THROUGH THE BOSPHORUS.

The Stars and Stripes in Eastern Mediterranean Waters.

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—A special to the Times-Herald from Washington says: Warships flying the Stars and Stripes and manned by American blue-jackets may force the passage of the Dardanelles and Bosphorus, anchor at Constantinople and show that Uncle Sam is not to be trifled with.

It transpires today that the Bosphorus is likely to be the destination of the North American squadron of American battleships, instead of the Dardanelles, as at first believed. According to the plan arranged by Secretary Herbert and Admiral Bunce, the squadron should have sailed from Hampton roads for St. Thomas December 21st.

Though every ship was ready for sea on that date, the fleet of seven vessels has been held for some reason which the secretary of the navy has declined to reveal, and which the officers of the fleet have not known.

It is now stated that Admiral Bunce, when he visited Washington December 19th, was given sealed instructions which postponed the southern cruise, peculiar certain developments in Turkey. Now the cruise to Southern waters may be abandoned altogether, and the vessels may set sail for the Mediterranean at almost any hour.

The government proposes, unless Turkey responds promptly to the demands for $200,000 indemnity made on account of the Kargut and Marash outrages, to make a naval demonstration that will bring the sultan to time. In its previous experience with Turkey, the government has found that the sultan does not respond to such commands easily. This is a case where the dignity and prestige of the United States is believed to be at stake, and the sultan will not be permitted to practice his customary evasion and deceit.

The American ships now in Turkish waters are the Marblehead, at Smyrna today, and the San Francisco and Minneapolis, in the vicinity of Alexandretta. They are under command of Admiral Selridge, aboard the San Francisco.

CAME NEAR DEATH

For a Murder Committed by Another.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 5.—The climax of one of the most dramatic and sensational criminal incidents of the state's history was made public today, when, just forty-eight hours prior to the execution of the death sentence upon Bartholomew Shea, another man confessed to the murder and Shea stepped from beneath the shadow of death thrown by the electric chair. The invitations for the electric killing of Shea had been issued, the state electrician was already upon the ground at Dannemora prison, the governor had decided not to interfere to interfere in the carrying out of the sentence to the institution, when a comrade of Shea's in the election outrages when the tragedy occurred, confessed to the crime.

The man who voluntarily confesses to the crime, and who practically steps under the menacing shadow of an electric death, is John McGough, of Troy, now serving a sentence of nineteen years and six months for shooting and attempting to kill Wm. Rose, a brother of Robert Rose, who was supposed to be Shea's victim. In some way, known only to convicts, McGough had contrived to keep informed as to the success or the failure of the applications for commutation made in behalf of Shea. When Shea was resentenced to die the 23rd of December, it is believed McGough was ready to confess, but when he learned that a respite had been granted, he withheld his confession. After the holidays he learned that the efforts to obtain commutation for Shea had not ceased, and so he made no sign. On Saturday, when Warden Thayer was made aware that the Governor would not interfere, and arrangements were made for the execution, McGough sent for the warden of the prison, Walter N. Thayer, and when the warden had come, told him he wished to make a statement concerning the murder of Robert Rose. The warden had McGough taken to the office, and handing him paper and pen, told him to put down what he had to say in writing. McGough wrote a communication of about two pages, and signing it with his full name, handed it to the warden. To the surprise of the warden and his deputies, the paper contained a decided statement that he, McGough, and not Shea, had shot and killed Robert Rose. The statement contained no details of the shooting, other than the bald confession of the act.

Warden Thayer went at once to the telephone, when McGough had been returned to his cell, and called up the executive chamber. He asked the governor to please receive a messenger who he said would arrive, and then he at once dispatched the prison stenographer, Edward McCoughlin, to Albany. Mr. McCoughlin arrived in the city this morning, and caught Gov. Morton at the mansion just as he was leaving for church. The governor, upon learning the nature of the communication, sent at once for Pardon Clerk Joyce, and Shea's counsel, Mr. Gales Hiehl. After a brief conference, the governor decided to grant a respite for four weeks, during which time counsel could take the proper means to bring the matter before the courts for a new trial. The respite will be issued tomorrow, and will be in force until February 4th. Mr. Hiehl will go before the Supreme court tomorrow morning and ask for a new trial for Shea, and the production in court of McGough.

