MINING, BUSINESS AND STOCKS.

OHIO READY FOR BIG PRODUCTION

Manager Mackintosh Says Mill Will Start When Transformers Are Dry.

After several years of patient effort, during which time the Ohio Copper company's property has been developed to its present satisfactory condition, and the Mascotte tunnel extended to its present point, about 14,000 feet (nearly three miles) from its entrance, so as to afford an easy and economical means of transportation to the huge mill, Manager Colin Mackintosh announces that everything is now practically ready for starting up the mill.

Mr. Mackintosh came back from the mine, which is located at Bingham, last evening. While away he witnessed the erection of the last piece of steel trestle work of the 800-foot span which connects the track at the mouth of the tunnel with the ore bins at the top of the mill. There is still some riveting to be done, but this work will not delay the transportation of ore to the mill, as the steel work will be bolted up, and the riveting done later.

The steel transformer house, in size about 40 feet square, is also completed and the transformers have been installed. Experts are now attending to the drying of the same and as soon as this is done the power will be turned on and the Bingham Central Railway company, which is really a subsidiary company, will put its trains in motion and the Ohio Copper company will begin milling 1,500 tons of ore a day.

The capacity of the mill when fully completed will be 3,000 tons a day, but only half of the machinery is installed at present so that the management will start the mill at half its full capacity. The mill is ideally located and built from the standpoint of economy which is the desideratum in handling the low grade ores. The Ohio Copper company's ore only carries about 1.76 per cent copper to the ton, but as this metal is embedded in a quartzite rock, an excellent extraction is expected. In which it will be fully 80 per cent. Tests made three years ago during a 200-day test at an old mill at Bingham make the above saving a certainty in the mind of Manager Mackintosh.

The mine has been developed by means of a shaft which has a vertical depth of a little over 1,000 feet. From this shaft connections have been made with the orebody at five or six different levels, and the mine has been fully prepared to yield the tonnage required. This will be handled by means of a chute connectiong with the tunnel level, where a huge ore bin having a capacity of 5,000 tons has been built. The ore will be mined and dropped to the tunnel level with the least possible expense, and from the bin there it will run by gravity into the cars and be conveyed by electric motors about three miles to the mill. Everything has been well planned and the mill is considered a model of its kind.

STOCK MARKET IMPROVING.

The Week Closes With Prince Con. And Grand Central Strong.

The week on the mining exchange closed this morning with stocks generally firmer than they have been for some time past. This is especially true of the high priced stocks, though some of the lower priced securities are practically unchanged. There is apparently little desire on the part of the public at present to take many chances on the prospects, and this condition will likely remain until the market shows a decided revival.

Prominent among those stocks which have improved their positions on the board are Prince Con. and Grand Central. The former sagged to the dollar mark a short time ago, but today it opened at $1.50 and advanced to $1.25, while Sioux Con. released 5,300 at 61. Tintic Central weakened to 5¼, but Iron Blossom sold up to 74, after opening at 73. Crown Point was active at 7¼ and Mineral Flat was marked down to 2½. Closing quotations were as follows:

ERICKSON DISTRICT ACTIVE.

Death Canyon Mining Company Developing Claims Having Good Ore.

Developments in the Erickson district, about 45 miles northwest of Tintic, are reported to be very encouraging by Henry E. Browne, who has a force of men at work on some claims in the Camel Back range where they are crosscutting for the big ledge which appears near the summit of the mountain. At this point Mr. Browne says is one of the best outcrops he has seen anywhere. Great chunks of galena may be broken off in a number of places, and if surface indications count for anything the Death Canyon Mining company should one day have a mine. The tunnel, which is now in about 260 feet, is being driven on a true fissure about 4½ feet wide, which contains some carbonate ore with patches of galena. In about another 500 feet Mr. Browne says they will cut the main ledge. The work is in charge of Alvin Anderson of Vernon. Some work is also being done at the Yellow Jacket and in other properties, and the results are said to be far from discouraging.

UNITED VERDE DECISION.

