matter. The effects of the scenic artist—among the most admirable features of the play—are a little too vividly wrought in the 1st act, where we are presented with an interior view of a house near the Fort Andreas Miller—which looks more like the interior of the Tuileries than that of a house near the region of the northwest Canada border. However, these were small things which last night's audience was not inclined to stop and ponder over. The gathering, one of the largest, handsomest and altogether most brilliant that ever graced the interior walls of the theatre, was in good humor with the play from the start, because it had of late been a stranger to Reed, and the hearts of all were cleared by the mere contagion of gathering. The applause and laughter were most universal, and the intensity of feeling with which the exciting episodes were followed, became at times almost painful to sustain. It is always a risky thing to put an Indian on the stage before a Western audience; we can hardly resist a pity with the possible exception of the Octoroon, in which a redskin figured—that there was not offering in the audience at the moments when the author designed there should be thrills. Our daily contact with the redman of these parts—limited as it is to standing off his requests for "biscuits" and "pitte shaw!"—is not calculated to invest him with interest as a dramatic factor. It speaks highly for Belasco and Fyles, therefore, that the leaders of their play uphold the keenest sort of interest and suspense, and that the audiences may they were portrayed can evening let no room for anything but admiration. As far as the presentation goes, nothing can be said but words of the warmest commendation. While the company does not contain all the New York originals—Morris, Armstrong, Merchant, Tyler, Thompson, et al—it is in no sense a real company, as it succeeded the original at the Empire theater, New York, and played there five weeks with equally strong success. The ladies are specially good. Mrs. Bellew Gibbs as the heroine, charming Miss Everett with her pendant for Private Jones, merry little Belle Durkin as Wilson's Aun, and Violet Hand as the Indian Girl, all being equally good. Mr. Russell's hero was forcible, handsome and manly; the villain of Mr. Herman was carefully, but not effectively portrayed, owing to his peculiarity of speech; Mr. Arnaldi's General Reunion was admirably done in most spots, not so admirably in some others; Mr. Hussey's Major was a most lenient and touching portrayal; Mr. Mills Doctor was well sustained. Master Kane plays the boy charmingly, but was at times inaudible; Carleton's Sear Brow, the educated, but still savage savage—was strongly and effectively drawn. Mr. Rose's Private Jones was good—but not perfect. The house bill goes tonight and tomorrow night, and a tremendous engagement is ensured—the first money maker, by the way, the Theater has known for lo, these many moons.

Harold Russell, the leading man of the company, is husband of Miss Ada Dwyer, whose parents reside in this city. Mr. Russell was visited last evening by a number of his wife's relatives and friends.

Objections to Voters.

Attorney Charles Baldwin will sit at his office, 81 and 82 Commercial building, at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning, to hear objections to voters whose names appear on the registration list, and set the same for hearing on Tuesday next. He will take up the objections in the order in which the returns are made.

From Ireland.

Elder Thomas Robinson, of Sugar House ward, Salt Lake county, made a pleasant call at the NEWS office today. He returned on Wednesday last from a mission to Great Britain, on which he left this city Feb. 22, 1892. He was assigned to the Irish conference, and labored in the Emerald Isle the entire period of his mission. He reports matters as very quiet there at present. There are now only three missionaries in Ireland. Elder Henderson had excellent health during his absence from home. He met a pleasant return trip, though after leaving New York he contracted a severe cold from which, however, he is recovering.

POLITICAL MATTERS.

A Case of Absolute Perjury Has Come to the Grand Jury.

MANY MORE EXPECTED TO GO.

Fraudulent Registration Cumulative by a Fine of $1000 and Imprisonment for One Year.—Note.

"Register and vote if you can do so legally. If you can't do so legally, get there any way" has long been an injunction of the Liberal managers, from time to ward leader to the conscienceless and corruptionist part of their crew. An attempt to obey that mandate this year has gotten header of the party criminal into trouble. This they will find out later to their own sorrow and suffering. Some of men have perjured themselves by swearing that they had been in a certain precinct and in the Territory the stipulated time required by law before registration. Some of them now say they did not know they were doing wrong and simply took the oath because they were asked to.

Here is a case that is identical with dozens of others. One James E. Dower, during the last week of registration registered as living at No. 252 south, West Temple street, when he had been there only nine days. The law requires a residence of thirty days in the precinct and six months in the Territory immediately preceding registration as every intelligent voter knows.