CLEVER FORGERY.

A Transaction Costing a Nevada Bank $20,000.

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—A dispatch from San Francisco says: One of the cleverest check forgeries perpetrated here for years has just leaked out. It cost the Nevada bank $20,000 and it presents some new wrinkles in forgery to local experts. December 10, A. H. Holmes, a merchandise broker who has an office in the Curnohle building and who had done some business through the Nevada bank, presented a check for $20,000 to his credit on the Crocker-Woolworth bank of this city for $22,000. The check was drawn in Woodland, Cal., and Holmes explained that he turned it in for collection at the Nevada bank to save the trouble of identifying himself at the Crocker-Woolworth bank. As he had had an account at the Nevada bank for several months and had deposited and drawn considerable sums, the cashier did not suspect anything. The check appeared all right, so the cashier put $20,000 to Holmes's credit and paid him in gold $20,000. That is the last that has been seen of him or the coin. When the check reached the Woodland bank through the clearing house, inquiry was made at once as the only check drawn by this bank on the Crocker bank near the date of this bogus check was for $12. Experts were put on the check and a microscopic inspection showed Holmes had raised the $12 check to $22,000 and had not only inside erasures so as to defy anything but a microscopic inspection, but had filled in the perforated figures and had made new perforations of $22,000.

Hotel Destroyed by Fire.

ALTOONA, Pa., Jan. 5.—The Central hotel, situated in the business section of the city, was destroyed by fire early this morning. B. F. Hewes of the Pennsylvania Railroad Fire company, was killed by a falling wall, and several others were severely injured, one of them, William Wareham, also a fireman, very seriously.

The flames started in the hotel building about 3:30 o'clock, and were not discovered until they communicated to the first floor. Every effort was made to get all the guests out. All are supposed to have escaped. The fire spread rapidly, and, when it was alive in the rear of the hotel, turned the large three-story building of George Stell. The McCartney building, adjoining the hotel, occupied by the Union Pacific Tea company and as a residence, was badly damaged. The hotel, which was a large brick building, owned and managed by Amanda Silk, was totally destroyed, as were also the furniture and most of the clothing and valuables of the guests. The Stell building was occupied by H. S. Pratt shoe & Co., as wholesale wood and willowware dealers, James C. Chamberlain, wholesale feed dealer, and Bessit & Honeman, wholesale grocers. The total loss aggregated over $100,000; insurance, $75,000.

Capital for Arizona.

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—More Chicago capital has been invested in mining interests in Arizona within fifty miles from the locality selected by Dr. K. Fairbank, Marshal Field and Lyman Gage. For several days negotiations have been in progress for the purchase of two mines near Prescott, Ariz., and only within the past few days was the deal consummated. The buyers were John Mankin, of this city, and Mr. John J. Pulitzer, Jr., also of Chicago. They made the purchase unconditionally and outright, and intend to join their fortunes with three other Chicago millionaires, whose interests and capital have similarly been centered. They decline to make known the purchase price.

The mines comprise the Groom creek group and are sixteen miles by wagon road from Prescott. Four mines compose the group, the Gold Fake, Gold Bug, Grandee and the I. W. Two tunnels already driven into the property show a three-foot vein, running an average, it is said, of $45 in gold to the ton.

Louisville Mines Sold.

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—Charles Edward Tracy arrived in Chicago yesterday and announced the sale of a ring of nine Leadville mines to an English syndicate for $1,400,000. Mr. Tracy was one of the law partners of President Cleveland when the latter was a