Advices from New York state that the interlocutory decree in favor of George M. Treadwell, a minority shareholder of the United Verde Copper company, has been reversed in appellate division of the supreme court of that state. This means a decided victory for Senator William A. Clark of Montana and the other large interests which hold control. Treadwell began suit in 1899 when the majority shareholders decided to reorganize the company under the laws of West Virginia in order to avoid paying a yearly tax of $38,000 in the state of New York. The former decree was given in favor of Treadwell on the ground that the sale to the West Virginia corporation was illegal.

JESSIE KNIGHT BUYS IN NEVADA

Excellent Showing at McGill Tempts Veteran Mine Owner to Increase His Holdings.

Jesse Knight visited the lead district, immediately adjoining the groundsof the Steptoe Smelting and Mining company at McGill, Nev., ont day last week in company with J. F. Brim, the pioneer operator in that section, and as a result of the fine surface mineral showings he saw there, he has secured additional holdings, says the Ely Mining Expositor of Nov. 4. Considerable high grade lead ore has been shipped from the McGill lead district to the Salt Lake smelters in the past and there is every indication that systematic development will secure profitable producers of lead ore. The closest neighbor to the smelter site is the property of the Ely Amalgamated Copper company, which joins the smelter ground on the east. The group comprises five claims and two fractions on which there is now no contest, as the Steptoe Smelting and Mining company deeded them back to the United States, thus removing the cloud on the Ely Amalgamated group.

The mineral showing of the Ely Amalgamated are pronounced excellent indications of the existence of large and paying bodies of ore by all who have inspected the property. At several places on the group ore could be extracted and sent to the smelter at once with good profits resulting to the company from them. In fact, shipments were made from the property a number of years ago, particularly from the Stromberg claim, which carried more than 70 per cent lead and several ounces silver to the ton.

In addition to the mineral resources of the company, the close proximity to the numerous buildings of the smelter where the 1,800 workers of the company are employed, makes the surface of the Ely desirable as a place of residence for many of them. Recognizing the importance of this the fact that no employe can own a home of those erected by the Smelting company on its model townsite, the Ely Amalgamated has laid out the townsite of Steptoe City, where the employes of the smelter company can secure permanent homes close to their work.

The townsite contains about 750 lots which are worth today an average of $100 a lot, making this asset of the Ely Amalgamated amount to $75,000, or at the rate of 7½ cents a share.

GOLDFIELD CON. PRODUCTION.

(Special to The News.)

Goldfield, Nev., Nov. 6.—The Consolidated company's production for last month was greater than that of any month since April, amounting to $575,000 net. This sum represents a production of 20,100 tons for the month. The increase in the earnings is said to be due to the discovery of rich ore bodies in the Clermont workings.

CONCENTRATES.

Samuel Newhouse left this morning for Nevada on business. He expects to be gone about two days.

The shaft at the South Dakota property east of Park City, has reached the 700 level and drifting will soon be started.

The Daly West has disclosed a large body of high grade milling ore on the 1,700 level, which is reported to be getting larger right along. It is expected that another shift will be put to work at the mill in the near future.

Word has been received from New York that R. H. Channing, formerly general manager of the Utah Con., of Bingham, has been made president of the Cerro De Pasco Mining company, after three years of work in South America, during which time he has brought the mine to a paying position.

TRADE REPORTS MORE SATISFACTORY

They Hold Out Most Encouraging For Unequaled Business the Coming Year.

CONFIDENCE REIGNS SUPREME

Neither High Prices Nor Disputed Economic Policies Seem to Check Industrial Progress.

New York, Nov. 5.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of trade tomorrow will say:

Without exception the reports of trade, both wholesale and retail, in all parts of the country, are more than satisfactory and hold out the promise for 1910 of a year of an unequaled business. What this means, expressed in almost inconceivable figures, is that the United States is increasing its wealth at a rate never before achieved. Neither the high prevailing prices nor the discussion of disputed economic policies seem in any way to shake confidence or check the industrial progress.

The remarkable progress in iron and steel is maintained, and in October all previous records as to the amount of actual business booked were surpassed. In practically every division orders are received in heavy volume, and many mills are falling steadily behind in deliveries. Bookings by the steel companies are especially large and some important contracts are pending.

