DESERET EVENING NEWS.

Delighted With Brighton.

"Brighton is the prettiest little summer resort I ever visited," said Guy J. Hahn today, after having spent a few days recreating and transacting business at the beautiful resort in the Cottonwood canyon. Mr. Hahn resides in Hooper, Neb., and has been a visitor here for two weeks past. "Like Mary, said he, "he has chosen the good portion and made little open it his home for pleasure, for sport, and the general surroundings there are such as to make one long for an extended stay. My only regret was that I couldn't stay longer, to take in the beauties of nature, and enjoy the outdoor and healthy pastimes of this atmosphere. Parties going there hereafter ought to take along a few good books, as they will come in handy for leisure hours. Mr. Hahn leaves for home tomorrow evening.

From the Mission Field.

Elders A. S. Rowe and Jesse W. Vickers, both of Nephi, Juab county, returned Sunday from the Northern States, to which points they departed July 21, 1896, and 19, 1897. Elders Rowe and Vickers labored in the Southern Indian agency where they say Church matters are in a flourishing condition. The former was President of the conference and spent the first two months of his mission in Illinois. Both had good health and enjoyed a thoroughly very much.

Elder George T. Wride of Parowan, Utah county, returned Sunday from the Southern States mission. Elder Wride left home in September, 1896, and labored in the North Alabama conference, which includes a part of the states of Alabama and Mississippi. He had a good time and good health, and says the conference is in a very good Gospel condition.

Elder David W. Jeffs of Parowan, who departed for a mission to the Southern Tennessee conference January 11, 1896, is home again, having returned only a few days ago. His health was good most of the time, though he suffered considerably at one time from an attack of typhoid fever. Mission work he says, is progressing fairly in Eastern Tennessee.

Elder John H. Glass of the Fourth ward, this city, returned Monday, the 25th inst., from the Southern States mission field. He left home July 22, 1896, and labored in South Carolina, where he reports conditions favorable for the spread of the Gospel. Elder Glass has good health enjoyed his labors and is glad to be home again.

Elders John Dunkley of Willard, Ida., and James Larsen of Mount, Utah, returned Tuesday from the South. The former left June 22, 1896, and the latter April 16, 1896, both laboring in Tennessee, where they report the work progressing. Elder Larsen's early return was occasioned through illness.