Mr. Dower's case has gone to the grand jury where many others similar to it will go within the next few days. That Mr. Dower and other conspirators might undergrand what stands in the law the following is quoted from the Compiled Laws of Utah, vol. II, page 884, to regulate:

Every person who actually resides, possesses or abides himself to be registered in any precinct or city regular list in any county, knowing himself not to be entitled to such registration, and every person who willfully causes, procures, advises, encourages or assists any other person to be registered in any precinct or city register list in any county, knowing or believing such person not to be entitled to such registration, is punishable by fine not exceeding $1000, or by imprisonment in the penitentiary not exceeding one year.

NO USE FOR WORKINGMEN.

The friends of Joe Lapsley circulated a call, of which the following is a copy, throughout the city late yesterday afternoon:

"Attention, Workingmen! There will be a grand rally of workingmen tonight, Thursday, October 19, 1893, on the corner of First South and Broadway, at 8:30 p.m., for the purpose of urging the nomination of J. M. Lapsley as a candidate for councilman in the Fifth precinct.

"Every friend of labor is invited to participate and join in asking recognition for the labor candidate on the Liberal ticket."

Hall's band was out parading the streets for the benefit of Mr. Lapsley and succeeded in getting a good many workingmen together. But Joe was turned down by the leaders of the bosses, who have absolutely no use for the workingman. Of course he didn't get the nomination.

LIBERAL CHURCH NOMINEES.

Powers' fine manipulation of the machine gang last night worked like the traditional charm. His handiwork was visible in all the precinct conventions for the nomination of councilmen. The nominees of the various municipal wards are as follows:

First Precinct—John R. Winnomb, John Lawson, J. M. Denny.

Second Precinct—F. S. Hollabelmer, J. J. Corum, W. H. Remington.

Third Precinct—John Hill, Daniel Duane, S. P. Fenton.

Fourth Precinct—J. J. Daly, James Glendinning, S. W. Harrison.

Fifth Precinct—Louis Cohn, S. J. Lyon, W. P. O'Meara.

DEMOCRATIC CITY COMMITTEE.

The newly-elected Democratic city central committee held an interesting and important meeting last night. D. C. Dunbar was made permanent chairman and John E. Hansen permanent secretary. The committee is as follows:

First Precinct—O. H. Pettit, John Siddoway.

Second Precinct—G. B. Blakely, L. M. Waddell.

Third Precinct—Herbert Pembroke, John E. Hansen.

Fourth Precinct—W. H. Bywater, Edmund Bourne.

Fifth Precinct—J. Whitehead Jr., G. S. Cheney.

Committeeman at large — D. C. Dunbar.

LOGAN REPUBLICAN TICKET.

Logan Democrats have nominated the following municipal ticket:

For mayor, George W. Thatcher; for recorder, Joseph Quinney, for treasurer, Alexander Lewis; for marshal, George D. McCullough; for justice of the peace, J. P. Smith; for councilmen, Jos. A. Leishman, Joseph Wilson, Newell W. Kimball, Lorenzo Johnson, Moses Thatcher, William Whitesides, Nicholas Sommers, Elias S. Kimball, Andrew King, Ephraim Mikkelsen.

REPUBLICAN NOMINEES.

At the Eighth district Republican representative convention held at Mill Creek last night, A. W. Ireson was nominated. The other candidates were C. J. O. Irwin, Daniel Harrington, Geo. M. Cannon and T. E. Marriott. Geo. M. Cannon, E. R. Bagley, J. H. Sheppard, E. M. Hanson and T. E. Marriott were named as delegates to attend the Council convention to be held at Sugar House tonight.

POLITICAL SHORT HITS.

The Austrians got in their work at the Liberal precinct conventions.

Governor West addressed a large meeting of Democrats in the South Cottonwood ward house last night.

Powers is again prominent in the show business. He is advertising banners, flags and hustling in the possession of the sun and fire.

Louis Cohn was a considerable member of the City Council then the Prosecutor at office and emphatically declared was guilty of bribe taking.

The Weber county Republicans have nominated Davis McKay as representative to the Territorial legislature and J. Wilcox as county superintendent of schools.

It is a fact that a prominent politician and nominee for office threatens to get a divorce from his wife unless she quits riding a bicycle.

It is claimed that Bert Hoch is the most expensive cake in the Liberal party and yet for month after not remember with that of Powers or Stevens.

Hon. Powers sent letters of instruction to the various precinct conventions last night and they were obeyed to the very letter.

Governor West will go to Pleasant Grove tomorrow to attend the Democratic Territorial Council convention, at which will be nominated a candidate from that district.

The Fourth precinct delegates to the Republican convention will hold a caucus at 7:30 this evening at the office of Fred Fox, on the south side of the Commercial building.

At least two out of the three council nominees from the First precinct are Americans, one from the Second, one from the Third, one from the Fourth and one from the Fifth.

