The Western Rocky Journal says the Bolton irrigation ditch will learn the to irrigate some lands. A five-foot ditch in Western Kansas, eastern Colorado, western Nebraska or southern Dakota, with water, and carefully cultivated, will yield more profit at the end of ten years than any half section of land in that region cultivated by dry farming.

The boarding house up at the Silverville mine, at Crested Butte, Colo., which is owned and operated by Chicago capitalists, was burned on Wednesday morning at 1 o'clock. The fire was caused by a concrete flue expressed with such rapidity that by the time the inmates were aroused it had gained too much headway to be fought with any hope of saving the building, saving but few articles of clothing. Four men walked three miles through the mountains, clad in the clothes they had, without money, the superintendent's footing upon over $300.

The largest tree in the world for lumber was felled at the end of a month's work recently. Newspapers say the Santa Rosa Sentinel. The sawing story in the account just seems to call to mind the Bakersfield man who was chase to operate the Tuolumne which stands in the Mariposa grove of Calaveras, and an other nine inches diameter and 300 feet high. The sawing was about fifteen hours, and at its end, just to the right of the tree, we found a number of sufficiently the stumps of a different height and size. Just inside the tree grew up a hundred trees, somewhat uniform in the size. It was impossible to tell, and then the chaplain felt inclined to the tree, suspect to have taken place in petrification. At the time the tree was quite sixty feet in diameter. We measured it in length with a tape-line, and it was 300 feet long. No limbs or natural, for to the trunk were cleaned where apparently there had been limb-off. When the main trunk was broken, caused, the center accompanying, and the growth shoots so well in beautiful symmetrical form. In general appearance was the double this any cousin. Material second I ever have seen, and we all expressed the opinion that it would make a wonderfully beautiful floor and interior finish for a summer cottage.