There is a further large gain in the movement of dry goods. The removal of restrictions in purchasing is particularly noticeable in some of the larger retail centers.

Efforts are directed in worsted, cotton and silk manufacturing centers to prevent accumulation of high cost goods not covered by contracts.

The demand for footwear shows further improvement and the price question is less of a disturbing factor. Sole leather continues in active demand. Prices are strong for all lines. Packer hides are very strong and in brisk demand at extreme quotations, with considerable quantities sold in advance of lake-off. Dry continues to advance, with common varieties bringing extreme figures. There is considerable manipulation in country hides and that market is largely nominal.

Discussion of a Possible Further Rise In the Discount Rates Was Revived.

New York, Nov. 6.—Holiday interruptions and the uncertainty over the adequacy of money supplies to sustain active speculation checked the stock market dealings during the week. The decline in condition of great central banks abroad in spite of efforts at recuperation revived discussion of a possible further rise in discount rates. Reception of announcements of new issues of railroad stocks was not favorable and caused declines in the stock affected. Trade and commercial advices continued highly favorable, especially from the iron and steel trades. Some large sales of copper were reported and there was a belief that closer relations amongst the principal copper producers were in view.

Declines were in the majority at the opening of the stock market today. The price changes were generally insignificant and were mixed between gains and losses. Canadian Pacific, International Pump and Bethlehem Steel rose ⅝. Wells-Fargo sold at a decline of 20 points.

Bull operators were unable to hold the market in the face of the heavy liquidation of certain railroad stocks and specialties and prices had a sharp setback. The declines were rather precipitate in such stocks as Reading, Union Pacific and U. S. Steel while exerted a marked effect on the balance of the list. Lake Erie & Western and International Harvester fell 1¾, Reading 1⅝, Chicago & Alton and General Electric 1½ and St. Paul, New York Central, Union Pacific, Louisville & Nashville, Southern Railway, Western Maryland, Colorado & Southern, Amalgamated Copper, United States Steel, American Can preferred and International Paper preferred 1½. American Hide & Leather preferred advanced 1.

The market closed firm and active. Union Pacific rose 1¼, Vulcan Detinning 3, National Railways of Mexican preferred 3¼. United States Rubber 1½, Great Northern Certificates 1¼, Chesapeake & Ohio and Delaware & Hudson, Interborough-Metropolitan, Virginia-Carolina Chemical, Allis-Chalmers preferred and International Paper 1. A substantial rally resulted from covering of shorts.

Mercantile Marine preferred gained 2 and Pacific Mail 1. Wells-Fargo recovered all of its 20-point decline.

PRODUCE.

CHICAGO.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—Prices in the wheat pit on the board of trade were inclined to sag during early trading today owing to renewed selling by local dealers. Offerings, however, were not liberal. The continued heaviness of the cash situation in this country was supplemented as a bearish influence by the Ohio crop report which indicated an increased acreage sown for winter wheat in that state this fall. Prices opened ¼ lower to ⅛ higher, with December at 1.01½ to 1.01¾. After touching 1.01¾@⅞ the December option sold off to 1.01⅝.

Continuance of clear weather in the corn belt encouraged renewed hammering of the corn market by bears which resulted in slight declines in all deliveries. The December delivery opened unchanged at 56½ and sold off to 56 @⅝.

Liberal receipts of oats caused moderate weakness in the market for the grain, commission houses being the sellers of the December delivery. The option opened unchanged to a shade higher at 33⅞ to 33⅞@⅞. Later the price touched 33⅝@⅝.

Trading in provisions was on a liberal scale, lard again leading in the activity. The market was strong during early trading. Prices at the opening were unchanged to 15c higher.

Wheat—In the final hour a sharp rally occurred, owing to a general demand for the December delivery. The buying was led by prominent elevator interests. December advanced nearly 1 from the bottom, the high point being reached at 1.03¼. The market closed strong at almost the top, with December up 1⅝ to 1.03.

Corn—The market rallied in sympathy with wheat, the December delivery advancing from 56¼ to 56⅝. The close was firm with December ⅛c higher at 56⅝.