Is it true that a certain Liberal councilman has served his constituency for two years past by failing to initiate of an American citizen? Come, now—some tought, Mr. ——, have you "done this thing?"

Some of the Third precinct Liberals wanted to nominate W. H. Morrisett for councilman last night, but Sam C. O. King and Samuel Thomas got up their legs and howled, and that ended it.

The "Exile of Ice Mach Politics" is the title of a campaign pamphlet Powers would like to write but cannot. It would be a sound as the Independent Chinese movement.

Admission to the Liberal city convention in Assembly hall was made by ticket. Nevertheless, it is evident now that whoever the opposition Democrats put up for instructions Powers is trying to have "straight" nominations.

If the Liberal council nominees the Tribune says is going to run on the municipal "Democrat" ticket, there are lots many Democrats who will vote for them.

How the mighty have fallen! Signor Guiccardi was not invited in the house of his friends last night, although to get rates out of thirty votes for councilman and Hall, too, without the name having been placed in nomination.

Just about a month ago the Tribune stated editorially that Mr. Lawson should either be made to "show up" or be "kicked out of the council." The way the gentleman has showed up is seen in his nomination. This morning the same paper refers to him as a "First precinct jay."

"How do you like the ticket?" was a question that was asked and answered by scores of Liberals yesterday. The response was almost invariably, "I don't like it a D—— bit." Democrats and Republicans when asked for their opinions unhesitatingly said "It's a mighty good ticket to beat."

A hardworking Independent asked Dave Dunbar last night what he thought was the great essential to success in the coming campaign. The Eighth chairman looked straight at his questioner for a moment and then replied, "Three things go with us. First, second, third, and third, second." The man went away satisfied.

Liberal proxies were selling last night for $25. It was the purchase of these, says Plumbing Inspector Lapsley, that induced him out. "Yes, money was the power that led me to the shell," is the way Joe has the thing summed up. He now admits openly that his party has no use for the working man, except as far as they can use him as a tool.

Abbas Pasha Greenwald, the Khedive of First precinct Liberalism, says that only two men are now living who attended the first meeting of the Liberal party in Utah—himself and Mayor Baskin. "And only one of us" he continues "has been loyal to the last and that's me." Poor Jake he doesn't know his party is almost dead; that it has one foot in the sepulchre and the other one no business out.

If purchasing Louis Cohn should get into the City Council again the prospect is that he will not be a bogus member as he was when he occupied a seat in that body before. By the way Mr. Cohn has been turning some rather political somersaults with a tripoly that has dazed himself for the last two or three years. He has been a Liberal, a Republican and a Liberal during that time and people are beginning to wonder where he is at.

A Liberal attempted to lay a white pall pap from a patriotic youth near the Deseret National Bank corner last night. The would-be purchaser had been imbibing considerably, and endeavored to perpetrate the bad by frequent personal questions. One of his queries was: "Say, boy, is that pap a (hic) Liberal or a (hic) Democrat?" "He's neither. He's an Independent and he's got his eye open, too. Guess I won't sell you this pap. Bet?" with the result as he gathered up the string tied to the canine's neck and started off.

One of the funniest incidents of the campaign was witnessed on East Temple between First and second South street last night, when a ragged but bright little urchin with a bundle of papers under his arm rushed up to Judge Powers, whizzy immediately that he was in the presence of the mighty (!) nabob of a consolidated political organization and exclaimed: "Here's your NEWS, sister, all about the Liberal bosses gettin' away with $2000." The judge smiled kindly on the little Arab and bought a paper.

For some time past Fred Keeler has been parading the streets with a sort of Midway Plaisance rig and air of self-importance. The last is, Fred has a disease that is gnawing at his very vitals and the malady is known among the political fraternity as boil swelling self-esteem, superintendent by a swelling, itching, consuming lust for office. As to the preachers, he says: "The clergy to hanged—I'll be in heaven when they are mailing their bier before a sulphur flame in the region inhabited by Prohibitionists and Populists. Hear ye?"

Daniel Dunne, after being nominated on the Liberal ticket as councilman in the Third precinct last night, arose, and in a dramatic and eminently oratorical manner thanked his associates for the "happy honor" they had conferred upon him. He knew the Liberals could not carry the Third precinct as the Wire Crusher of 1892 is many Democrats and Republicans believe in that district. It would take an earthquake or some other fearful calamity to cause them to vote the Liberal ticket. He paid a tribute to the party of which he was and said a good word for poor Billy Ryan, whom he thought was more abused against than anyone.

