DESERET EVENING NEWS.

Tuesday, October 27, 1896.

JESSIE PEARL ALLEN.

Councilman Allen's Daughter Succumbs to Typhoid.

As was noted in last evening's NEWS, Jessie Pearl, daughter of John and Eleanor Allen, died at the family residence on Jersey street, in the Fifteenth ward, yesterday morning. Deceased was 17 years and 3 months old on the day of her death, and previous to her being stricken with typhoid fever gave much promise of becoming an estimable woman. Jessie was a bright, generous and dutiful daughter, being a great favorite of her little neighbors, who will cherish a remembrance of her strong affection long after they have grown to be men and women. Mrs. Eleanor Allen, mother of deceased, died several years ago and the father will thereore feel Jessie's loss more keenly.

Funeral services will be held at the Fifteenth ward meeting house at 12:30 tomorrow afternoon, which all friends of the family are invited to attend.

MUNICIPAL SANITATION.

Formed a Theme for Discussion at Last Night's Board of Health Meeting.

The municipal committee on sanitary rules and quarantine and the city's board of health held a meeting last night to counter the ways and means best calculated to prevent the spread of contagious and infectious diseases among the people.

As a result the Utah Slaughtering company concerning which so much has been written and said the last few years will be compelled to connect with the gravity sewer and turn all its offal or pay the city for its transportation to the cemetery near the Warm Springs.

It was also decided to ask the Council for an appropriation of $150 to be expended in cleaning out the streams arising in Lamb's canyon.

The question that was most seriously discussed arose out of a petition from the health commissioner asking for an appropriation of $200 with which to purchase microscopes and other instruments of science necessary in the investigation of disease. Should the finance committee take a favorable view of the recommendation the purchase will doubtless be made.

ROW IT IS IN MEXICO.

The Rich are Very Rich and Despise the Poor—How the Classes are Kept Apart—The Beggars.

CITY OF MEXICO, Oct. 12, 1896.

To the Editor:

Perhaps your many readers would like to hear something about the city of Mexico, and of the people who inhabit it.

There are a great many foreigners here, something like ten thousand, in the greater portion, of course, come from Spain and France. The Mexicans are very fond of the French people and of their language, having adopted a great many of their customs and, to a great extent, their language, so their visit took up the preparatory department was printed in French, so a student becomes as familiar with the French as with his own tongue.

There is a good deal of "free lance" about the science system here, the term of years to complete each course being fixed by law; thus excluding all except the wealthy from the professions because of the necessary expense attending so many years of preparatory work. Think of a man studying ten years to become a lawyer, and twelve for the privilege of studying law, to his name! Perhaps these strict measures were taken to more widely separate the two existing classes—the workers, and, shall I say?—the idlers. For such the women, at least, of the upper classes certainly are. It seems to me that the classes are as firmly entrenched as they used to be in olden times in Egypt. The rich are very rich. They go well armed, are stylish, support silk stockings and diamonds, horses with gold and silver mounted harnesses and handsome carriages, that would reflect honor and good taste upon the wealthy of the United States. They admire themselves and their associates and despise whom they term "Indians." The poor, half starved, half clad and covered with flies and other vermin, have little regard for themselves, and it is thinking are the real cause of their bodily disorder can any one know. A Briton is hard to get over, but when a decisive resting attitude is offered when physicians wealth instead of seeing it down, the change is easy to make. Prominent grocers say it exactly meets a want, and persons who have been kept from coffee on account of their health are now having all the enjoyment of coffee drinking and getting fat over it.

"Just as good" as Postum Cereal are words used to deceive the public.

Sold by George F. Rooms, John McDonald Jr., and J. H. Williams.

Until Nov. 28th, swimming lessons will be given free to women and children, from 10 to 12 m. every day, at the Bathatorium Natatorium.

HABITS

Some Have Them and Others are Not Wedded to Them.

A man likes his drink for breakfast, and coffee suits his taste about as well as anything. It seems hard that so many should be denied coffee because it upsets their liver and disagrees with them in one way and another, still this condition does exist, and when a man finds it hurts him, he is generally sensible enough to leave it out of his bill of fare, for it is quite a bit pleasanter to feel well all day (not to enjoy a drink two or three times a day) and pay for it in aches and ails or sick ness.

A new breakfast drink has come into use, difficult to tell from coffee, but makes entirely different and which never produces any disagreeable results. It has the clear, pungent flavor so much enjoyed in coffee, but while coffee starts the system Postum Cereal goes to work in overnight good earnest to "make red blood."

It is composed wholly of the grains imported for nature's own nourishment. These are skillfully blended and prepared in such a way as to produce a rich drink the equal of fine Mocha or Java coffee, but intensely and healthful. Humanity, liver and bowels troubles disappear when coffee and tea are left off and the food drink, Postum, taken in their place.

This nutritious drink goes clear three times as far as coffee, and produces health and comfort where formerly existed ill health. It is made by the Postum Cereal Co. Ltd., of Battle Creek, Mich. When a man or woman "feels queer" any other day or every few days, Home quite easily is charged to theatrical habits, and coffee and tea drinking are the real cause of some bodily disorder can any one know. A Briton is hard to get over, but when a decisive resting attitude is offered when physicians wealth instead of seeing it down, the change is easy to make. Prominent grocers say it exactly meets a want, and persons who have been kept from coffee on account of their health are now having all the enjoyment of coffee drinking and getting fat over it.