At the Third precinct convention of Liberals last night Copper Cash Kinney distinguished himself by the delivery of a couple of wonderful speeches, to show, as he said, how he took defeat. He said he had made a great many Democrats vote for Liberals. He did not want to go to the City Council now. But when he had paid $47,000 out he owed he would then be ready to be elected to that position. All he asked was that when the Liberals went in was that they should use the public money as freely as he had used his own. He said he had been a successful gambler, then in Boston and Chicago, but that he had been a complete failure here, and wondering by declaring he did not think there was a man in the Third precinct who could pull as many Mormon votes as he could. Kinney has made other he and each former cases.

Rose Powers is worried beyond measure by the many pipes received from the various Liberal headquarters daily and so far from that and the other thing. A careful diagnosis of the symptoms exhibited by the patient show that they are caused with offensive manners and that they disappear are pell and pennies. It is suggested that the best supply himself with a moderate quantity of cantharides to give to those suffering from the disease. The following formula is a good one: Pulverize cantharides, one drachm; powdered nux vomica, one-quarter ounce; calomel, one drachm; carbolic acid, one-quarter drachm; powdered opium, one-half drachm; and one drachm extract poppy. Mix and divide into twenty powders. Apply three times a day twice weekly.

A Noteworthy Event tonight.

Governor West and party, including Territorial Secretary Richards and wife, Mr. Henry Ehrenfelt and wife, Mr. Joseph T. Richards and wife, Dr. Fowler and Mr. A. E. Welby, left for Provo at 4 o'clock this afternoon over the Rio Grande Western railroad, to be present at the grand ball and reception which will be given in the Provo opera house this evening by Judge Smith and Mr. D. H. Peery. They traveled in Supt. Wenz's private car, which had been placed at their disposal for the occasion.

It Lasted All Day.

The case of Fr. Hooper & Co. vs Glenn & Co., a claim of $161.75 for merchandise, did not reach the jury in Judge Zane's court till late yesterday afternoon. Result, verdict for the plaintiffs.

THAT "LOG" CORPSE STORY.

Dr. Graves's Remains Probably in the Coffin.

The sensational statement wired to the News on October 18, to the effect that, according to rumor, Dr. Graves's remains were not found in the coffin when opened at Thompson Center in the presence of numerous friends of the family, and that a log was interred instead of the doctor, seems to be incredible, if the undertaker who had charge of the remains tells the truth. To a reporter of a Denver paper Mr. C. E. Nicolls, of a well known undertaking firm, said:

The remains were first placed in a zinc casket, which was made air tight. Then a square zinc box was placed outside and the cover soldered down. The cherry case was placed around it. In accordance with Dr. Graves's wishes we expressed to the letter to her, Mrs. Graves would not allow us to examine the remains. They were very much decomposed when they were finally sealed up here for shipment. She maintained that the coffin was sent to be reopened. There was, of course, no possible mistake as to the identity of the body. I will bet $100 as far away as I am from Thompson Center, that if the grave should be re-opened the doctor's body will be found in the coffin, because, I know that for her life Mrs. Graves would not have had the body interred with and it left here securely sealed."

THIRD DISTRICT COURT.

Ex-Marshal Parsons Again Sued.—The Salt Lake Brewing Co. Case.

Both branches of the Third district court have been grinding slowly again today. The whole of the time of Judge Zane and a jury has been taken up with the trial of a case in which Boyd Park is suing ex-Marshal Parsons for an alleged unlawful seizure of goods. The amount involved is about $1100. Judge Howat represents the plaintiff and C. C. Whittemore the defendant.

It is hardly likely to be finished today.

The court further hearing of the case of Fred W. Wolf & Co. vs the Salt Lake Brewing company has taken up yet another day in Judge Zane's court, and is not finished yet.

TIRED OF LIVING.

John Leyland, a Miner, Kills Himself With a Revolver.—The Inquest.

John Leyland, a disconsolate and melancholy miner, who has been out of employment for some time, ended his earthly existence late yesterday afternoon by firing a bullet into his breast in the region of the heart.

The suicide was twenty-eight years of age and for some time past had lived with an aunt on Major avenue. Some days ago he had a quarrel with her and she vacated the house for him going to a friend's in the Tenth ward.

Leyland's dead body was found in his room by a printer named James Tillett. On the table was a pint flask of whisky and a note which read as follows:

"Johnny—What I told you was so. You won't see me again. The best you can do is to go home. A. O."

Immediately below this, in his own hand writing, were the words: "Thank you. I am going home."

Coroner Taylor was notified and at his instance the body was removed to Shewan's undertaking parlors, where an inquest was held today.

The jury returned a verdict to the effect that the deceased committed suicide by shooting himself with a revolver while laboring under a fit of despondency superinduced by being without money and work.

Sugarhouse and Farmer's wards, Salt Lake county, have been transferred to the list of country wards for home missionary appointments.
